Baptist Church News

On Wednesday night Rev. Taylor, a retired quartet and a pianist, from Vancouver Bible Institute, brought an up-to-date on the progress of our Bible School in Vancouver, where a new campus is underway.

It has been reported that many families from the church are enjoying fish for dinner these days since the recent Father-Son fishing trip

Rev. Dawson, Secretary-General of Japan Evangelical Mission, was our guest speaker for the Sunday services.

We wish to congratulate Norman Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Anderson who were previous members of this church, upon his graduation from Bethel College and Seminary.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK
"The Bible is meant to be bread for our daily use, not just cake for special occasions."

STROME NEWS

Karen Sprague is spending a few days with the Geoff Beaues at Castor

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Stark & Sons spent the week end at the J. Beiler home. Kevin stayed for a weeks holiday with his grandparents.

Communion Service was held on Sunday at St. Pauls United Church. This is the last service for five weeks, while our minister is on holiday.

New Medical Centre Opened At Hardisty

HARDISTY — A long-cherished dream was realized in Hardisty on Saturday July 2nd, with the official opening of the beautiful new Hardisty and District Medical Centre.

Located on the site of the old curling rink, this handsome building has ample accomodation for two doctors, a dentist and optometrist.

Prior to the ribbon cutting ceremony, Mr. Francis Blue, as M. C., led the memories of many back through Hardisty's medical history. The need for a medical centre had been felt, he said, for some time, and on the loss of our dentist and the threatened closure of the St. Anne Hospital, action was taken. At a meeting of the Stampede Association a few years ago the wholehearted backing of that organization was assured, and stampede profits have gone to this cause ever since.

A committee was set up with the Rev. Fr. Hefferman as chairman, and wheels set in motion. The result is here, said Mr. Blue.

The present board consists of Fr. Hefferan as chairman, Herman Granskou, public relations Dick Gillespie, secretary, Mrs. Alec Redman, Bud Young, R. J. Harrison, John Calvin, George Matthews, Lee Golka and Francis Blue. Districts represented are Alliance, Lougheed, Amisk, Rosyth, Czar, Hughenden and many others.

Mr. Gillespie gave a report on the finances. Total cost to date is $59-169.83 Payments made to date are $17,216.41. Donations continue to come in, reducing the deficit. The entire income so far, aside from the Stampede profits, has been donations from individuals and groups.

Fr. Hefferan as chairman, expressed his thanks to the committee given him and his pleasure at the results.

Mayor Harrison spoke a few words of welcome to all. Architect, Mr. Mike Madigan, and construction head, Mr Nerdin, were introduced. Mayor Harrison then declared the building "officially opened," while Fr. Hefferan cut the ribbon.

The crowd was then free through the afternoon and evening to inspect the building and partake of the lunch being served by ladies of the community. Some 400 signed the guest book during the day.

SHOOTING MISHAP KILLS HARDISTY BOY

HARDISTY — Patrick Dowsin, son of Mr. & Mrs. Richard Dowsin of Hardisty, died of a gunshot wound, the result of an accident in target shooting with other young boys on a farm south of Hardisty.

Patrick, 17 years of age, was reportedly arranging a target, when a gun held by one of the other boys was accidently discharged.

Patrick was rushed to the Hardisty Hospital, but was pronounced dead on arrival.

Funeral services for the young shooting victim were held yesterday at Hardisty.

CROP REPORT

North Central Alberta: (Local):

Light spotty showers were received to some parts of this area, but were not of much benefit. A good general rain is urgently needed to give prospects for anything better than a light crop.

Crops average in height: Wheat 7; Oats 8; Barley 6 and Flax 3 inches.

Southern Alberta received good rains up to 3 inches, in the Peace River area general rains are needed to relieve poor moisture conditions.

Lions End Season With A Barbecue

BATHLAND—The Lions Club had an end-of-the-year barbecue for their retired staff members on June 26. It was also a farewell for some of the Lions who are leaving.

The new executive for the coming year are: Pres., Les Dolan; First Vice, John Koebli; 2nd Vice, Elgin Brown; 3rd Vice, Ralph Bedenbo; Sec., Don Wagner; Treas., Lloyd Gillespie; Tail Twister, Reon Lemoine; Lion Tamer, Rudy Wirth. 2nd Year Directors, Jim McCarvil, Bruce Lee, Jerry Karpovich, First Year Dir., Reg Weller, Alphonse Stang, Martin Mandrusiak.

Tony Rensberg was given the honour of being Deputy District Governor of the district.

Radioactive Lions were the trophy at the convention in Montana, for the most man miles travelled in the district in the past year.

The first money-making project for this year is a cash bingo to be held on August 24th.

CPR RAIL ACCIDENT NEAR ROSYTH

ROSYTH — A serious accident was narrowly averted on the CPR rail line a short distance East of Rosyth on Thursday of last week.

A freight train carrying a load of potash from Saskatchewan caused serious damage to the roadbed when a journal burned out on one of the cars.

Radioactive Lions were the trophy at the convention in Montana, for the most man miles travelled in the district in the past year.

The first money-making project for this year is a cash bingo to be held on August 24th.

Plans Finalized For Touring Cattlemen

EDMONTON — The committee in charge have finalized plans for the big annual Northern Alberta Hereford Tour on July 9th. The tour trip is open to anyone and everyone interested in spending a day touring the area and seeing some fine herds of purebreds, plus special entertainment.

The day gets under way at 9 a.m. at Sedgewick with coffee and doughnuts, and from there the caravan will visit five of the local Hereford Ranches all of whom will host the visitors. The ranches to be visited are L. Arntzen, T. Leslie, G. Leslie, H. Munro and Len Berg.

Lunch will be at the Len Berg's, and during the afternoon at the T. Leslie ranch there will be a 4-H judging competition along with an afternoon coffee break. An ice van will accompany the tour.

In the evening on the return to Sedgewick there will be pony chuck wagon races in the evening, a gigantic tug of war with the Sedgewick Board of Trade challenging any and all Hereford breeders. This will be followed by a free Barbecue (free to tog of war winners).

Contests will be staged during the day with prizes, along with other events with prize awards.

The tour is sponsored by the Northern Alberta Hereford Assn., with the Barbecue being served by the Sedgewick Board of Trade.

WHEAT PROBLEMS. Dmitri Polyansky, first deputy premier of the Soviet Union who headed an 11-man Soviet delegation on a 10-day tour of Canada, is one of Russia's top experts on wheat. One of the missions of his tour was to study wheat farming methods on the Prairie Provinces, in the hopes of finding a means to end the disastrous crop failures that the Soviet farmers have experienced in the past few years.

F. B. A. Hospital Given Accreditation

KILLAM — It has been announced by the Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation that the Flagstaff-Beaver Auxiliary Hospital in Killam has been granted provisional accreditation. This is the first Auxiliary Hospital in Alberta to attain this status granted by the Council, with headquarters in Toronto.

The announcement comes some weeks following an inspection of all aspects of the hospital by a field staff representative of the Council and a study of his reports by the members of the Council at various business across Canada.

Accreditation is an assurance to both hospital management and the public that standards in all departments are being met, then resulting in a high quality of patient care.

The Auxiliary Hospital at Killam is owned by the Flagstaff-Beaver Auxiliary Hospital and Nursing Home District and is operated for the District by a Board by the Sisters of St. Joseph, who also operate the Killam General Hospital.

SWIM LESSONS LAST TWO WEEKS OF JULY

SEDGEWICK — Kinsmen Club of Sedgewick has announced that the annual Swimming Lessons will be held at Nevis Lake the last two weeks of July, with registration to take place on July 18th.

This is the sixth year that the Kinsmen have sponsored swimming lessons at the lake. The lessons are open to everyone over the minimum age of eight years, and registration forms can be obtained from the Post Office in Sedgewick.

Miss Timmons of Hardisty has again been hired to instruct at the lessons, and Miss Valerie Cox will once again be the assistant.

Large Crowd At July 1 Sports

SEDGEWICK — The turnstiles clicked merrily on July 1st as the largest crowd in recent years took in the annual sports day at Sedgewick on the Dominion Holiday. The committee reported that the crowd was the largest in the past 4 years. Although the weather was unsettled and rain threatened, the day was favorable and cool enough for full enjoyment.

Parade

An exceptionally large and fine parade started the day off. Led by the Viking Brass Band and the 38th Scottish Pipers, the long line of floats, decorated cars, bicycles, horses, machinery and comic entries straddled for over a mile.

In commercial floats, first place was awarded to the City of Camrose and the Sedgewick Co-op Assn. second. Clubs and Institutions: 1st Kinette Club, second Legion; Comic: 1st Kinsmen Club, second the Scenic Grain Co; Novelties: Ard's Tuppy Comedy; Mel's Barber Shop of Lougheed; Horses: Floyd Servais; Bicycles:: Theresa Robinson, Ilene Gascoyne and Brian Pope. Saddle Queen: 1st Miss Moser and second Irma Gyrakhaus Rider: Queen. 1st Miss Culbert, 2nd Carmen Ernst.

Senior Baseball

The four-team baseball tourney while ragged in spots with scores more like football, produced some spots of good playing. There were no home runs in the large ball park.

In the first game between Kessler and Sedgewick, the latter came out on top of a 14-10 score, on ten hits and assisted by 8 Kessler errors. The Kessler club came up with six hits for their ten runs, with the Oilers having 3 errors. Batteries: Oilers, Bradley, Chapman, Anderson. Kessler: Pruitbox, Anhoit. Pugham.

The second game saw a see-saw battle between the Killam Braves and the Lougheed Wildcats. This was another free scoring game 14-13 in favor of the Braves. The lead shuttled back and forth, with the Wildcats at one time having a lead of four runs. Batteries: Killam Remillard, Smolski and Kesler. Lougheed, Cookson, Snetsun, Burden, and Costen.

The final game brought together the Killam Braves and the Sedgewick Oilers, in a close, low scoring game, with the Oilers coming out on top of a 4-2 score. Sedgewick took an early lead, and in the third hanging led 4-0. The Braves came back in the fifth to tally twice, finally having 3 errors. Batteries: Oilers, Bradley, Chapman, Anderson. Kessler: Pruitbox, Anhoit. Pugham.

A FIRST. Tough battle-scarred 23-year-old Lt. Gen. Jean Victor Allard of this month becomes the first French Canadian defence chief in Canadian history. Allard won three times awarded the Distinguished Service Order in some of the toughest battles of World War 2 in Italy and in Germany.

Help Wanted

For two weeks of hard, outdoor labour, 12 to 16 hours per day. Experience helpful but not necessary. Automobile needed plus a willingness to drive hundreds of miles per day. Working conditions are rather crowded, temperatures sweltering, sunshine intense, with occasional heavy rains, gales, thunder, lightning, dust, etc. Many hazards are involved No time off for meals, coffee breaks or chats. No wages or salary. Applicants must agree to pay all expenses. No others need apply

What is this? A slave labour job? Maybe, but it's commonly called a vacation. Have one, but take time to be safe, not sorry.

MOISTURE LEVEL FAR BELOW LAST YEAR

According to records which are kept by the Searle Grain Company at Sedgewick, only 0.22 inches of rain fell in the past week for a total of 2.98 inches up to July 5th. This is far below the 9.25 inches that had fallen at this time last year. The long time average for this district is 5.60 inches

Why Hamstring The Police ?

Without belabouring the subject too far, we believe that there is an evil plot afoot in Canada to hamper the efficiency of law enforcement. It seems to be the common and accepted thing today to place every available obstruction in the way of police officers in an attempt to keep them from carrying out their duties. This is being done not only by individuals, but by organized groups, managed by men who should have better sense. Two recent illustrations of these facts will suffice to bring to public attention how serious this trend can become.

In Quebec a dock checker was apprehended by police officers in possession of a half empty bottle of beer. As a result of their efficiency, the entire group of dock checkers walked off the job in protest and have refused to return to work until the police officer responsible is relieved of his job. On top of this some 550 plus Longshoremen walked off in sympathy with the checkers. In the final analysis the question that remains is whether to have law enforcement or let people do as they please.

The second event that comes to mind is an article written for the daily papers wherein it was suggested that the police force in Edmonton be obliged to patrol without guns. While the writer advanced a fair argument in theory, his practical knowledge of the criminal behavior leaves a lot to be desired. He says nothing about the seriousness of criminals carrying firearms or of the more severe penalties which should be inflicted on those caught doing so. His sole purpose seemed to be to deprive the police force of any real means of apprehending the desperate law breaker.

Frankly we do not like the trend, for it is our firm conviction that the law needs all the assistance the public can give them. There is no sound basis for the argument that if the police are disarmed the criminal will follow suit and disarm himself. In fact the opposite is true. Criminals take advantage of every kindness shown them, in the majority of instances. He knows no moral code. If he did he wouldn't be a criminal.

The High Cost Of Schools !

Advertisements which have appeared in this paper during the past two weeks, indicate the high cost of building schools in this day and age. The local school division is applying for some three hundred and thirty six thousand dollars to erect additional class rooms and facilities for the second step in their three-point centralization program. Some time ago the board came to the decision to centralize in two or three places rather than to do so at one point. The additions at Daysland appears to be the second step in this program.

While the advertisement calls for the spending of the above sums of money it does not mean to imply, as some may think, that all this money is to be raised locally by way of debentures. In this instance the Alberta Foundation Program of the provincial government will pick up the cost of about eighty-nine of the expense, while the remainder or about forty thousand will have to be raised locally.

There is little doubt that centralization is the trend today, and in this respect we have little quarrel so long as the movement is kept within the bounds of reason in relation to the region involved. That this is becoming increasingly apparent to those in authority is illustrated by the fact that not only school areas but industry has learned that too much centralization has not proven itself. And so the trend today in the U.S. and here in Canada is now to de-centralize. It is still true that any good thing can go beyond the realms of our ability in many respects.

Russian Wheat Sale !

Commenting on Canada's massive wheat sale to Russia, Alberta Wheat Pool President Gordon L. Harrold made this statement:

"Alberta Wheat Pool members and all prairie grain producers welcome with satisfaction the announcement of another major wheat sale to Russia — this one for 365 million bushels over the next three years.

Russia is now the major purchaser of Canadian wheat. Our four major customers, Russia, China, the United Kingdom and Japan, will now require some 350 million bushels annually. Canada's domestic requirements are about 150 million bushels per year. Adding the needs of other traditional customers and East European nations with whom we have long term wheat sales agreements, this indicates a need for annual wheat production in excess of 650 million bushels.

Average wheat production by Western Canadian producers over the past ten years has been around 620 million bushels. Canada's reputation as a reliable supplier of wheat will be tested over the next three years.

Western farmers view with apprehension any serious interruption in the export grain flow such as the recent longshoremen's strike in Quebec, and hope that a repetition of such a situation, in either the East or the West, may be avoided. All Iron Curtain and other customers have met their payment and shipping commitments satisfactorily.

Expanding world population continues to challenge Canada's ability to meet the growing food needs of other nations. Increased world wheat prices would mean added returns to Canada's farmers and the Canadian economy. They would provide the incentive for the essential expansion of wheat production."

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.E.

July looks like a busy month for the local baseball teams. July 1st was the Sedgewick and Daysland Sports Days. On July 9 and 10 (this weekend) Lougheed will hold their first two day tournament. The second annual Killam sports will be held July 16th, and on July 23 and 24 the third annual two day tournament will be held at Sedgewick. These are the July events that I presently know about and there will probably be another one or two worked in.

One day last week I wandered into Norm Rose's office on my way home from work and he took me on a guided tour of several farms South of Sedgewick where he had insect control applications of fertilizer this spring. The tour included both grain and hay crops. One hay crop really demonstrated the value of fertilizer. In this case the spreader had just made a few swings across the field and then was stood out very clearly from a distance. You can easily find the edge of these strips when you walk out in the field. Science has made many changes in farming in recent years and I think most farmers have been reasonably fast at taking advantage of each improvement as it came along. If there are any who don't believe in fertilizer they might be wise to ask Norm for one of his tours.

THE WEST COULD GO IT ALONE

If the stupidity of narrow-minded politicians and the shortsightedness of leaders in French-speaking Quebec resulted in a breakdown of Canadian confederation, Western Canada would be in better shape to create a new nation than would a fractured eastern Canada.

Here we have the first requisite for greatness — over 125,000,000 acres of productive land in one vast concentration. Eastern Canada cannot feed itself.

Here we have resources in oil and natural gas which have yet to be fully discovered and exploited. Alberta's tar sands, alone provide one of the world's greatest oil reserves.

Alberta alone has coal reserves calculated at better than 60 billion tons. Saskatchewan has the largest potash reserves in the world and production has only started. British Columbia has Canada's greatest wealth in forestry, great mineral wealth and faces the broad Pacific Ocean. Manitoba has mining, wealth, industry and a growing port on Hudson's Bay.

The West has the vast undeveloped resources of the north to look forward to and that region remains from water supplies which the United States is already coveting. Fresh water is one of the greatest of all natural resources.

Without the demands of the West, eastern Canada would find its extensive manufacturing plants in real trouble. The West could readily create its own industries.

It would be a terrible tragedy if Canadian confederation should break up. But the actions of some of the petty-minded Canadian political leaders may bring such to pass. Right now the nation's federal political scene shows a sad lack of intelligent, courageous and competent leadership. —Brooks Bulletin.

★ MACDUFF OTTAWA REPORT

The Practical Plan

OTTAWA—On a Friday afternoon in February 1959 Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in the House of Commons his Government's decision to abandon development of the CF-100 (AVRO Arrow) fighter and its sophisticated weapons system. Instead, Canada would buy Bomarc missiles from the United States.

No one could really quarrel with the decision. Design and development of the Arrow had been started in the days of the St. Laurent Government. Up to that time it had cost more than $400 million. It was an excellent plane and just what the R.C.A.F. wanted. But until relatively recently no one had bothered to find out whether any other air force wanted it. When both the United States and Britain declined, the Arrow project was dead. A production program added to development costs would have meant the expenditure of $2 billion to meet Canada's requirements of 66 aircraft — $300 million per plane.

A coming election in 1958 kept work on the Arrow and the Iroquois engine that was to power it going for another year and the final announcement came as a surprise. But it meant an overnight lay-off of 14,000 men and —what was more important to Canada — a probable brain drain to the United States of some of the best technical knowhow in Canada

It was in such an emergency that officials of the Department of Defence Production came up with a plan, a plan that today is beginning to pay dividends. Three facts they knew:

1. Canada would never again go it alone in developing a sophisticated aircraft or a weapons system. It must be assured of a sufficient volume of sales to the United States or elsewhere which meant, in effect, that the complete aircraft would never be built in this country.

2. Canada's balance of payments position was such that she could not afford to fill her military requirements outside the country without an offsetting income from defence exports. This had already been recognized by an informal arrangement for production sharing with the United States.

3. Without a major development effort directed to new markets for the future it would not be possible to export and therefore impossible to maintain a Canadian defence industry.

The Canadian Government did two things. In Washington it persuaded a rather reluctant defence department to give Canadian companies an equal opportunity with Americans in bidding for defence contracts. From 1950 to the end of last year Canadian industries have obtained $1.3 billion from the U.S. in defence orders, somewhat more than Canada's purchases in the U.S.

At home it offered to share with private industry the cost of developing new products for military use. The general ground rule for the program was a government grant of 50 per cent. In practice it has varied all the way from 30 per cent to 100 per cent. The 87 projects picked for assistance 1959 have varied from the development of new airframes and engines to air navigation systems, small homing devices for planes and crash position indicators.

Of the 87 projects, 42 have now been completed and the planners concerned are in production. Development of their products has cost the taxpayer $44.5 million Export sales already have amounted to a value of $380 million, most of them in the United States

Companies getting the assistance are large and small. Some are subsidiaries of American companies who are forming development work on defence contracts to the Canadian plant. A small company, Avro Instruments Ltd. which operates at Malton Place across the street, received Government grants for the development of its crash position indicator, an electronic device that is thrown from the plane automatically if it crashes and immediately transmits a signal over the distress frequency channel. The company is selling to American, British and German

Canadian Marconi, with Government aid, has developed the Doppler navigation system, now selling at a rate of $20 million a year. Computing Devices Ltd., a subsidiary of Bendix Corp. has turned out a position and homing computer to give the pilot his course and position which is now carried on 4,000 planes. Export sales have mounted to $40 million with another $90 million in

The list is a long one and each filled a million in Canada's knowhow and Canadian initiative.

Capital Hill Capsule

The Soviet agreement to purchase 350 million bushels of Canadian wheat over the next three crop years and its purchase of 112 million bushels in the coming crop year starting August 1 has wiped out possibilities of surpluses in the near future. The big problem will be deliveries. But the political problem will be to satisfy the Western farmer that he is getting a good enough price. On the strength of the Soviet sale the Wheat Board jumped its price by a dollar a bushel but a Conservative Opposition is blaming the Government for the drop of from 14 cents to 11 cents a bushel in the last year and a half. The Soviet is getting a firm fixed price for all wheat delivered during the next crop year. As a rule deliveries are paid for at the going price. If world prices jump within the year the Government will be on a bad spot.

Canadian workers have been doing better than their statisticians have been allowing them to believe. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has found that the figures on which it was calculating its index of productivity — production per person employed and per man-hour — were 10 per cent lower than they should have been. But the new index could, at best, be a mixed blessing. It could intensify labour demands for higher wages at a time when unions are demanding all that the economy can bear and more.

Marion Jean Lockhart Married At Camrose On June 4th

The Camrose Church of God was the scene of a pretty afternoon wedding on June 4th when Marion Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lockhart of Strome became the bride of James Donald Semrau, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. D. Semrau of Camrose.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the groom's father. Mrs. Glen Monson was the organist and Mrs. W. Doyle of Calgary, soloist.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father and looked radiant in a traditional floor-length gown of nylon organza over rayon taffeta, with bateau neckline and lily point sleeves. Her veil was held in place with a dainty headpiece of pearls and glistening beads, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Attending the bride was her friend Miss Linda Lakusta of Calgary as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Maureen Lockhart and Miss Marilyn Golden, cousins of the bride. They chose identical floor-length gowns in aqua and pink with matching headpieces and carried bouquets of carnations and mums. The little flower girl was Carolyn Howarth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howarth of Calgary, and the ring bearer was Brian Gibbons, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gibbons of Calgary.

The groom's attendants were his brother, Lorne Semrau, brother of the bride, Bob Lockhart and Harvey Hughes, cousin of the groom. The ushers were John Markus, Ben Fulgham and Murray Golden.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Lockhart chose a pastel blue double knit suit with white hat and white accessories. The groom's mother chose a two-piece dress of blue with matching hat and white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink roses.

A reception for 300 guests was held in the First Baptist Church hall where the bridal table was centered with a three-tiered decorated wedding cake.

Master of Ceremonies was Mr. W. Doyle of Calgary. Mr. Harold Nelson of Calgary proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded. Miss Linda Kvill of Calgary was in charge of the guest book and the gifts were opened and displayed by Mrs. E. White of Edmonton and Mrs. Art Radke of Calgary.

Present at the wedding were her grandmothers, Mrs. M. Golden and Mrs. J. Lockhart of Strome, and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Hughes of Wainwright, all in their eighties.

For a honeymoon trip to Banff the bride changed to a pink suit with white accessories and wore a corsage of pale blue carnations.

The happy couple will reside in Montreal, Quebec.

TAKING A VACATION

No matter how much father may like his work or mother her housekeeping or junior his school, the mood of most of us during the first few summer days is that of Richard Hovey, Professor of English at a U.S. College:

"I am sick of four walls and a ceiling.
I have business with the grass,
With the clouds as they pass."

It is well that many of us will be taking a vacation soon. This will be a wonderful opportunity for recreation and refreshment. Yet we are told that many people come back to their job more tired and jaded than left. This surely is a pity It's why a large devotional publication displays a poster every year at this time "Don't take a vacation from God!" Of course a thoughtful person knows that you can't take a vacation from God You may take a vacation from school, work or going to church, but you don't take a vacation from God, anymore than you can get away from the law of gravity or be free from the pangs of hunger. What we can do is break certain moral laws.

But let us accentuate the positive "Take a vacation with God!" Watch the family's temperature at the vacation of Calgary proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded. Miss Linda Kvill of Calgary was in charge of the guest book and the gifts were opened and displayed by Mrs. E. White of Edmonton and Mrs. Art Radke of Calgary.

Centennial Youth Travel Program

Twenty-four high school students from this area left July 2, for Rimouski, Quebec, as part of the Canadian Centennial Youth Travel Program.

These students are the second group of a total of 300 students in 15 groups from all parts of Alberta who will be taking part in this year's program. A similar number of youngsters from other parts of Canada will visit Alberta.

The Centennial Youth Travel Program, sponsored jointly by the provincial and federal governments through the Centennial Commission in Ottawa, is an annual summer exchange project for Canadian senior high school students. It assists interagers from across the country to travel and visit with people in other areas in order that they may discover and appreciate the scope and diversity of Canada. Students become the guests of 15 and 16 are eligible under the Program.

This summer will mark the third consecutive year in which the program has been effectively carried out. In 1964 a pilot program saw 200 boys and girls visit distant provinces. In 1965 the program was expanded to just some 3,500 young people on the move, and by the end of 1967 it is expected some 12,000 youngsters will have benefitted form the exchange program. Each group is made up of 25 students, 12 boys and 13 girls. They are accompanied by two qualified escorts, usually high school teachers.

This year Alberta groups will visit Ottawa, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba. A similar number of youngsters will come to Alberta from Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba.

The program for each group is co-ordinated so that students can achieve a closer understanding of how their fellow citizens live and work in regions other than their own. The students usually travel by rail during their trips which last for one week plus travel time.

The following high school students from this area participated in the 1965 Federal-Provincial Youth Travel Program. These students are members of Unit 123 of the program:

Kenneth Joseph Eadpster, Strome; Judies Nadine Gordon, Duchess; Sharon Lee Gabruck, Daysland; Gordon Norman Gaudet, Daysland; Barbara Andrew Marchinski, Strome, Victor Robert Bonasch, Strome; Elizabeth June Hamilton, Lloydminster; Clifford Gustov Blumhagen, Galahad, Prudence Newton Peacock, Alliance; Sheila Mae Bateman, Alliance; Lemont Sommer, Heisler; Ellen Louise Brausen, Heisler; Daryl Edward Andrie, Forestburg, Gail Bevington, Forestburg; James Wilson Hamilton, Forestburg, Sandra Lynne Stuart, Hardiayt; Marlin Irene Nass, Lougheed; Carol Jean Hamilton, Lougheed, Gordon Lars Myrehaug, Sedgewick; Deleranda Helen Agnes Munro, Sedgewick; John Edmund Hiller, Killam; William Paul Schweitzer, Killam; Teresa Anne Desmarais, Killam; Emmanuel Thales Simpson, Sedgewick.

PINK LACE. The trend in many Canadian bathing suits this year is towards the soft and subtle. The one above is a soft pink dotted Swiss bikini with frilly lace scallops. The cover-up is of the same material.

PART OF THE LANDSCAPE? Italian movie producer Dino de Laurentiis went to Mexico about 2 files because he wanted to take advantage of the natural landscape. He also took advantage of a natural beauty he chanced upon, Diana Sent, above, in the star in two movies. Keep your eyes on Diana, for critics are predicting she may easily climb to the top.

GOOD SUMMERFALLOW METHODS IMPORTANT FOR GRAIN FARMING

Although many soil specialists and agronomists in the Prairie Provinces consider the value of summerfallow is greatly overrated, the fact remains that farmers in the Prairie Provinces intend to summerfallow 25,100,000 acres in 1966. If this is to be an efficient, profitable agricultural practice it is essential that the most effective fallow methods be used. The aim of good summerfallow should be to control weeds and to conserve moisture at minimum expense.

Weed Control. There is available today a selective weed-killing chemical for the control of virtually every important weed a farmer is likely to find on his farm. Controlling weeds on fallow land with chemicals reduces the number of tillage operations required for a good summerfallow; lowers crop production costs; and reduces the danger of exposing the soil to wind and water erosion. Of course, the greatest amount of moisture is conserved on fallow land when weeds are destroyed early in the season.

Conservation of Trash. Unless the maximum effort is made to conserve every bit of available trash, summerfallowing may constitute a major erosion hazard. The drifting of top soil that occurred in many districts of Western Canada this spring was a sharp reminder of the importance of maintaining an effective trash cover on fallow land. Studies made over an 8-year period at the Montana Experiment Station to evaluate different farming methods show that a combination of chemical and tillage fallow methods introduced a protective trash cover, and significantly decreased the danger of soil erosion in comparison with the straight tillage method. They also disclosed that maximum moisture conservation occurs only when the first tillage operation was performed in early June.

Fertility. Long-Term field studies at the Swift Current and Scott Experimental Farms show that yields of wheat were increased appreciably by starting summerfallow operations early. At Scott, for instance, it was found that summerfallow started on June 15 yielded 4.5 bushels more wheat per acre than that started on July 15. Start your summerfallow early and make protection of the soil the main object of your 1966 summerfallow operations.

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

ONE WEEK OF SERVICE

We were sitting around bickering after church the other day. My daughter had a bad cold, and was generally surly. She didn't think much of God.

"How can God let so many people in the world be starving?" she wanted to know. Well, it's a fair question.

Her mother and I tried to explain that it was not God's doing, but man's. We said it was man's greed, insecurity and fear that made us live like kings (far better than medieval kings, in fact), while hundreds of millions of people in the world, our brothers, starved and died of illness unnecessarily.

She wasn't buying any. "It all sounds pretty foggy to me," she grasped. "I don't think much of God, if that's the way He runs things."

I asked her what she'd do about the situation. Like all kids, she didn't know, except to repeat that it was all wrong.

Well, you can't have a 15-year-old sitting around running down God; so, like all fathers since the cavedays, I tried to come up with an answer.

First, I explained that the government did a great deal to help less fortunate countries, with our taxes. When she corrected me on details, I had to admit that it was a drop in the bucket with a lot of strings attached (try that metaphor on for size). I further admitted that government could not do much more without creating a hue and cry among the taxpayers.

In desperation, I lobbied around for someone else to blame. "The churches should take the lead, and start a nation wide campaign to help feed the hungry." My wife reminded me that we give a buck a week to missions. "Yes, and all those piddling church missions add up to a spit in the ocean," says I.

"So what would you do, Mr. Smart Alec?" says she.

"Is I can probably think of something, Mrs. Wise Guy," says I. And I did. The result is National Tighten-Your-Belt Week.

It's very simple. For one week a year, every Canadian family willing to help will live on a bare subsistence allowance. The difference between that and the normal cost of living goes into the pot. Every cent of this pot goes to buy food, clothing, contraceptive pills and other necessities for the vast, poor, downtrodden masses of the world.

It's hard to believe that this world-shaking concept hasn't been used and blossomed right there in our living-room. But it did. Sanity we did some figuring. It was rough, but close enough.

The average family spends from $28 to $38 a week on food. One week a year we exist on $5 per family. It could be done, you know. Lots of rice, macaroni, porridge, bread, home-made soup. Water instead of coffee, tea, milk, beer. The same week we walk everywhere and save $3 on gas. We turn off the furnace and learn what it's like to be cold. We clean our teeth with salt. We avoid shaving and hair spray and deodorants and drugs and cigarets. We wear nylons with runs. We turn off the hydro, except for cooking, and use candles.

The average family could kick about $20 into the kitty. Take a town of 10,000 population. Let's say a minimum of 1,000 families. That's $20,000. That will pay for a lot of wheat, penicillin, and birth-control pills. Multiply this annual token by all the families in Canada, and you could jack up India in about two years.

I know, I know. You've already pitched $4 below in the plate. All the supermarkets would go broke if they lost a week's business. Well, there's no reason they couldn't tighten their belts, too, for a week.

All the fruit and vegetables and meat would rot. Not if the producers knew such a week was coming, and planned for it.

The provincial government would collapse, if it lost a week's taxes on booze and beer. I doubt it. A few miles of highway might not be built. So what?

Seriously, I think it would be fun. Many people would take part because it is something concrete, rather than a vague thing like foreign aid or missions.

And there'd be beneficial side effects. Slimmer waistlines. A new slant on our good life. And I can guarantee that, after three days of mackerel, the squirrels in our skid would never be a problem again. They'd be shot.

Weed Essay Contest

The North Central Weed Control Conference is again sponsoring the Weed Essay Contest open to boys and girls between the ages of 13 to 18 years of age whose parents are actively engaged in farming.

The title of the essay is "How We Control Weeds On Our Farm". It should not be more than 1,000 words and deal mainly with how and methods used to control weeds on our farm. It should not be a summary of general weed Control methods.

The Provincial Award is $25.00 but the Grand Prize for 14 North Central United States and the 3 Prairie Provinces is a $300.00 scholarship towards registration in a course at Agriculture at A University or School of Agriculture.

Application forms and further information are available from your District Agriculturist, Mr. Edwards. Essays must be submitted to this office by October 1st, 1966.

Pasture Research Survey

A pasture research grant totalling $43,700 has been awarded the Department of Agriculture Economics at the University of Alberta by the A.R.D.A. The purpose of the two year grant, according to Dr. H. C. Love, Project Director, is to examine the costs and possible benefits of improving public lands for increased grazing capacity in Alberta.

The pressure on grazing lands in the Province is rising. During the ten year period 1951-61, the number of head of grazing livestock in Alberta increased by 45 percent. During the same period however, grazing land acreage increased by only 11.4 percent. The problem is further complicated by the fact that with population increases, Canadians eat more beef annually.

Phase two will include a survey interview with more than 600 farmers and ranchers in Alberta who are using the public grazing lands. Data from this phase will provide provincial Administrators with much of the information needed to allocate public funds for the development of improvement of eight grazing areas in the province. Comparisons of the rate of improvement on public and private lands will be estimated.

The first phase of this study was conducted during the summer of 1965. It examined pasture problems in the province from the viewpoint of the individual farmer or rancher in order to assist provincial Administrators in estimating the demand for public grazing lands and the need for increased development.

Dr. Wayne Fuller of Iowa State University visited the University of Alberta during the week of June 6th to assist with the planning of this project. Dr. Fuller is an internationally famous statistician whose specialty is in the area of designing survey projects which will yield the greatest amount of reliable information in the most efficient manner.

The Bible Today

Scraps from Egyptian rubbish heaps, bits from a wastebasket in a Mount Sinai monastery, an almost illegible Greek manuscript at Tiflis (U.S.S.R.); manuscripts from a New York City museum and the private library of a Swiss banker: countless fragments viewed on thousands of spools of microfilm—that is what goes into the preparation of a New Testament in the original Greek.

After twelve years' work, an international committee of scholars has now completed a new edition of the Greek New Testament, sponsored and published by five Bible Societies (American, British, Dutch, Scottish and Wurttemburg, Germany). It has been set in the United States and printed by the Wurttemburg Bible Society.

The new edition has two main purposes: to provide scholars with a new text and a new selection of variant readings which are representative of modern developments, and to provide students and Bible translators with a new tool with which to do their work more accurately. The new text is not a radical departure; it is a conservative revision in the tradition of the WestcottHort and Nestle-Aland type of text, both of which have been widely used for decades.

The edition includes 1,400 alternative readings in foot-notes, each with supporting evidences. A supplementary volume giving the committee's deliberation notes is also being prepared.

The RED X Means TIME TO RENEW

Hereford Tour An Outstanding Success

SEDGEWICK — Opinions expressed by many of those who regularly follow the Hereford Tour programs, have it that the Hereford Tour held last Saturday was one of the largest and best ever held in the Northern section. With the fine weather which prevailed through the day, the affair wound up on schedule in the evening at Sedgewick

The affair got under way with a coffee party at the Sedgewick Rec Centre, after which some 75 cars took off for the first stop at the Ludvig Arntzen Ranch Here the tour was joined by some 20 additional cars. An inspection of the Arntzen herd was followed by a visit to the Len Berg Ranch where an additional features of the day was the noon lunch break. Twenty more carloads joined the tour at the Berg Ranch, and all proceeded to the Ken Lee Ranch south of Sedgewick.

The fourth stop was at the Tom Leslie Hereford Farm where, after viewing the herd, 4-H Judging Competitions were held, and an afternoon coffee break enjoyed. Final visit of the tour was to the Harry Munro Ranch, and then back to the town of Sedgewick for an evening barbecue and round of sport events.

A special feature of the tour was the attendance of six carloads of Hereford Breeders and interested spectators from the Provinces of Saskatchewan and two or three carloads from Calgary and Athabasca.

On arrival in Sedgewick the tour attenders along with many local citizens were treated to an outdoor beef barbecue, along with baked potatoes, salad and coffee. The tasty, seasoned meat was prepared and barbecued by that famous specialist, Stu Fentan of Irma, and was served up by the Sedgewick Board Ill Wade, with Clyde Clark as Maitre de Hotel. Some 650 people were served.

Following the barbecue there was entertainment with pony chuckwagon races, tug-o-war, and the awarding of prizes for the day.

Mr. Anton Berg was the oldest person present, while the youngest girl was Tracy Mirbo of Viking. The weight guessing contest was won by Sam Klein of Viking, door prize going to E. Taylor of Hobbit. The person coming from the farthest distance was Gordon Murphy of Peyton, Sask., and from out of Canada to Mr Howkins of Oklahoma. In a weight guessing contest during the tour the prize was won by Mr. Parenna of Willingdon and Mrs. Chilbeck of Vegreville.

There were nine 4-H Clubs in attendance, and in judging first place went to the North Caster Club with the Viking Club second. Mr. Will Edgar of Innisfail was the judge & Ron Lind of the Dept. of Agriculture was official secretary.

A Northern Alberta Dairy Pool van followed the tour during the day dispensing pop, divie cups, drumsticks and chocolate milk, supplied by the tour hosts.

Mayor Culbert welcomed the visitors to the Town of Sedgewick, and invited them to have a good time, and return again.

Top Baseball Features Lougheed Tournament

LOUGHEED — The first two-day baseball tournament held by the Lougheed Baseball Club last Saturday and Sunday featured some of the finest games seen this year, as the teams have rounded into shape and were playing good baseball.

In the final game of the 8-team tourney at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday, the Sedgewick Oilers met the Viking Shamrocks to decide top winners.

In the first innings Sedgewick scored twice, with Viking coming right back in their half to pick up three. Sedgewick scored five more in the second and picked of five more in the fourth for a lead of 13 to 3, when the game was called after four and a half innings. Because five innings had not been completed it was ruled that first prize should be split.

The tournament got under way at 10:30 a. m. on Saturday when the Lougheed Wildcats won the opener from Clear Sky a score of 7 to 4.

In the second game Sedgewick & Hughenden battled to a close 3-2 decision in favor of Sedgewick.

At 3:30 Camrose and Viking met in the third game, with Viking taking an early lead and winning the game 7 to 5.

Killam and Drayton Valley met in the final opening day game with Drayton Valley winning 12 to 8.

In the first semi-final game Sunday, Viking won a close 8 to 4 victory over Drayton Valley. There was no scoring in this game until the fourth inning when Viking picked up two runs.

Lougheed and Sedgewick met in the second semi-final game at 2:00 p.m. with Sedgewick coming out on top at a 7 to 4 score.

The final game between Sedgewick and Viking was called in the fourth due to stormy weather

Ladies' Fastball

In the ladies' fastball Viking defeated Irma in the first game, and Brownfield defeated the Lougheed Rockettes in the second encounter in the final game Viking & Brownfield split the first money.

Management of the tournament commended the co-operation of the people turned out on the two days to watch the games. Weather was ideal until the half-way mark of the final games on Sunday when a suside wind and dust storm hit, followed by rain, forced the umpires to call the games.

Sedgewick Cadets Win Top Honors

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick Army Cadet Corps No. 2 team won the top award as the best Cadet Corps in Alberta. This is no mean achievement when you consider the competition from city Corps where drill halls and all the equipment needed is fully available.

To win the top rating with a percentage of 83.3 the Sedgewick Corps had to beat 97 other Alberta Corps.

While the Corps and the Leaders are justly proud of the accomplishment, they are also appreciative of the valuable assistance given them by the Sedgewick Legion Branch, and the interest taken in them by the general public.

Man Charged For Hindering Police

A man who is charged with stripping an RCMP corporal of his revolver, belt, boots and keys at gunpoint, will appear at a preliminary hearing on July 28th.

The incident involving the Mountie resulted in a charge of armed robbery against Paul Desjarlais, 32, of no fixed address. He also faces two charges of car theft and one of breaking and entering.

Or, the highway patrolman, Killam, 112 miles southeast of Edmonton, Cpl. R. W. McTavish of the Killam detachment stopped a car for a check at on April 16th. A shotgun was pointed at him and he was ordered to remove his gun belt with the revolver, his boots and a key ring.

After tampering with the police car so that it would be temporarily immobilized,the armed driver took off. The man was later arrested by the RCMP.

The preliminary hearing on all 4 charges will be held in Camrose.

Besides the robbery charge, the three other charges were laid in connection with incidents said to have happened the same day.

The premises of Hardisty Motors, in Hardisty, were broken into and a 1966 and a 1965 model cars were stolen. RCMP said.

Since his first appearance in a Camrose court on June 22nd, Desjarlais has been remanded in custody every eight days until the preliminary hearing. — Edmonton Journal

Crop Prospects Considered Fair

Southern Alberta — Growth and development has been excellent in Alberta has been good. Widespread rains (averaging over 1 1/4 inches) during the week did little to alleviate overall dry situation. A general rain is urgently needed. North and east of Edmonton fair conditions prevail but here too a general rain is needed. Growth has been slow and stands will be short. Wheat now averages 9 inches. barley 5. and oats 7 inches.

Peace River — No general rain fell in the Peace River last week, but some districts received heavy showers and crops there are reported fair to good. Crops in the B. C. block are beginning to decline. The north Peace continues poor growth crops in many districts will soon need rain. Bad deterioration continues in the dry area from Tofield east The new light showers during the week did little to alleviate overall dry situation. A general rain is urgently needed. North and east of Edmonton fair conditions prevail but here too a general rain is needed. Growth has been slow and stands will be short. Wheat now averages 9 inches. barley 5. and oats 7 inches.

DIVIDED HIGHWAY — There is no shortage of weird and wondrous traffic signs on Canada's byways and highways, but if any of our motorists chanced upon this one, they'd undoubtedly slam their brakes in confusion. Located near the Khyber Pass in Afghanistan, the sign post directs cars one way and camels and horses the other.

SOLD OUT — The record 1020 million wheat sale to the Soviet Union has virtually cleaned out wheat reserves from this summer's crop. The deal is unique not only in size, but also by the fact that it is a "cash-on-the-barrelhead" deal. In previous sales Russia asked for credit terms.

Young Socred Queen Title Goes To Red Deer Club

Medicine Hat was the scene of the Alberta Young Socred's Sports Day on July 2nd, when Miss Alberta Young Socred was crowned.

Phyllis Swanson of Red Deer captured the title, with her group selling the most tickets. Red Deer seems to be the hub of Social Credit activity, already having the National Leader, a Social Credit M. L. A., Prov. Young Social Credit president and now the Provincial Queen.

Mr. Ray Speaker, M.L.A. of Little Bow, was the guest speaker at the banquet, and Mr. Bud Olson gave a run-down on affairs at Ottawa.

The Sedgewick-Coronation group also lost the Aberhart Memorial Trophy which was captured by the Medicine Hat group with a bowling and softball tournament. All was not lost by the S-C as their group travelled the farthest and had the most attend from one group.

The S-C group may put in a bid to hold the Sports Day in this area next year, and maybe, who knows, they might win the Queen title.

DAYSLAND C. W. L. HOLDS MEETING

DAYSLAND — Seventeen members and the Director were present at the monthly meeting of the C. W. L., with Mrs. Davis leading the rosary

Mrs. Krauseri, card convener, reported sending four baby cards and a get-well card. Mrs Dylke gave a report on what new members had joined. It was decided to have a raffle, draw to be made at the fall supper. The main intention for July was for rain.

The president gave a report on events that took place at the Conventions in Edmonton in June.

OILERS WIN 3 - 2 OVER SHAMROCKS

SEDGEWICK — On Wednesday evening of last week the Viking Shamrocks visited Sedgwick for an exhibition game of baseball, with the Oilers.

In a close and well-played game, the Oilers won in 8 innings by the score of 3 to 2.

There is so much written and said about the war in Vietnam that it is impossible to really know what is going on there. While we believe that the reporters are doing their best to record the facts as they happen, it is the pressure groups that are confusing the issue for the common man. The anti-war group distorts the facts in their favor and the extremists on the other end are doing the same. The Neville Chamberlain type pacifists now known as "doves" are the only group really making much noise and that's about all their arguments are. The vast majority of people the world over are against war, but nobody ever kept the peace by surrendering to every demand, and negotiating at any cost just to satisfy any aggressive neighbor. This is the main fallacy of their arguments. The other thing that annoys us is that they direct all their efforts at only one side of the war, the U. S., and heap abuse on that nation for twenty years has had the thankless job of maintaining peace in the world and defending our way of life — most of the time alone.

No nation in history can even approach the U. S. record for helping other countries, both friend and foe.

The British fought a very similar although less sophisticated, war against the communists in Malaya and according to military historians they had won it more than a year before they realized the fact. We wonder if the United States is not quickly approaching the same situation wherein the communists are already beaten and nobody, including themselves, realizes it.

President Johnson has had years of experience in the top levels of government and is doing what is necessary in Viet Nam although he would probably prefer not to be involved in the area at all. We have confidence in his ability and judgement. He has used great restraint with the tremendous and real power he could bring to bear in Viet Nam; He will win the war and when it comes time to negotiate the communists are going to find him no easy pushover as they have found others so often in the past.

Vacation Time?

Some brave character, probably a man, once described a vacation as that time of year when you pack seven suitcases, four children, two aunts, a mother-in-law, two dogs and a parakeet and say, "It's good to get away from it all". This little bit of whimsy helps to explain why the summer months are, in spite of good weather and roads, among the most hazardous months for driving. Last summer, for example, 88 persons were killed on Alberta highways during just 2 summer holiday months. This sums up to 1 person every seventeen hours.

Many of these deaths are the result of driving cars not properly prepared for demanding holiday travel. Have your car checked before you leave. Overloading cars is another danger. Cramming a trunk full of every kind of equipment (including the mother-in-law) puts weight on back wheels and causes the front to "float", which in turn brings about driving problems. Putting in too many miles is another danger. The next day will wait for you. Getting someplace for the weekend is desirable but can also be dangerous. Why not start out fresh each morning.

Limit your daily mileage; Always keep plenty of space between you and the car ahead; Never pass without due care; Slow down for the curves; Be wary of new situations on the road; Use the low beam for all night travel; Tired? Pull off the road and rest; Vacation over? Be alive and come back home. We like you and want you back.

Time Of Turbulence!

That there shall be times of turmoil and turbulence is more evident today than ever. It is freely predicted that unless a change of heart takes hold of mankind, he is directing his own destiny toward disaster. In just one area of our civilization, we are fashioning ourselves for an inevitable "relapse" in economic co-operation. Unless we in our wisdom can solve our problems on the labor front, our nation is going to be faced this year with the worst outbreak of strikes in her history. That this is building up to such a situation becomes more evident with the passing of each day. Unions, powerful groups, are presently preparing for demands which if granted, can only become a financial burden to all; and if not granted bring about work stoppages of ruinous proportions. The situation will have to be handled with wisdom and with toughness.

Strikes in the past have hit both major and minor industries and up to the end of April 1966, time lost from work was running almost 56 percent ahead of the same period in 1965. Today you can find trouble almost anywhere on the labor front.

What is the reason for all this turbulence? Those who are supposed to know claim that basic wage demands and automation are the chief causes. They say that there is no dangerous unrest in Canadian labor that can't be settled by money. This then, is the basic problem; Man's desire for more. When this reaches the area of personal greed the situation becomes explosive.

Unions today are sophisticated, and ever new problems face their relationships with management. Unions today no longer bargain about wages alone. They now demand pay for time spent getting to their work. The younger men are taking over the leadership of unions, and like youth everywhere are insistent in their demands. Sitting on the sidelines dissatisfied but helpless are those who pay the shot for all the troubles — the Canadian citizen and taxpayer.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.E.

In my few years I can't remember a year such as this one. It tries so hard to rain, but hardly ever does. The lightning flashes, the thunder rolls, and we don't get enough rain to fill a thimble. A shower here and a shower there, but never any thing of this summer to date. This being only Friday afternoon, there is still hope that the good, general rain we need will arrive before this is printed, if it does we will all be happy. It it doesn't we'll still be hoping.

Two days from now, on July 16th, this newspaper will be 58 years old. The first edition was published on that date in 1908 by A. J. Honey, who founded the paper and was the first editor. He published until 1915, when my grandfather, A. L. Enstly, purchased the paper. "A.L." was editor until 1943 when the present editor, A. W. Enstly, took over.

Looking over the first edition of the paper you find that a major portion of the news is devoted to coverage of baseball. The Alberta Central Baseball League was operating with teams from Daysland, Strome, Killam and Sedgewick, with Strome in the top spot. The name of only one advertiser is still active, that of F. P. Beatrice. Other advertisers included, D. A. Gickel, Fowler and Breen, Farris Bros., J. T. Matchett, H. L. Gray, Clarens Bros. Hardware, and the Merchants Bank of Canada.

Things going as planned, at the end of this week it is my turn to take off two weeks for holidays. The paper will be published every week as it has for the past two years, but there will be one of us coming or going all summer, as the staff each takes his turn. As for me, it's the last two weeks of July I don't know just where we're going or what we're going to do when we get there, but it doesn't matter much as long as no one wakes me up very early in the morning

The Letter Box

West Vancouver, B. C.

The Editor,

I visited Mr. W. B. Curtis while in Kelowna on Saturday and he showed me the copy of the Community Press with the story of the Fairchesian Valley U.F.W.A. Mr. Curtis is 95 and still alert and interested. We had a good chat with the Press story to remind us of the old times and the former people in Sedgewick.

Mother, Mrs. Edwin Snowsell, died March 19th, 1966. She had been living for some time with Betty, Mrs. Percy Geen, just outside Kelowna. I had Leon Gunning with her just about 10 minutes before she died. We had left her to eat lunch, and when Reta went in to see how she was eating, mother had quite literally fallen asleep. Dad died in 1948 and mother is buried beside him in the Kelowna Cemetery. They left 14 grandchildren (also great and one great) grandchildren. I have three girls and a boy, and four grandchildren (also three girls and one boy). Jack has four girls, and now has nine grandchildren. Betty has three,two boys and one girl.

Mrs. F. W. Weber had sent an invitation to mother to attend the Au Anniversary, and I wrote her a more detailed story of the family history. — Your sincerely, Frank Snowsell.

CAPITAL HILL

The Federal Cabinet was split for a time over the proposed amendments to the Bank Act put forward by Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp. In the Liberal caucus former Finance Minister W. Gordon and former provincial secretary Maurice Lamontagne took up a vigorous battle over Mr. Sharp's plans for raising the chartered banks' interest rate ceiling. Repercussions from that fight echoed in the cabinet chamber but the Minister stood a firm stand. There were suggestions that Mr. Sharp might quit. But the cabinet split was overcome, and the boiling controversy cooled off until the fall.

★ MACDUFF OTTAWA REPORT

The Iron's Hot

OTTAWA — Election in Federal Government circles over the sale of the $500 million worth of Canadian wheat to Russia in the new three-year agreement, was temporarily overshadowed by the strikes in the transportation field could hold up deliveries. Labour leaders met in many parts across the country. The railways are likely to be hit hard this summer.

The transportation facilities of the country have to be mobilized to capacity to cope with the massive movement of about 800 million bushels of wheat in the next crop year. The railways have not only the export shipments of the wheat to carry but also the increased movement of freight across the nation because of the booming economy.

With the latest huge sale of wheat Canada will be exporting about 525 million bushels of wheat in the next crop year Aug. 1, 1966 to July 31, 1967. Canada in the current crop year set an export target of 600 million bushels. It fell short of this target because of the holdups resulting from the longshoremen's 5-week strike.

A number of important labour agreements are now under negotiation involving the two major railways. Conciliation boards had stated that they could arrive at a satisfactory settlement of the threatened strikes, but the Government-ordered settlement has set a precedent that has upset negotiations and established a precedent for other labor disputes.

The 30 percent settlement directed by the government in the seaway dispute is being taken as a guideline. The spokesman for the 18,000 railway workers say that such a settlement should at least apply to railway workers.

On the verge of recommending an increase for the railway workers a conciliation board has now found its efforts scuttled by the seaway settlement. The seaway workers got an average wage increase of 72 cents an hour plus another 12 cents in improved fringe benefits. Before the settlement the average rate paid was about $2.30 an hour.

The railway employees involved in the current negotiations that could end in a strike have lost no time in pointing out that an increase in their average earnings would mean 66 cents an hour. The conciliation board had been recommending reasonable an increase of about 40 cents an hour but all hope of making such a recommendation went out the window with the seaway 30 percent settlement.

One of the largest unions involved in the current dispute is the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers. It has already taken a strike vote. It is the CNR's biggest union. It voted 96 percent in favour of strike action to back up its demands for a pay raise, seeking a 90 cent hourly wage increase spread over a two-year contract plus job security. A separate conciliation board took the strike vote before the board held a meeting. The board had meetings later in what was regarded as a legal formality clearing the way for strike action.

Under the new Russian deal this country will be required to ship 112 million bushels for the first crop year of the three-year deal. There are also the shipments to meet the Chinese long-term agreement. That will require 93 million bushels a year at the maximum rate.

That adds up to 205 million bushels for the two countries in the coming crop year. In addition there are the 250 million bus. for Canada's regular customers, such as United Kingdom and Japan. There is also the approximately 70 million bushels a year required to supply the purchases made by other countries such as Poland, East Germany, Hungary and aid in the form of wheat sent by Canada to starving nations.

The domestic consumption of wheat in this country takes another 150 million bushels. That adds up to a grand total demand on Canada's wheat resources of 675 million bushels a year. Helping meet this demand will be the 440 million bushel carryover of wheat at July 31, 1966. There is also the new crop coming up this year. In an average year the crop is around 800 million bushels with increased acreage now sown to wheat.

Moving the huge quantities of wheat taxes the transportation facilities, but what is worrying the Government is that strikes could tie up the railway lines. The first strike is likely to take place around July 21st, and four or five days later the second national railway strike could occur.

If history repeats itself an emergency session of parliament may have to be summoned. Compulsory arbitration would be resorted to order the striking railwaymen back to work. Or, as in the case of the longshoremen at the St. Lawrence ports of Montreal, Trois Rivieres and Quebec City, the railwaymen may go out on strike and the Prime Minister may be forced to intervene and try to arrange a settlement. If successful it would do away with the recall of parliament. The idea of compulsory arbitration is extremely distasteful to the Liberal government. It will exhaust all other possibilities before summoning parliament back into session in the summer.

Report From Parliament Hill

(By CNW Southwood, M. P.)

Parliament has been sitting for over one hundred days. The press, for some unknown reason, has a desire to misrepresent the facts, and degrade our Parliamentary system. Regardless of what they print, the House of Commons is alive and productive. Worthwhile legislation has been passed, committees are doing a good job and estimates are being more thoroughly examined than ever before. During the month of June we have discussed the $360 million Health resources fund and the Canada Pension Plan. The fund is designed to help provide facilities for the training of doctors and other medical people. The $325 million Canada Assistance Plan is designed to give more aid to people in need. As usual, these positive bills did not get headlines. It is very frustrating to we members, when totally negative results outside the House eclipse the worthwhile things that are going on inside.

On the negative side may I cite the Massinger inquiry which has turned out to be a political Kangaroo Court. This matter involved the House of Commons for exactly three days, but listening to the news reports for the past month, it appeared that this subject was all the House of Commons was discussing. The Munsinger hearing was ill conceived, ill run and purely destructive.

Again, on the positive side, we have passed some 38 pieces of legislation. Over 20 days have been spent on the estimates of 1965-66 and 1966-67. Within the next short while announcements in the Bank Act will be before us, vitally important legislation that will effect all Canadians. We have waited for this to be introduced for the past two months but it is a well-known fact that the Liberal caucus cannot agree among themselves as to the actual amendments they wish to present to Parliament. We are still hopeful that these revisions will be introduced within the next few days.

You have read and heard about the strikes. These are in the news because they are important. They threaten the whole economy. They inevitably tend to boost the already spiralling cost of living, and higher prices in turn spark more strikes. This vicious circle is perhaps the most crucial and complex problem facing the federal government at the present time. Let us hope that a solution may soon be found to prevent our ever escalating cost of living.

STRANGER CALLED SUMMER

In about the last three decades, the face of a Canadian summer has changed almost beyond recognition.

Think back to your summers as a child. The sights and the sounds and the smells have all changed. You'd scarcely know you were in the same country.

Summer itself has not changed. As a nation half frozen after a long weary winter and a cold, and wet spring, we still greet it with rapture and incredulity. It is the celebration of the season that has been transformed.

Thirty years ago, summer was a quite time. The pace was leisurely. The mood was one of peace. Today, it's just the opposite. It is the noisiest time of the year, the pace is frantic and the mood is jazzy.

In those days, summer pleasures, for the working staff, were simple. And for a couple of good reasons. He worked nine or 10 hours a day, and he didn't have the money.

When he got home, he was wheedled. After supper he might water the lawn, or do a little weeding, or just sit on the front porch until dark. Occasionally, he'd take in a ball game, or maybe drive the family around for awhile, and buy everybody an ice cream cone.

When his holidays rolled around, he didn't do much. Puttered around painting the trim on the house, or worked in the garden. Maybe took the family to visit relatives for a few days. In those days summer cottages, and power boats, and resort hotels and golf were for the wealthy.

What a difference today! The working staff gets home, and his day has just begun. He has a golf date. Or the family wants to go out in the boat. Or the kids demand he drive them for a swim. Or his wife has asked somebody over for drink and barbecue and he must don the apron and get to work.

When the holidays come around, the pace triples. No puttering about the house for him. No sitting in his back yard in a shade tree, and restoring himself.

It doesn't matter what has been planned for his holiday. Whether it's a mad motor trip of 3000 miles, or a cottage at Crud Lake, or a tenting excursion he's going to have to be a human dynamo for about 18 hours a day.

What's happened in three decades? Cars, influence, desire for status, and women.

Cars, and the subsequent highways to accommodate them, have opened up the hinterland. Beach areas that used to be quiet, little summer settlements at the end of a rugged gravel road are now roaring, raucous neon jungles by night and fresh stops and screaming motors by day.

Virgin lakes, not long ago accessible only by canoe and portage are now laid bare by developers, and the bulldozers are at work, and everybody wants to own his own piot, though prices have skyrocketed.

Affluence, combined with the never-never land of the finance company, has made its inroads. Today the working man owns his own cottage, a cruiser, and belongs to the golf club. The big resorts have been taken over by the moderately well-to-do. The rich, in digust, fly to Europe.

The eternal pursuit of status in our society has played its part. If that crumb next door can afford a cottage for two weeks, Joe can afford a flight to the West Coast. If he has a 50-horse motor, Joe needs a 75-horse. If his kind are going to camp for two weeks, Joe's are going for the whole of August.

And woman? Ah, how they have helped change the face of Canada's summer! They used to be content to stay home, look after their gardens and put up preserves in the summer. They used to be happy with a family picnic on Sundays. They used to enjoy making a photos of cold lemonade on a hot summer evening and bringing it out to the porch.

Now they want a cottage for two months, or a new and bigger boat, or a second car, plus a membership at the golf club, plus a new patio, plus a couple of weeks at a swank resort.

It's no wonder poor Joe is a whimpering shell at the end of the summer, exhausted, broke and troubled.

Merna Murmers

Mr and Mrs Gordon Rancier and family of Ottawa, Ont. recently visited his sister and brother-in-law & family, Mr. & Mrs. Cecil Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cunsall and Keith Robson left for a trip over to Europe last week.

Richard Baker, son of Mr. & Mrs. Jim Baker, is spending the summer with grandma Jeannie Baker.

The Merna Welfare Club enjoyed a picnic at the Big Knife Provincial Park last Thursday. We were especially happy to have as guests, Mrs. Mary Renshaw of Sedgewick and her cousin Mrs. Viola Pritchard of Sault St. Marie, and Mr. & Mrs. Jim Baker and family of Eston, Sask., as well as husbands and the children of club members.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman McPherson (nee Fay Cunsall) and family have recently been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cunsall and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McLennan had as dinner guests last Sunday, Mrs. Rod McLennan of Alliance, Mrs. A. McLennan (nee Mary McLennan) and family of Calgary, Mr. Bill Reid of Sedgewick and Mr. Alvin McLennan of Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Taylor, Mrs. Anna Sack, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Anderson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson and family and Mr and Mrs. Andy Anderson and family visited and met Mrs. Gertrude Johnson and family who had a family reunion. The two family groups enjoyed a picnic at Ellwester Provincial Park last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McLennan & family attended the Ag. Show that marked the opening of the new Red Deer Airport on Friday. They then spent the weekend at Sylvan Lake.

Mr and Mrs. Ron Bowness motored to Edmonton this weekend, accompanied by Douglas and Coreen Bowness of Calahad. They attended the Silver Wedding Anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Bowness.

Mr. John Lewis returned from his holiday on Friday accompanied by his brother Charlie and son of California; also his brother Orlando of Pasco, Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Bitz O'Riordan of Camrose, Mr. & Mrs. Charlie Lewis and family, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lewis and family, Mr and Mrs Orville Lewis and family and Shirley Lewis, all from Killam, besides Mamie, Mr. & Mrs. Cecil Lewis and family, Mr. & Mrs Daniel Lewis and family and Donald of Merna, met at the J Lewis home for a reunion on Sunday.

Brown's Lake, one mile North of Sedgewick, has been the focus of many hours of effort by the Kinsmen Club of Sedgewick, to improve the swimming, camping and picnic facilities. Hundreds of man hours and dollars have been spent by the Club to make these improvements for your benefit.

For two weeks, starting on July 18th, the Sixth Annual Kinsmen Swimming Lessons will be held at the Lake. These lessons are available to anyone over the age of eight years.

Besides their work at the Lake, the Kinsmen have been strong supporters of the Sedgewick Recreation Centre, Little League Baseball, Minor Hockey, and all the other Community Projects which make Sedgewick a leader in recreation for people of all ages.

Other Kinsmen Club interests have ranged over a wide area, from assisting the Community Hall to sponsoring Scholarships for Central High School students, all of which help to make Sedgewick the ideal community in which to live and raise a family.

LAST CHANCE

The winner of the Sedgewick Kinsmen Lucky Grocery Bonanza will be declared on July 15th. This is your last chance to get tickets from any member of the Kinsmen Club or at your Grocery Store.

NOTICE

The committee in charge wishes to sincerely thank the many volunteers who made the Sedgewick 1st of July Sports one of the best. Many compliments on the day ran more smoothly than ever.

Parade participants are to be particularly thanked, for this year was the best parade ever and the judges had a hard job picking winners. All parade prize money has been sent.

The net profit for the day cannot be calculated until all accounts are in, but over a neat profit for community efforts. — The July 1st Committee.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Agnes Huyghe, who passed away July 16th, 1965.

In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away;
Our hearts were almost broken
You tried so hard to stay;
But when we saw you sleeping
So peacefully, free from pain,
We could not wish you back
To suffer that again.
They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps us to forget,
But time has only proved to tell
How much we miss you yet.
We'll want to know each step you take,
That we may walk the same.
For some day down that lonely road
You'll hear us call your name ..
Ever remembered by — Her Loving Family. 9 1 p

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Walter Keith Huyghe, who passed away on July 16th, 1946.

Memories are treasures nothing can steal,
Death is a heartache nothing can heal;
Some may forget you, now that you're gone
But we will remember, no matter how long.
Lovingly remembered by — Dad, Sisters and Brothers. 9 1 p

Mary Jane Anderson Wed at Merna Church

SEDGEWICK — At a wedding at the Sedgewick Seventh-Day Adventist Church on May 30th, Mary Jane Anderson became the bride of Leslie Earl Anderson. The ceremony was performed by Leslie's father, Pastor A. E. Anderson from Lethbridge assisted by Mary Jane's father, Pastor John Anderson from Grande Prairie, and formerly of the Merna district.

The bride's gown was of white dotted swiss with lace bodice. Her attendants were her cousin Nellie, her sister Barbara and Sheryl Lund of Vancouver, Wash. They wore afternoon dresses of emerald green crystal charm. The two little flower girls, Gem and Jackie were dressed alike in green also. The bridesmaids carried arm bouquets of white and pink carnations, and the bride's bouquet was of red roses.

The groom's attendants were his brother David, a young minister of Brandon, Man., Ed Kasser of Edmonton, and Les Mera of College Heights.

Soloists were Harry Anderson and Art Cooper of Edmonton.

The wedding supper was prepared by the ladies of the church, and the wedding cake was decorated by the bride's mother. Coreen Bowren was in charge of the guest book.

Both young people had just participated in the weekend graduation exercises at Canadian Union College,the bride graduating from Junior Arts, and the groom from Theology. They plan to continue their education at Andrews University in Michigan before beginning pastoral duty in Eastern Canada.

Hardisty Hi-Lites

Mrs. Hall is visiting her daughter Mrs. Zwicker, during Mr. Zwicker's absence in the East. The Zwickers announce the arrival of a new grandson, a son for Mr. and Mrs. Barry Zwicker of Toronto.

Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Craig of Calgary and Billy Pritchard were visitors with their sister Mrs. Fred Drager and family. Later Mrs. Drager and Mrs. Craig motored to Jasper and other points.

Mr. and Mrs Bob Wood and child ren are on holiday spending a few days in Edmonton and Calgary.

Shari Drager is spending her holidays at her home here.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reber on the birth of a daughter in St. Anne's Hospital.

Mrs. Maryon Drager entertained at bridge on Wednesday evening, asking a number of bridge club members to meet her guests, and to celebrate her birthday. Four tables were played, winners being Vera Hendricks and Gypsy Craig. The lunch table was centered with a lovely birthday cake, and "Happy Birthday" was sung to Maryon, and to Fanny Wilder.

Mr. Clarence Elm's 80th birthday was the occasion of a family reunion on Sunday, June 26th, to celebrate the event. Relatives present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Linden (Catherine) and daughters of Saskatoon; Mr. and Mrs. H. Williams (Claudia) and children of Edmonton; Adrian and Faye Elm and the children of Edmonton; Eugene and Lynne Elm and son of Hardisty, Mrs. Ethel Elm and Homer, Mr. & Mrs. Ora Elm of Portland, Oregon; and Mrs. C. Elm's brother Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Widlake of Sedgewick. Many cards of congratulations were received from Canada and U. P. A. Mr. and Mrs. Ora Elm stayed on for a short visit, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Elm accompanied them on their return to Portland.

Take time to think — it is the source of power.

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

Our interim Pastor, Rev. W. Sipis of Wetaskiwin, was in charge of the morning worship service Sunday

Rev. Beerman of Welland Ontario was our guest speaker at the evening service. Mrs. Beerman was soloist for both the morning and evening services.

Thought For The Week

Ere you left your room this morning
Did you think to pray?
In the name of Christ, our Saviour,
Did you ask for loving favor,
As a shield today?
Oh, how praying rests the weary!
Prayer will change the night to day:
So when life seems dark and dreary
Don't forget to pray. M.A. Kidder

Centennial Report

1867 1967 by JOHN W. FISHER CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

I have been "ticked off" by some friends for "allowing the subject of cross commercialism" to creep into a few of my public addresses on the Centennial of 1967. I refer to the subject of businesses making more money as a result of the expected boost in tourism and commerce in general.

It is, of course, quite right that the spirit of our birthday celebrations should maintain a tone in keeping with Canada's national and historical significance as our Parliament expressed it in an Act. Nevertheless I continue to declare, in spite of the concern of a few of my friends, that it is no sin for the keepers of hotels, motels, restaurants, roadside lunch stands, shops and the hundreds of thousands of other Canadian businessmen, large and small, who will be selling increased amounts of paint, flags, musical instruments, gasoline and transportation, to look forward to an increase in revenues in the year 1967.

It is to be hoped, of course, that all will realize the importance of fair business conduct. Let it not be said by any tourist in our country that he was unfairly exploited during his visit.

Just to show that there need be no fear of character damage to a Canadian who tries to do better, financially, during the Centennial I point to an item in a dignified body then the Canadian Travel Bureau.

The Government Travel Bureau hopes to attract a great income from other countries of one billion dollars in 1967. The Bureau also has greatly increased its budget for advertising outside Canada to help produce that hoped-for income.

Knowing that there is a solid national effort to produce greater tourism many will be encouraged to accelerate their business activity in the community, particularly with regard to promotion, in a way that produces local business revenue, and at the same time boosts the Centennial, as a year of celebration, along with the national economy.

Local merchants can do things with their shop windows, counters and advertising which will increase sales and at the same time add to the festive atmosphere for the Centennial. Local industries can build their corporate prestige by going along with our national beautification program: making their properties more attractive, landscaping, cleaning up and painting up and perhaps putting up a new flag pole for the celebrations.

Local printers and publishers can get on the bandwagon too. Mr. Bill Forbes, editor and manager of Canadian Printer and Publisher magazine, brimful of ideas for small town newspapers and printers, told us recently he is running Centennial suggestions in his own column. He has tips for Centennial promotion issues of newspapers and commercial printing project plans. (One novel idea of his for commercial printers and publishers is to produce wrapping paper covered with montages of old front page news stories published in 19th century issues.)

Style magazine, newspaper for the retail garment trade, is running a column every issue to pass along "how-to" information on Centennial sales promotion. Other business editors are publishing similar materials.

Man can be the most constructive or destructive of all animals when he is motivated by the lure of profits. Let's take the view that we can increase revenue in 1967 in a constructive way that will benefit the Centennial and all of us.

CATTLE PRICE OUTLOOK REMAINING FAVORABLE
Forecast of future Canadian cattle prices are extremely insensitive because statistics of cattle on feed are not available. However according to the Alberta Dept. of Agriculture statistics provide a guide.
Inventories are down 3.5 from the previous year, with experts continuing high. There must be an end to the supply and it may come suddenly Canada may be an importer before the year end. Therefore the market for Canadian feeders and calves will be good for some time.

Around Sedgewick

The sympathy of the town and district is extended to the bereaved family of Mr John McConnell who passed away suddenly last week in the Killam General Hospital.

Mrs. Margaret Twomey of Wainwright is visiting at the home of her son Douglas and family.

Mrs. Lloyd Olsen is now employed as secretary with the Killam School Division.

Mr. and Mrs. Butch Downie from Edmonton were callers in town on Tuesday en-route to Hardisty to attend the funeral services on Wed. for his brother Pat. Our sympathy is extended to the family.

Selecting a Career

It is that time of year that young people should be thinking seriously about their future.

Following are some questions parents and young people should discuss very seriously. If you don't have the answers for all of them, look to guidance teachers, the University Student Advisory Board, and people already employed in the fields in which the young person is interested.

1. Abilities, Interests, Ambitions —(a) Your strengths and weaknesses are very important. How do you measure up in school, 4-H, in older activities? (b) Where do your interests lie? (c) What other jobs appeal to you?

2. Your Goals— (a) What things are important enough to make you work hard . . . and enjoy it? (b) Where could you work hardest with pleasure? (c) Do you think your goals may change?

3. Educational Avenues — (a) What avenues are open to your goals in life? (b) Are there serious obstacles to some of these? (c) Can they be overcome?

4. Financial Resources— (a) How much money do you have? (b) Can you obtain bursaries, scholarships, or other financial assistance? (c) If you want to farm, can you work out a satisfactory arrangement with your father?

Jim Crouch Honored By Armored Tank Reg.

HARDISTY — Jim Crouch had an eventful day on Wednesday, July 6. Downtown in Hardisty there was a Recce Patrol of the Fort Garry Horse, Armoured Tank Regiment from Sarcee, Calgary and who are currently stationed at Wainwright for summer exercises. Upon learning that Jim was one of the survivors of the original Cavalry Reg. in World War 1, the Lieutenant and crew were interested in seeing souvenirs, photos, etc. that he had.

Transporting Jim to his home they wished away an hour or so, and in the interim and unknown to Jim, the Lieutenant called Headquarters in Wainwright. In short order a staff car arrived with Regimental Sgt. Major, Headquarters Sgt Major and chauffeur, with orders to bring Jim, with full decoration, etc over to Wainwright as a Regimental guest.

Hilltown was laid on, and a memorable evening ensued. Jim thinks he shook hands a hundred times while meeting the Lt. Col., the Officers & N.C.O's. of the Regiment and the Fort Garry Horse Militia. Although the Regimental Sgt. Major had an extra bed set up in his tent, when midnight rolled around Jim decided it best for his nerve-up and excited self that he return home Consequently transportation and escort was arranged.

Many of Jim's old photos were taken to be copied for the Regimental archives at their headquarters in Winnipeg They were interested in the photograph pictures of Jim's house which is painted blue & gold. the Regimental colors. His fence, erected of concrete blocks several years ago, follows the pattern of the original Fort Garry.

It is incidental to note that it was the night of July 9-10, 1917, in action in France with his Regiment, that Jim was subsequently awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal (43 years ago).

Jim Crouch will be remembered by a number of Sedgewick citizens during World War 2. As Sgt. in charge of the Hardisty Platoon, along with the Sedgewick Platoon, Sgt. McGee in charge, and the Alliance Platoon, Sgt. Gibson being in charge, a company for the Calgary Tanks (Reserve) was formed by the Dominion Veterinary Reserve.

Killam Braves Cop Tourney

STROME—A large crowd was on hand for the first baseball tournament held in the new Strome ball park and with warm weather and good baseball they had an enjoyable day.

Killam Braves won first prize in the six team tournament by defeating the Sedgewick Oilers in the final game by a score of 13 to 5.

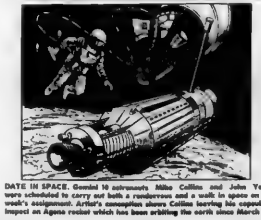
In the first game of the day Daysland edged Strome 8 to 7 in a close game.

Sedgewick won easily over Hisker by a score of 14 — 5 in the second game.

The third game saw the Killam Braves defeat Holden 7 to 5.

In the semi-final game Killam Braves defeated Daysland 7 to 3 and were never in trouble.

Indians won the final game from Sedgewick in a see-saw battle that saw the lead change hands several times. The score was 4 all going into the ninth inning when the Braves broke loose for five runs to win 13 to 8 and capture first money.



DATE IN SPACE. Gemini 10 astronauts Mike Collins and John Young were scheduled for a rendezvous and a walk in space on their flight this week's assignment. Artist's conception shows Collins leaving his capsule to inspect an Agena rocket which has been orbiting the earth since March 16.

Crop Prospects Are Rated As Only Fair

Crops in the local area are being rated as only fair on the average. This is due mainly to the lack of rain this summer during which time we seen there hasn't been a good general rain. There has been a large number of showers but these have been mostly local and spotty, and some areas have missed even these completely. Those few fortunate areas that did receive showers are producing good crops.

On Wednesday evening and Thursday morning last week a real cloudburst went through the area along Highway 13, but even it is was not consistent. as Strome received relatively little in comparison to the 2 1/2 to 4 inches which fell at Daysland, Killam, Sedgewick Lougheed and Hardisty.

The Daysland area generally is short of moisture although Wednesday's downpour helped. This same storm brought hail to the area just north of Daysland in a strip about three miles wide and seven long, causing from 70 to 100 percent damage to crops. Crop outlook at Daysland is considered to be fair to fair to good.

The Strome area has suffered more this year than any part of the district. with the crop prospects considered only poor. While the area has not reported any great hail damage, it has also received very little rain.

In the Killam district the crops have received more rain and reports no hail, with prospects considered to be fair to good for this fall's crop.

Around Sedgewick the rains have been spotty, but a large number of showers have fallen this summer. Some hail was reported in a strip from North of Killam in North of Lougheed and about 10 to 12 miles north of Sedgewick. Crops which got a good start this spring are considered fair to good.

Crops in the Lougheed area are the best in the district this year, with prospects rated as good. Rain has been spotty, as they have been everywhere, but there has been a number of them, and the big rain last week and the previous Sunday have been very beneficial.

At Hardisty the crops are considered fair to good, and even better to the East of Hardisty. Moisture levels are fairly good and no hail damage has been reported to date.

Over the years this district as a whole has been rated for the consistency of good crops produced, although this fact often seems to be overlooked in reports produced by the major governments. While this year's prospects don't appear to be up to the usual standard, there will be a lot of grain taken off this fall, and the results may be even better than presently predicted.

Young Socreds Hear Talk On Expo 67

A combined social and educational meeting was held at Sedgewick on July 11th beginning with a softball game at the recreation centre. President Ralph Sorenson and Bob Polege chose two teams out of the 30 members and visitors present. After some though fought innings Bob's team won with a large margin of runs.

Down to Sedgewick-Cafe where Fardie Wong prepared lunch. Ralph showed slides of proposed projects at Expo 67 and described the various buildings and the countries sponsoring them. He also noted that this is not altogether a rich mans exhibition but for a few dollars you can sponsor a park bench or other smaller articles. What would look better than a bench with the name Sedgewick-Coronation Young Social Crediters on it?

Short reports were given expaining the Aberhart Memorial trophy and our trip to Medicine Hat. A financial report was given and the appointment of Arlene as treasurer. remember all bills go to Mrs. Arlene Gascoyne.

Next meeting will be held at Mervon School on August the 9th at 8 p.m

Phil McClure Wins "Pot 'o Gold" Prize

Some five minutes after Mrs. Phyllis McClure of Powell River B.C. was presented with a cheque for $3,000 she walked from the office and left it behind.

After all. if one is not used to getting a Pot of Gold price every day it is hard to know what to do with it.

Mrs McClure, who won Monday's Pot of Gold at the Stampede finds it still quite unbelievable to have come into all that money.

"I don't believe it. It just can't have happened." she said, eyeing the cheque.

On second thought. Mrs. McClure said it was perhaps time for her to win as she had bought every ticket that she could for a long time now. without starting it lucky.

"I have always bought tickets in the hope of winning and I guess I always will buy them —especially now," the mother of three said.

Mrs. McClure is visiting the Stampede with her teenaged son and daughter and will be returning to her home Wednesday.

"The money is a great ending to a fantastic trip," she said.

As of yet she has no definite plans on how to spend her sudden riches. "I'll pay off some bills and put the rest into the bank until I've had time to think it over," she said.

Her husband works in the paper mill at Powell River

Editor's Note— Mrs. McClure is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rogers of Calgary, and long time residents of Lougheed, where Fred was the popular reporter for the Community Press.

Sedgewick Beats Strome In Exhibition Game

SEDGEWICK — The Strome ball team played an exhibition game at Sedgewick last Tuesday evening against the Oilers This was a return match, the Oilers having got to Strome previously The game was called in the sixth inning due to darkness, with the Oilers holding a 5-4 lead.

Both teams did considerable experimenting with players to various positions and giving new young players a good trial.

McGowan-Palmer Rites At St. Joseph's Church

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Killam was the scene of a lovely wedding on April 23, when Anita Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Palmer, became the bride of Francis Frederick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGowan, all of Killam. Rev. Fr. McCarthy officiated at the ceremony.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was beautiful in a floor-length sheath gown of white peridan, with appliqued lace flowers. It featured three-quarter length sleeves, scooped neckline, and a detachable train. Her chapel veil was held in place by a floral head-piece, and she carried a white Bible topped with a yellow-centered lei-mei.

Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Palmer, sister of the bride, and Miss Anne Harris. They wore identical floor-length gowns of blue moire and carried nosegays of white carnations.

Bernard McGowan brother of the groom, and Paul McGowan were best men. Reg Palmer and Riet Prair were ushers.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Jim Slavik.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Palmer wore a royal blue boucle suit with white accessories and corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother chose a gold suit with green accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

A reception for 30 guests was held in the Knox United church basement. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake beautifully decorated by Mr. Henry Kebbero of Viking. Neil Cameron was master of ceremonies and also proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling the bride chose a three-piece pink suit with black accessories. The happy couple will make their home in Sedgewick.—Photo by Langbell Studio

Plows For India

The plows for India campaign that the Farmers' Union of Alberta is sponsoring is off to a good start. Two complete units have been donated to date by the Jr. F.U.A.

At the recent provincial F. U. A. Semmer Board Meeting, the board approved the formation of a "Plow for India Fund" and the machinery is presently being implemented to handle the money.

Ken Jerome, the Jr. FUA president at the time, made the fund a reality by donating enough for the first plow. Cecil Hoven of Edville, the newly elected Jr. president, reports that the Annual Junior Convention held last week at Gold Eye Camp, approved the donation of funds for the second plow and the harness.

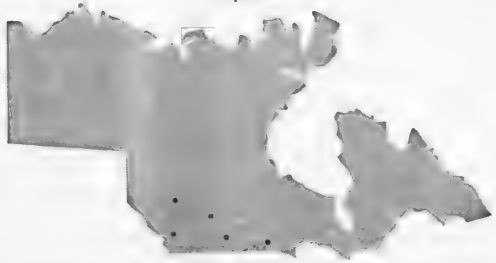
The steel mouldboard walking plow and leather harness are manufactured co-operatively in India, and cost about $35 each in Canadian money.

Paul Rebel, FUA president, while speaking of the fund, says that the project helps the people of India in two ways. It not only assists the farmers to work their land more efficiently with better equipment to produce more food, but also creates employment in the manufacturing of the plows.

Sedgewick 2-Day Ball Tourney July 23-24

Many years ago, part of Canada was missing.

This part.



When you look back, Canada has done a lot of filling in, hasn't it?

Take a look at the top map. 100 years ago, the wide open spaces were exactly that. East was east and west was west, and the twain weren't meeting.

In fact, the existence of Canada as a nation hung in the balance.

That's where we came in: Canadian Pacific.

Our people built a railway. Over plains and hills and rivers and through the mountains. Across a wild land people said could never be lived in at all.

When the last spike was driven in 1885, east and west were joined together. Today the nation thrives and grows. It looks forward to a bright future.

And today, Canadian Pacific people serve more Canadians in more ways than ever before.

You may think we sound proud of our past. We are. But we're excited about our future.

And yours.

Canadian Pacific

Serving you in so many ways.

SUGAR AND SPICE

THE SAILOR'S LOT

I was reading the other day an interview with a Canadian seaman. He was telling a reporter why he, and so many other sailors are not happy with their lot.

He mentioned a lot of things that seemed petty at first glance: the coarse sheets on the bunks; crowded quarters; not enough showers; cheap soap; scanty recreational facilities.

Not much of the spirit of Drake and Nelson and rounding Cape Horn there? Not much. But then the truth came out. These were only the minor irritants, the little concrete manifestations of a deeper discontent.

A sailor's pay is good, comparatively. Most boats feed their crews well. What really gets the sailor down are frustration, boredom, monotony and loneliness. They suffer from the modern maladies of the spirit that affects many segments of our society.

As I read the article, I couldn't help comparing the sailor's job today with that of the 1830's, when I spent a spell on the Great Lakes.

Today he works a 40-hour week, has a basic pay of nearly $400 per month, and is protected by a tough union to those days he worked a 56-to 60 hour week picked up a handsome cheque for $40 at the end of the month, and could be fired if he even looked unhappy.

And perhaps that's why, if monotony worries the sailor of those days was a pretty happy character. He did a lot of grousing, as sailors have done ever Ulysses and his crew left Troy, but he also did a lot of bursting around and took life very cheerfully.

Not many were married in those days They couldn't afford it. They would blow their $40 on beer and girls and poker in a couple of days, and then it was penny-ante and practical jokes and "makings" for the rest of the month.

Today's sailor is a much glummer individual. He's more likely to be married and have children. He has a mortgage and insurance and income tax and dental bills like all the other workers in society.

Theoretically, he's 10 times better off than the deck-hand of the 30's. He works a whole lot less and makes a great deal more. He is better fed and quartered. He can watch television. He has 10 months away from the old battleaxe and the kids, two months holiday in the winter, during which he is paid unemployment insurance.

What's wrong then? Why is he griping ,threatening to strike every so often, wishing he had a share pub? It's simple enough. Sailing is deadly dull. For officers and engineers, it's lively enough. They have delicate machinery, decisions, responsibility, special skills.

But the deck-hand is the Poor Bloody Infantry of the inland seas. His work is often dirty, nearly always monotonous, occasionally dangerous, but hardly ever heroic.

There's no going aloft to reef the mainsail in the teeth of a gale. He's more likely chipping paint. There's no landing at exotic foreign ports, luring a richdan and bending for the high spots. He's more likely picking his way across the railway tracks in a dirty dock area, heading for a beer parlour.

He spends most of his waking hours with a crowd just as browned off as he. And they curse and play poker and grouse and watch television crud and brag about the big shore job they could have had. Not much for the soul there.

And he's lonely. Lonely for his family. And maybe he's guilty, knowing it's not a square deal for the wife, bringing up the kids alone.

And he misses the land. The shady streets of the small town, or the best and excitement of the city. The green of trees and grass, and the glimmer of brown young limbs on beaches. The smell of lilacs in June, and burning leaves in October.

There's a little of this in the life of the inland sailor. It's clean and fresh out on the lakes. But one Great Lake looks much like the other, one canal like the last one, and every grimy dock area exactly like the one you've just come from.

Don't knock the sailor. He has his ghosts, just like you and I.

GREEN ACRES

FACE FLIES!

In 1953 a new pest of cattle was found to have arrived in North America. This pest called Musca Autumnalis. the Face Fly, appeared first in Nova Scotia and has since spread southward into the southern States and westward to the West Coast. In Canada, westward progression was somewhat slower. It spread over the Maritimes, Quebec and Ontario very quickly and was causing concern in these areas before 1958.

The first positive identification of face flies in the Prairie Provinces, was made in 1964 when specimens from Circles, Man. were received at Lethbridge. By 1965 this pest could be found in all central and southern areas of that province and was moving rapidly westward in Saskatchewan. Face Flies will probably be in Alberta this year.

Concern over the face fly arises from its habits. The adult flies cluster around the eyes and muzzles of cattle where they feed on the secretions from these areas. These feeding habits suggest that the face fly has a role in the transmission of diseases of cattle such as pink eye and infectious abortion, and are the primary reason for concern over the arrival of the insect.

Control of face flies has been difficult and at present no completely satisfactory method exists. However a program of studies now being set up at the Lethbridge Research Station to coincide with the arrival of these pests will greatly increase the knowledge of the biology of the fare fly and should hasten the development of methods of positive control.

THE Homemaker

By Miss Irene Eby, Your Homemaker

BEWARE!
The Better Business Bureau advises that no amount of Provincial or Federal legislation will ever protect a person from his own stupidity. If he wishes to waste his fortune he will find a way to do so & there will always be people around who will help relieve him of it. One way to deal with a total stranger, who makes fantastic claims and promises about his products and services, who rushes the prospective customer into closing a deal and refuses to allow him time to investigate — before signing or paying.

There are several fields of endeavour presently being invaded by the mode shoe boys. For example, that of steel buildings for farm use. Others are endeavoring to sell water systems, water softeners, chemical weed killing, roofing repairs, trenching, oils and lubricants, fence posts and preservations, etc. Victims of these unscrupulous salesmen have lost varying amounts of money, or have not received the goods or the services expected. These losses may be small compared to the financial loss which may be incurred if a farm building is purchased from a fast buck promoter.

Many people may be thinking of the erection of additional storage space or making renovations on the farms, however don't do anything definite about their ideas until a salesman arrives to do the persuading which formulates a plan for action. If rushed into a contract the results may be disastrous.

Farmers must adopt a positive attitude toward business by dealing with salesmen and firms who have earned a reputation for fair dealing, who are known personally and welcome thorough investigation before attempting to close a deal.

Remember the good ol' days — when charity was a virtue, not an industry.

Daysland Council

DAYSLAND—A regular Council meeting was held on July 4th with all members of the Council present and Mayor presiding.

Mr. John Polehoyke, school trustee for the Killam School Division enquired if the Town would consider erecting or selling lots 23-26, Block 7, Plan LV to the Killam School Division as they needed more playgrounds. Council advised Mr. Polehoyke they would talk it over when all members were present and advise him of their decision.

Mr. Bruce Palmer of Palmer Engineering Company gave a report of developements so far in regards to natural gas for Daysland. He thought the Local Authorities Board would pass the By Law at a stand by well could be drilled that would prove sufficient gas in that field. Another alternative was to purchase gas from the Killam field Mr. Palmer offered to investigate this possibility.

It was moved that $1,350.00 be transfered from the General Account to the Treasury Branch to the Community Hall account to pay W. J. Bennett Contractors' final payment.

Correspondence:

Statement from Garden Seeds of Turner Valley re sale contract on Water Plant and tower bean was ordered to be returned to him with request to deal with Steven Translating.

Letter from B.A. Oil re-Purity 80 Oil business tax stating they were out of business. Council requested this be returned to them stating this establishment was still being used for business purposes

Tender of application to purchase Lots 24 and 25, Block 7, Plan LV was tabled to next meeting.

Council instructed the Secretary to write Municipal Engineering Services Ltd. advising them that Sieves Trenching and Excavating Co. Ltd. had not met all their requirements as of July 5th, 1966.

Hardisty Hi-Lites

Mrs. B. Morehen (nee Bertha Turner) & her sister-in-law, Mrs. I. Reeve both of Toronto, were renewing old acquaintances in the Hardisty district, at which time they visited an old friend, Mrs. Doris Walker who is a patient in PBA Hospital, before journeying on to Edmonton.

Mrs. F. M. Canton entertained at a most delightful tea on Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. M. L. Wilson on her 83rd Birthday. Mrs. Vanderwark had baked a delicious Banana Chiffon Cake for the occasion. Mrs. Redman presented a gift from the ladies with wishes for many more Happy Birthdays, and hoped that we would all be able to help her celebrate her Birthday again next year.

Diane Thompson attended 4-H Young People's Week at Vermilion School of Agriculture during the past week, having won the trip for her work on the Hardisty 4-H sewing club.

Laurie Brisebois of Drayton Valley has been visiting with her aunt, Mrs. Ethel Thompson, and Elissa. Elissa returned to Drayton Valley with her cousin.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lehr, a daughter, July 1st in Wainwright Hospital. Congratulations.

Mrs. Brenda Lukens and Mrs. Kitty Wells journeyed to Vancouver to attend the funeral of their sister Mary, Mrs. J. Willett. The former Mary Kitchen grew up in Hardisty and will be remembered by many. The sympathy of all is extended to the family.

Rev. Glen and Mrs. Stewart from Russel, Man. visited his cousin Mrs. Isabel Nelson for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Quinlan motored to Red Willow on Friday, July 8th, to attend the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mel Tunnah.

On July 3, a farewell party was held at the Bluegrade Hall for Mr. and Mrs. Emil Jensen, Heather and Brian, who have left to make their home at Kelowna, B.C. The afternoon was spent with card games and horse-shoe. Mrs. Mary Goodrich showed films of her trip to Scotland and Ireland. Henry Hays and Raymond Gathercole played a few items on their guitars. During the picnic lunch hour, Ken Drever presented Shirley and Emil with a pair of money and wished them good luck in their new home, and Mrs. Walter Dunsford every one for a lovely afternoon. The family will be greatly missed in the community.

A guest of Mrs. Margaret Patterson is her sister, Mrs. Gertie Glendenning of Ramsdale, B.C.

The community was saddened to hear of the death in Edmonton last week of one of Hardistys pioneer residents, Mrs. Mary (Molly) Johnstone, widow of the late Allan Johnstone, at the age of 67. Coming to Hardisty as a dressmaker in 1928, she married Mr. Johnstone in 1811. One of Hardisty's most prominent citizens, mayor for many years. Mr. Johnstone passed away 5 years ago, and soon after his widow moved to Edmonton. Funeral services, followed by cremation were held in Edmonton on Friday, July 15.

Mrs. Addie Lawson is a patient in St. Anne's Hospital.

Mrs. Bob Zimmer of Prince Rupert, B.C. has been visiting her daughter and family, the Harold Alderdyce's.

Ben Rempel, Barney Matthews and Albert Terry took in the golf tournament on Sunday, July 10th, each bringing home a prize in his respective flight.

The sympathy of all is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, Johnson and son of the Cecil Hotel on the tragic death of their son Ronald, 22, in a fire at Buck Lake, last week.

COMMAND PERFORMANCE

a new kind of tractor demonstration

Right now, task force teams of Massey-Ferguson Demonstrators are on the move all over the country. One of these teams is headed this way to stage a Command Performance Demonstration especially for the farmers in this area.

Among the surprises in store for you is a demonstration of a 90 hp tractor working one of the biggest pull-type implements to be found, and without a single wheel weight on the tractor rear wheels! See that (and lots more) for yourself. Try it for yourself after the Demonstration— you'll never want to heft another rear wheel weight again!

There will be valuable door prizes given away, plenty of refreshments and lots of fun.

Don't miss your Massey-Ferguson Command Performance Demonstration!

FIRST KILLAM CUB PACK HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

KILLAM—The annual meeting of the First Killam Cub Pack was held in the library of the public school with 18 interested people present. Meeting was called to order by chairman Vern Niehaus.

The election of officers was held and the slate for the coming year is as follows Chairman, Vern Niehaus; Sec., Edgar Friesen; Treas., Mrs Reuben Link; Pla., Com., Bob McTavish; Training Com., Mrs. Stan Cryssenel Maurice Harri; Pawnee will be Scout Master. Don Spiller will be replacing Al Falkingham as Cub Master. It is hoped the Ladies Auxiliary could be formed in the fall.

Regular monthly meetings are held the last Tuesday of the month. The next meeting will be on August 30th in the Elks hall.

A Cub Camparee was held June 18th and 19th at the United Church Camp at Hardisty with 43 boys from Killam, Sedgewick and Forestburg attending. Allen Falkingham was Camp Akela, and leaders and parents assisted in looking after the boys Meals were supplied by Sedgewick mothers and groups from Killam and Forestburg served. The boys slept in tents and took part in hikes, games, etc., with a huge bonfire during the Saturday evening. The boys all attended church services on Sunday morning.

The boys all enjoyed the camp and are looking forward to next year. It is hoped the Strome boys will have a Pack formed for next year and will be able to participate.

The District Commissioner, Loons Fur, was present.

HARDISTY NEWS

A head-on collision on the Cornfield road South of town Monday evening sent three Hardisty young folks to Hospital. Alfreida Wells suffered a badly broken ankle, Joanna Gilbertson had severe bruises and shock, while Lorne Hobson had lacerations of the head. The driver of the car in which they were passengers, Lyle Goodrich, was unhurt, as were the occupants of the second car, construction workers whose identity this reporter didn't learn.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Manning and girls, Mrs. Ed. Manning and Allan Manning spent a few days at the Lyle Brausse home at Okotoks. They also attended the Calgary Stampede and visited Heritage Park in Calgary, where Dr. Murray's dental equipment is on display. Allan is remaining with his cousin Larry and taking swimming lessons at High River. Mrs. Ed. and Marie Manning attended the United Church Camp last week. Vicki Dever and Colleen Anderson also attended.

Wanda Wilder and Ron Anderson of Red Deer spent the week-end at the Don Wilders.

A large number of children are once again taking advantage of the Red Cross water safety instruction, at the lake. The Elks, who sponsor this each year, have also had a fine new teaching pier built. The instructors this season are Geri Timmins and Phyllis Manning.

Large and Colorful Parade "Kicks Off" Killam Sports Day

KILLAM— With an estimated crowd of some 1400, the annual Killam Sports Day on July 18th, got off to a flying start, considering the best parade in many years. Stretching for several blocks, the parade entries presented a colorful and artistic array of floats, cars, bicycles, horses and novelties.

The sports got under way at the Killam Centennial Park early in the afternoon with baseball, softball, chuck wagon races, Gymkhana events and pony races. The various events this year were centred in the large crowds from the new precast concrete grandstand which has a seating capacity of 600. This new grandstand presents a fine addition to the Centennial Park which is shaping up to rank with the best in the area.

Fine weather prevailed during the day and the committees in charge kept things moving on time, to avoid the many visiting fans with the opinion of a day well spent.

The winners in the various events are listed below:

Baseball

The Sedgewick Oilers and Strome lined up for the first game of the top. Due to the five-team entry, the Custer team won the bye on the first round.

The Killam Braves eliminated the Lougheed Wildcats in the second game, to enter the finals in the evening encounter.

Camrose was over Sedgewick in the semi-final game of the afternoon.

In the final game the Killam Braves defeated Custer to win the main prize money.

Ladies Finals

With only three teams entered, Lougheed Rockettes defeated Forestburg and these went on to eliminate Killam in the second game.

Parade Winners

Floats: Sedgewick Legion ; Killam Hospital; Camrose C.C. Commercial: Strome Co-op; Killam Co-op; Killam Feed Mill. Decorated Vehicles: Marge's Beauty Salon; Beaver Lumber. James Reel Fashion.

Horse Races

Mile Open: Mel Belenke, C Burke and John Kemp. Half Mile: Wade Meyer, E. Burke and Doug Mosier. Quarter Mile: Doug Mosier, Clem Perreault and Lloyd Morken. Pony Race: Glen Fuller, Lloyd Morken and Gordon Fuller. Shetland Pony: John Wrong, J. Lawes and Larry Wiseman.

Fitness Events

Exhibition times during the day involving four wagons and 23 chariots

Gymkhana Events

OIL WORKER INJURED

SEDGEWICK— Stuart Casuran, oil field worker suffered painful burns to his face and arms on July 21st, in an oil field accident at the Rahnli Farm.

Mr. Cameron was checking an crude oil tester, when it "flashed back" causing the injuries.

The injured man was taken to the hospital at Hardisty, where at last reports he was recovering satisfactorily.

Survey Favors Keeping M. D. Medical Scheme

The regular meeting of the Municipal Council of Flagstaff was held in the board room on July 13th, with all council members and the Sec-Treas. in attendance Minutes and financial statement were presented and approved.

After the opening, the council adjourned to meet as the Flagstaff Farm Purchase Board to hear the application by Mr. Ed Hamilton et al Alliance to purchase the North Half of 5 and the N.E. of 3-40-12, containing 480 acres. The application was accepted.

The brief prepared by the Alberta Assn of M D's for submission to the provincial advisory committee hearings was commented, and tabled from the previous meeting, was again considered, along with a letter from Harries and Associates Ltd. Indications were that revisions had been made in the pasture schedule and that it was now necessary to change the assessment on some 300 to 500 parcels of pasture land which would be made prior to July 31st. A comparison of the new assessment figures with the present assessments prepared by the M.D office, and a statement of the mill rates applicable if the new assessment had been in force, were considered by the council.

Cr. Fordice reported on the prices for renovating the doctor's residence in Galahad would be $1500 of which the doctors would pay half. On this matter Mr. Fordice was authorized to have the work done.

The committee on the purchase of a truck from Buchuk Motors reported the vehicle in good shape, and that the purchase had been made Their action was approved.

The secretary reported that the final returns of the medical survey sent out on April indicated that of the 1580 letters sent out, 738 had been returned, and of these 26 had indicated more that one choice. 39 had not been signed. 561 indicated they wanted council to retain the present scheme. 88 wished to increase the coverage with an increase in the mill rate, and 60 requested the repeal of the by-law covering the present medical scheme The results were filed for the annual meeting.

Letter from the Forestburg Consolidated School District was read the council that it was concerned about the Mobile Equipment Licensing Act, and that unless the Board received some consideration they would be forced to take action to have such fees paid by Forestburg Collieries deducted and paid to the School District, before the supplementary requirements were taken levy. Secretary was instructed to inform the School District that according to information the Mobile Equipment License fees belonged to the whole of the M D and if the School District was entitled to receive a share, so was the Separate School District and the Village of Forestburg.

The Shop Foreman met with council for guidance to respect to the grader blades to be ordered for the motor graders. It was agreed that another order of the new type blade should be made to meet the requirements for the season.

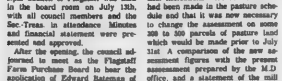
Approval was granted for Francis Harris to attend his third year apprenticeship course in motor mechanics at Edmonton Vocational.

A request from Horse Ou to cross a road allowance in Township 42, Range 10 with a water line was considered This is to be investigated and if satisfactory to allow same.

A letter from Bonnie Brae Council advised that the department was prepared to construct a new culvert structure at N.W. 17-43-13 if the M D would place deckings and railings. The cost was agreed to, but the bridge is to be in the present location. Notices were also received that Warren Gravel Ltd. was to lay 15-6-13 W. 23-44-12 had been completed and transferred to control of the M D. by some 200 Hundreds and more.

For travelling, the bride chose a 2 piece navy linen suit with pink accessories and corsage of roses. After a honeymoon at Niagara Falls and Windsor where they visited Dahl's grandfather and other relatives they toured in U.S. and returned to make their home in Edmonton.

Open house at the Verus farm was held on July 3 for the young couple After a short program Mrs M. Redman presented Dahl and Carol with a gift of money and several gifts, with the best wishes of their many friends in the surrounding district A buffet style lunch was served afternoon and evening.



THEY'RE OFF AND RUNNING—The gates are open and the race horses have just gotten into motion, as this picture was snapped by our Community Press photographer. The horse race was a featured event at the Killam Sports, and the starting gates were used for the first time.

Local Artist Wins At Exhibition

SEDGEWICK— Mr. Ben Weber, local artist has again captured awards at the Edmonton Exhibition for his paintings. He won first in water coloring of Still Life, and second for his entry in landscapes.

This is the ninth consecutive year that Mr Weber has won awards for his entries at the Exhibition, and he has established an enviable reputation for the quality of his work.

Besides painting, Mr. Weber is an avid collector of curios and historical items, such as Indian Relics, etc. and has a private museum at his home where many visitors enjoy his collections of relics, pictures and paintings.

Cold, Windy Weather Cuts Attendance At Two-Day Baseball Tournament

two-day Sedgewick Baseball Tournament was held last Saturday and Sunday at the Sedgewick Recreation Centre with eight baseball teams competing.

Both days were plagued with cool temperatures and showers, which although they didn't stop the ball games, caused the quality of play to be below the usual standard in this tournament.

Camrose Cubs were the big winners in the final game against the Sedgewick Oilers on Sunday evening in a game that was played in a light drizzle and with a cool breeze blowing. The game was called after seven innings with the Cubs winning 16 to 5.

At 8:30 a.m. Saturday morning the first game of the tournament got under way with the Sedgewick Oilers playing an all-star team from Amisk-Hughenden - Kessler which was entered in the tournament at Kessler Oilers won 9 to 5.

Lougheed Wildcats met Strome at 12:00 noon in the second game of the day and came out on the long end of a 15 to 5 score to gain their entry to the semi-finals.

The 2:00 p.m. draw saw the Killam Braves and Viking Shamrocks play a 9 to 0 game in favor of the Shamrocks.

In the final game on Saturday at 6:00 p.m. the Camrose Cubs squashed past the Spring Lake Cardinals by a score of 7 to 2. Four of the Camrose runs came in the last inning of a hard-fought game.

On Sunday the first semi-final was between the Lougheed Wildcats and Sedgewick Oilers at 11:00 a.m. in a game that saw the local cheque bunch three times before the Oilers finally pulled ahead and won, 10 to 8.

The other game between the Viking Shamrocks in the other semi-final game which got underway at 2:00 p.m. This was a high scoring game with both teams having their moments and the Cubs hanging on to win 16 to 13.

Camrose Cubs won the tournament when they defeated the Sedgewick Oilers in the final game.

Mr. Ted Yates capably handled the Public Address System for the two days giving the play-by-play of the games and giving the crowd various bits of interesting news.

Umpires for the tournament were Don Cants and Bert Peyton, members of the Edmonton Baseball Umpires Association.

Attendance at the two days was down from former years due mainly to the poor weather, but the many people who attended witnessed some fine, but perhaps sporadic, baseball.

St. Paul's United Church, Edmonton was the scene on the afternoon of May 28th of the wedding of Carol Ann eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs. W Kreamer of Edmonton to Dahl Arden, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs J. Verus of Hardisty. The bride's uncle, Rev. Wm. MacDonald, Camrose Verus, wearing floor length gown of turquoise peau-de-soie with matching floral headdresses, carrying carnations in shades and turquoise and Lorraine Kreamer of the bride, was a dainty flower girl with frock and flowers to match. Ushers were Arnie and Lyle Kreamer and Gordon Verus.

The bride's mother chose a pink two-piece suit with navy accessories and corsage of red roses, while Mrs. Verus wore a rose lace two-piece dress with white accessories and corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception for 150 guests was held at the Highway Motor Hotel. The head table was centred with a beautiful 4-tier wedding cake in clover leaf design made by Mrs. L. Beston of Viking Mr Laurence Beston acted as M.C. Mr. Mervin Berry proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded. Mrs. Anne Verus and Mrs. Joyce Beston were in charge of the guest book. A dance in the evening with music by Clare Horton and his band was enjoyed by some 200 friends and relatives.

For travelling, the bride chose a 2 piece navy linen suit with pink accessories and corsage of roses. After a honeymoon at Niagara Falls and Windsor where they visited Dahl's grandfather and other relatives they toured in U.S. and returned to make their home in Edmonton.

Open house at the Verus farm was held on July 3 for the young couple After a short program Mrs M. Redman presented Dahl and Carol with a gift of money and several gifts, with the best wishes of their many friends in the surrounding district A buffet style lunch was served afternoon and evening.

Who Will Save Canada?

"Liberty is dying, bureaucracy is growing, and parliament is falling into disrepute". These are the charges presently being laid by the Congress of Concerned Canadians. This is apparently a new organization, and one of many springing up all over the world. This particular one is formed to give expression to the views of concerned Canadians, and its avowed aim is to bring about a reduction in the size and power of federal and provincial bureaucracies.

There is little doubt that the expansion of these powers has been to provide for administration of ever-increasing social and welfare measures which are going beyond the basic realistic requirements of this country. While we find it quite easy to agree with the basic principles of the Congress, it is rather difficult to stand with it in some of its means of accomplishment.

The aim of the Congress to oppose a strong central government, if brought to eventual fruition, could so demoralize the Canadian image as to bring about eventual collapse of any kind of stable administration. We are today quickly approaching an era of national revolution wherein the provinces are determined to operate their affairs independent of any form of federal control. The inevitable result can only be the ruination of nationhood.

Our problem is not one of too much centralized government, but in the fact that governments at all major levels are getting into businesses in which they have no business. Governments are born to govern not to compete with business carried on by its citizens.

When we get men in government who see clearly what their job is; what they should be doing and what they should not be doing. When we get men, especially leaders, with the courage to resist pressure and administer the affairs of our nation with courage and with the intestinal fortitude to stand up and oppose regardless of party affiliation then, and then only will this country achieve greatness.

At this point in the situation we can see no "Moses" to come forth and lead us to this promised destiny.

Farm Safety!

From time to time we have observed that our country is cluttered up with special days and weeks for the observance of any number of things. So cluttered in fact, that were it not for the reason that many of them are not applicable to our individual way of life, we would be under a constant strain to keep with them.

However there are some, and one in particular that is becoming locally important to those of us residing in an agricultural area. It is the matter of farm safety. The tragic loss of life through accidents on farms is mounting steadily. It has reached such proportions that the mere setting aside of a week in July to observe farm safety is just not good enough. It is now a situation that requires steadfast application through the entire year.

Canadian farmers have achieved more progress during the last three decades than in all our previous history. Thanks to that progress, a single farmer today can accomplish more work than was once performed by four. But the one aspect of farm life that has not improved is accident prevention which continues to cost the lives of hundreds of men, women and chilren, and crippling hundreds more. This unnecessary waste of human resources makes the rural accident problem one of national concern.

Startling as the surveys are, they show that in any average year over one-half of one per cent residents on the Prairies are victims of home and farmyard accidents. The trend toward mechanization is, of course, the major factor. Today the farmer must contend with more complicated machines more shafts, more gears and with ever-dangerous power take-offs. Sixty percent of farm accidents are caused by tractors, with children being involved in a great proportion of them. So it seems that rule one should be not to allow children to operate tractors. The prevention of these accidents is a challenge that the farmer and his family cannot ignore, and we appeal to all rural people to unite for safety and apply full effort and determination to the reduction of accidents, at work, in homes and on the highways. Not just for farm Safety Week, but throughout the year.

How Far Should We Go?

We believe that any security provided by the State should be made available only as a safeguard against adverse unavoidable circumstances, and not as a substitute for security achieved by individual effort and initiative.

If we are challenged to accept responsibility as our neighbor's keeper, our answer would be: If my brother is sick I will heal him; if he is ignorant I will teach him; if he is hungry I will feed him; If his rights are in danger I will protect him. But if he is lazy, he can get off my back. Socialism a fair amount of which is acceptable to all manner of men, is creeping in at such a rate that man is losing his initiative and succumbing to a feeling of satisfaction that his means of living lies in the hands of government.

We no longer believe that welfare, including pensions are a means of supplementing income, but not the entire means of our existence. How far should we go? We still believe that governments should do nothing for people that they are capable of doing for themselves. A bit old-fashioned perhaps but we still admire initiative and work. People who fight for a 34 and even 32 hr. week are really admitting that they are getting lazy. There is still an abundance of opportunity for the man willing to work at his vocation with vigor and determination. How far should we go in assisting the man who lacks this?

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.R.

This past winter when I was in Calgary attending a Provincial Association meeting the leader of the Alberta Progressive Conservative Party, Mr. Peter Lougheed, dropped in to say hello and chat with the various newspaper people who were there. He stayed over the noon lunch hour and I was sitting beside him while we ate. He was telling me an interesting story of where Lougheed and Hardisty got their names. Many people around here know that Lougheed was named after Peter Long, head's grandfather but the surprising thing was that Hardisty is named after his grandfather on his mother's side of the family. Over the years the family has obviously kept track of many of his things likely have happened in them two towns because Mr. Lougheed talked of them just as though he was a local citizen.

It's not a bad idea, when on vacation, to get around a bit and learn about your province and Canada as a whole. It's not very nice to be asked questions and not know the answers on things that should be familiar. I was driving through the mountains one time, stopped to ask the way to Coffee Hill School. A native said, "Well you go down here until you come to Hangin' Rock, and then — you know where that is doncha? "No I don't' said the man. "Well that's where you turn off and go on two miles until you get to Tumbin' Creek. You know where that is doncha!" "No. I don't." "I'm sorry sir" said the native. "I don't think you have enough far me to tell you anything".

The Letter Box

Dear Sir:

Seeing in last week's paper, the item about the thimble full of rain, I know that it has seemed kind of queer; the appearance of clouds, how they would gather and hover over for so long, and still no rain. But have we ever thought the Lord's Hand is ruling, and He is trying to get His people to see that He is over all, and we must not forget Him. We, His people seem to be getting as far away that He is left out altogether and we think we can run this old world ourselves.

It seems to me that we are nearing the time when the Lord will take His children home, and the world can run itself for a few more years, without Him. What a world it will be Why cannot we go back to the old way and trust Him more, and let us pray that others may do the same. For after all the world with the future be like without God's looming, ruling hand. —E. H. G.

PRAIRIE PROSPERITY HAS ITS PROBLEMS

Prairie wheat farmers expect to harvest another near-record 700 million bushel wheat crop this year. This, coupled with long-term wheat deals with Russian and China, means another fat year to the prosperous Prairies.

Farm machinery sales, for instance, are strong again. Cockshutt Farm Equipment of Canada's Winnipeg branch expects sales to the end of May were running 21% ahead of a year earlier. Versatile Manufacturing Ltd., Winnipeg farm equipment maker, predicts 1966 sales of $15 million, up from $11.4 million last year.

But the Prairie prosperity has its problems. There has been a worrying increase in farm land prices in the past four years. Saskatchewan farm land has increased an average of 19% a year and further escalation is seen this year. A farm near Regina sold for $85 an acre 10 years ago, recently was resold at $135 an acre.

Prairie bankers are concerned that a poor crop cycle would find many farmers with their credit badly overextended. —St. Paul Journal

AND I THOUGHT YOU CHECKED THE VACATION SCHEDULE ...

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Tempestuous 27th

OTTAWA—A most controversial end at the cause time a most productive session of Parliament has adjourned for the summer months. It had a hard time ending down as weary members wrangled over who agreed to what in the inclination of the longshoremen's strike. But finally the opposition called it quits and the Government with a sigh of relief declared that Parliament had adjourned in record time on Wednesday, October 5.

Before the worn M.P.'s packed it up they had passed a record of 43 bills in 41 days devoted to legislation. They sat for a total of 117 days. The House opened on January 18 and adjourned on July 14. It was a session of stark contrasts. There were days when spror marched the proceedings and Mr. Speaker Lucien Lacoreuse had difficulty maintaining order with angry words being hurled back across the floor.

But as the tempestuous 27th Parliament made headlines with the Spencer spy case and the Munsinger sex and security case it began to get through to the members that the country was being done a great deal of damage by being dragged in the dirt. A new sense of responsibility appeared to take hold and the M.P.'s settled down to do some hard, constructive work. When they finally knocked off for the summer months they had achieved a good record of legislation passed and committee work completed.

Major items of business dealt with by Parliament were:

(1) Redistribution completed by independent non-partisan committees. In the past the re-organization of constituencies boundaries was done by Parliament itself and led to charges of "gerrymandering".

(2) Canada Assistance Plan, a comprehensive program to assist the poor and deprived who are in need in co-operation with the provincial governments

(3) Formation of the $500 million health resources fund to provide the necessary trained personnel to make medicare work

(4) Re-organization of the mining arm of the Federal Government.

(5) Establishment of the Canada-United States automobile agreement was debated.

(6) Income Tax act amendments were enacted — one of the last bills passed by Parliament before the House rose for the summer.

(8) Collective bargaining for the Civil Service has been launched in Parliament and is now under study before a committee.

(9) The Science Council of Canada was established.

(10) Bank Act amendments and the Medicare bill were both received first reading. Second reading of the bills was postponed until the Fall.

But with Parliament closed down for the summer this doesn't mean that Canadians will have a holiday from politics. During the recess about mid-August the report by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence on the Gerda Munsinger case and security matter will be made public. That will stir up a storm that is expected to be picked up when the House reconvenes in the Fall. A public debate may develop particularly if the Spence report is highly critical of former Prime Minister Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker.

Also expected early in the summer is the report of the Mr. Justice Dalton Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court into the alleged spying activities of former Vancouver postal clerk Georgy Victor Spence. The postal clerk died while the inquiry was in progress. The Government will also receive the results of an inquiry into the working conditions in post offices. It is also scheduled to receive the report by former Supreme Court Justice Roland Ritchie on dealings of Mr. Justice Leo Landreville of the Ontario Supreme Court with Atlantic Acceptance Natural Gas Limited.

One of the most important reports to be received by Canadian Governments in recent years will be the Royal Commission Report on Taxation. It will be submitted to the Government probably in September and made public just before the session reconvenes.

The Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism expects to be in a position to file its first report in November. The will be followed by several volumes.

As the Parliament drew to a close for the summer Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp gave evidence before the Senate Banking and Commerce Committee. He admitted that measures he had put in his budget at the end of March to restrain investment in construction this year had not resulted to do the job He said that pressures on the economy are even stronger than he had anticipated last March. The intended checks on expansion may not be sufficient to modify construction expenditures, he said.

The Minister said that analysts showed construction to be most responsible for the inflationary pressures He said that additional information had been received by the Government since the budget was introduced, indicating that construction was the main culprit in the spand-up of the inflationary cycle.

In the House rose Health and Welfare Minister Allan Mac-Eachen promised that once the Canada pension plan has been put in place a measure would be placed before Parliament to provide a guaranteed minimum income of $75 a month for all pensioners who did not benefit under the Canada Pension Plan. The Government decided to act to assist the pensioners when Prime Minister Lester Pearson found that organized labour was able to use its muscle to force increases in wages to keep up with inflation, but the pensioner was caught in the squeeze and had to depend on the Government to provide additional aid.

Blaine, Washington
Scene of Strome Party

STROME—Of interest to Strome will be the picnic held at the Peace Arch, Blaine, Washington, on July 3rd, for former Strome residents now living at the Coast. A pouring rain did nothing to dispel enthusiasm. for people began gathering shortly after nine o'clock, assembling themselves in a huge picnic shelter, where a great stone fireplace was soon not to blazing. Several parties had planned, and other addresses, made it a point to be there to find old friends, and what a day it was for looking at canoe cards, and then the hand shaking, back-slapping, reminiscing, and laughing! Old families represented were:

Mahler — Vic and Mary, Burnaby B.C.

Larsen — Francis and Annette. Van, Gordon and family Van, Irvin and Margaret Seattle; Clarence and Hilda Seattle.

Clark—Arabelle and Kay (Hitchcarbon) and Jim Richmond; Elsie and Ed (Twyjanth and family Surrey; Alice and Jack Surrey, Pearl Kalla; Keith and Hazel Rogers, Port Kells; Bob and two sons, Terrace.

Fizlar—Edwin and La Nora, two daughters and families, including Hannah and Mrs. Fizlar.

Cranston—N.S. Cranston, Edmonton; George and Belle (Somers) Daysland; Florence and Archie Hobbiad, Edmonton.

Swap—George, Scottie.

Stevenson—Mary Thorsland and family, Seattle; Joan and Wally Wright. Jimmy, Van.; Mrs. Mina Scott, Sedgewick.

Peterson— Pete and Cleo (Pointer) Van.; Edward and Joyce and girls, Coquitlam; Lois and Lloyd and family, Van.; Margaret (Mrs. Herman), Van.; Rose and Frank Doran Victoria, and Keith; Louise Pearce California; Anna Knudsen, Richmond.

Canavan—Stan, Van.; Hilda, Van.

McDougall—Ken and Oslo (Richardson) and Fred Barrhead; Margaret, Killam; Larry and Carole, Surrey; Elsie Carruthers and Marion Edmonton; Leona Zimmel, Wetaskiwin.

Pointer — Dan and Gertrude (Woohen), Tofield.

Hawkins— Jim and Helen, and Dovey, Tulsa, Okla.

Gold—Harry, Van.

Golding—Cecil and Lil, Nanaimo.

Olson—Meldrum and Ruth and family, Van.; Ronald and Ethel, Richmond; Stan and Vera, Surrey.

Pearson—Ragnar, New Westminster.

Pashley—Isabelle and David Sumas; Monica (probably Peterson).

Jessie Swap and Fred Bahiger were unable to attend because of illness, but sent their regards. All of the above sailed about all of you back home, and wish to be remembered.

Credit for this hugely successful gathering goes to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Clark, who instigated the idea, and carried out all the preparations, and opened their home in Richmond for the entire weekend to various parties from the principles. Mr. and Mrs. Pete Peterson also entertained former Stromites over the weekend.

The whole affair was marvellous —you should have been there!

Strome Socials

Mr. and Mrs Cecil Ahlstrom and family in Edmonton spent last week end with Mrs. A. McDougall. Mr. and Mrs. Ken McDougall, Peggie and Freddie were also dinner guests on Saturday.

Mrs. James Thorburn visited the Colin Thorburns at Gainford for 2 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hawkins and Laurel visited their daughter Lorraille and family at Hinton for a two days.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lorenson drove Janice Gordon to Myette Hot Springs where she has employment for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith McDougall and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Thorburn last Sunday.

Mrs. Gord Watson spent the past week with her son and family the Eddie Watkins at Hardisty. Bill was a patient in Killam Hospital the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mackmenz and family of Pt. John B.C. accompanied by her aunt from Hythe visited Mrs. Dunnount last Saturday. They were enroute home, having attended the Golden Anniversary of Mrs. Mackmenz parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wiesbeck at Prentiss Sask.

Darlene Nickerson spent the past week at the Alvin Gordon home helping to entertain the exchange student in the absence of Janice. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon left Monday and Darlene spent two days at Myette Hot Springs and also visited Jasper.

Mr. Vic Mahler from B.C. is a Strome visitor for awhile.

Some of our Senior citizens were asked on Friday if they could remember way back when a family by the name of Rose lived in Strome. The father's name was Arthur, he had two sons Jim and Bill, and one daughter Kay. The grandmother (Arthur's Mother) run a laundry here at the time, and Arthur was a Justice of the Peace.

Mr. and Mrs Bill Rose from Cranbrook were in Strome on Friday searching for someone who could remember the family. The above information was all he could give as his parents have passed away. Mr. Rose says it must have been around the year of 1918 — 1919. as he was only two years old at the time, and his father served in the armed forces during World War One.

Mr. Hayne, Mr. Curtis and Mr. T. Heller represented the family, and Ida Morgan recalled going to school with the sister Kay, of the family living in what is now called the Hancock house. Mrs. Jane Hayes verified this information, as she could also remember the family, and also a black dog they had at the time. If anyone Else can remember and furnish Mr. Rose with more information about his family, you can contact him at 217 Florence Ave. Willowdale Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lazenby and family of Edmonton visited relatives here on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Sprague and family spent Sunday on holiday the past week. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Downey at Turner Valley.

Norman and Bob Armstrong of Edmonton were recent Strome visitors.

BLOWING THEIR OWN HORN. An old tradition dies slowly. Alpine herdsmen in Switzerland gather for an annual Yodelling Festival to blow the alphorn. Fewer and fewer recruits can be found today to go through the paces of learning this gruelling "lung-art." So, if you want to "blow your own horn," you'll be welcome in Switzerland.

all as S.W. 8-45-16. They required a letter of consent from the M.D. for presentation to the Local Authorities Board. Approval was given by the Council for the purchases.

Memorandum of Agreement with the Dept. of Ag. and the M.D. covering the Ag. Services Board to March 1967 were approved for signing.

A summary of the fire loss in the M.D. to April 30th was received from the office of the Fire Commissioner, and ordered filed.

Preliminary plans by Farm Electric Services for extensions to serve members of the Hampton REAL were approved as to those lines marked on the plans in red only, and within the M.D. boundaries.

The Town of Sedgewick in a letter, advised that they wished to annex certain areas bordering the Town, and presented a map showing the areas involved. North, South and West of their present boundaries. Council felt that the area involved was too large and the request was not approved.

A petrol fill for 2 acre plot in S.W. 3-45-13 required for a dwelling and motor grader shed and surveyed, was examined, and the plan was approved for registration.

Information and maps were removed on the study in connection with the Rural Road Study, and reviewed by Council. Copies are to be sent to each councillor for study prior to the next meeting.

A letter from Communal Property Board together with a copy of permit authorizing the Hutterian Brethren of South Bend to purchase 185.61 acres, being the north half of section 1-39-12 lying north and west of the left bank of the Battle River. was read and filed.

An application to transfer part of the N.W. 13-40-13 was received from Prov Planning Director, and approved. Approval was also given to subdivide and transfer 10 acres in the N.E. 4-4-13 lying east of the new highway 36.

By-law 263 authorizing purchase of land for a road allowance around the south end of Brown's Lake and along south side of 16-46-14 for the sum of $1.00 was presented and given three readings.

By-law 261 authorizing purchase of a used truck from Bycich Motors for $1700 was presented and given three readings.

By-law 262 authorizing erection of a motor grader shed by Parkland Lumber Ltd. on the parcel owned by the M.D on S.W. 34-40-11 was presented and given three readings.

By-law 265 authorizing purchase of 2 acres in S.W. 3-45-12 for the sum of $400 for erection thereon of a motor grader shed and any other buildings deemed necessary, was presented and given three readings.

By-law 264 authorizing erection of a dwelling for use of motor grader operator or other M.D. employees, and a motor grader shed on S.W. 34-45-12 by Parkland Lumber Ltd., was presented and given three readings.

Authorization was given for the Agricultural Fieldmen of the Flagstaff Service Board to undertake a visual survey of crops in the M.D., and that application be made to the P.F.A. Board for the 1966 crop year based on the estimated crop yields obtained by the Fieldman in his survey.

Before the meeting adjourned, Reeve Mantyka informed the Council that at the next meeting he would move that a plebiscite on the County form of government be held in the Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 62.

The meeting adjourned at 12:30 a.m. to meet again on Wednesday, August 10th at 10.00 a.m.

WEDDING BELLS

SEDGEWICK—Sedgewick United Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding on July 2nd 1966 when Patricia Jean daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson became the bride of Gary McClements son of Mr. and Mrs. James McClements of Lougheed. Rev. Don Lewis officiated at the Double ring ceremony.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was radiant in a floor length gown of white dotted satin. Designed with fitted bodice and featuring wedding bell sleeves. The full bouffant skirt terminated in a chapel in double rows of lace venetian bodice lace. The floor length lace edged veil of illusion silk net hung in graceful folds from a floral headpiece, over her shoulders. Her bouquet of white lace edged train. She carried a bouquet of red Roses with rose bud streamers. Her only jewelry was a blue & cultured Pearl necklace gift of the groom.

The bride's sister Mrs. Lloyd Cuthbert as Matron of Honor, Sister Shelley Mae, and cousin Gayle Swanson as brides maids, were identically attired in sheath styled afternoon dresses of sculptured brocade in a soft mauve shade Their hand pieces were full blown mauve roses. White slippers, and elbow length gloves completed their ensembles. Their jewelry was identical silver pendants gift from the bride. They carried identical nosegays of yellow and white Baby Gladiolus.

Darrel and Douglas McClements brothers of the groom and Robert Metzger, as groomsmen supported the groom. Jim Armitage brother of the bride and Zane Parsons uncle of the groom acted as ushers.

The beautiful wedding music was ably provided by Mrs. Martin Bognanock at the Organ. For the daughter's wedding Mrs. Armitage chose a "Whipped Cream Crepe" in shades of soft blues and greens featured in sheath style. Her pink hat and gloves completed her ensemble. Her Flowers were a Red Rose Corsage.

The mother of the groom chose a pink and white lace linen ensemble. Her corsage was of Red Roses. The bride and groom greeted guests sat down to a beautiful wedding Reception served by the United Church Ladies in the memorial Hall at Sedgewick. The brides table was centred by a four tiered Wedding Cake which had been decorated by the groom's grandmother Mrs. Bert Parsons.

Mr. G. I. Johnson acted as toastmaster of ceremonies, and also proposed the toast to the Bride and which was suitably responded to by the groom. The guest book at the reception was in charge of Mrs. Vera Grieve.

Open house was held at the home of the Bride's parents. A throng of friends and well wishers of the bride and groom attended. Mrs. Isabelle Fowler and Mrs. Jean Armitage were in charge of the guest book. In the evening a wedding dance was held in the Sedgewick Community Hall.

For her going away outfit the Bride chose a pink and black ensemble complete with white accessories After a honey moon in the mountains the happy couple will be at home to their friends on their farm North-east of Viking.

Rev. Nothercutt, of Strandburg, South Dakota, was our guest speaker at the services on July 17. He was accompanied by his wife and family, and special music was supplied by their twin daughters.

Rev. Spile, of Wetaskiwin, was in charge of the services on July 24. His ministry has been appreciated here.

The camp meetings at Red Deer Lake Camp ground, and Christ Camp over and the boys are now enjoying their week at camp.

A special business meeting was held on Friday night at which time it was decided to advertise the parsonage for sale and also the lot north of the church.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

We noted that next Sunday's lesson is "Remember the Lord's Day". In a recent cartoon, "Church Chuckles" by Charles Cartwright, a minister is speaking to a meager congregation scattered amid empty pews. "It saddens me," he says, "to see the empty pews of our dear departed — departed to lake, departed to the golf course, departed to the swimming pool—!"

Kim was a big help though. She sat there tossing, "What a lazy

ALL AGONY, NO ECSTASY

My wife keeps asking me why my hands shake. It would not be polite to respond, "Baby, living with you would make anyone's hands shake."

So I blame it on the war. Some fellows have burned faces, aluminum legs, sleeves pinned up, glass eye. Some have gruesome scars, wounds on abdomenan or buttocks, which they will happily show you at the Saturday night party. My hands shake.

She doesn't believe the war bit anymore, so I blame it on bones, the tensions of teaching, or the pills I take for my bursitis.

But the real reason is that living with her would make anybody's hands shake.

What brings this to mind is that I've just gone through about 6 hours of domestic purgatory. Cowardly husbands go quietly off to mental institutions or have heart attacks. My hands shake.

The occasion was the reception of our son's marks at the end of first year university and about $1,700. Plus tax.

When the paper arrived with the first-year results, I threw it on the table, ran to the bathroom, locked myself in, and started flushing the toilet at twelve-second intervals.

As I suspected, it was futile. The alternative echo of grief and shrieks of rage penetrated my refuge. I had to come out and be a father.

I knew you won't believe it, but that kid's name was not at the first-class honors list. Nor the second-class honors list. Nor the third. (He had told me, just before leaving for the west coast job, to start looking for his name from the bottom of the page up.) At least it was there.

I tried to console the Old Lady with stuff like, "Some wasn't built in a day, you know," and "You can't grow roses without thorns, you know," and "What the hell, we'll all be dead in fifty years, you know" and similar bits of homespun comfort. It was as useless as trying to hum Flow Gently, Sweet Afton with a Beatles, record going full horn.

Then I got teasing, "What a lazy bum! How could he be so stupid!", and other bits of oil on the fire.

Frankly, I was relieved that he'd passed. My wife was infuriated alternatively with the Lord, who had not created a miracle to pass his professors, who had barely allowed the kid to pass, and the kid, who had allowed a year to pass so though he'd been on another planet.

She also couldn't keep from sobbing and uttering maledictions. We had arranged to go on a picnic with another family and their four little kids.

So we went. And the results proved to me once again that stupid old platitude that "the goes on." It was a wonderful condition: me and Janet, their baby eating cigar sandwich; their trite boys burning themselves as they roasted marshmallows; and my peculiarly potent potion of Gordon's lemonade (sic) mixed.

Under this prescription, my old girl was so relaxed that she burst into fits of shame and rage only four times during the picnic.

Next day she was definitely on the road to recovery and cried until noon, bonded on her bed until four p.m., but got up and put the chicken legs in the oven for some people we'd invited for dinner.

By great good luck, their kid had failed his year outright and dismally. That cheered things up a bit.

Later in the evening, an old friend dropped in with his wife. They were on holidays. Their daughter, an extremely brilliant student in high school, had also just completed first-year university. They hadn't yet seen her results.

We had the extreme pleasure of telling them that she, like Hugh, had barely squeaked through. She left, looking sick. We went to bed. The house almost buoyant.

And she wonders why my hands shake.

Exchange Program A Decided Success

The Student Exchange Program, sponsored by the Centennial Commission, and organized by a Committee made up of a Representative from one organization in each of the towns and villages within the Killam Inspectorate, together with representatives of the Principals' Association, was carried out without a hitch and was a decided success in the opinion of the executive.

A group of twenty-four grade ten and eleven students from the seven high schools within the Inspectorate together with their escorts, Mr. and Mrs. Art Carnahan of Hardisty, left Killam by chartered bus for Edmonton, on Saturday July second. At Edmonton the group entrained at the C.N.R. station for Rimouski, Que with brief stop-overs at Ottawa and Montreal. They returned to Killam on Thursday July 14th, a very happy group of young people. A brief summary of the trip, prepared by Mr Carnahan, follows:

The twenty-four students, my wife, and I, who went on the Centennial Exchange Trip to Rimouski, had without a doubt a most interesting and exciting trip. After our long trip, half way across Canada, we were a bit tired, especially of what we might experience when we arrived in Rimouski on July 6th and our fears were soon removed. Although our French was very limited it did not take long for our hosts to make us feel at home.

Many of the students, I understand, were able to become quite good at speaking French and understanding what was being said in conversations. There is French My early experiences soon discouraged me however. While listening to a discussion between Mr. Lamontagne, our host, and a friend of his I picked up words meaning log and knee. I am sure from this and by their gestures that they were discussing the length of their shirts! Feeling quite proud of myself I inquired of Mrs. Lamontagne if they were discussing ladies' dresses. "Oh no," she replied, "They are talking about their circumcision." This early experience discouraged me considerably in my efforts to learn French but the kind hosts looked after us so capably that we managed quite well without it.

Our trip around the Gaspe peninsula was an experience that I will never forget and I am sure the same is true for most of the students. There were many firsts for me on this trip. It was my first night house, paddled my first paddle to (a bicycle type boat), ate my first lobster and saw the many wonderful sights of Perce Rock and the Bon Adventure Island bird sanctuary. These and many other happy experiences made up a trip that I will remember for a long time to come.

Besides this I feel I have gained tremendously new friends in the French students and their escorts, who, although they do not speak the same language, think the same as other Canadians about our country and life itself.

This trip was "true bien".

The group of twenty-four students from the Sherbrooke, Que area, together with their escort Mr. and Mrs. Hershel French of Lennoxville, Que., arrived in Killam about 7:30 p.m. on Friday the 15th. As they debussed the visiting students were introduced to the local students and were to host them during their stay in the district. The host students then introduced their visitors to their parents and visitors. Host students and Parents were served a buffet supper in the Killam Legion Legion Hall by the Killam C.W.L. and the Killam Legion. Mr Harvey Steve, Principal of Central High at Sedgewick, welcomed the visitors in both English and French. The welcome was acknowledged by Mr. Herchel French, escort of the Quebec students.

Saturday was left free for the visitors to rest up from their trip and to become acquainted with their host families. In the evening the visitors and their hosts together with the group who had returned from Rimouski and their guests, making a total of about 175, were entertained at a dance in the Sedgewick Community Hall as guests of the Sedgewick Kinsmen.

On Sunday afternoon the visiting students with their hosts and parents were guests of the Dayaland Legion and the Strome C.W.L. at a picnic held at the Provincial Camp Ground at Dayaland. The entire party then moved to the Dayaland Sports Grounds where they were joined by the general public to enjoy an evening of Gymkhana

Recent Rains Helped Late Crops & Pastures

General rains which have fallen over many parts of the provinces in recent days have done much to improve the pasture and hay situation. However in some areas the moisture was too late to help crops and dairy farmers in these localities will be forced to rely mainly on silage feed for the coming winter.

Grain crops have picked up noticeably since receiving over an inch of rain last week and prospects, while considerably below last year, are for an average crop. Where showers have fallen during the season the crops are looking real good, especially rape and late sown wheat.

The hay crop is being harvested, and although all available sleugh bottoms are being cut, the crop will be far below last year, and the feed situation next winter could be a problem.

New Bank Manager Dayland B of M

MR. CHARLES SMITH

Charles Smith, formerly manager of the Bank of Montreal's Alliance office, has been appointed manager of the B of M's Dayland branch. He succeeds Vern Harney, who has held the post since 1954, and who has retired to end a 56-year banking career.

Mr. Smith joined the B of M at Killam and later served in several branches in Alberta before being appointed accountant at Olds in 1964. He became manager at Innisfree in 1967 and manager at Bentley, four years later He has been manager of the bank's Alliance office since 1967.

While at Alliance, Mr. Smith was also president of the Lions Club, drawmaster of the curling club, and a member of the Alliance Lodge A.F. & A.M., and Bethel Chapter R.A.M., of Forestburg.

RETIRING MANAGER

Mr. Harney, the retiring manager, was born in South Dakota. He joined the B of M at Lougheed in 1928 and later served in Killam and in a number of branches throughout Alberta. In 1946, he was appointed accountant at Haywood. A year later, he became manager at Delburne, remaining there until 1954, when he moved to Dayaland in the same capacity.

In addition to his banking activities, Mr. Harney has become well-known as an amateur cartoonist of his caricatures, while mainly dealing with items of local importance, also touch on topics of national and international significance. In 1964, a collection of his cartoons were published in booklet form, with the proceeds of sales going to charity.

Mr. Harney has also played an active part in community organizations while at Dayaland He was treasurer of the Dayaland Memorial Arena Association, secretary-treasurer of the curling club, president of the Battle River Hockey League and Home and School Association, and a member of the Board of Trade and Canadian Legion. He was also leader of the Elks Brass Band and a member of the Camrose County Band.

In retirement, Mr. Harney plans to reside in Camrose.

Lougheed Fair Only Survivor

Old timers can recall the day when the Local Fair was an annual event in many of our rural communities. Killam and Sedgewick in the early days held two-day Fairs which were the major attractions of the time. The Fair days fell into disrepute many years ago in the smaller communities and but for the Goose Creek Fair would have become extinct on these parts. This small group carried on the tradition of the country fair through to the present day, and is now known as the Lougheed Fair Assn.

This year the Fair will again be held in Lougheed, and the 1966 prize lists and posters advertising the various events, gives promise of a bigger and better Fair then ever A great deal of credit is due these officers and directors who have worked over the years, under adverse and trying times, to keep the Fair alive. These people welcome you to the Lougheed Fair on August 12th.

OPEN QUOTAS SPARK GRAIN HAULING

Continued large foreign sales of grain, further boosted by a new sale to Poland, propelled the Wheat Board to open grain quotas, and as a result farmers have been busy the past few weeks getting their surplus grains into the market stream.

The railways at present seem to have a surplus of box cars and no difficulty is being encountered in moving the grain to the seaboard.

In a few short weeks the new harvest will be underway and growers are happy to get their bins cleaned out, the elevators empty, and things put in shape for the new crop.

Dayland Man Dairy Specialist

Agriculture Minister Harry E. Strom announced the appointment of Mr Kenneth J. Spiller as dairy specialist with the Animal Industry Division of the Alberta Department of Agriculture. Mr. Spiller will work out of the Edmonton office servicing the dairy and frozen food industries in the Edmonton northwest district.

Mr. Spiller was raised on a mixed farm in the vicinity of Dayaland. He attended the University of Alberta and graduated in 1951 with a B.Sc degree in agriculture

Since graduation he has been employed by Burns and Company Ltd at Edmonton and Calgary He was actively connected with the creamery department of their Calgary plant, and for the last two years, was manager of the Process Cheese and Margerine Departm e n t of Burns Foods Limited.

Hardisty Considers Policing

HARDISTY—The regular meeting of the Council of the Town of Hardisty was held in the Secretary's Office at 8:00 p.m.

Mayor — R. J. Harrison, Councillors: Mrs M. G. Redman, E. Fowler, H. F. Kobdzinch, L. J. Anderson, R. S. Young, J. G. Cavanagh were present.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved. The financial reports were accepted.

A letter was read from the Officer Commanding "K" Division of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police; wherein he indicated that the force would advise the Council as soon as they had sufficient manpower to take on the policing of the Town; further, he outlined the policing that would be done by their officers when the policing of the Town was taken over.

A letter was read from J. D. Lee, Police Liason Officer, Department of the Attorney General, wherein he advised that the Town of Hardisty would now qualify for a grant of up to $2800.00 per year, towards maintenance of a full time police force.

The Secretary was instructed to advertise in the Edmonton Journal and the Community Press for a Town Constable for the Town of Hardisty.

Moved by Coun. Cavanagh that Town Building Permit at Lynes Elm be authorized the different approved centennial markers were shown.

A letter suggesting that the Town advertise in the Centennial Issue of the Ukrainian News was presented.

A copy of the Contract entered into by the Union of Alberta Municipalities and Reed, Shaw & McNaught, in regards to Municipal Insurance was presented.

A brief by the Association of Summer Villages of Alberta, "Fairness of Assessments", was studied. This brief pointed out that under the present assessment system the urban areas were paying more than their share of the education and hospital tax.

Coun. Redman thanked the members of Council for the bouquet of flowers she received on her 25th wedding anniversary.

VANISHING BIRD. Like the whooping crane, the Art-water prairie chicken is now almost extinct. It was noticed first by forest naturalist James Audubon in 1838. From hundreds of thousands at that time to about 1,300 now, it points out again the need to preserve endangered species. Without care it will follow the passenger pigeon and the dodo bird into extinction.

The Ominous Trend!

Now that there has been time to size things up, there is no gainsaying the fact that here in Canada the pace of creeping inflation quickened considerably during the first half of this year. As dangerous as this is, the fat settlements given in labor disputes just about assures further acceleration of the trend. Dismaying as it may be, we should not allow ourselves to come under any illusion as to the implications. If recent settlements such as the St. Lawrence Seaway and Quebec Longshoremen is very widely repeated, manufacturing and other costs cannot help but leap, pushing prices still higher and completely eroding savings of all kinds. There can be no advantages, but only trouble ahead, in such rake's progress.

It is the right of every worker to go after as much as he can get, yet there will always be a limit to what the traffic will bear, and a point beyond which the most handsome settlement will prove to be a hollow victory. Such a point is apt to come sooner than later in a country like Canada which relies heavily on exports. Whether we like it or not, the rest of the world does not owe us any kind of a living, and will not pay our prices if they cease to be competitive.

Our grain business is a good commodity in example. The world wants our wheat so long as it is competitive on the world market. When it ceases to be thus, the world will buy elsewhere if at all possible. Excessive demands which can only be met by the consuming public footing the bill, are not only self-defeating, but they put prosperity and our envied standard of living in great jeopardy.

Blood Money!

One of the hard and fast rules of a dictatorship is the complete disillowance of any act by word or deed deemed harmful to the establishment. Anyone found guilty of such an act is dealt with severely. The common and accepted punishment in such countries is nearly always complete extermination following, sometimes, the hearing and finding of a kangaroo court.

The latest episode of this kind has been brought to the western world by escapees from Castro's Cuba who startled the free world with the news that Castro eliminates his political enemies via the firing squad. Before being shot the victims are restrained of up to seven pints of blood which leaves them in such a weakened condition that they are carried to the wall on stretchers and propped up for execution. The blood thus obtained is sold to the North Viet Nam at $50 a pint.

Dante, in his vivid word picture of hell, told of the concentric circle in the horrible pit. The greater the offence of the condemned sinner, the lower the level to which he was consigned. We wonder if special accomodations are not called for in the case of Fidel Castro. This nauseating story is reminiscent of the horrible gas chambers of the Nazis, who did a thriving business in gold fillings extracted of the unfortunates who perished there. Terrible as these acts are, it is what has become to be expected from dictators. But what worries us is that we hear very little in the way of indignation from quarters that are supposed to be opposed to atrocities. Mr. U Thant so far has been as mum as a gilded Buddha, and we have heard no complaints from the United Nations. On the other hand let the United States step up its bombing raids in Viet Nam, and the hue and cry from Peacenicks, Doves and Pacifists reaches around the world.

Do We Fear Leadership?

We do not know the author, but someone once said, "When you find a capable man who has confidence in his ability, who sees himself as a leader, encourage him give him the challenges and the opportunities so he will grow into 'what he aspires to be.'"

At this point we can almost hear you say, "Of course, this is what we are all doing; all we need is the capable material to work with and we will know how to develop it."

But this doesn't fit our observation of how we act. In Canada there seems to be a great fear of strong leadership. We don't know why this should be, but it seems to have become a part of our way of life. To us a strong leader becomes too big for his britches, yet our leaders today must, to some degree take their lead from the little boy who told his teacher he was going to draw a picture of God. To the Teacher's admonition that no one knew what God looked like, the boy replied, "They will when I get finished."

Spencer Was A Spy!

In view of the report just released on the Spencer Case, no doubt can now remain but that the man was actually engaged in espionage work for a foreign and enemy nation. The findings should completely clear the Royal Canadian Police of any wrong doing, and exonerate the Minister of Justice at the time, along with the Prime Minister of any real blame. While doing this, it should also serve as a warning to opposition parties in the House of Commons not to get aboard any matter just for the sake of discrediting the government in power. The report has left the Leader of the Conservative Party and some of his followers with little face, which will be difficult to recover, especially if the Munnsinger Report does not find in their favor. The moral, if there is one, should be that the RCMP is not in the habit of picking on people without some reason, and that disclosure of their method of dealing with criminal activity is tight security.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.E.

At the recent two-day baseball tournament held at Sedgewick there were two rather unusual facts which appeared afterwards. Firstly, every winning team in the seven games was using the third base bench. The second was the fact that in the three Sunday games all three winning teams scored 15 runs.

Mr. Vernon Simpson brought into the office a "Headliner" which had been set adrift by the Meteorological Branch, D.O.T. Only a few years in number of them have been found, both Canadian and U.S. This one differs in the fact that they do not want it returned.

When you are travelling on the highway it is often amusing to watch the actions of other drivers. We were heading for Camrose during our holidays and when passing through Strome noticed a police car moving out of town. He pulled out behind us and stayed right there all the way to Bawlf where he decided to turn off in the following for awhile. I dropped back and let him get about a quarter of a mile ahead. About this time two young fellows grinning from ear to ear, went roaring past. It wasn't long until their brake lights came on. This was repeated a number of times and by the time the R.C.M.P. car arrived at Camrose he had three cars and two trucks following him.

EDUCATION IN ALBERTA SHOULD BE GOOD

Perhaps we cannot estimate the quality of a thing by its dollar cost — but if this cost is any indication, education in Alberta should be pretty good. Quoting from a recent address of Premier E. C. Manning, we see that:

"Alberta's expenditure for education last year amounted to $97 per capita for every man, woman and child in this province. This compares with $46 per capita in New Brunswick, $48 in Prince Edward Island, $53 in Nova Scotia, $60 in Newfoundland, $80 in Manitoba, $84 in Saskatchewan, $73 in British Columbia, $79 in Ontario and $80 in Quebec. The national average expenditure on education last year was $75. Alberta's expenditure was $97 per capita. This year, including capital expenditures for education, we will be spending $138 per capita for the education of our children. A politician, called "Financing Higher Education in Canada, Government Support of Universities and Colleges", published by Terence J. Wylie, points out that since 1982 the Alberta government has provided the highest level of financial support for the operation of Universities of any province in Canada." —Wainwright Star Chronicle

FRENCH TEACHERS AVAILABLE

We have been given to understand that Quebec is having a teacher problem. According to some reports there are about 800 teachers resigning in Quebec at the end of this current term. We don't know all the ins and outs of why they're quitting but if they are, Quebec's loss could be our gain.

The western provinces are short of teachers at the best of times. Language teachers are always at a premium. There's a lot of talk about bi-lingualism. English and French are the two most common languages spoken in Canada. They are probably the two most widely used languages in the world.

Wouldn't it be a good idea for Alberta school boards, if they need French teachers in their schools, to send an S.O.S. to Quebec and let those teachers know that we could use some teachers in this province who can "parler le francais!" If we don't have the proper gender for the article it only goes to prove how badly we need the French teachers — for editors as well as pupils in the schools. —Hinton News

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Commonwealth Of Americas

OTTAWA— It may be a little high-flown to call it the Commonwealth of the Americas.

But in Ottawa last month, a meeting took place which launched a new and warm relationship between the Commonwealth countries and territories in and around the American continents.

The Commonwealth Caribbean — Canada conference, the first of its kind, met here for three days and made useful achievements in trade, aid, communications, and co-operation in international affairs.

In terms of population — wealth, military power, or world influence, this regional Commonwealth does not carry a lot of weight.

Canada is the largest and wealthiest by any measure, and only three others, Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago, and Guyana, have as yet gained independence.

The others, such as Antigua, Bahamas, Barbados, Dominica, Grenada, are in varying stages of constitutional evolution from Britain.

The names of the 12 West Indian countries at the conference read like a tourist brochure of the regions of sun, sand, and ocean that Canadians dream of in the long winter.

But this was no vacation-minded group that met in Ottawa. When three days of hard work were over, sound decisions had been made.

But more important, as Prime Minister Pearson said, there had been a beginning of a new relationship, a new mood of co-operation and collaboration in the Americas.

The West Indies are taking on a new political shape. As they move towards independence from Britain, they seek new alignments.

Most of the West Indian countries are under-developed and over-populated. They need a strong friend. They need aid. They need the co-operation of a disinterested ally.

Neither Britain, the old colonial power, nor the United States, with its huge responsibilities as leader of the West, is fully acceptable. Both these countries, of course, continue to provide a great deal of help in the Caribbean.

Canada, however, does seem to be acceptable. It can offer help without overpowering the recipients. And it's rather surprising to note how often the thinking of Canada and the Caribbean countries — on Rhodesia for example — coincides.

The Ottawa conference painly showed this affinity, and the genuine spirit of co-operation.

Trinidad's Prime Minister, Eric Williams, said it was "the most successful conference ever attended by the Caribbean countries".

There was no strain, or wary little, of the haves against the have nots. There was no consciousness of race or colour. The true dignity and purposefulness of the West Indian leaders blended remarkably well with the manners and methods of the the Canadians.

There will be more of these conferences. The next one will be held within a year in some West Indian location.

In the meantime, continuing machinery has been set up in the form of a trade committee. Studies will be made of a possible free trade area involving Canada and the Caribbean. A possible industrial development bank for the areas is being contemplated.

More specifically, Canada has agreed to remove the tariff on sugar from the West Indies, and new opportunities and encouragement will be given for the import of Caribbean rum and food products.

Canada has also agreed to a substantial increase in its development aid to the West Indies. This year it will be increased from $10,000,000 to $13,000,000, and will be kept at that minimum rate for the next five years.

In other words, aid to the West Indies, in the form of grants and loans, will be at least $65,000,000 over the next five years, and probably quite a lot more.

In addition, Canada will also provide aid to West Indian universities, to air services there, and to broadcasting services. It will also study restoration of shipping services between Canada and the Caribbean.

The aid may not be as generous as some would like. But it should help the Caribbean to develop and prosper along lines which will continue to favour and to increase Canadian sales and investments in the West Indies.

At the Ottawa conference, the delegates from widely-scattered units in the Caribbean took a regional approach to nearly every question.

Some observers considered this a hopeful sign that these tiny islands, with their small individual populations, might band together to form a federation of the West Indies.

A single West Indian nation of 3,000,000 people would carry more weight, and get more attention than the present dispersed units do.

Canada's willingness to help, in trade, aid, and communications, actually makes it necessary for the West Indies to take a regional approach.

The Ottawa conference fostered that regional approach. It may in turn lead to federation and a new nation in the Caribbean.

10 YEARS AGO

(From press files Aug. 2, 1956)

The Sedgewick Oilers became the champions of the Gas Line League by virtue of winning the best of three series from the Viking Shamrocks. Viking had eliminated Wainwright and Sedgewick has beaten Vegreville in the semi-finals. The league win left Sedgewick the entry in the Provincial Playoffs.

After 18 years, Louis Veres and his family have been victims in Hardisty and renewing acquaintances. Louis will be remembered by most of the old baseball fans as a left-handed pitcher back in the 30's.

Jimmy Voloshin and Herman Boach of Killam have returned from attending the Cadet Camp which was held at Vernon, B.C.

The Lougheed Wildcats competed in the Tourney at Czar last weekend and came home with third money.

20 YEARS AGO

(From press files Aug. 1, 1946)

Frost has snuck up and bolted the local farmers on the head (of grain). Some more pessimistic souls, bless them, estimate damage up to fifty percent; others of more optimistic outlook have cut this to twenty-five percent.

Fire of unknown source broke out in Hardisty at about 6:30 a.m. last Sunday and completely destroyed Ecklund's Hardware and the Bank of Commerce buildings. The fire is thought to have started in the basement of the Hardware. Damage is estimated at $27,000.

The Killam Board of Trade has announcedt that on August 16th they will hold a big day of galoping and pacing steeds. Harness Races, Running Races, and a Baseball and Softball Tourney.

25 YEARS AGO

Two barn dances have been held in the Chester Berry home at Daysland with proceeds of these to go to the Canadian Legion and the Red Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Lien and daughter and Mr. and Mrs Tom Lien and Henry, all of Lougheed, are holidaying in Banff and Jasper.

Mr. Albert Erickson and Mr. Roy Titus, farmers near Killam, began harvesting their crops this week. The hot weather is causing the grain to ripen before matured.

While mowing hay with three horses one day last week, Mr. John Clark of Sedgewick, met with a serious accident which might have cost him his life. A tug on one of the animals came loose and Mr. Clark attempted to fix it when one of the horses kicked him and he fell in front of the sickle, which had been left in gear. The horses started to run and the sickle bar passed completely over him lacerating his arms, leg and body. Fortunately the doctor was soon at hand and the patient hopes to be able to work again soon.

Kenneth Martin Married In St. John's Church

Rev. Anthony Steel of St. John's Anglican Church officiated a lovely double ring ceremony on April 16, uniting in marriage Linda Francis Kaimbo of Edmonton, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kaimbo of Lac La Biche, and Kenneth Lloyd Martin, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh (Bill) Martin of Sedgewick.

Mrs. Edith Johnson was organist. The bride looked lovely in her white, floor-length gown of rayon taffeta, with matching train and lily-point sleeves. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a fabric roses and seed pearls; and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Anna Thompson of Edmonton was maid of honor, and Miss Kathleen Martin of Sedgewick, sister of the groom, the bridesmaid. They were matching floor length gowns of green, trimmed with white lace, and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by his cousin, Alan (Pete) Martin and Lloyd Tanton, both of Sedgewick.

The ushers were Kenneth Kaimbo of Lac La Biche, brother of the bride, and Jim Farquharson of Sedgewick.

The bride's mother chose a dress of deep blue crepe and wore a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a beau, two-piece coral dress with a white corsage.

An open reception was held at the groom's home, where Rev. Steel proposed a toast to the bride.

For going away, the bride changed to a two-piece, navy blue suit with white accessories. After a short honeymoon to Vancouver, the happy couple will reside in Edmonton.

Some prospects are misers; they let the rest of the world go by.

CROP REPORT

PEACE RIVER—Showers have occurred maintaining adequate soil moisture conditions. Surface moisture is good at 67% of the stations and fair at 27%; subsoil moisture is good at 50% fair at 50%. Conditions vary considerably over the area but the overall outlook is for a fair crop, but more rain will be needed soon to maintain present prospects.

Wheat averages in height approximately 22 inches, oats 18, barley 22 and flax 15 inches.

SOUTH ALBERTA—Warm weather with temperatures ranging from 75 degrees to 85 degrees has promoted rapid growth and the heading of crops is practically completed. Subsoil moisture is good but surface moisture is being depleted and a good rain will be required soon in some areas to sustain the heavy growth and good filling of heads. Generally, prospects are very good.

Wheat averages in height approximately 29 inches, Oats 25, barley 26 and Flax 18 inches.

LOCAL AREA— Stands in this area are heavy and a good rain will be required soon to maintain present generally good prospects. Surface moisture is reported good at 15% of the stations, fair at 41% Poor at 44%. Subsoil moisture is reported good at 38% of the stations and fair at 62%.

Wheat has reached the height of approximately 29 inches, oats 26, barley 26 and flax 16 inches.

Business Activity More Sustainable

MONTREAL, July 29 — Business activity in Canada and in the United States now appears to be growing at a "more sustainable rate" than at the beginning of the year, according to the Bank of Montreal in its Business Review for July, just issued.

The B of M notes that the economies of both countries had been operating close to capacity and had showed unmistakable signs of strain by early 1966.

"However, more recently there has been some easing of the pressures of demand, and while the two economies are still under strain, the course of business appears to have shifted to a somewhat more moderate, and hopefully sustainable, rate of advance."

BRIGHT SPOT

Exports of goods and services in general have been "a particularly bright spot in the Canadian economic picture this year," the B of M observes. "The prospects for Canadian exports for the rest of this year are generally favorable," but "the picture could change if domestic inflationary pressures are not held in check."

The bank conserves that while the rise in the wholesale price index has not continued in the past three or four months, consumer prices are still climbing steeply and there has been no significant lessening of inflationary forces in the economy.

Despite considerable tightness in the labor supply, "output gains in both countries have been impressive," a major factor being the substantial additions to productive capacity in the past two years. But, unemployment in Canada remains high and has been slack in both countries because of credit restrictions.

BRIGHT KEEN

"In Canada, monetary growth has been kept on a tight rein since the first half of 1965 whereas in other measures of monetary conditions, including loan-to-deposit ratios and the level of borrowed reserves, indicate very considerable tightness in financial markets. In both countries interest rates have risen sharply in the past year and in the United States are currently at their highest levels since the late 1920's.

"The use of fiscal policy as a restraining influence has differed considerably between the two countries." the B of M states. It notes that Canadian government accounts have produced a surplus over expenditures since the beginning of 1964 and that the budget last March was designed to "ease up on the gas pedal" rather than to "slam on the brakes", with an increase in personal income taxes for all except those in the lowest brackets, as well as measures to restrain investment.

"In the United States, opinion for or against an increase in income taxes as a means of restraining demand and curbing inflation has swung back and forth in recent months. As matters stand . . . the federal government in the United States is still providing a measure of fiscal stimulus to the economy, placing the burden of anti-inflationary action on monetary policy."

The choice of monetary and fiscal policies to cope with excessive demands on the economy is no easy matter and it is still too early to say whether the most appropriate mix has yet been hit upon in either Canada or the United States to deal with the current situation.

"While recent indications of a shift to a more sustainable pace of business activity are encouraging, the forces of demand and supply remain in an uneasy balance," the B of M review concludes.

Car Tire Standard Announced For Canada

The Honourable Gordon E. Taylor, Alberta Minister of Highways, has announced that a Canadian standard will be established for automobile tires.

"The Canadian Standards Association has advised me that a Committee is being set up immediately to establish this standard for automobile tires, and I am delighted with this decision as we have been urging representations along this line for several months," Mr. Taylor said.

"The Americans are establishing a standard, and if ours was not established in Canada, it would mean the dumping of inferior tires on the Canadian market — this would be unfortunate, and by establishing a standard now, this can be prevented," Gordon Taylor continued.

"I am also very pleased that the Canadian Standards Association has stated that Alberta Government will have a member to the Committee, and we have named Mr. L. G. Bussard, B. Sc. P. Eng., Highway and Shop Equipment Director of the Department of Highways."

1966 GRAIN PERMIT BOOKS

The 1966 grain delivery permit books have been sent out to elevator agents, says the Wheat Board. Farmers should complete application forms at the first opportunity.

The new permits are required before any grain deliveries can be made in the 1966-67 crop year. The new crop will soon be in the harvest so farmers are warned to get permit books now.

Student Exchange Program

events and peace chariot races At the conclusion of the show the visiting students took advantage of the pony drivers' offer to give them rides in the chariots and chuckwagons.

Monday saw the visitors and their hosts as well as our own exchange group leave Killam in two buses for a tour of the Strip Mines and Badlands south of Forestburg. They returned to Big Knife Park for a steak bar-b-que sponsored by Dingsmat Mines, Forestburg Lions and Heisler Royal Purple.

Tuesday was a busy day with the first stop at the Northwestern Utilities Field Station north of Viking. The group was met by officials of North-western from Edmonton and the Station manager who explained the workings of a Natural Gas System and demonstrated the pressure of Natural Gas by blowing a wall. The group were served doughnuts, ice cream and pop with the compliments of the Gas Company. The next stop was at U. of A. Ranch at Kinsella where they were met by the ranch foreman. He escorted the group to the ranch pasture where he outlined the purpose of the University's program and showed the students the herd of cross breeding cattle. The return to main ranch was followed by a tour of the feed lots and the beef raising plant. A swim at Brown's Lake, north of Sedgewick, followed by a delicious chicken supper served by the Sedgewick C.W.L. and the Alliance I.O.D. E. brought the day to a successful close.

A tour of the Interprovincial Pumping Station at Hardisty marked the day of Wednesday. This was followed with an afternoon of swimming, boating and water skiing with Hardisty citizens providing the meals. In the evening the Hardisty Royal Purple and the Hardisty Chamber of Commerce provided a dance.

Thursday and Friday were full for the host families to entertain their guests as well as for D. Simms had the opportunity to visit the Ranches at Banff and Jasper, others took in Klondike Days in Edmonton and some visited with relatives in various parts of Alberta.

On Saturday morning the visiting and host students were taken to the Alberta Game Farm where they split up into smaller groups and toured the 200 acre thousand acres in about three hours. From there they were taken to the Swimming Pool at the U of A Gym followed by a lovely supper at the Food Services Building in Lister Hall. The group then travelled through downtown Edmonton to the CNR station only to find that their train was one hour late. This gave ample time for re-living the week's activities and saying goodbyes.

The group of students from Sherbrooke, Que. were perfect ladies and gentlemen during the entire week and the committee feels that everyone who took any part in this exchange must have gained immeasurably from this experience. The Centennial Commission has started a very worthwhile project and a continuation of this exchange program can be nothing but good for the establishment of east-west relations within our country.

The Canadian Government Youth Travel Program Committee wishes to express its sincere thanks to all individuals and organizations who helped in any way to make this exchange of students the success that it was.

Doreen Komperdo Married at Knox Church

Knox Church, Killam was the setting for a lovely spring wedding on Saturday, April 16th, when Doreen Mary, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Komperdo became the bride of Francis Edward Petty, second son of Mr and Mrs. Edward Petty of Edson. Rev. Peterson officiated at the double-ring ceremony and Mrs. Marian Wilson was the organist.

The bride attired in a beuffant style nylon over net gown, entered the church on the arm of her father. Her chapel length veil misted from a crown of white and silver lily of the valley and she carried a cascade bouquet of red sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

Her attendants, Miss Annetta Claridge of Edmonton, and Miss Mary Ann Komperdo of Drayland chose identical gowns of pale blue nylon with matching veils and carried bouquets of yellow carnations. Virginia Komperdo, sister of the bride, as flowergirl, wore a yellow nylon dress with matching veil and carried a tulle nosegay of blue for-

Attending the groom were his brother, Ray Petty and cousin Dennis Tasa of Edson.

Mrs. Komperdo, mother of the bride chose a blue nylon lace dress with matching coat and hat, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and lily of the valley. Mrs. Petty, mother of the groom wore a grey silk suit with blue accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and lily of the valley.

A reception for over 60 guests was held in the Legion Hall with Open House in the evening.

A three-tiered wedding cake baked by the bride's mother, and decorated by Mrs. Winchester of Daysland, was set in the centre of the bride's table.

For travelling the bride chose a pale green knit suit with yellow accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The happy young couple are residing at Edson.

Sedgewick Old-Timer, David Galletly, Laid To Rest

David Gallettly, was born in 1881 near Perth, Scotland. He was a secretary before the First World War. He served as a Quarter Master Sergeant in the Black Watch Regiment. Immigrated with his family to Canada in 1924. Settled south of Sedgewick. Retired to the village of Sedgewick in 1961.

He was a member of the Canadian Legion, Harmony Masonic Lodge and a Vestryman of St. John's Anglican Church.

Passed away very suddenly in the Killam General Hospital July 12. Funeral conducted by Rev. A. Steele from St. John's Anglican Church Sedgewick July 20.

He leaves to mourn his widow Edith two sons, Ronald of Edmonton, and Stuart of Sedgewick, 9 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren.

Our Alberta Heritage
WESTERN CANADIAN PIONEER MUSEUM

1911 Franklin
History of pioneer transportation captured in this unique collection
An enterprising father and son team, Ted and Stan Reynolds, have created one of the most unusual museums in our province. Here are authentic stage coaches and old time vehicles, such as the open buggies that provided prairie transportation in the days when "horse power" meant just that. Four hundred steam and internal combustion engines, stationary and tractor models in broadly varying design, are prominent in the collection. You'll see pioneer cars dating "way back to 1899" including the 1904 Cadillac and Olds 1916 V-twelve cylinder Marmon, Cord front wheel drive and the Brooks steam car. There's even a Gypsy Moth biplane, a horse drawn hearse, and a 1912 aerial ladder fire truck. The museum at Wetaskiwin, it's open every day from May 1 to October 1.
Next time you're travelling highway No. 2, stop and visit the Western Canadian Pioneer Museum at Wetaskiwin. It's open every day from May 1 to October 1. It represents a tremendous outlay of interest, time and effort by two imaginative Albertans, in creating a permanent tribute to the pioneer history of our Alberta.

SUGAR AND SPICE
By Bill Smiley
SUMMARY PROMISING
Glorious summer morning, early. Writing this at the picnic table, on beach lawn. Frost planted early in dewy, three-inch grass.

Yes, the grass needs cutting. The hedge needs trimming. The flowerbeds need weeding. The garage is still half-painted from last summer, though the new green is fading nicely into the old blue. Twelve feet of my neighbour's rotten old board fence has fallen on my side, crushing shrubs. The barbecue is broken. The clothes line is sagging. My wife is in a vile temper for all the above reasons. And my daughter is moping because she doesn't have a waitress's job, like all her pals.

In addition, my jokes are acting up, my bursitis is troubling, my golf has gone sour, and haven't got my snow tires off yet.

In short, it's a typical day of my summer holidays. It's the difference between the beautiful illusion and the sordid reality.

For the few school teachers who are not taking a summer course, or marking papers, the two long, golden months of summer stretch ahead like a glimpse of paradise.

And for a few, they are pretty close to it. These are the unmarried ones who don't have a home to maintain, and have saved all year. They simply close the apartment, pick up their tickets, and head for Utopia. And even the rest of us make plans. Oh, how we make plans. I did it again this year, and on paper, it's beautiful.

Up early, stroll about the ranch, pulling a weed here and there, listening to the birdies, watching the squirrels at play, smelling the morning sunshine.

Breakfast. The works. Fresh strawberries, bacon and eggs, pot of coffee.

Then to work. Nine till noon at the typewriter. Lunch. Game of golf. Take family to beach for swim. Home for leisurely drink and barbecued steak. Quiet hour in lawn chair with book. Bed. Then, up and at it again, fresh and fit.

By summer's end, a healthy, clear-eyed constitution, a book ready for the publisher, and the estate looking like something out of a women's magazine

That's the illusion. It's about as much like the reality as the Venus de Mile is like an orangoutang.

There are several flies in the soup I won't even mention such things as bone laziness, the heat, and 140 chores a day my wife dreams up.

One of the big ones is the lure movie. All winter, there's no time to watch them, I know. It's stupid. You might as well as be on junk or booze. But who can pass up Cagney and Cooper and Bogart in their prime?

Result: instead of a clear-eyed attack on breakfast and type-writer at nine, there's a bleary-eyed retreat from both, at noon.

Second big difficulty is people. Here's a typical day. In fact, it happened this week. Old friends, with children, dropped in at 10 a.m. on their way through town. Stayed for lunch, natch. At 1:15, students arrive for last-minute help with yearbook. Stayed till 3:30 At 4:00, had to sally forth to launching party for new lawn umbrella, in friend's back yard. Home at 6:30. At 8:00, twelve miles to visit friends at beach cottage. Yak. yak. Home at 1:30 a.m.

But I'm not really complaining. I did get up early this morning, for the first time this summer. The birds are singing in the trees, and one flicker is bathing under the sprinkler. The squirrels are frolicking. The oaks and the elms and the maples are basking down at me benevolently. The sun is shining. The sky is blue. And my toes are drying out.

It beats hell out of being dead and buried.

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

The W.M.S. meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Bernsteen on Thursday evening with thirteen ladies responding to the roll call with a sermon in a sentence The devotional was given by Jeanne White with Dorothy Beneborg, our President, giving the Mission article. Prayer time was held at which time the special prayer requests were remembered. Marie Bergeron read from the book with Mrs. Gordash reading the scripture and presented a study on "Hannah". A special recording was enjoyed. During the business [illegible] it was decided to save all of our used stamps to be turned into the "Mission to Lepers". A letter from Ruth Young was read which presented her needs in her work amongst the Jewish people of Saskatchewan. The motion was made that each member of our circle should save one mail each day to go to help out with her work for Christ there. The meeting ended with prayer and lunch was served by the hostess and her assistant.

Rev. George Elkas, of Wetaskiwin, was our guest speaker at the Sunday services. We were happy to welcome a number of visitors to these services.

THE RED 'n Blacks TIME TO RENEW

1908 — FIFTY-EIGHTH YEAR — 1966 SEDGEWICK, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 11TH, 1966 Volume 57 — Number 13

THEY PLEW TO JAMAICA. Although these three Canadian athletes may look as though they're about to flap off into the wild blue yonder, their flight to Kingston, Jamaica was accomplished in fact with the aid of an airplane. They are wrestlers Peter Mickiewicz, of London, left, Ray Lougheed of Moose Jaw, country, and G orge Reid, also of Moose Jaw. They're shown limbering up before leaving for the British Empire and Commonwealth Games in Jamaica.

Crops Much Improved During The Past Month

At the middle of July local alberton were not rating this years crop prospects as being very good as there had been a decided lack of moisture in most areas and the first two weeks of July had been very hot which was causing the crops to deteriorate rapidly. Pasture land was burning and the hay crops looked to be smaller than normal

Since then the prospects have changed remarkably with a number of good general rains which started on July 13-14 when 1 1/2 to 4 inches of rain fell on the local area along highway 13. On July 29th better than an inch of rain fell and during the first week of August 4 1/2 to 6 inches was received over the district. Besides these heavy rains several good showers have fallen during this time (See rain report elsewhere)

The net result of the moisture received during the past three to four weeks has been a sharp revision of predictions on the size of this years harvest. Many now say that general outlook is at least as good as last year for the amount of grain that will be harvested and grades just might be better.

As one former put it last years crop had fifty bushels worth of straw and only thirty bushels of wheat This year there is less straw than normal but the grain heads are big and filling well and the yield may be as good as last fall.

What everyone would like now is warm weather so the crops will mature and harvest can be completed before the danger of frost and snow can do any damage.

PASTURES RECOVER WELL

Rains of the past few weeks have done wonders for pasture land which was suffering from the hot weather and lack of moisture. Growth on grasslands had not been as heavy as usual and were not recovering after being grazed. Now with the high level of moisture received pastures are coming back into their own and relieving the pressure on dairy and cattle operations.

HAYING SUFFERS

While the rain has been just the thing for pastures and grain crops it hasn't come at the best of times for those trying to put up hay. With rain or showery two or three days there isn't enough time to get the hay cut, cured, and baled or stacked. Hay which has been cut and windrowed is being turned to dry but the constant wet weather now seems to have cleared up and this should give a chance to get the hay crops put into storage.

Two Local Boys On Football Team

Two local boys that played with the Central High Rams football team last fall were on the starting line-up for the Edmonton Junior Huskies when the team played its first league game last Sunday afternoon.

Brain Berg who is the only sixteen year old player on the team is listed as being 6' 1" in height and 190 pounds. started the game as an [illegible] tackle.

John Pyra who is just barely seventeen weighs in at 270 pounds and stands 6' 2". John is playing tackle on the defensive squad.

Huskies who have been personal winners of the Alberta Junior Football League and have won the National Championship a number of times are tuned to be the team to beat again this year.

In the league opener on Sunday the Huskies lost 13 to 7 to the Edmonton Wildcats.

Horticulture Field Day At Brooks

The Provincial Horticultural Station at Brooks, Alberta, extends an open invitation to all visitors to attend their field days on August 30th, 31st, and 31st.

Every year the Station plays host to visitors from all parts of Canada and the United States. This year, to enable even more people to see the work they are doing, the staff have organized three special field days.

There will be a general tour in the whole 360-acre station very day which will be followed by a specific tour. Visitors will find that most of their questions will be answered during the discussion periods at the end of each tour.

ORNAMENTALS will be featured on August 30th. The specific tour will include a trip through the ornamental shrub and tree block, a visit to the rose garden and the gladioli plot, and a tour of the annual and perennial beds.

VEGETABLES will be the main arena of concentration on August 31st. Here, the emphasis will be on the tomato and potato breeding and testing trials, the variety trials and the commercial garden. Vegetable storage facilities and harvesting methods will also be demonstrated.

August 31st will be devoted to FRUITS. A tour of the orchards plus a visit to the lath houses and propagating plots will give visitors an idea of the extensive work being done in this area. There will also be a pruning demonstration.

The Provincial Horticultural Station at Brooks fulfills an important role in specialty crops. It acts as a liason between fundamental research and applied research. Projects involving varietal testing, collecting, and breeding programs of tomatoes, potatoes, and fruits all come within the scope of their work. The propagation of trees for shelterbelts and rootstock is another aspect of the work. The pilot project concerning the commercial production of vegetable crops is particularly interesting.

HAY SITUATION IN NORTHERN ALBERTA

This summer's dry weather in most of northern Alberta is likely to create feed problems for livestock owners in that part of the province.

O. G. Braiveld, Supervisor of Alberta's Crop Improvement Service, reports that a lighter than average hay crop appears to be in prospect for most of the northern region. In some areas there is even a possibility of there not being enough hay to carry the livestock through the winter.

In view of this situation, farmers are advised to salvage as much hay as they can by harvesting it from sloughs, along roadsides, etc. Every effort should be made to protect the quality of the hay that is cut because high quality hay goes further then poor quality hay. If a hay shed is not available, plastic sheeting or even loose hay will do a great deal towards protecting a well built stack of bales from nutritional loss though weathering.

Alta. Crop Report

SOUTHERN ALBERTA — Apart from a late July hail storm that cut a swath one to eight miles wide from Cardston to Medicine Hat, the extremely heavy crops of southern Alberta continue to make good progress. It could be a record year for this area. Hot weather is now needed to bring crops to maturity. Development has been slow this year and most spring wheat is a week to ten days later than normal The southeast part could do with more rain to ensure good head filling.

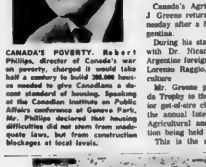
NORTHERN ALBERTA— A week of cool showery weather has improved the dry bet in the western part of this area. With more rain and hot weather there could still be a fair harvest in this region which suffered badly from drought in the spring. North and east of Edmonton the situation is little changed only a fair crop in prospect. Frost occurred at many points in the north but it is too early to assess extent of damage. From Red Deer north and west yield prospects continue from 25% to 25% better than last year. All crops are about a week late but weather is urgently needed to mature them.

PEACE RIVER—Conditions continue to improve over the entire Peace River district. Most points report some rain during the week which benefited all crops, although in many districts the mousture came too late. As elsewhere grain in the Peace River need hot weather to hasten maturity. With hot weather and some more rain the Peace River can still harvest a pretty fair crop.

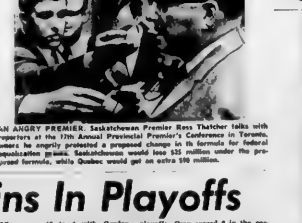
RAINS EXCEED LONG TIME AVERAGE

According to records kept by the Searle Grain Co. in Sedgewick the amount of rain since April first this year has exceeded the long time average by more than three inches.

Aug. 1 to 6th — 4.82 inches; Since April 1st — 11.46 inches; This time last year — 11.76 inches; Long Time Average — 8.35 inches.



CANADA'S POVERTY. Robert Phillips, director of Canada's war on poverty, charged it would take half a century to build 300,000 houses needed to give Canadians a decent standard of housing. Speaking at the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs conference at Jasper Park, Mr. Phillips declared that housing difficulties did not stem from statequote laws, but from construction blockages at local levels.



AN ANGRY PREMIER. Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher talks with reporters at the 17th Annual Provincial Premiers' Conference in Toronto, where he angrily protested a proposed change in th formula for federal equalization grants. Saskatchewan would lose $25 million under the proposed formula, while Quebec would get an extra $90 million.

Czar Wins In Playoffs

SEDGEWICK—On Sunday afternoon at Sedgewick the Czar Town played a double header with the Sedgewick Oilers in the second round of the Alberta Provincial Baseball Playoffs.

The two teams had met the previous Sunday with Czar winning the first game to take the lead in the best of three series. This was a five to nine score.

In the first game on Sunday the Oilers won 12 to 4 with Gordon Buckan pitching the complete game. Oilers scored 3 in the second, one in the sixth, 4 in the seventh and 4 in the eighth. Czar scored 1 in the first inning, 2 in the fourth, and 1 in the seventh.

In the third game on the series Czar came from behind to score five runs in the ninth inning and win 13 to 10 to take the series and advance to the next round of the playoffs. Czar scored 3 in the second, 1 in the third, 2 in the sixth, 3 in the seventh, and 5 in the ninth. Oilers scored 5 in the third, 4 in the fourth, and 1 in the fifth.

Czar will now meet the winners of the Trochu and Big Valley series for the Central Alberta Championship. The winner will play off with the winners of the Northern and Southern Zones for the Provincial Title.

MANNING'S APPROVAL. Alberta's premier, E. C. Manning, has declared his approval of the National Public Affairs Research Foundation, a non-political organization promoting right wing free enterprise ideas. Premier Manning will not take an active public role in its work, however.

THE CASUAL VACATIONERS. In the summer you can see adults everywhere, frantically flitting about cooking recreation, and trying to take advantage of every precious second of their two week summer vacation. Youngsters, with two months of holidays, can be more casual, lazily digging bottled hooks in shallow creeks, or simply dunking the hot afternoons away.

Vacation Caused Fires!

Every year thousands of dollars worth of valuable timber is destroyed by forest fires. Sometimes these fires are a result of natural causes but more often they result from the carelessness of persons not impressed by the danger of dry summer weather in heavily forested areas.

Cigarettes, matches and campfires are, of course, the prime activators of forest fires. A cigarette or match landing in a clump of leaves or dry pine needles will soon burst into flame which spreads at an alarming rate in a forest dried by the summer's sun. Likewise, campfires which are not laid on a wide patch of cleared land or which are not properly extinguished after use, will quickly cause the dreaded forest fire.

Cigarette butts should be squashed in the earth not in leafy ground. Better still, they should be extinguished in some water. The same precautions should be taken with matches which, for extra protection may be broken in two after they are put out. In addition, campfires should be drowned with buckets of water, then covered with earth.

Also, campers and picnickers should take care that they do not leave broken bottles in recreation areas. Sunlight becomes concentrated by broken glass and can kindle twigs or leaves.

Above all, holidayers should heed forest fire warning signs placed at the entrance to parks and recreation areas. These signs will show if the chance of a forest fire is very small or very extreme, so that holidayers will know when they must exercise special care.

If these necessary precautions are taken, the occurrence of forest fires will be greatly reduced. The lives of birds and other wildlife will be saved and valuable property and parkland rescued from the onslaught of the flames.

The Hidden Assassins!

"Consider the cheese maker in the middle-western United States who found a dead mouse in the pasteurized milk from which he was making up a batch of cubed cheese. If there was a conflict within the cheesemaker between judgement and greed, the battle was short. He scooped the mouse out of the milk and went ahead with his cheese making. Later an outbreak of food poisoning that affected a large number of people was traced to the cheese. The mouse evidently had been suffering from mouse typhoid, which is caused by the salmonella arganism that causes food poisoning among humans. And while the milk had been pasteurized, the mouse had not."

This extract is typical of the case histories and careful documentation the author provides in a book, The Hidden Assassins which, while written about the United States, is of equal importance this side of the border. Since World War II industry has produced an amazing array of new chemicals to make food-processing cheaper and to alter the appearance, texture and taste of food. Are these substances, when consumed in great variety over a long period of time safe or, unsafe? Nobody knows for sure. In addition to these "food additives", the products of our farms are awash in pesticides. They are applied to the soil before crops are planted, sprayed and dusted on growing plants, and used on harvested produce before it goes to the market. Known in the trade as "economic poisons", they are poisonous indeed. Yet they appear in many foods — including those consumed by children.

As President Lyndon B. Johnson has aid: "Thousands of common household items are available to consumers which contain potentially harmful substances. Hundreds of new uses for such products as food additives, food colorings and pesticides, are found each year, adding new potential hazards."

Slow Down and Live!

During the summer months when so many families take to the road, it is fitting that the motorist be reminded to slow down his driving speed. Speed was a major cause of the 4,870 deaths from automobile accidents which occurred in Canada in 1965. Speed continues to be major factor in the increasing number of automobile accidents across the country.

Long smooth highways are a natural temptation for the driver to increase his speed. But highway signs are established with reference to wide surveys of the dangers of each road. They are there to be obeyed — for the safety of the driver.

Divided highways, too, are not necessarily danger free. Often drivers do not observe regulations concerning slow and fast lanes or they are surprised by animals crossing the road. In either case, the speeding driver is at a disadvantage. His stopping time increases at an alarming rate in proportion to his increased rate of speed. He cannot stop quickly in case of emergency.

Speeding drivers are often those who attempt to pass other vehicles along a solid white line or when there is little room for them to make the pass. These practices are, of course, foolhardy. It is often difficult to judge the speed of an oncoming car and passing on a white line means passing with restricted vision or around a curve which is too sharp to make at a high speed.

The list of increased driving hazards because of speed could be greatly extended but the point of these cautions may be summed up in a few words — Slow down and live.

A new product on the market for the ladies is case of skirmishes and screams which they can use to scare off prowlers, etc. The screams are contained in a small can and may be made to be carried in a purse. When a button is pressed it emits a scream. which is palatable from a murmer to an ear-splitting yell. Each gas container is good for about 30 shrieks.

Juvenile Delinquency has been blamed on many causes but recently more and more blame is being placed on the parents. A University in the United States was making a study of the problem by phoning various homes at 9:00 p.m. to ask parents if they knew where their children were. Only a forty percent of the cases it was the children who answered the phone and had no idea where their parents were

We've heard a story that is going around about a minister in the area who was out playing golf and took a mighty swing at the ball. sliced it into some trees on the edge of the fairway. In a minute a bird flew out with the ball in its beak and dropped it into the cup. The minister was surprised at this and was heard to say, "Good Father. I'd rather do it myself."

CATERPILLARS FOR LUNCH

The thought of eating caterpillar pie for lunch or not stew for supper is hardly an attractive one.

And even if such creatures were ground up and incorporated with other foods such as flours and meats, they'd be unappetizing to most people.

After all, who but a buck would eat insects when he could eat a good sirloin steak or a plate of juicy lamb chops?

Well, at least one scientist says that the way the world's population is growing, it won't be many years before traditional foods will be far short of filling the land.

Dr. Ronald L. Taylor, an insect physiologist-pathologist at the University of California, says we've got to be realistic and get over our prejudices against insects as food.

And he insists that it must be a prejudice because when you scrape up our asses at the crawlers. we turn around and drool over lobsters ("one of the largest carrion feeders") and live oysters ("still palpitatingly full of body products").

Passing around plates of fried caterpillars, says:

"I believe that dietitians and economists should seriously explore the nutritional value of insects and the possibility of extracting their protein and incorporating it into other food stuffs.

"Now is the time to begin this research. Some say that if the population increase continues at its present rate we have at best 50 to 60 years of stark and then we will have to turn vegetarian or find other sources of animal protein. Insects constitute one of the best remaining resources of animal protein in the world."

Perhaps if the insect protein could be disguised, we might in time accept them. It's surprising the things you eat when you're starving.

But Dr. Taylor is not altogether convincing when he suggests that "if people in high places and pacesetters were to eat insects with their cocktails, it would get publicity and you would find others following suit."

The cats society set could down a lot of chocolate-coated bees, ants and caterpillars without gaining much of a following except among those who fancy strange fads.

And if our leading politicians were to try to start a trend, the likely result would be defeat in the next election.

Dr. Taylor may be right when he says we'll need to explore the insect world as a source of food for the future, but if it ys ever universal acceptance it will be through absolute necessity, not popularity. — Wainwright Star-Chronicle

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Eyes Opened

OTTAWA—Judges, as a group, are fairly wise in the ways of men. They like to think that they've seen just about everything there is to see and are rarely surprised by the varied endeavours of individual or collective man

One judge, however, did have eyes opened recently. He is Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells, of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who conducted the official inquiry in to the George Victor Spencer spy case.

During the inquiry, the learned judge had his eyes opened about the nature and extent of Soviet espionage, and RCMP methods of fighting it.

In his report on the Spencer case, published at the end of July, Mr. Justice Spence hinted at his own surprise in glimpsing something of the efforts and extent of Soviet intelligence.

Like many Canadians, the judge had perhaps thought the frequent spy disclosures in Canada were much ado about nothing.

Now he knows differently.

So much so, that he has instructed some of the secret evidence he heard to the RCMP archives, a most never get into wrong hands or be made public.

To do so, he said in his report, "would very substantially destroy the anti-espionage work of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police".

This evidence concerned the methods used by the RCMP while investigating the Spencer case, methods which apply to most espionage investigations.

The requirements of these methods, said the judge, with the air of a man making a discovery, are "apparently more widespread and urgent than one would normally at first believe possible".

Well, we may nevre learn just what evidence it was that convinced the judge of the seriousness of Soviet espionage in Canada.

We can only conclude that it is there all the time, working indefatigably, ceaselessly, establishing networks of intelligence covering Canada, the United States as well as other parts of the world.

If there are Canadians who still disbelieve this, they haven't been paying much attention. Ever since the Soviet spy ring was smashed in Ottawa in 1945, the Canadian and United States governments have been uncovering years of the extent of Soviet efforts.

Every few years quasi-diplomats or agents are expelled from Canada, frequently after involving some Canadians in their intelligence operations.

The George Victor Spencer case was such a case.

Spencer was a small fish, there is no doubt about that. A pathetic figure, who got little financial reward from his efforts to help the Russian agents. Apparently all he wanted was a trip to Russia, and he hoped he'd get it by hanging on the good side of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa.

Instead he was made a prize dupe. He was dismissed from his job as a postal clerk. And he died alone and friendless in his Vancouver home just a few days before Mr. Justice Wells began his inquiry.

"...he Wells report is illuminating though. Not because it reveals the workings of a master spy, but for precisely the opposite reason

It reveals the pedestrian, somehow, seemingly innocent method by which Soviet agents make use of relatively unimportant people.

Spencer was a complex, unhappy individual, a Communist party member at one time and a Communist sympathiser till his death.

The information he gave the Russian agents in seven trips to Ottawa seemed relatively innocent, but taken all together it assumed a different aspect.

He gave particulars of Post Office security. He went to a great deal of trouble to get information about farms for sale in B.C. near the U.S. border.

He provided maps, photographs, designs of buildings, water works, pipelines. He obtained the names of firms that had gone out of business, listing people data from government, the names of reliable commercial contacts.

This is the type of information that would allow a foreign power to establish "legends", or backgrounds, for illegal agents.

"I think it might be fairly said that all the information asked for from Spencer had the foundation for the establishment of a false intelligence net in British Columbia," said Mr. Justice Wells in his report.

He added that the intelligence net could operate espionage agents in both Canada and the United States, and could be used for espionage purposes anywhere in the world.

That is what George Victor Spencer did for the Russians. Nothing very spectacular, on the surface. Just a lot of reliable, useful information that the agents might have to a great deal of trouble getting for mother country.

We don't know if Spencer did in fact help to establish a spy network. All we know, and all the judge points out, is that he might have.

Spencer, dead from lung cancer, a victim of the Communists in his life, is a pathetic figure.

His tortured, unhappy career, as detailed in the Wells report, does serve one useful purpose however. It demonstrates with fearful clarity just how Soviet espionage works in this country.

Centennial Canoe Pageant

(By John W. Fisher)

I have written before about the great 4,000-mile water route to be travelled by our Centennial Canoe Pageant next summer. The canoes manned by teams from the provinces will traverse the historic waterway from the Rocky mountains to Montreal. The fact that Canada stretches from sea to sea to sea partly in the existence of this and other waterways

The "north west passage" by water across Canada was established long before the time of Confederation. In fact, one might say, it had its beginnings when Columbus and many other explorers unsuccessfully sought a seaway to the far east through the west.

The explorers discovered the first part of the waterway west of Montreal in their hunt for a route to China. Then, once found, it became the highway of the fur traders who had learned that there was local wealth to be exploited — much closer than China or India.

While the fur traders were producing considerable commercial canoe traffic between Montreal and the Rocky mountains, other people were still intent on finding a north west passage for big ships. Twenty-two years before Confederation Sir John Franklin, the great Arctic explorer almost forgotten by Canadians today, set out to find a northern shipping route through the Arctic with two Royal Navy ships, the Erebus and the Terror.

There were 129 officers and men in Franklin's two ships when they entered the Arctic early in 1845. They were seen last in July of that year by another passing ship in Baffin's Bay. Then the Erebus and the Terror vanished and none of the 129 ever returned from the Arctic.

Numerous expeditions sent from England, from the United States and by groups from the Hudson's Bay Company searched for the lost explorers without success.

Evidence uncovered in later years proved that the Erebus and the Terror, trapped in Arctic ice, had not been abandoned until three years after they had been sighted by that passing ship in Baffin's Bay. As late as 1850 Eskimos saw a large party of white men disembarking south near the mainland, dragging a small boat and sleds. There are many conflicting stories about what actually happened to the 129 men.

In 1859 an expedition sent out by Lady Franklin found a written record by a captain of one of the ships. It gave an account of their terrible trials up to the spring of 1848.

Franklin was lost but the search expeditions provided information for the mapping of a vast area of the Arctic with its complicated islands inlets and straits.

Although much knowledge was gained through Arctic expeditions in the mid-nineteenth century the canoe route across Canada remained, for a long time, the backbone of the east-west transportation system and one we will "rediscover" with our Centennial canoes. Even today, with all our technology, the north west passage via the Arctic waterway is not for use by commerce.

During Centennial year Canadians will be hearing at history with renewed interest. Like the story of the search for the north west passage which I have barely touched in this short column, there are many more which make fascinating reading for young and old.

SURPRISE! ON RETURN

There's nothing more pleasant than getting back to your own home after a holiday. Unless, that is, you've been spending a month in a posh resort, and your own home is that unpainted two-room shack behind the town dump.

This week, we were looking forward to it more than ever. It had been hotter than Hades, and our house, surrounded by oaks and maples, is always cool. It had been a long drive, and we were tired. And while we were away, with the cooperation of our friendly banker we'd had the trim painted.

When we pulled off the highway and headed down our own street, we were practically purring with anticipation. A long, cold drink under the oaks. A leisurely inspection of the paint job. A long evening of idiot lust or reading. Luverly.

As we drew up to the house, my wife squealed with delight. It looked splendid, with the shutters and trim whiter than white against the rosy brick and deep green ivy. I agreed but couldn't help noticing that the grass was ankle-high, and that on each branch, thicker than a man's head and thirty feet long, had been blown over and straddled the fence, or what was left of it.

However, after three hours of dodging dump trucks on the main highway, all I wanted to do was fall into a chair and mumble a cold one.

As soon as I opened the door, my wife shrilled, "Bill, there's a terrible smell in here."

"Nonsense!" My standard reply. For one thing, my wife has a nose like a bloodhound. This fatality is allied with a vivid imagination. She frequently smells smells that I swear are non-existent. She is even said my column stinks. on occasion. Imagine.

But this time, "Dad she's right." Kim backed her up. "Yich. It's horrible. And look at the flies, everywhere. Yich!"

"All right." I sighed, as only a father and husband can sigh. "I'll "Don't get excited. It's probably just dampness from the cellar. because the house has been closed."

The old lady was distracted for a moment by the pile of mail inside the front door. She pawed through it, looking for a letter from her first-born. She found it. As I stepped upstairs with my suit-cases, she shouted excitedly from the letter, interspersed with comments on the horrible smell.

I came down and headed for the refrigerator. Wiped my forehead, licked my lips and opened the door. Even with my flu I could smell it. I was knocked flat on my back on the floor. I hadn't smelled anything like it since the time of Normandy. 1944. Pure putrefaction.

Two inches of blood on the bottom of the fridge. Streamers of what looked like congulated intestines hanging from the shelves. I opened the freezing compartment. Six steaks, bought when they were on special at 89 cent. A fivepound roast. A two-pound leg of chicken livers. Hamburg, pork chops, frozen vegeta bles and orange juice from heavy cans. All clinging together in a soggy stinking corpse.

I'd prefer to draw a veil over the next few hours of domestic discord. But I'll give just the highlights. After an hour of bawling mutual recriminations disclosed that we were both to blame. She had decided to defrost the fridge the day we left, ten days before. I had insisted we did not have time. Finally, she had agreed. But she turned off the freezing unit and forgot to turn it on again, in the confusion of getting ready to go.

A trip to the town dump with two huge garbage cans and 400 flies. Two hours of scrubbing the thing out with soda, vinegar and good hot water. Net result, zero. All doors and windows open all night but it was still like sleeping in a slaughter-house.

Call next day to friendly insurance agent. No dice. We weren't covered for stupidity. Visits from friendly neighbors and police dossier whose eyes lit up even as his head wagged dolefully. "You'll never get rid of the smell." Dealer related various horror stories from past experience.

Net loss: food bill, $50. Plus our friendly trip to the coast.

Oh, well. We couldn't afford that trip anyway. But we'd probably have gone. Now, we really can't afford it. So look at the money we've saved. Or something.

ANTELOPE AND NON-TROPHY SHEEP
HUNTING LICENSE APPLICATIONS

ANTELOPE Open Season — October 22 to October 29, 1966

SHEEP Open Season — September 1*

This year, a random selection of a limited number of antelope and non-trophy sheep licenses will be made from all valid applications received from Alberta residents. "Resident" means a person who has resided in the Province for a period of one year immediately prior to the date of application for a license.

Before applying for a license it is necessary to have a 1966 Wildlife Certificate. A group of hunters, up to a maximum of four, who wish to hunt in the same vicinity may submit their applications in one envelope. Each applicant is only allowed one application. As there are several areas open to antelope and non-trophy sheep hunting, please indicate on the front of the envelope your first, second, or third choice.

Each applicant who is not drawn on his "first choice" area has an equal opportunity to be selected in his "second choice", etc. All applications must be submitted on a special form available only at Provincial Fish and Wildlife Offices. As illegible or incomplete applications do not qualify, it is important to carefully read the instructions.

A money order or certified cheque payable to the Provincial Treasurer must be enclosed with each application.

—$7.50 FOR ANTELOPE LICENSE
—$3.00 FOR NON-TROPHY SHEEP LICENSE

Completed applications should be forwarded to: Fish and Wildlife Division Department of Lands and Forests Terrace Building Edmonton, Alberta

Application Deadline Postmarked September 3rd for Antelope August 20th for Non-Trophy Sheep

*Check with the local Fish and Wildlife office for length of season.

NO SOLUTION IN SIGHT

Canada has been able to sell more wheat in export markets during the past few years than ever before in that nation's history. This favorable turn of events has been beneficial not only to the producers of the grain, but to almost every facet in the nation's economy.

But twice within the past year labor trouble has stopped the outward flow of wheat. First it was at Vancouver where terminal elevator workers went out on strike for more money and shorter working hours. More recently the holdup was in St. Lawrence river ports in the east. There again empty ships anxious to fill their holds with wheat stood by for over a month while longshoremen picketed the piers.

These hold-ups have cost the loss of markets and chaotic conditions in vitally important shipping centres. But it availeth little to rail against organized labor. Such is the system under which they operate.

The desirable objective would be for the country to set some kind of a tribunal, acceptable to both labor and management, which would have the authority to hold hearings and arrive at decisions in such disputes. But that idea seems now to be far-fetched to deserve attention. — Brooks Bulletin

In his address to the annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society, London, the Rev. Samuel M. Shoemaker, General Secretary of the Bible Society in Australia, stated that all is not well in the Bible Society world today. "No rationalization" he said, "can satisfactorily gloss over the fact that the distribution of Holy Scriptures in the world today is inadequate."

The sooner the leadership of our churches and the rank and file of their congregations come to realize that eighty percent of the world's population depends upon the Bible society movement for its Scriptures in vernacular languages the sooner will it be able to regain the ground which it has lost and is being lost by the increase of population and the growth of illiteracy.

Canon Arrowsmith issued a call for a greater personal stewardship from the churches and from the individual Christians in underwriting the program of the Bible Society movement for the future. The financial enterprise can cost to publish the written Word of God in a missionary language and to put it on missionary terms at a price which confronts it to the tune of a permanent deficit. He said that the Bible Society is doing Commercial enterprise never seen before in the Bible Society or else. These are the conditions which have made the Bible Society absolutely dependent in the whole Christian Church today.

In too many instances it can be shown that the church is giving the Bible Society its petty cash. "The Bible Society movement today," he concluded, "demands from the church a deeper seriousness about Holy Scriptures, a stronger emphasis on its expansion, and a greater sense of responsibility for its distribution."

Services Held At Rosalind For Lewis Arthur Reber

Mr. Lewis Arthur Reber

Mr. Lewis Arthur Reber was born in Cottonwood, Minnesota on February 20, 1886. He passed away at St. Mary's Hospital in Camrose on July 7, 1966, at the age of 80 years, 4 months and 15 days.

Lewis Reber emigrated to Canada with his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Reber in 1912. They settled in the Hardisty district. In 1933, he was united in marriage to Helen Alicia Seake, and to this union were born three children: Toots Mrs. Leroy Reed of Calgary, Florence, Mrs. Ronald Friend of Rosalind, and Raymond of Kelsey. He farmed in the Hardisty district until 1943, when they moved to Rosalind and bought the Grand-dad Reber Homestead. Three years ago, he retired and the farm and moved into Rosalind, where he has resided until his passing.

He is survived to mourn, his loving wife Helen, one son, two daughters, one daughter in law Shiela Mrs. Raymond Reber, two Son-in-laws, twelve grandchildren, two sisters; (Elsie) Mrs. Geo Stuart of Hardisty, and Gibby Mrs. Bob Lauie of Meadow Lake, Sask., and six brothers; Fred, Leo, Bob, and Tommy of Valleyview, Alberta. Willis of Penticton, B.C. and Clarence of Yuma, as well as several nieces and nephews.

He was predeceased by one sister Frank, fourteen Roy and Johnny, and one grandson Reggie.

Funeral services were held from the Rosalind United Church in Rosalind, on Saturday July 9, 1966, at 2:00 p.m., with Rev. McNeil, officiating. Interment was in the Greenview Cemetery, with Messors Bob Dawson, Sydney Johnson, Ingvold Johnson, Clyde Lohr, Walter Ramstad, and Bert Freizel, serving as pallbearers. Honorary Pallbearers were Messers: Wm. Gent, George Bowie, Earl King, Roy Nichols, Chas Brunson, and Ed Mellwin. Burgar Funeral Home were in charge of arrangements.

The BIG 3 Show TIME TO SEWER

YEAR OF THE STRIKE. It's been a year of violence, walkouts and strikes on the Canadian labor, scene, with 329 strikes started across the nation in the first six months of 1966 costing 1,500,300 man-days. Above, police drag a struggling striker away from the besieged Stelco plant in Hamilton, Ont., during a moment of violence. indicates the worst may be yet to come.

SOCREDS PLAY BALL

On Monday, July 8th, the Young Social Credit met at Mercy School for a ball game and weiner roast. A group of Killam young people attended also and defeated the Socreds at fast ball.

Following the weiner roast, guest speaker Garnet Peterson, joined the group around the campfire. He spoke about the Three Problems of Today that Demand Decision.

First the population explosion. Second — cybernation and Third — Socialism or the Welfare State. He then described solutions to these problems and Social Credits view point. A challenge was offered to each young person to meet these problems intelligently and without fear.

DAYSLAND TEACHER AT CONVENTION

DAYSLAND— Sheila Purves of Dayslaud was among the approximate ly 300 teachers attending the eighteenth Annual Conference of the Alberta Teachers Association which started on Sunday at the Banff School of Fine Arts

Every local in the Province is represented at the conference.

Mr. Hans J. Bergeron, Executive Secretary of the California Teachers Association was guest speaker on Monday evening.

Different sections of the conference will be devoted to Professional Development, Teacher Welfare, Leadership, and Long-Range Plans. The largest group, some seventy teachers, presidents and secretaries of locals, will make up the Leadership section.

Hail Damages Ripening Crops

Grain crops have made fairly good progress in the past week towards maturity and are starting to turn to golden brown. More warm dry weather is needed to bring them to the cutting stage as they are running from one to two weeks behind normal for this time of year.

Wheat crops have made a remarkable recovery in the past month and with warm weather there should be some good yields this fall.

Hail has caused considerable damage in various parts of the area with a particularly bad storm on Wednesday afternoon last week. This storm did its worst damage in a strip north of Highway 12 between Daysland and Strome where the damage ranged up to 100 percent. Over three inches of rain fell and the hail started with stones about the size of marbles but just at the end the rain stoped and the hail stones changed to about the size of fifty cent pieces. Many windows were broken and it was reported that corn stalks were broken off by the stones, also damage was reported to poultry, pigs, and other farm animals.

This storm seemed to pass just north of the Town of Daysland cost across the middle of Wavy Lake which is about four miles north of Strome and crossed Highway 26 about six or seven miles north of Killam afterwhich it appears to have turned north-east passing eleven to fifteen miles north of Sedgewick and Lougheed and going towards the Wainwright area.

Reports of damage have come in from all along this strip, with the amount of damage varying widely. While the storm piled hail stones up to six inches deep west of Wavy Lake it seemed to let up the farther east it came but damage to many crops still ranged up to 80 and 100 percent.

In the south part of the M.D of Flagstaff a number of showers fell during the week and some spots of hail were received but no reports of serious damage have come in.

Chariots Race At Edson Rodeo

July 28th and 30th Daysland Chariot Club took part in the Tri-Service Rodeo at Edson, taking part in the parade on Friday and Saturday mornings.

Before the evening races the chariot outfits paraded before the grand stand, and were introduced to the crowd, also riding on the chariots was Miss Dominion of Canada, Miss Marjorie Schofield also the President of the rodeo Mr. Jim Griffins. With a large crowd on hand both nights an exciting show was put on. with four upsets on Friday night and five on Saturday night being very lucky no one was hurt in any way.

Jack Bisener of Killam won the Steadman's Trophy with the best time of the two days, 2nd Phil Hogg of Sedgewick, 3rd Crossroads Pharmacy of Viking outfit driven by Vic Howery, 4th Kenny Jacobsen of Killam Farm Equipment, outfit driven by Linda Borgel.

The Daysland Chariots and Chuckwagons were busy at the Camrose Fair on August 6th, 8th and 10th, racing two evenings with 40 chariots on hand, the Killam Farm Equipment, outfit driven by Linda Borgel took time of the two evenings. The Einer Pederson outfit of Killam driven by Jack Bisener placed second. The Kenny Jacobson Chuckwagon outfit of Killam placed 5th for the two days.

The next races coming up are at Camrose, Leduc, Vermilion and the Eckville Rodeo next week.

43rd Agricultural Fair Sets New Records

LOUGHEED— Last Friday the 43rd Annual Agricultural Fair was held at Lougheed and it was the biggest and best in the memory of many old-timers.

Exhibits at the Fair were increased in number and variety and attendance set a new record

Rain the day before and early Friday morning had appeared to put a damper on this years Fair but the sun came out and it was one of the finest Fair Days in years. While it was warm enough for the sports fans and ball players to walk around in short sleeves it was not so hot that the cattle and horses were bothered and this helped those who were showing animals.

The number of exhibits in the poultry, flowers, vegetables, grains and grasses, baking, needle-work, etc. were about the same as last year with the quality being up to the usual standard. These exhibits were on display in the Curling Rink

It was in the Horses and Cattle classes that a very large improvement over former years was shown. There were over 70 head of cattle on display and entered in competition and several old-timers said the quality of the cattle was the highest they could remember in the history of the fair The number of horses entered was far grenter than in former years. particularly in the Shetland Pony classes. Mr David Little, one of the original organizers and exhibitors of the fair made the presentation of two cups which had been in competition since 1917 and 1927 respectively.

After the cattle and horse judging was completed a Gymkhana and Pony Chariot Race was held for the enjoyment of the large crowd

Each year the fair has a display of farm equipment made by various manufacturers and this time the display was so large it filled a long strip from the entrance to the grounds east to the baseball diamond

In the Baseball Tournament which involved four teams Amisk-Sedgewick Oldtimers won the first game 14 to 6 over Amisk-Hughenden. In the second game the Lougheed Wildcats defeated the Strome teams 8 to 5. The final game was late getting started and was called after three innings with Sedgewick leading Lougheed 6 to 4.

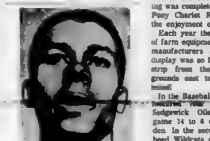
Brownfield defeated Lougheed in a softball game on the Saturday by a score of 2 to 1 In the first game Lougheed beat Forestburg 4 to 3 and Brownfield won the second game 33 to 2 from Killam

A complete list of prize winners will be printed when it is available from the Fair Board

JOHN PYRA SCORES IN HUSKIE GAME

In a game against the Calgary Wranglers at Clarke Stadium on Sunday afternoon John Pyra who is playing with the Edmonton Huskies Junior Football Team scored a touchdown for his team when he blocked a Calgary kick in the end zone and fell on the ball to score.

John played with Central High Rams last fall and this year is a



STRUCK GOLD. Canada's Harry Jerome, though the only man in history to twice share world records for both the 100 yards and 100 meters, has never before won a gold medal in an international meet. His win in the 100-yard event at the British Empire Games in Jamaica makes him the first Canadian to win the 100 yard sprint in a B. E. Games since Percy Williams' victory in 1930.

Grade 12 Results Above Average

A brief report on Grade IX results will be given out at a later date.

The following statement was released by the School Division concerning the results in this June's grade twelve exames.

Grade Twelve examination results in the Killam School Division on June. 1966 examinations surpassed all previous records for the Killam Division. A total of 463 Grade Twelve examination paper were written. Of these 69.3% received a mark of 50% or better whereas the provincial average is 60%.

Twenty-one students received matriculation passes consisting of at least a 60% average in five subjects. Supplemental examinations written in August will very likely increase this number.

John Trevor Chapman. Central High School, received an average of 93.8%. He will receive an award of fifty dollars from the Killam School Division

Awards for individual high schools are customarily not released, however particular mention should be made of Central High School where 74.3% of the papers written received an average of 70% or better.

Express Buses To Carry Students

Arrangements for the busing and accomodation of students in the Daysland and Heisler area have been announced by the Killam School Division to take effect on September 1st, 1966.

Heisler School students in grades 10, 11, and 12 will be bused by two non-stop express buses to Daysland It is expected that these buses will leave Heisler at approximately 8.30 a.m. Arrival back at Heisler will be programmed to coincide with the afternoon closing of the Heisler School

Arrangements have been made with the Executive of the new Community Hall at Daysland for the rental of temporary class-rooms for the Grade 1 pupils of Daysland. This will permit the operation of an adequate program until the new schools are completed for September 1967

GERMS ARE GROUNDED. To prevent any germs from becoming hitchhiking astronauts, spacecraft technicians take precautions as oldster sits on computer during operations. In the first game of the day the Spring Lake team won 3 7 to 5 victory over Killam the Lougheed Wildcats in a close hard fought game.

Strome was the winner in the second game defeating, Rosalind by a score of 9 to 4.

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

A VISIT TO THE HOMETOWN

Spent a week in the old hometown recently, and, as usual, it was anything but a rest. The weather was perfect, but the hospitality was exhausting.

It's not really my hometown. I didn't grow up there, technically. But I spent a decade there in the newspaper business, and maybe I grew up there in other ways. Anyway, when you walk down the main street, and every second person stops to shake hands and ask about your family, and tell you what their kids are doing now, it's your hometown.

A smallown changes and yet remains the same. A few businesses have changed hands. Some of the stores have new fronts. The paint on the hotel has been changed from passionate purple to ghastly green. The shady, tree-lined street on which you used to live has been raped: the stately trees cut to ugly stumps, as the street is to be widened.

But the biggest changes are in the people. The young men you used to work and play with are grizzled or as bald as eggs. The young women you used to look at with some interest become of their big eyes are nagging and dowdered. The lovable kids that your kids used to play with are hulking adolescents, some of them delinquents with police records. And your old partner, once apparently indestructible, is taking slight different colors of pills.

Despite the changes, there is continuity as comfortable as an old fishing hat. The Chamber of Commerce is still fighting over store hours. The Industrial Commission is on the verge of announcing a huge new industry. The fire brigade races periodically to the town dump, where the incinerating process has got out of hand because the caretaker has hogged off for a beer.

Some of the local characters have gone to their reward, but many are still around. The local lawyer still plays his electric organ between clients. The local wiffleasture still slugs bags of salt and feed into the back of his '56 model and lugs it out to feed his cattle. The barber, with whom you once shared a riotous Legion xmas rally, still quips with his customers, though he went off to fight in a war over 50 yrs. ago. The canny Scot chortles as he tells you his shore lots are now going over 24 000. The same waiter insults the same customers, in the pub. The same beer barrel in banana form sits in the same spot in the same pub.

The same people still come to the same cottages. Except that the pregnant young matron was a skinny kid in bare feet last time you saw her. And the handsome young chap who works at the summer store was a tyke called Johnny-Cake last time you saw him.

However, it's good to get back for a visit. And it's never uneventful.

Kept my hand in by writing a few news stories for the paper. Took the family to the Indian reserve; some beautiful view and easy-going inhabitants. Dropped in on old friends and got all the latest dope on who was going crazy, and who was running around with whom.

Had a beer at The Cedar Rail, most unique bar in the country, and with best prices. It's a shed on a farm, full of tools and baled hay. A cedar rail extends across the front. You stand there with your farmer friend, lean on the rail and look at the lake down below. We've seen deer and bear from there, and covered local politics and talked cattle.

Got stuck in the sand at the beach, to the rage of my wife. She went flying off to find a tow truck, in a friend's car. While she was away, I was pulled out easily by a man with no arms, who had a chain in his trunk, a wife to drive his car, and a gaggle of kids to help push. Sounds like fiction, but it's fact.

It could only happen in or around the old homeland.

10 YEARS AGO
(From Press Files Aug. 14, 1956)

Sedgewick Oilers won the first game of their playoff with Barrhead for the Northern Alberta Title by a score of 3 to 2. Next Sunday the two teams play at Barrhead.

Many of Killam's old timers have been seized relating experiences and reminiscing bygone days, while they were studying the pictures and articles in the Killam Co-op window many of which date back 50 to 100 years.

Wes Fedkar Jr. and Dennis Gollin are both on the crippled list this week, both having broken collar bones. It is said that accidents come in three's so who's next.

A fire of unknown origin broke out in the garage on the farm of Mr. Leif Oubek causing about $1000 damage to the building and a tractor which was removed after the fire was discovered.

30 YEARS AGO
(From Press Files Aug. 15 1936)

Barnard Engle returned to Killam on Sunday from a trip that took him 9,000 miles by aeroplane. He travelled with friends from Edmonton and their destination was New Orleans. He reports that on the way back they noted the fields where crops were completely harvested in parts of the States, while getting closer to home they were being cut, then the green crops of Manitoba and finally the white areas of frozen grain in Saskatchewan.

A farewell will be held in the K. P. Hall on Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hay and family who are leaving Sedgewick to reside in Edmonton.

The first game of the League Playoffs between Strome and Spring Lake resulted in a win for Spring Lake. The game was played in Strome on Sunday.

25 YEARS AGO
(From Press Files Aug. 14, 1941)

The 23rd Annual Fair of the Gosse Creek and District Agricultural Association was held on August 6th. This year's fair was every bit as good as those in the past and President T. Edwards and Sec. D. Black, assisted by efficient directors, have given a good account of their stewardship.

Mr. John Sank reports that his new coal mine south of Daysland is now ready for the fall business.

We've added some new horses to our corral.

They offer you a powerful advantage.

When it comes to hauling your freight, we're not talking about old Dobbin.

The horses we're talking about are the horses you find in our diesel locomotives. We mean hard-driving horsepower. And plenty of it. If you add up all the horsepower in all our diesel locomotives, you get a figure of a million and a half.

And to meet the stepped-up demands of shippers, we're adding 95,000 more this year; 99,000 more early next year.

That's a lot of horses. And they're for hire. They gallop your freight to the next city, the next province, or clear across the country any time of day or night. Like old Dobbin, they're working horses. But unlike old Dobbin, they don't get tired at the end of the day.

And to make sure our horses speed your freight where you want it to go, we spur them on with the latest in handling techniques and communications.

You see, we're a company of people serving you. So we do our best to ship your goods as quickly and efficiently as possible.

We figure that makes good horse sense.

Serving you in so many ways.

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES MEET

Mrs. Marion Gibb was hostess for the August 11th meeting of the Presbyterian Ladies Association when nine members, two visitors, and Mr Perrie were in attendance.

The Devotional portion of the meeting was taken by Mrs. Geo. McCabe and Mrs. D. MacEachern and opened with singing hymn 19 followed by prayer. The Scripture reading was taken from Psalm 91 read in alternate verses. The topic was taken from "The Record" and dealt with Centennial celebrations in Formosa. Devotions closed with Rev. Perrie's closing prayer.

The business meeting opened with the president's gracious words of welcome to the visitors. The roll was answered with a verse of scripture followed by the reading of the minutes and their adoption. The president thanked all those who had helped in any way with food or work at the Killam Sports Day to help make it a success.

The various committee's, Visiting, Home Helpers, Welcome and Welfare, and Cemetary all gave interesting reports as Summer work being accomplished.

Two quilts were valued and sent in to apply on allocation as well as a motion to submit a donation to the local cemetary.

Plans were put in motion to cater for a reception early in October, also it was hoped that some of the members might attend a Presbyterial Work-Shop in Edmonton on Oct. 1.

The business meeting closed with repeating the Mizpah Benediction, followed by a lovely lunch served by Mrs. Lars Erickson and Mrs. Hamel Hills.

FOREST FIRE DAMAGE INCREASES

OTTAWA— Forest fire damage throughout Canada during June was nearly three times as high as in the same month of 1965, Department of Forestry estimates indicate.

Some 215,000 acres were hit in June by 1,275 fires, compared with 75,000 acres damaged by 1,457 fires in the same month in 1965.

The June 1966 estimates include 158 fires in the Yukon and Northwest Territories burning some 72,000 acres. During the same month last year the amount was much smaller, 1,000 acres with only 76 fires damaging 167 acres.

The seasonal estimated total of 1.4 acres Canada to the end of June now stands at 354,000 acres damaged by 2,862 fires. This is a marked increase over last year's acreage figure for the same period when 132,000 acres were damaged by 1,439 fires.

To the end of May this year, 1,697 fires has swept 29,000 acres.

Tour Newspaper Plant

Mrs. Alex Ference of Amisk and Mrs. Andrew Ference of Consford, Alberta, accompanied by their children toured the Community Press Plant and watched the newspaper being produced last Tuesday afternoon.

They saw the Linotype setting the type and watched as the pages were being locked up and readied for the press, then watched as the press printed the newspaper and it was folded on the folding machine.

The Sedgewick Golf Club which has operated for close to fifty years in the past two summers completely redesigned the layout of the course and built a new club house and other facilities, including the planting of over 2,000 trees at their Centennial Project.

On Sunday, August 28th, the official opening of the Sedgewick Centennial Golf Course will be held at 2:00 p.m. with Mr. C.H.P. Smallwood, M.P., and Officials of the Alberta Centennial Commission in attendance. The public is invited to attend and use this fine new golf course.

All Golfers are invited to enter the Annual Sedgewick Men's Golf Tournament which will be held the same day commencing at 9:00 a.m.

This well kept golf course is just one of the many recreational facilities which makes Sedgewick a year-round leader in recreation for the whole family. You are invited to make use of these facilities.

CROP REPORT

PEACE RIVER—Only odd, light showers occurred and crop conditions remain very inconsistent. Some localities are suffering, but on average to good crop, but most stations report that prospects are now somewhat below average. Rain and warm weather are needed to improve prospects.

LOCAL— Recent showers have been helpful in filling the heads and improving feed prospects but on the whole only a light crop is in sight.

GENERAL—Considerable sheer activity occured during the past week, being heaviest in the south. Moisture conditions generally are good. Crop conditions are excellent throughout. Fair weather is needed to hasten maturity. There are many reports of lodging in heavy crops Harvesting of Winter Wheat and Rye is well underway in some parts of the south. Some early spring crops are being swathed in some southern districts.

Centennial Report

(By John W. Fisher)

"I expected that everyone here would speak with a real English accent and I didn't think Toronto would be so friendly as it is."

The quotation above, from a 16-year-old visiting Toronto from northern British Columbia, was used by Michael Ignatieff writing about centennial "youth travellers" in the Globe and Mail. From another, a young Montrealer, came this comment: "After visiting Vancouver I realize we have the most beautiful province in all the whole world."

This year more than 4,000 young people in 151 groups will have participated in the Centennial Commission's Federal-Provincial Youth Travel program. The total since 1964, when the program was started as a pilot project, will be more than 8,000 by the end of 1966.

The aims of the federal-provincial program are to give young Canadians the opportunity to meet and know other Canadians and to develop an understanding of their countrymen in regions other than their own. Another is to provide them with a first hand knowledge of the geography of the country and of the political, economic, cultural and artistic achievements of other provinces.

The Centennial Commission underwrites costs of travel, pays a per capita grant for incidental travelling expenses and a per capita grant for reception costs in host communities. It co-ordinates the program at the national level, provides travel bags, manuals, song books and name tags, one-day tours of Ottawa for groups passing through, and makes all travel arrangements.

Each province or territory selects students and escorts (usually high school teachers) through its department of education. Orientation and briefing sessions, supervisor reception arrangements in host provinces and links after general co-ordination within the [illegible]

Provincial departments of education choose by let the schools that will take part in the program. The principal of a school chooses a number of students and his choice is not based on academic record alone. All-round students, who meet people easily, usually are selected.

The federal-provincial program is not the only Centennial scheme operating. Another one, called Voluntary Youth Travel, provides for Commission grants to private agencies or organizations. The object is to expand already existing youth travel projects or encourage additional ones.

The voluntary program differs from the federal-provincial program in that the Commission is not involved in administration. Well over 10,000 young people will have participated this year in these associations' travel projects. A result of the Commission's 1965 grants program under the Voluntary Youth Travel Scheme.

The young men from northern British Columbia visiting Toronto told his Ontario hosts: "What surprises me is that you people aren't any different from us." If we accomplish only what is implied in that sentence among the thousands of participants, Canada's investment in the youth travel programs will be well worthwhile.

PREVENT LOSS OF GRAIN FROM TRUCKS
Moving grain in unprotected trucks results in considerable loss of valuable grain. In addition, weed seeds are spread along road allowances and this can create a serious weed problem.
A specially designed wind baffle has proven effective in eliminating this problem. Detailed plans may be obtained free from your nearest Searle Elevator Agent or by writing to: Agricultural Service, Searle Grain Company, Limited, P.O. Box 943, Winnipeg 1, Manitoba.

SHORTAGE OF TREES

Word has just been received from Mr. P. D. McCalla, Supervisor of Horticulture of the trees available for planting in 1967. The loss of hardwood cuttings of Poplar and Willow has been high and so there will be no further orders accepted for willow and poplar.

The list of trees available for farm orders are as follows: Caragana, Honeysuckle, Lilac, Colorado Spruce, White Spruce, Lodge Pole Pine, Green Ash, Manitoba Maple and Siberian Larch.

PLANNING A NEW HOME

The prospect of building a new home is indeed pleasant. According to statistics released by Central Mortgage and Housing the average home last year cost about $18,000 or $12.00 per square foot. This did not include extras such as a fireplace or built in furniture.

With so much at stake nobody can afford to build a new home without taking plenty of time to collect ideas and shop carefully. The Home Design Specialists with the Alberta Department of Agriculture state that it usually takes families about two years of planning and decision making before they know exactly what they want in a new home.

Mrs. Bagshaw, Home Design Specialist for this area, strongly advises that farm families planning to build a new home should contact their District Home Economist. She has many publications on housing and home planning designed for Alberta living. Together with useful information that can be gathered from visiting new homes and home builders enlists your District Home Economist and Home Design Specialist can help you select the best home plan for you and your family.

KILLAM NEWS

On Wednesday of last week a few farmers north of town were quite unfortunate to get in on the hail storm that hit quite suddenly. Anybody know of a real good paying job for some hailed out farmers. Its nice to get the crops off early before a frost strikes but not in this manner.

Congratulations to Annette Tryhn of Stroome, a member of the Heisler 4-H Clothing Club, for winning an Inter-Provincial 4-H Exchange Trip to Prince Edward Island!

The Provincial 4-H Eliminations were held at the Olds Agricultural and Vocational College August 2nd to 5th, at which Annette was one of forty-one 4-H members from across Alberta to win a award trip. About 244 4-H members from all projects competed at Olds for the award trips.

Winning this award is a culmination of five years of active 4-H by Annette. She was a member of the Heisler 4-H Garden Club and the Heisler 4-H Clothing Club. She is also an alternate delegate winner from the Provincial 4-H Eliminations held last year.

OUTDOOR STEAKS

Choose tender steaks, about one inch thick. (Rib steaks are easier on your budget than T-Bones) Slash fat edges at intervals to keep steaks flat. Trim off outer edge of fat from steaks, as dripping won't blaze up too much. If drippings flare up during cooking, sprinkle the fire lightly with water to quench the blaze When coals are hot, tap off gray ash with fire tongs. Let the grilling heat then grease it and put on the steaks. When you see little bubbles on top side of steaks they are ready to turn.

Heat forces the juices to the uncooked surface. Flip steaks with tongs and pancake turner — piercing with a fork wastes precious juices. Broil second side a few minutes less than the first — turn only once. For one-inch steaks cooked medium-rare, allow 13 to 15 minutes total broiling time.

To season: Salt and pepper each browned side of steak right after turning, you salt uncooked meat. The juices will be drawn out and you'll lose good flavour. Serve sputtering hot, with a pat of butter atop.

LOOKING THEM OVER—Judging the cattle entries at the Lougheed Fair was a big job this year as the number of entries increased considerably over former Fairs. Also the quality of the cattle was said to be much improved and was rated as the highest in the forty-three year history of the Fair. This indicates local cattlemen are improving the quality of their cattle herds and speaks well for the district.

Quebec Students Appreciate West

Mr H. E. French of Sherbrooke, Quebec, who was chairman for the Youth Travel Program students who recently spent eight days visiting in this area, wrote to Mr. Gordon Fee of the great benifits the Quebec students received from the travel program The following are a few excerpts from that letter.

Dear Mr. Fee.

We arrived back in Sherbrooke safe and full complement of twenty-four students, at 2:00 a.m on Tuesday, July 26, 1966.

I am confident that you are already aware of the warm feeling of gratitude felt by all the students, for these by the numerous organizations who participated. We would like to thank the individual members of your committee, who gave of their time and hospitality in making this visit amongst you, such a memorable event.

I only wish that you all could have been with Mrs. French and me on the way home and have heard the glowing terms in which the students described their experience. It would have done you all proud. If these student exchanges continue, I'm afraid Quebec may lose a large percentage of its young population to Western Canada.

I fervently hope that this student exchange programme will be continued and accelerated. I know of no other way in which the misconception which divides our country, to such a lack of knowledge of one another, can be dispelled as by bringing our young people from the different provinces of our country together, so that they may see for themselves how little we differ and how much we have in common.

I am sure the interest in the Youth Travel Program and individuals who participated in your programme for four that I might inadvertently over-look one or the other. So to you and through you, to each and everyone who participated in making our stay amongst you such a heart warming experience, I ask you to accept on behalf of the students, Mrs. French and myself our profound gratitude and thanks.

Yours sincerely

Schools Open September 1st

All schools in the Killam School Division will re-open for the 1966-67 school year on Thursday, September 1st. This first and opening day will be for a half day only for the purpose of registrations etc. The only exception to the above is the Hutterite School which will remain open all day on September 1st.

The following day, September 2nd, will be a regular school day at all schools, followed by the weekend which will include a holiday on Monday, September 5th, Labor Day.

Entries Increase At Flower Show

SEDGEWICK—The annual Flower Show and tea sponsored by the Prince of Peace L.C.W. on August 12, brought a record number of 234 entries The flowers and house plants made a very colorful display, and the judges, Mrs. E. McKenzie, Mrs. O Black and Mrs. W. Routledge, had no easy task in choosing the best of each class.

Special prizes were awarded as follows:

Best children's entry was won by Lorraine Gascoyne, a picture donated by Beairsto Bros.; Best dark red glad award went to Mrs. E. Finnegan. place mats donated by Fordo Wong, best single large decorative dahlia award was won by Mrs C. James, a picnic cooler donated by the LCW; Lonnie Backen won the prize donated by Cooper's Drug for the best single rose; A plant waterer, donated by Backen's Garage, was won by Mrs Campbell for the best African Violet, and Mrs. Ole Lundie won two quarts of oil donated by Byciuk Motors for bringing flowers the greatest distance; Mrs. Peter Myrehaug won the planter donated by the Co-op Store for the best plant stand donated by W. Howden for the best tall bouquet of mixed varieties; Book ends donated by Sedgewick Bakery and the Meat Market for the best arrangement of roses; and the award donated by Cumberland's for the most first Fishom.

The L.C.W. is happy that so many came to see the flowers and entered the show, and hope that we may have as fine a show next year

M.D. Council Meets

Commencing at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, August 10th the Council of the Municipal District of Flagstaff met in the Council Room for their regular monthly meeting with the Reeve, all Councilors, and the Secretary in attendance.

An offer from Mr. Geo. Smolski of Killam to purchase one old black grader presently situated on his farm was accepted.

The Council Meeting adjourned at 11:25 a.m. to meet as the Farm Purchase Board and consider the application of Mr. Donald Coulson to purchase the SW 30-43-11-W4 containing 160 acres. The application was accepted. The application of Mr. Peter L. Myrehaug to purchase the NE 20-44-11-W4 was considered and accepted. The application of Mr. Charles E. Cameron to purchase the W½-13-43-13-W4 containing 320 acres was accepted. The application of Mr. Andrew R. Cameron to purchase the N.E.-12-43-W4 containing 160 acres was accepted. The Committee meeting adjourned at 2:00 p.m. reconvening as the Council.

A delegation from the Council of the Tp. 44 of Sedgewick met with the Council to discuss their request to assess certain properties from the M.D. Council gave approval to the annexation by the Town of Sedgewick at that portion of the NW 5-44-13-W4 east of the present Town Boundary and that portion of the S.E. 8-44-13-W4 west of the present Town boundaries and north of the C.P.R. providing the annexation met with the approval of the land owners concerned.

Mr. Robert Hilton of Street-Robbins-Morrow Equipment Co. met with Council concerning new machinery available from his firm.

The accounts and paymnets were approved for payment.

Gravel Crushing foreman, P. Lewis, interviewed the Council and advised them that with the recent rains it was going to be difficult to crush the gravel remaining in the Blats pit. He requested direction with respect to the size of gravel they wished crused at the Enright Pit. He was informed that unless production was being curtailed too much the Council preferred the 3/4 crush Permission was granted for Mr. Lewis to purchase a tester for checking electrial coils and fuses.

The committee appointed to inspect the Public Works site chosen in the S.E. 26-43-14-W4 had done so. The owner had been contacted and had agreed to sell the M.D. sufficient land for a motor grader shed and dwelling, at a price of $300.00 per acre. Ernest O. Wair, Stewart and Watson had been requested to survey the site and had surveyed a 1.70 acre site in the extreme south east corner.

It was decided to instruct Parkland Lumber of Sedgewick to commence as soon as possible the construction of a motor grader shed and a residence on the 1.70 acre parcel at the same cost and conditions as those being erected on the 2 acre site in the SW 3-45-13 W4.

At the end of the 1965-66 crop year, July 31st. Canada's wheat carryover was down 90,000,000 bushels from the year before, to 422, 000,000. This is a decrease of seventeen percent.

A.M.A. Car School

LOUGHEED—Alberta Motor Association is operating a Driving Instruction School at Lougheed with classes running from August 15th to 27th.

The School is for both beginning drivers and fully licenced drivers who wish to improve their driving habits

There are sixteen people taking the lessons with twelve of these being teenagers Three of the students are from Sedgewick and the rest of the class is from the Lougheed district.

Besides the benefits of improved driving habits taking the course has the extra benefit of entitling many graduates to a discount on their car insurance

New Teachers Hired

A regular meeting of the School Trustees was held with all members of the Board and the Superintendent in attendance.

Mr. V. A. Fallenberg, general repairman was authorized to hire a helper at a straight hourly wage and no overtime and conforming to regulations under the Alberta Labor Act.

Payment of bills on the Supplementary List No. 167 to June to 75 July was confirmed and approval given to the payment of bills numbered 76 to 128.

The following appointments to the teaching staff were approved: Miss Elaine Fleon to the Hutterite School, Opal Ponto to Alliance Jr. H.S., and Catherine Horricks to Lougheed Grade 5 and 6.

A request from Mr. R. Streich to have his High' School children included in a fee agreement with Forestburg Consolidated School District was refused and he was informed of the Board's general opinion that better instruction is being offered at Central High School and that mileage should be a secondary consideration.

Teacher Training Bursaries of $200.00 were granted to the following: Donna Mae Homan, Nancy Eileen Reade, Lois Blomhagen, Lois Elaine Jackson, Carol Faye Taylor, Shirley Ann Kroetsch, Diana Mary McShane, and Lesley Ann McDevitt.

It was moved the tuition grants of $24.00 per month per pupil be paid the Camrose Retarded School for the Division's children attending from January to June 30, 1966.

Attendance of Jim Watkins of Hardisty in the Camrose Composite High School was approved, and a boarding allowance of $45.00 was granted.

The Poplar Park Site was sold to Mr. E. H Usselman for $65.00.

It was decided to ask ministerial approval to borrow an additional Vacation Time Not All Roses!

A vacation is a refreshing period of relaxation. A time when the cares of business and employment are set aside. At least that is the intended purpose of a holiday. Perhaps it doesn't always work out that way, especially for those who are left behind to carry on short-handed. The Community Press is staggering holidays for the staff during July and will continue until late August, during which time it it the responsibility of those on the job to carry out the work. While we used to close up shop during vacation time we have found that this is no longer economically sound, what with rising costs and increased business. Many weeklies still close, while others take on extra help during the vacation period. But help in the trade is hard to come by these days.

We recall one publisher who advertised for help for the summer months with this result from the only applicant: I don't smoke touch intoxicants or gamble. I am faithful to my wife and never look at another woman. I am hard-working, quiet and obedient. I never go to the movies or the theatre, and I go to bed early every night and rise with the dawn. I attend chapel regularly every Sunday without fail. I've been like this for the past three years. But just wait until next spring when they let me out of here.

$635,000 from ARDA

Paradoxical as it may sound, it is nevertheless true that ARDA will spend some 635,000 dollars over the next four years on an intensified program of soil conservation in the province of Alberta. Soil conservation is necessary and nobody can fault the program, for without it agricultural production would diminish and the entire economy of the province suffer. But one can certainly find fault with the method.

It seems strange that on the one hand we find such a huge sum of money being spent on a program of field, roadside and farm shelterbelt tree planting, while on the other hand the farmers themselves are rooting out trees at a steadily increasing rate on the farm, while the Municipal authorities are killing by spraying thousands of trees along the roadsides. One group rips them out and another replants them with new growth.

It is difficult to condemn a farmer for squaring off his fields by removing bluffs. He saves time and money in his operations by so doing. Besides this he puts taxable land into production. But we believe that discretion in removing trees is called for, and the leaving of trees as borders and shelterbelts is a necessity. That the ARDA program is going on apace is an indication that this belief is entertained by governments as well.

Even though Alberta has had a program of tree planting for many years, there is still an urgent need for its continuation in order to reduce soil erosion from winds and drifting snow. There are many areas in Alberta, once tree covered which are rapidly becoming exposed to wind damage and if attention is not paid to the situation many acres of fertile crop land could become less useful.

Good shelterbelts will protect from wind damage an area equal to twenty times the height of the trees, they conserve moisture and reduce evaporation. More important perhaps is the fact farmers benefit from increased agricultural and livestock production made possible on the leeward side of the shelterbelt.

It is not our business to tell a farmer how to farm, but it becomes our concern when the soil of our province is rendered inferior and the economy suffers through lack of foresight. Trees should be taken out with extreme caution and with an eye to the future.

Unbalancing The Balance!

Man tries! He really works at it! But you know something? For the most part he's wasting his time and it's an even bet he'd doing more harm than good. Now that we've got your interest, we'll tell you in on what we're getting at.

Mankind is continually trying to improve on nature. In doing so he forgets that nature was around long before he was, and as an individual he will be long gone while nature will continue to run things as they should be run. There are so many areas where man has failed utterly in such endeavors that we could not come near getting to all of them, but there is one that interests us a great deal.

You may not believe it but the coyote is becoming extinct to a large degree. We used to enjoy watching this unbelievingly clever animal at his daily work. His smart antics in catching a gopher for his lunchtime snack is a display of intelligence that cannot be matched by man himself. True he exerts the same cleverness in snatching a chicken or a young turkey from the farmyard, but these nocturnal excursions will never compare to his ability to keep the balance of nature in the animal kingdom under control. Just as we are raising the number of coyotes around the country we notice the increase in the number of gophers and other rodents a which account for huge losses in grain.

Why don't we just decide that we are in the wrong field and let nature take care of her own. She always has done a pretty good job, and we are confident she could continue if man will quit trying to replace her.

Just a few days ago I was standing talking to an acquaintance who drives a car equipped with seat belts and couldn't help noticing that he was sitting on his instead of having them done up. The next day I read that the Depart of National Defence has directed that every driver and passenger of a DND vehicle shall properly adjust and fasten the seat belt as soon as they enter the vehicle and keep it fastened while the vehicle is moving. The driver is responsible for making certain that each of his passengers has properly fastened his belt before the vehicle is permitted to move. So much publicity is given to safe driving that people seem to become complacent and ignore small things such as seat belts which might save their lives or even prevent serious injury. Seat belts have proven their worth on numerous occasions when riding in a vehicle

Many labor disputes, in recent years, had a tendency to go to extremes in their demands for benefits and in the methods of attempting to achieve their goals. Recently a group of strikers smeared tons of manure on a lacrosse game because the management of one of the mines worked at a plant which was struck. The public reaction was rapid and caused them to have a change of heart. Lacrosse has a hard enough time competing with hockey as Canada's national game without having to compete with the new national pastime, picketing.

The Letter Box

The Editor,
Community Press
Dear Sir,

I would like to say a few words with regard to the debenture poll to be held on August 30th.

The people of the Killam School Division would do well to think twice about spending a lot of money to patch up schools which won't be able to do the job they should be doing for our young people. It would be money well spent if it was going into the building of a big new central school.

I would like to quote from an article in the August 10 Edmonton Journal:

"It will be tragic if mimi-term social problems compete only overshadow educational needs in the current debate over school centralization.

The issue is education and the issue is critical.

The truth is, whether rural people like it or not, many if not most of their children will have to seek their future in large cities.

If these children do not have the best educational possible to allow them to compete with city-educated children in this age of technological explosion, then rural children will surely become the city slum-dwellers and underprivileged population of tomorrow.

Beside a consideration of this magnitude, the emotions of parents and the whole centralization controversy become trivial.

We ask that the people of rural Alberta get back their sense of perspective; to place important considerations first.

If they do not, they may find that along with the petty vicissitudes of today, they also will earn the contempt of their children for the rest of their lives."

★ NACOUFF REPORT

Transport Troubles

OTTAWA— Transport Minister Jack Pickersgill returned last week from a short, hastily snatched holiday, the last he may get for some time. His immediate preoccupation, like that of the rest of his colleagues in Cabinet is the rail labour crisis.

To bet on the outcome at the moment would be more hazardous than placing money on a long shot outsider at the races. He sees little point in reassemble to expect any it is not altogether happy prospect. The settlement, whether it be through government intervention, conciliatory or voluntary arbitration, and whether it is achieved with or without a walk-out will not be the settlement proposed by the Cameron-Munro Conciliation Boards. Regardless of the merit of those decisions a government that, in panic, offered seven locomotive and seaway workers and longshoremen cannot expect the railway unions to accept half that amount.

With the rail crisis over — and it will pass as do all other unhappy events — Mr. Pickersgill will have to turn his attention to the battle of the seaway tolls and the stalemate of the moment between the United States and Canada. The Minister of Transport has been offered a temporary out which he will probably accept. Two bills go-fore the U.S. Congress would extend the ipal time in which the U.S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation must repay its debt and would change the form of debt. To pass these time to needed and the Corporation is ready to grant a postponement of the final decision on tolls if Canada agrees.

There are good reasons why Canada should agree, not least of them that the railway legislation which has still to come before Parliament, it is only common sense that the future of the railways should be decided before tolls are fixed for the competing form of transportation.

As things stand at the moment postponement of the toll increase for another shipping season would merely delay the moment of truth. It would do nothing to settle a disagreement that is basic. The U.S. government and the Corporation, for the time being opposed to the 10 per cent hike in tolls on the lower canals as well as the proposed lockage fee on the Welland might be ready to accept the higher tolls if the lockage charge were dropped. The Canadian government and the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority are far more interested in the lockage fee which eventually would go a long way towards amortising new capital expenditures planned, an expenditure that may equal Canada's original contribution to the joint seaway construction.

Much more is involved here than the fact that the government would not be ready to subsidize the future users of the Welland to this extent. the majority of them are American. The real issue is the battle to save the little ships. This is made plain in a report prepared for the Seaway Authority by J. Kates and Associates, management consultants of Toronto and Montreal. The Authority so far has refused to make public more than a few excerpts from the report but is obviously convinced by its arguments.

The DMA's counterpart in the United States has taken the same stand and has the backing of the U.S. Corporation. With a much smaller contribution to the original capital cost of the joint seaway than Canada and seas concern over future capital costs it can afford to rely on a toll system which allows less oceanomic usage so long as rates are not too high to maintain volume. Its original insistence on tolls in the days when Canada still wanted a free waterway was due far more to the strength of the railway lobby in Washington than any idea of relieving the taxpayer of subsidy charges. That lobby is disappearing smaller ports whose facilities could not handle the giants. If the small ship goes, these ports face the alternative of costly harbour expansion or dropping out of the shipping business.

10 YEARS AGO
(From Press Files Aug. 23, 1956)

With a 4 to 3 win over the Bayfront Club on Sunday the Sedgewick Oilers clinched the Northern Alberta Intermediate Championship and the coveted cup which for the past three years has been won by the Edmonton Beverly Bowls.

While out berry picking north of Lougheed last week, Mrs. Bart Wheeler came upon a tiny Turtle basking in the sun near a slough. Mrs. Whitehead said the animal was about 6 to 8 inches across. She brought the critter to town and turned it over to Mr. Edwards, D. A., who put it on display at the Goose Creek Fair.

Mr. Ken Brewer was unfortunate enough to break his leg while escaping from a nest of angry hornets.

20 YEARS AGO

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

BIGTIME IN THE BIGTOWN

Burning desire of most city people in the blazing heat of midsummer is to flee from the concrete canyons and head north, where there is cool, lake water and golden sand and you sleep under blankets

Well, we live in the north, comparatively, and usually it's just as the city denizens picture it.

But this summer, after sleeping under nothing but a film of sweat for three weeks, we decided to seek refuge from the heat.

How do you get to 57 Head further north? Hope, you head south for the city and check into an air-conditioned hotel. With a swimming pool.

It was done on impulse, with no room reservation. We were lucky. After four phone calls, we found ourselves ensconced in a fine big room, cool as a tomb, overlooking the swank swimming pool. And yet it was right in the heart of the city.

Very pleasant. Free parking and free ice cubes appeared in my Scottish drinks.

We called a few people, and by 8 o'clock the joint was jumping. Room service was on like gangbusters, and the room was filled with everything from teenagers to a grandmother who had just knocked off her 78th birthday and was prepared to celebrate the event till dawn.

Fortunately, cooler heads prevailed, and by 11 p.m. all had gone their various ways. What to do? Tea ists for dinner or a show. Too early for bed.

My wife, who turns into a Go-Go Girl when she gets into a hotel room and hasn't any meals or drinks or laundry to worry about, suggested we hit the coffee-house circuit. My daughter, whose foremost desire is to do just that, but by herself, demurred.

"We want to go there with parents? And besides, I hear they have other sleep-overs into them."

"Weddiya mean, old people?" chorused her Old Lady and her Old Man

When the kid realized there wasn't a hope of getting into that teenage pagan-pad on her own, she graciously permitted us to go along.

And that's how we found ourselves in famous, or infamous, Yorkville, at midnight, with about 4,000 young people strolling up and down the sacred couple of blocks, or their nightly pilgrimage.

Within five minutes, we'd been spotted by one of my students, who seemed delighted to catch Mr. Smiley in the act, so to speak. We took refuge in a cellar joint.

Maybe I'm getting old and crusty. But the coffee houses have changed greatly, and for the five years since I've been there.

Then, they were run by enthusiastic amateurs, you could spend a whole evening for a dollar and a quarter, and the music was provided by young folk singers, some lousy, some good, but all earnest and rather sweet.

Now they're gone commercial. There's a stiffish cover charge, coffee is 20 cents a valley and rotten, and the music, provided by groups whose sole purpose seems to be to drive you right out of your skull, is my great blast of electronic noise and shouting.

Ironically, the places there become too expensive for most of the young people they were originally founded for. Perhaps that's why they walk up and down outside in one vast, rolling crowd that is always painfully a mob.

Oh, well, it was a good weekend. We had budgeted for one night only. But we didn't wake up until checking-out time. It was still steaming hot outside, and the girls came up with some of that weird feminine logic which proved that we could afford it if we cut down on something or other. So I was hoaxed for another 24 hours of reading to be a millionaire.

We landed, swam, watched the real rich people spoiling their kids, had an hidden dinner, and back to Eric Nicol's comedy, catching three seats in the second row by sheer luck. Enjoyed it, but I'm afraid it will hit Broadway about the same year I win the Nobel Prize.

And home Sunday, up the highway north, rusted and refreshed, and laughing all the way at those sun-burned, exhausted vacationers pouring south, on their way back from the sizzling north to the tropical city.

Walking To School

Will your child be entering school for the first time this Fall?

The Alberta Safety Council urges parents whose children will be walking to and from school to see to it that their children are taught how to get there promptly and safely.

Before school opens, children should be carefully taught how to recognize standard traffic signals and how to obey them. If special pedestrian signals are used, they should understand these too.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Sound Off...

OTTAWA—The Canadian Government is quite prepared to hold another Federal-Provincial conference on Medicare. But for the life of them the Pocketf officials can't understand what the Premiers will find to talk about because there have been so many conferences already on the subject that both sides are about all talked out.

However, at the Annual Meeting of the Provincial Premiers held early in August in Toronto the Premiers indicated that they did not like many aspects of the Medicare plan as proposed by Ottawa. This has been wrongly interpreted in some quarters as a shattering disagreement with the scheme. Only Premiers Thatcher of Saskatchewan and Robichaud of New Brunswick indicated they were in agreement with the Federal Plan.

Premier Manning of Alberta came out flatly and firmly opposed to Medicare. He rejects any such scheme that has compulsion in it. He believes in unfettered free enterprise. Premier Bennett of British Columbia and Smallwood of Newfoundland were not at the Toronto conference.

The Premiers who were critical of the Plan were not in agreement over their criticisms. Some voiced objections because they said there had been a lack of consultation. This protest brought strong reactions from Federal Health and Welfare Department spokesmen. They pointed out that Medicare has been the subject of many conferences. There has been more consultation over that Medicare than over any other shared plan implemented by Ottawa.

It would appear that the Premiers will have to have been in close contact with their Ministers of Health, or they have decided to take a critical stand hoping to get more money from the Federal Treasury. In any case the Federal Government is prepared to call another conference if that's what the Premiers want. Ottawa is not adopting a "take it or leave it" attitude

If the provinces come up with some workable alternative plan for altering the Federal plan that are reasonable then the Federal Government is ready to make some compromises. That much emerged from the storm of words that blew up when the Premiers sounded off

Prime Minister Pearson was questioned about Ottawa's attitude when he held a press conference shortly after the Premiers' meeting. The Prime Minister said his province agreed with the principle of Medicare but objected to being told that the provinces "must join" the plan by July 1, 1967. The Federal officials say that here is clearly a case of misinformation. The Pade r a l Medicare legislation, which has already received first reading in Parliament, made it clear that provinces can join the plan after the starting date of July 1 next year.

The bill will be before the Commons for second reading in the autumn session. If another Medicare conference of Health Ministers is summoned the proposed legislation may not be passed until the next Parliament.

Mr. Pearson has pointed out that the Federal Bill provides for Ottawa paying half the national average cost of Medicare pases in each province. The plans have to meet certain requirements laid down by the Federal Government.

The Prime Minister takes the position, "if the provinces don't want to participate, that is entirely up to them". However, it is not quite that simple. Mr Pearson and his Health and Welfare Minister MacEachen are pledged to proceed with the legislation on a high priority basis They would like to see as many of the ten provinces as possible enrolled in the scheme. They recognize that the Premiers will be trying to get more money out of Ottawa.

It is the old political game of "gouging" the Federal Treasury. The provinces — much as they resent that they are not "gauging up" on Ottawa — have formed a mare or less united front on the Medicare issue But when the chips are down and Ottawa takes the position that the provinces can "come in" and have half their Medicare costs paid or stay out and go without a Medicare Plan, or pay the costs themselves, the answer seems obvious.

Thatcher of Saskatchewan has pointed the way. He is no Socialist. He inherited a Medicare scheme when he took over the government in that province from the C.C.F. He welcomes the Federal scheme. Why not? It means that Ottawa will be paying half of his Medicare bills. One by one the other provinces will fall in line. It is true they may work out some refinements in the plan, which may be more beneficial to them in the long run. But universal Medicare is coming in Canada. It is inevitable.

CROP REPORT

PEACE RIVER— Crop prospects remain uneven, some are good, others are only fair. The overall average is about normal but crops are late and require hot weather to hasten maturity. Some early sown barley is being swathed.

LOCAL—In this area, which experienced drought throughout the growing season, recent rains have supplied moisture for filling, consequently prospects have improved considerably but the overall yield will be somewhat below average.

SOUTH ALBERTA— Cool unsettled weather has characterized this whole area during the past week. With few exceptions moisture supplies are adequate and crops are filling well. In the south crops of winter wheat and rye are in various stages of harvesting, being well advanced in some areas and the harvesting of spring crops is starting Crops generally throughout this area are very good but are late and hot, dry, monsoonish weather is needed to berry them to maturity.

Monday night there was a very enjoyable picnic at Jubilee park and Tuesday night the Beestock parade and grandstand, followed by the midway.

Four girls from Lougheed came home with prizes, given to them as outstanding members of the camp. Lorna Skrabalak, Margaret Ann Probst, Marla Neus and Sharon Probst were the winners.

Our Alberta Heritage
GREAT NORTHWEST PIONEER VILLAGE

See how one man recaptured the spirit of Alberta's pioneer past.

The Great Northwest Pioneer Village is more than a museum — it is a monument to the pride one man has in our Alberta heritage. That man is Earl Denard, son of a pioneer family. He has assembled a fascinating collection of thousands of relics and artifacts, housed in twenty-five original pioneer buildings. Mr. Danard's unique collection includes antique cars and engines, cutters and buggies, the first Indian school (built on the Hobbema Reserve by Rev. A. B. Baird in 1863), and an authentic Greek Orthodox chapel that accommodates just two worshippers.
This living historical village represents a tremendous outlay of interest, time and effort in creating a unique tribute to the pioneer history of our Alberta.

Take your family out to visit the Great Northwest Pioneer Village — it's located just twenty-three miles west of Edmonton on Highway 16.

FEDERAL AND SEARLE MERGER ASSURES BETTER FARM SERVICE

The recent announcement that Federal Grain Limited and its wholly owned subsidiary, Alberta Pacific Grain Ltd., and Searle Grain Company Limited would merge will mean more than the effective use of financial resources. Consolidation provides greater management depth and puts the three companies in a better position to offer increased services to customers. There are real benefits for every producer . . .

Federal Grain and Alberta Pacific have long maintained an Agro Service Department for the express purpose of providing producers with the best information available concerning latest farming methods, weed and pest control, plant diseases, and the use of agricultural chemicals. This valuable service is now available from all Searle Grain agents.

Searle Grain is widely recognized for its research programs in farming and livestock practices, as well as for the manufacture of pellets and other feed grain products. Now, all Federal and Alberta Pacific customers can enjoy the benefits of these programs.

The consolidation will result in greater efficiency through a better distribution of country elevators, and the new organization's combined terminal elevator facilities at the Lakehead will improve grain handling efficiency there, an important factor in the light of Canada's record export wheat sales.

The new organization, all-Canadian controlled, will make no immediate changes in operating policies. Management and staff will not be affected by the merger. The three companies will continue business under their present names, offering customers expanded and improved services. Have a talk with your nearest agent or country manager and find out exactly what's in it for you.

Sedgewick United Church was the setting for a pretty summer afternoon wedding on Saturday August 6th. Before an altar banked with summer flowers, Nuptial vows were exchanged between Florence Emily Wilbraham daughter of Mr. and Mrs Owen Wilbraham of Calgary and Mr. Leslie Thomas Carson of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas cox of Rosalind, Alberta.

The Reverend Mr. Zwicker of Hardisty performed the double ring ceremony

The Bride, escorted down the aisle on the arm of her Father, was lovely attired in a white organza empire style gown under a white lace coat on the same lines. Her bridal veil misted from a coronet style head piece. A bouquet of white roses and carnations completed her ensemble.

Miss Valarie Arbuckle as maid of honour and Miss Lacy Wilbraham as Bridesmaid were gowned in yellow satin brocade on empire lines with yellow tulle veils supported by brocade bows. They carried bouquets of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

The Groom was ably supported by Jim Hilsby of Kelsey, as groomsman and Bill Herman of Calgary as best man.

Mr. Lee (Chuck) Eastly and Mr. Don Cox ushered the guests to the Pews which were marked with nosegays of flowers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wilbraham chose a Navy and White printed silk suit, with white accessories and wore a corsage of Red Roses.

Mrs. Cox, mother of the groom, chose a turquoise linen suit with white accessories and also wore a corsage of red roses.

During the signing of the Register Mrs. H. W. Smith, aunt of the bride sang "Oh Perfect Love", accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Art Edwards.

At the reception in the Church Hall, Mr. Art Eastly, uncle of the bride was Master of Ceremonies. who also gave the Grace. ninety-five guests were seated; graciously catered for by the Ladies of the U.C.W Toast to the Bride was given by Bill Herman, suitably replied to by the groom.

Telegrams were read from England, Calgary, and Prince George, B.C.

Mrs. Smith pleasantly concluded the festivities with the singing of "I'll Walk Beside You", Accompanied by Mrs. Edwards on the piano.

The bride chose a navy and white Houndstooth coat and dress with navy straw hat and a corsage of pink roses to make her departure from the wedding dance held at Rosalind. A motor trip to the west coast completed the wedding of the young married couple.

Grain Rail Movements Establish New Records

Canada's two major railways have set a new all-time record for moving grain during the 1965-66 crop year which has just ended.

The privately-owned C.P.R., handled 313,387 cars with 423,241,000 bushels of grain in the crop year which ended July 31

The totals are 15,463 cars and 20, 342,000 bushels higher than the previous records established in 1963-64.

The government-owned C.N.R handled 191,744 cars with 279,774,000 bushels up to the end of July. Its previous records were 180,574 cars and 276,282,000 bushels in 1963-64.

Of the total 813,015,000 bushels moved by the two railways in the Crop Year just ended, Canadian Pacific accounted for 53.3 percent.

The performance of the railways was well above commitments made by them to the Canadian Government last August when the 1965 Russian order was announced.

The records were rung up despite shortages of locomotives which forced the two railways to rent diesels from a number of United States railroads and in the face of some of the most severe winter weather in recent years

The problems which faced the railways resulted in public criticism on several occasions that they were failing behind in handling grain.

Canadian Pacific, in particular, came under fire towards the middle of the crop year when weather and elevator unloading problems caused the railway to lag behind targets set by the Canadian wheat Board, the federal body which oversees the collection and movement of grain But the CPR went on to surpass its overall target. in spite of a record volume of other traffic it was required to move during the same period.

At one time the two railways had up to 82 diesels under lease from U.S roads to keep the flow of grain moving. However, railroads in the U.S., with traffic problems of their own, had to take many of the diesels back before the end of the crop year.

One result of the diesel famine was a decision by both Canadian railways to purchase new locomotives. the CPR ordering 65 and the CNR 14. The moves were made with an eye both to future export grain orders and to beaming increases in a variety of other domestic and export movements.

Already in 1966 overall freight car loadings in Canada have climbed more than seven percent from the previous year with some commodities, such as fertilizers including potash, agricultural implements, auto products, lumber, newsprint and paper, chemicals and manufactured iron and steel products ranging up to 25 percent higher

Bad weather, which can play havoc with grain traffic because the bulk of it moves during the winter season, was also a problem.

Severe cold such as experienced last winter, reduces the number of cars a diesel can haul and can also freeze switches and signalling equipment

Blizzards and snow slides can produce even lengthier tie-ups. During a 19-day period in January, the CPR suffered eight major slides on its main transcontinental line through the rockies, and at one time had to delay freight trains on the line more than 117 hours to clear the tracks

4-H AWARD WINNERS

At the 1966 Provincial 4-H Eliminations held at the Olds Agricultural and Vocational College. Aug. 3rd and 4th, Ken Eshpeter of Stroma, Janet Akesen of Dayaland and Annette Trisha of Strome won award trips. Out of nearly 250 top ranking senior 4-H members from all parts of the province. 45 boys and girls won award trips.

Kenneth Eshpeter of Stroma, from the Wavy Lake 4-H Beef Club was one of 12 winners who will represent Alberta at the 1967 Centennial Seminar to be held at L'Esterel Quebec in the summer of 1967.

Janet Akesen of Dayaland, from the Rosalind Beef and Dairy Clubs was selected along with 13 others to take the popular trip to National 4-H Club Conference in Ottawa and Toronto in November 1966 at the time of the Toronto Royal Fair

Annette Trisha of Stroma, representing the Hardisty Clothing Club won one of the nine award trips for the Inter-Provincial 4-H Exchange in July of 1967. Annette Trisha will be travelling to Prince Edward Island.

The much coveted Premier's Award given by Honorable E. C. Manning for outstanding achievement in 4-H was won by Miss Laura Fiskies of Lacombe. Miss Fiskies has completed 7 project years in the Castor Clothing, Beef and Garden Clubs and held all club offices.

Our congratualations go to these 4-H boys and girls who have done so well over the past years. We sincerely hope you enjoy your award trips and will have exciting accounts of your trips to tell your 4-H members in the home clubs.

FERTILIZER AND FOOD

The increased use of fertilizer is one of the major methods of producing the additional food needed to feed the world's growing population. A paper, presented at the Annual Meeting of the National Academy of Science, Washington, D.C on April 1965 suggested the following interesting facts about fertilizer and food population.

One ton of plant nutrients, contained in two to three tons of fertilizer, will produce about 10 tons of cereals, enough to provide 2,400 calories per day to 10 people for a year. A fertilizer plant producing 1,000 tons of nutrients per day would therefore provide 3,400 calories per day for about 15 million people per year. The fertilizer plant would cost $30 million to $75 million, about $4 or $5 per capita.

A compliment is the penne that refreshes.

Centennial Report

1867 1967

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

I mentioned the old French Fortress of Louisbourg in my last report, among places to visit during Centennial Year.

Built by the French, at a cost of ten million dollars during the reign of Louis XV, the Fortress of Louisbourg on Cape Breton island passed back and forth between French and British hands, underwent 2 sieges and finally was blown up by British demolition troops in 1760.

Developments in the 18th century which, in the long run, resulted in Canada eventually becoming one country, in connection with Louisbourg. The federal government, therefore, through the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources, is restoring a large part of the fortress, now a national historic park.

At the Centennial Commission we think of the restoration as a Centennial project although perhaps we can't argue it is such on the basis of technicalities because it was started in 1961 and will continue until the early 1970's, at a cost over the years of at least $12,000,000.

The old city and a large part of the battle ground outside the ruined walls were set aside by the government as a national historic site in 1928. During 1935-36 a museum was built facing the site of the citadel and it contains momentous presented by citizens and relics which have been unearthed in the ruins of the fortress. The site was made a national historic park in 1940 and thousands of visitors see it every year.

The new project for restoration of the fortress will reconstruct the main features of fortifications, the famous Dauphin Gate, a representative selection of smaller building s, homes and barrier works. Some existing features such as siege works also are to be restored.

As well as Louisbourg, the New England states of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut Rhode Island and Maine have strong historical connections with Louisbourg. Four thousand New Englanders were involved in the first siege and conquest of the fortress in 1744. (Britain had 6 of Louisbourg back in the French in a 1748 treaty but again conducted a siege and conquered it in 1758. British demolition troops blew up the fortifications in 1760.)

Louisbourg was a key factor in North American defence and trade for almost half a century. The study of that era can be a fascinating pastime for laymen and the restoration of the old fortress and buildings will give us new insight into the history of our country and an understanding of it.

RAIN STOPS HARVEST

Just when harvesting was getting started to roll the rains returned and everything was brought to a sudden halt.

Combining of rape, barley, etc. was very general throughout the district with a considerable amount of these crops having been put into the bin for this year.

Swathing of wheat was becoming common and the hot dry weather that had prevailed was drying the swaths at a record rate. Only two or three days after being swather the wheat was ready for combining. Wheat that had been swathed early last week was being combined by Friday and Saturday.

It started raining on Saturday night and early Sunday morning and then cleared up for most of Sunday and Monday night somebody pulled the plug and the rain came down in torrents, easing up a little during Tuesday.

How long the rain will last and delay the harvest is anyone's guess. Maybe when this wet spell is over the weather will settle down and we'll have a nice fall.

Reports from the elevators say that most of the wheat samples coming in are grading No. 3 although there hasn't been a large amount of wheat taken off yet, so this may not be a reliable indicator of the grade of this years crop. At any rate the wheat harvest is delayed for at least another week and longer if the rain continues.

School Building Plans Explained

The following is presented by the Board of Trustees of the Killam School Division No. 22 as Public Information Re: Building Program, at Daysland School and for which a Plebescite is being held between the hours of 1:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. on September 10, 1966 in all schools as universal.

The total area of the additions at Daysland amount to 16,250 square feet. Of this total 15,000 square feet will be picked up by the Government of Alberta under the regulations of the Foundation Program and for which they will allow a grant based on $16.00 per square foot.

In addition the government will approve Equipment grants as follows:

For Industrial Arts 1728 square feet at $4.50 square feet $6,904.00; For Language Lab 900 square feet at $7.00 square feet $6,300.00; For Science Area 1050 square feet at $1.50 square feet $1,550.00. Total equipment grant approved $14,704.

Any additional amount required will be the responsibility of the Division as far as furniture is concerned. Building costs are based on the Governments estimated cost of $16.00 per square foot.

The Board of Trustees of the Killam School Division urges all proprietary electors to exercise their franchise on September 10, 1966.

Strome Co-op Building Store

STROME—At a meeting of the board and members of the Strome Co-operative Assn. held on Monday of last week, approval was given for the erection of a new modern store building. The estimated cost of the project is $40,000.00.

The board plans to sell debentures in the amount of at least 15 to 20 thousand dollars, with the remainder of the cost being borrowed. Debentures will be sold at once and the board hopes to commence the building early this fall. The new building will be erected just south of the present store and will occupy lots now being used for lumber and an egg grading station. When completed, the old store will be demolished and the area used as a store parking lot.

The Association will also expand its lumber business and open a supply outlet, along with fertilizer, and for this will occupy the old K-M Garage just north of the store site.

Mr. Al Falkingham, store manager, informed the Press that the U.F.A. Co-op intends to erect a new and bigger bulk station in the Village in close proximity to the new store. Mr. Falkingham says that when the new facilities are completed, the Association will be able to offer customers a complete, modern service.

FORMER WEEKLY EDITOR APPOINTED

The appointment of William W. "Bill" Draayer as Publications Editor with the Division of Alcoholism was announced this week by The Honourable Dr. J. Donovan Ross. Minister of Health. Mr. Draayer brings to his new position a wide experience in the printing and publishing business. Former owner and publisher of The Wetaskiwin Times he has taken an active interest in the affairs of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Associat i o n and the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association. He is a past president at both organizations. In his new position Mr. Draayer will be responsible for editing and preparing for publication all printed materials produced by the Division of Alcoholism. In the public relations field his primary concern will be the print media of the province.

Former Resident Wins PNE Car

Attendance Thursday August 25th at the Pacific National Exhibition was 58,237 persons — more than 20,000 from the same day last year.

PNE officials explain the high attendance on the fifth day last year was due to Children's Day, which was held that Thursday because the Monday — the usual children's day — was rained out.

The first Children's Day this year was on Monday, it second one to set for next Monday.

Total attendance so far at the 1966 fair — 238,936 persons — is up 12, 707 over the same five-day period last year.

Winner of the fair's nightly car prize draw was Mrs. Edith Brandigen, 60, of 6021 Newton Wynd.

Grade 9 Exam Results Released

Results of the Grade IX Departmental Examinations for the Killam School Division have now been received. Of a total of 205 students writing at the different centres, six received Honors standing. 173 received Pass, and 26 students failed to pass.

RAIL STRIKE AFFECTS PRESS

While the rail strike does not interfere with the mailing of the Community Press to local subscribers, the Post Office is refusing to accept newspapers mailed to certain areas of Canada and the rest of the world.

No papers can be mailed to subscribers in British Columbia excluding the Peace River Block, nor can papers be mailed to any part of Canada east of the Lakehead. The United States is the only foreign country where subscribers will continue to receive their copies of the Community Press.

These restrictions will remain as long as the strike continues.

1966 Migratory Bird Regulations

Alberta waterfowl hunters will be able to hunt more ducks and geese this year, according to the 1966 Migratory Birds Regulations, released recently by the Canadian Wildlife Service, Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources.

The bag and possession limits for ducks have been raised to six and twelve, of which not more than three and six may be mallards. Not more than two canvasback or redhead ducks may be included in these daily limits. On and after October 14th two additional scaup or goldeneye may be taken per day and four additional may be possessed. Limits for geese this year are six and twelve, of which not more than three and six may be white-fronted geese and of which not more than five and ten may be Canada geese. Limits for rails, coots and gallinules are six and twelve, except that Indians, Eskimos, Metis and other persons living by trapping and hunting may take Twenty-five daily with no possession limit. Limits for Wilson's snipe are ten and twenty.

This year, for the first time, every waterfowl hunter must purchase a Canada Migratory Game Bird Hunting Permit. Sales records of this permit and questionnaires to some hunters will enable the Canadian Wildlife Service to find out the number of waterfowl hunters, where and when they hunt, how many birds of each species are killed, and

Open Golf Tournament Attracts Ninety Entries

SEDGEWICK—Last Sunday was the day of the annual Sedgewick Open Golf Tournament and despite the weather it had the largest number of entries in the close to fifty year history of the club.

Ninety golfers took part in the tournament which consisted of eleven flights and club officials hopping to get play completed before dark.

Fairways were in excellent shape and favorable comments were received form a number of visiting golfers on the fine facilities which the club maintains.

Rain on Saturday night had given rise to fears the tournament would be rained out, but although the sky wasn't clear and the sun only made it out occasionally, it didn't rain during the day and the tournament was declared a big success.

Mel Phillips of Camrose was the winner of the Championship Flight defeating Bill Cooper of Edmonton in the finals. Jack McFalene of Coronation took first and Clyde Clarke of Sedgewick 2nd in the consolation of the Championship Flight. Other winners were:

First Flight: 1st Bill Rose, Drayton Valley; 2nd Collin McClennan. Alliance. First Flight Consolation: 1st C. Farvolden, Forestburg; 2nd M. Lawes, Sedgewick.

Second Flight: 1st M. Fossen, Forestburg; 2nd W. Oberg, Forestburg. Second Flight Consolation: 1st W. Sweden, Hughendon; 2nd Carl Smith Forestberg.

Third Flight: 1st T. Walton; 2nd M. Moir, Sedgewick. Third Flight Consolation: 1st Ken Miller Sedgewick; 2nd E. Leah, Sedgewick.

Fourth Flight: 1st Bob McKenzie, Camrose; 2nd J. Stubbs. Killam. Fourth Flight Consolation: 1st Doug Goebel; 2nd Pete Spencer.

Wildcats, Oilers Play At Viking

Lougheed Wildcats and Sedgewick Oilers both played in a four team baseball tournament at Viking last Wednesday afternoon. The tournament was a part of the first Viking Sports Day held in some twelve years.

Wildcats played against Viking Shamrocks in the first game of the day, losing to the home club.

In the second game Sedgewick Oilers defeated the Two Hills team by a score of 14 to 1 and then met the Shamrocks in the finals which Viking won 13 to 9 in seven innings.

Playing his first game of senior baseball with the Oilers was thirteen year old Ronald Bradley. Ron played both games in right field where he made no errors. At the bat Ron collected a secrtice bunt which advanced two runners, and hit two singles.

M.D. Councillor Dies

GALAHAD—Mr. Ed Fardice, a Councilor in the M.D. of Flagstaff for many years died early Tuesday morning at his home near Galahad.

Mr. Fordice was Councillor for Division No. 2 of the Municipal District of Flagstaff and his regular term would have ended on Dec. 31st of this year and he would have been up for re-election in the fall elections.

A special meeting of the M.D. Council was called for Tuesday afternoon to make arrangements for the continuation of Municipal work in that Division.

KILLAM BRAVES 2ND AT CASTOR

Killam Braves played in a baseball tournament at Castor on Sunday and won second place

In their first game the Braves defeated Forestburg 12 to 2 and then got the bye into the finals

The Saddle mounts from Edmonton defeated the Braves in the final by a score of 6 to 4

The Community Press

"Independent, But Not Necessarily Neutral, In The Public Service"

Established on July 16th, Nineteen Hundred and Eight

Human Rights!

Those who go about claiming that whatever they wish to do is their right as free men living in a free society, tend to forget that their human rights, which were boastingly set down by Joan Diefenbaker, are not by any means inalienable or fundamental to the dignity of man. Nor are they God-given. The rights that man enjoys today are his because he was willing to fight for them in the first instance, and has the tenacity to continue fighting for them every day of his existence. Democracy is not freedom to be what you want, but the freedom to struggle to be what you must.

Putting freedom on the line continuously certainly isn't our idea of an orderly and comfortable existence, but when you take a real good look at it, is there really any such a life? Man's adventures down through the ages have always been confronted with what is, rather than what he thinks should be. In fact we don't think it would be an exaggeration to say that more times than not when we manage to produce what we think should be, we find that it isn't that way at all. Of course we are not suggesting that because this is so we should give up all ideals and just willy-nilly abandon all our ideas. We don't have to give up any of these, while at the same time striving for a little more realism in what we are rather than in what others think us to be.

So then what are we? If this question had to be answered outside of the country it would be easy. We are not American, we are not British, we are not French. While this may sound negative, there is a stronger positive angle. We are Canadian. There is, or at least should be, no such thing as Un-Canadian and if this were entirely true we would be the better for it. A strong operative way of life, which is found in Britain, America and to some degree in France or any other country, with a strong national identity, is not too easy to find in Canada. Most of us are aware of being something, but what that something is seems hard to identify. Because we can't pin it down or describe it, makes it no less valid and because of its elusiveness we find it hard to believe. But because it does exist strongly within us, whether we call it being Canadian or not, may be something that we must accept in faith. It is something we know and cannot deny. In the final analysis when we call ourselves Canadian, we merely indicate our geographical place of domicile and this in itself leaves us free to make of ourselves what we feel we must. After all isn't that what freedom and human rights is all about?

Too Many Solomons!

When we talk or write about a national problem we run the risk of making utterances which become meaningless as the situation is resolved before you reach the public. The local presumptions of us is something like the pitcher in the dugout; we know, or think we know how the game ought to be played. It matters little whether the problem is political, related to business or sports, we have the answer ready. While it is desirable that every citizen should interest himself in all phases of human activity at home or abroad, this does not justify an assumption, too often made, that those who do not think as we do are blind to the facts or incapable of forming a correct opinion.

Difficulties are made to be overcome, and to ignore them is merely groping in the dark. The newspapers are daily directing our attention to any variety of troubles looming on the horizon, some small and some large, all of which cause concern for those involved. Canada as a nation has discovered that having the freedom to govern itself, does not guarantee domestic peace.

Whether the recent settlement on the Longshoremen episode was for political expediency or economic necessity, we do not profess to really know. But this we do know. Prime Minister Pearson put himself in an unstable position with the 30 percent settlement, and left himself open to a checkmate from every union in the country. The rail strike cannot be settled on such generous terms, and the government as well as unions should recognize this fact. A settlement must and will come about, and if in order to do so legislation must be passed, then all parties in the house must see the light and stand united in an effort to see that strike action in the future does not endanger the entire economy of the nation. It requires courage and intestinal fortitude in government, and this is something Canada is woefully short of.

Persistency Pays Off!

We are so convinced that the individual as such has as little influence on things in general, that many of us just don't bother to try and right wrongs or improve matters. That it is no use trying, has become our watchword and thus we are content to let things drift along rather than attempt to upset the status quo. This does not necessarily have to be so. A Vancouver businessman had a son killed in a car accident in California. The car was riding in was hit broadside by another car driven by a man who had been drinking for several hours prior to the mishap. The drunkard was sentenced to a year in jail, and was again driving in eight months. The boy's father wasn't satisfied, went to California, talked to lawyers and the judge, and then unearthed the wrecked car from a junk lot. For two years he towed the wreck from street corner to street corner to street corner, with a sign, "A drunk driver killed a man in this car", and "Help stop drunk driving, sign here". He collected 20,000 signatures. His campaign payed off, when the Legislature passes a bill providing for much stiffer penalties for persons convicted of drunk driving.

In Alberta we are not likely to see such persistency on the part of an individual even though we all want to see drunken driving stopped. Maybe our M.L.A. will read this and start something.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.E.

Members of the Kinsella W I have recently seen the dedication of their Centennial Project which they started working on in 1964. The original project was to build new gates and a sanno for the local cemetery but when the Kinsella Welding Shop offered to build and donate the gates the project was expanded to include putting markers on unmarked graves. Members of the Kinsella W.I. are to be congratulated for their work.

Another Centennial Project, this one by the R.C.M.P., is the rebuilding of Fort Walsh in the Cypress Hills of southwestern Saskatchewan. The original Fort Walsh was built in 1875 by the North West Mounted Police. forerunners of the present day R.C.M.P.

On April 1st of this year Canada's population was estimated to be 19,859,000, an increase of 1,621,000 or 8.9 percent since June 1961. It was expected that the population would reach the twenty million mark about the middle of August. The countries population increases at about 22,000 each month. When you consider that the area of Canada is 3,852, 000 square miles, the second largest in the world, behind only Russia, it works out to about five persons per square mile or lots of breathing room.

CANDU - Maybe

OTTAWA—If Canada's 200,000 kilowatt nuclear power station at Douglas Point on Lake Huron is completed by the end of the year — the expectation of the moment it will be just a year and a half behind schedule. it had been planned to have it in operation by the middle of 1965

Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., partner with the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission in the Douglas Point venture, is anxious to find out why it is behind and has asked for a report from its power project division in Toronto to be presented to a new clear power symposium on October 14 and 15.

This is not an attempt to lay blame at anyone's door but rather to make sure that no lesson is be learned falls by the wayside where it will bear no fruit for the future.

Fears have been expressed in some informed quarters that Canada is in danger of losing the competitive position for the heavy water natural uranium type reactor (CANDU — PHWR) Such fears may be exaggerated. The only serious customer in the market at the moment is Pakistand, which is planning a 300,500 kilowatt station, has narrowed its choice to three candidates, the United States. Canada and West Germany which is manufacturing under American licence both the United Kingdom and France are out of the picture.

It is difficult to make comparisons, particularly since Candu's main competitor, the United States, using costly enriched uranium fuel, has still to prove its estimates of power cost. It is expected that the Cyster Creek project will come through with power at 3.7 mills per kilowatt hour and that the two 1,100 mega-watt stations planned by the Tennessee Valley Authority will do better than that.

The Douglas Point plant is expected to produce 5.9 mill power Capital cost of the Canadian reactor is higher; operating cost lower. AECL is confident that the CANDU on balance can stand up against competing types. Its annual report states the Corporation's conviction that in an area which can accept reactors with capacity for 800,000 kilowatts or more and remote from underdeveloped hydro sources nuclear power is the most economical. The larger the capacity , of course, the lower will be the unit costs. The first of four 500,000 kilowatt units is in preliminary stages of construction for the Ontario Hydro in Pickering Township near Toronto.

In addition to increasing reactor size, the lowering of nuclear power costs in Canada will depend for the most part on two developments:

1 New break-throughs in developing variations and improvements in the CANDU reactor. The first major variation is in the planning stage and has promise of success. The first design has been completed as well as feasibility studies for a reactor using ordinary light water in place of heavy water as a coolant. The CANDU — BLW eliminates the heavy water storage unit where pressurized heavy water was used to produce steam from light water. In addition to this the CANDU — BLW will need

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Editor:

Killam School Division No. 22 will be holding an important Debenture Poll on Saturday, September 10th, 1966, and the following is information to the ratepayers of the Killam School Division regarding the Poll:

On Saturday, September 10th, 1966 from the hours of 1:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m., you will be going to your poll to cast your vote in the question as to whether you are in favor of the Dayspring Sub-division building addition to the present school.

The Killam School Division Board of Trustees, together with the Heisler local school board, have decided and agreed to close the Heisler high school and bus the students to Daysland, to enable the classes to obtain a better and more comprehensive education, which is so essential in our young generation today.

The Board of the Division realizing that premises in Daysland facilities are inadequate, unanimously agreed too build on additional class rooms to accommodate the high school and elementary classes which have been seriously short of room for the past few years. The Board proceeded with plans, and the need was approved by the Buildings Board of Department of Education. Following the preliminary cost estimates. Debenture Bylaw No. 13 was passed unanimously.

Cost of Building and how it will affect your taxes: Under the present Provincial Government Foundation Program, the government pays a grant for approved school buildings to the extent of $18.00 per square foot. This means that when the school building plans are revised and completed, the entire building cost could very easily be entirely paid by the Foundation Program, and then there will be no additional levy on your taxes, outside of some school equipment that does not come under the Foundation Program.

Following the publishing of the Debentures, a small group of ratepayers, with no specific reasons, indicated why they were protesting. This of course requires a plebiscite vote, which will be held on September 10th. Your Board of Trustees feel that the Educational Survey recommendations and decided that in the best interest of all, high schools in the Division should be Centralized at Sedgewick and Daysland.

Your Board is sincerely soliciting your support so that it may be able to complete a most urgently needed building program at Daysland. Arrangements had to made to accomodate two primary class rooms in the new community hall. We are urgently in need of additional high and elementary school facilities as we can provide the education that your children are now being deprived of.

We urgently request you to vote yes on the plebiscite on September 10th.

Trustees: Leonard Niehaus, Chairman, Thomas Christian Sr., John Polehoy k o, Mrs. Helen Steadman, Russell Grad

Dear Sir:

When we elected our Municipal Council, did we deny ourselves the right to decide whether we should change to the County System or not?

Jim and Gladys Clarke

Dear Editor,

In last week's paper a "few words were said" by an Interested Parent regarding the debenture poll to be held on September 10.

May a few more words be added this week.

The people of the Killam School Division would do well to remember that a large sum of money has already been spent on Central High a couple of years ago. If borrowing the money for Dayaland School is voted against then even more money will be spent building a centralized school in Killam; thereby wasting the money already spent on Central.

There is no guarantee that all rural children will go to the cities to become the slum-dwellers and under-privileged population of tomorrow. If children have not respect for their parents before they reach high school then centralization will not do it for them.

The schools at Daysland and Sedgewick have served us well. We do not need centralization.

Protect the Tax-payers and vote "Yes" on Sept. 10.

Also Interested.

Upon letter to the Councillors of the Municipal District of Flagstaff.

At a representative meeting of the Ratepayers of Flagstaff Municipality on May 5, 1966, you were instructed to initiate a plebiscite whereby the wishes of the Electorate were to ab made evident in regard to the County System of Government. You have now, by your recent action in the matter, in arrogating unto yourselves autagonous and autocratic power in refusing to implement the wishes of the Ratepayers of the Municipal District. left to yourselves only one honourable course open: To tender your resignations as Councillors.

Prairie Wheat Crop Record Is Estimated

A record prairie wheat crop of 767 million bushels was forecast by United Grain Growers. This production, if realized, will exceeds the previous record of 736 million bushels produced in 1963 and last year's wheat crop of 633 million bushels.

The Company said a survey of reports from some 600 agents showed Saskatchewan's estimated wheat crop to be 509 million bushels, a record and equal to Western Canada's ten year average wheat crop. Manitoba's wheat production was forecast to be 81 million bushels, and Alberta's 185 million. In 1965, Saskatchewan produced 490 million. Manitoba 79 million and Alberta 133 million bushels of wheat. All 1966 estimates presume ideal ripening and harvesting conditions.

The Western Canadian barley crop due to a combination of larger seeded acreage and bumper yields was forecast at 340 million bushels. This exceeds the 1965 production by 35 million bushels though is well below the record 381 million bushels produced in 1952. Estimated total production by provinces with the 1965 production in brackets are: Manitoba, 35 million bushels (31); Saskatchewan, 70 (66); Alberta, 104 million (130).

United Grain Growers estimated prairie oat production at 358 million bushels, little changed from last year's 363 million though well above the past ten-year average of 305 million bushels. The record oat crop of 471 million bushels was grown in 1942. Estimated total production of oats by provinces with the 1965 production in brackets are: Manitoba 70 million bushels (72); Saskatchewan 92 (94); Ayberta, 86 (104).

The prairie flax crop was estimated at 21.5 million bushels, considerably below the 1965 production of 27.1 and the record 34.6 million bushels produced in 1955. Rapeseed production in 1966 was forecast at 2.5 million bushels, a record if harvested and 2.3 million above the previous record grown last year.

Shower At Bellshill For Elsie Cameron

On August 11th a lovely shower was held in the Bellshill Hall in honor of Miss Elsie Cameron. There was a good attendance of friends and neighbors, and a short program was enjoyed by all. Solos were rendered by Marjorie Weyman and Gwen Glasgow, followed by a contest. Mrs. Mary Albrecht presented the bride-elect with gifts. Assisting in the opening of the gifts were Sandra Miller, Gwen Gascoyne and the bride's mother. Elsie graciously thanked everyone, and the affair closed with lunch.

On August 12th about 30 friends and neighbors gathered at the Art Armstrong home to bid bon voyage to Miss Cathy Frances of Woodlands, B.C. who has spent her holidays with Valerie Armstrong. After an afternoon spent on Goose Lake boating and skiing, a lovely barbecue supper was enjoyed by all.

On August 24th a miscellaneous shower was held at Bellshill in honor of Miss Brenda Marlow. The program consisted of a piano solo by Glorie Rombough, a solo by Marjorie Weyman, an agricultural contest by Mrs. Art Armstrong, and community games by Donna Cookson and given by Lorna Strebakken, and a song by Weyman Ontario. The bride-elect received many lovely gifts, for which she thanked everyone. Calliope Costali, Mrs. Charleen Hefiel and Mrs. Joy Armstrong assisted with the opening of the gifts. The ladies of the community served a lovely lunch. The Cambridge and Bellshill ladies combined forces for the occasion.

TO PEARSON WITH PROTEST. Housewives across the nation have been protesting the rising cost of food, but Mrs. J. L. O'Reilly of Toronto is taking action. When she had to pay $1.20 for a turnip, which she holds above, she decided to send it and a letter to Prime Minister Pearson, protesting inflation. She objected to paying less for a California-grown watermelon than for a locally-grown turnip.—

SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

RIDING THE WAVES

This summer, I've been out in a boat only twice, but each was memorable in its fashion.

The first time, old friends called and told us to be at their cottage sharp at noon next day. They were entertaining friends from the States and wanted us to join them for a special scenic ride by chartered boat.

It sounded interesting. And it was. We drove 50 miles to their cottage. Light refreshments and we all piled into two cars and drove 15 miles to Tobermory.

The boat's skipper was an old friend, Archie Simpson, and we exchanged, "Long-time-no-see's."

Everything went swimmingly. It was a beautiful afternoon, our host had provided all the trimmings, the company was pleasant and the scenery superb as we cruised along the rugged north shore of the Bruce Peninsula.

Then the breeze freshened. We began to wallow a bit. Nothing serious, but two of the party began turning a pale green. Should we go on or turn back? It was decided to press on, pull into Wingfield Basin, and wait for the breeze to drop.

It didn't. It became a wind. The skipper said it would be a rough trip back. The ladies looked thoroughly at the shore. After two hours, our host, tout chap, borrowed a dinghy and rowed 300 yards to the lighthouse, made arrangements, and rowed back, without even suffering a coronary.

We went ashore. Two cars were available. We would drive to Tobermory, pick up our own cars, and drive back to the cottage. But who was going to drive the two cars back to the lighthouse?

That was only the beginning of the complications, too involved to relate here. Both cars broke down. The end went on one just as we reached Tobermory, and the other crept into the village soon after.

The ladies, grimy but glad, took one of our own cars and went back to the cottage. My host, another chap and myself spent two hours and drove about 80 miles, organizing the return of the harrowed cars.

But it all ended pleasantly, with hamburgers at the cottage about 10 p.m. Midnight found me arguing racial problems with a big, dumb Norwegian lawyer from Chicago. He's so dumb he has only three million dollars to his name. And we still had to drive 20 miles home.

A memorable boat ride. Ten miles by boat and 250 by car. But good clean fun all the way.

The other boat ride was a typical Smiley event. Kim and I went out in her uncle's boat, after a three-minute period of instruction. She insisted on driving, though she'd never steered anything more powerful than a canoe.

We staggered about the lake, she grinning wildly, I rigid with fear in the bow. Four miles from the home dock, we hit bottom.

"Drop the anchor! Man overboard! Hard astern!" I yelled from and a few other salty, sea-going terms. Too late. We had sheared a pin, whatever that means.

I spoke silently to myself for about five minutes, head bowed as if in prayer. Then I reached for the paddle. No paddle. We made it ashore in 45 minutes, using our hands as paddles.

She stuck with the ship. I waded rocky shoreline and clambered, bare-footed, through poison ivy, seeking help. Three hours after we had set out on a 15-minute whirl about the lake, we got back to port. Mama was waiting.

If you're planning a boat trip, perhaps you shouldn't ask yours truly along.

Centennial Report

1867 1967 by JOHN W. FISHER CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

RCAF planes flying over Canada's isolated communities in the north are going to be air-dropping some unusual cargo in the months ahead.

During the coming school year the planes will be making airdrops of bright new medallions, souvenirs of Canada's Centennial, to the school children of the north. Why air-drops? Well, some of these communities are so isolated there simply is no other way for deliveries to coincide with distribution of the medallions at the end of Canada's school population in time for presentation in class rooms by June 1, 1967.

Six million of the Centennial medallions for school children are now being produced by the Centennial Commission by the Royal Canadian Mint at Ottawa. Each medallion, one inch and a quarter in diameter, will be packaged in a special envelope bearing the Centennial symbol on the outside.

The first delivery of medallions from the mint will be a special one — 1,000 to the Centennial Commission at the end of September for the air-drop allotments. Then the mint will make direct shipments to all the provinces and territories by April 1, 1967. Departments of education will redistribute to all their schools for presentation toward the end of the school year.

For Indian children, attending federal schools, the mint will make direct shipments to those schools operated by the Indian Affairs branch. The Department of National Defence will distribute medallions to all Canadian school children at military bases over seas.

The medallion design, shown here, was recommended this past spring by a special advisory committee to the Centennial Commission. The choice of the design was made following a contest conducted last year among five experienced Canadian designers. Member of the Commission's award for the obverse side of the medallion was Thomas Shingles of Victoria, B.C. and for the reverse side, Mrs. Dora de Pedery Hunt of Toronto, Ontario.

The medallions will be of lasting significance to all in the new generation. Perhaps they will be passed along from generation to generation of families and a number will appear again on the 200th anniversary of Confederation.

AUGUST "INDIAN SUMMER" ARRIVES IN ALBERTA

Life in some parts of the world is as drab as a calico dress at a formal reception. You can go to bed at night in the same old certain knowledge that tomorrow will be another hot, dry day. Not so in sunny Alberta, where you never know what the morrow will bring weatherwise. Alberta has a way of making fools out of the forecasters, and the best way to describe our weather conditions is unpredictable"; if not somewhat discomforting at times.

Springtime was not the most favorable this year, being late and unpleasant. Then while merging with the usual summer, it continued instead almost as though fall had arrived early. Rains were spotty during the early growing season and weather continued cool. Many dispaired of reaping an average crop. Then just when needed, the rains came over a wide section of the province and predictions are now for a better than average grain production.

With the advent of August and more cool weather fear was eased that crops would be extremely late in maturing and harvest would run late into September and early October. As though to knock such predictions in the head, the past week or so has been one of the finest weather of the year, and crops are turning color at an amazing rate. With temperatures in the high seventies and eighties, following copious rains, the ruddiest for quite some years, Alberta's Indian summer is the envy of the rest of the country. Even the tourist who was travelling in the hot and dry southern parts of the United States. He asked a native when it ever rained there, and the reply was, "Just before it's too late." That seems to sum up Alberta, the second best breadbasket in Canada.

EARLIER SWATHING OF CEREAL AND GRASS SEED CROPS SUGGESTED

Research work at the Swift Current and Lacombe Experimental Farms as well as at similar institutions in the United States has shown that farmers can wreak their cereal and grass seed crops much earlier than has been the general practice in the past.

Reporting on these findings, O.G. Britvold, Supervisor of the Alberta Crop Improvement Service, says tests have shown that barley can be swathed with a Kernal moisture content of 25 per cent without any loss in yield or quality. Fall rye can be safely swathed with a moisture content of 45 per cent while oats and wheat can have a moisture content of 35 per cent when swathed.

The significance of these findings, says Mr. Britvold, is that in may cases front end hail damage can be avoided by swathing crops several days earlier Standing crops are much more vulnerable to hail front and hail than those in the swath.

LETS HAVE A SCHOLARSHIP WINNER FROM ALBERTA THIS YEAR!

How about making a real effort this year to win the $300 scholarship sponsored annually by the North-Central Weed Control Conference It has been won twice in the past by Albertans.

The contest is open to boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 18 whose families are actively engaged in operating a farm in one of the three prairie provincers or the 14 north-central states

W. Lobay, Supervisor of Soils with the provincial Plant Industry Division, says the essay, which should not be more than 1,000 words in length, should deal specifically with how weeds are controlled on the writer's family farm. It should either be typed or written in ink on one side of the paper only, and it should be written in the English language.

The scholarship can be used at any recognized agricultur a l or home economics college providing the courses chosen lead to a degree or diploma in these subjects. It can be used any time up to three years after the winner graduates from high school.

In addition to the scholarship, there will be a provicial award of $25.00 for the best essay from each province. Many municipalities in Alberta are also offering attractive prizes on the local level.

Mr Lobay advises all would-be contestants to prepare their essays now They must be in the hands of district agriculturists or agricultural fieldmen before October 1st Complete details on rules for entering the competition can be obtained from these officials as well as from the Plant Industry Division of the Alberta Department of Agriculture Edmonton.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. W. Siple, interim pastor, was in charge of the regular Sunday Services this week.

The W. M. S. met last Thursday evening, August 25, at the home of Mrs. Probst in Lougheed with eight members and six visitors present. Mrs. Kashai was in charge of the devotions. A weekend retreat is being planned by the Ladies of the Alberta Conference for the 16th, 17th and 18th of September at Collingwood Acres near Edmonton.

A number of ladies paid a visit to Miss Mary Patien Monday evening to honor her on the occasion of her 80th birthday. Twenty people spent the weekend at a retreat held at Meeso Lake Camp. They report a good time. Rev. E. Charlens of Drayton Valley was guest speaker.

Homemaker

Du Pont of Canada gives some professional tips for Home Tailoring Stretchies that are used by manufacturers of quality slims. The two problems usually encountered in sewing stretch slims are proper cut and seam stretchability.

To ensure a more accurate cut the fabric is spread taut on a smooth surface and allowed to relax, sometimes for as long as 24 hours They always cut with razor-sharp instruments to avoid pulled yarns and are even watchful not to stretch the fabric.

To produce seams with the same amount of stretch as the fabric itself many sew with the new "chain stitch", using nylon thread.

Home sewers who do not have the chain stitch are advised to sew stretch fabrics using the "zigzag" stitch.

Equally important to stretchy seams is an adequate number of stitches per inch. This is determined by the fabric's degree of stretch which can be measured on a ruler A fabric with 20 to 25 percent stretch requires a minimum of 14 to 15 stitches per inch, using three-ply 70 denier nylon thread and No. 14 needle.

The first test is to stretch a sample seam to the maximum by hand If it pops, the number of stitches per inch must be increased. Sometimes the thread tension must be reduced but it should still give a good seam appearance.

Other practices used by the manufacturer include: feeding the fabric evenly through the machine — allowing it to glide smoothly beneath the pressure foot, waist bands cut in the opposite direction to the stretch of the fabric and buttonholes placed in the opposite direction, too.

Exposed fabric edges and hems should be turn-stitched or overcast and hand-stitched to prevent fraying during laundering or dry cleaning. Use a loose enough stitch so that the nylon thread will give during wear.

far less of the costly heavy water. It uses it only as a moderator Quebec agreement to go into partnership with AECL in the building of a 250,000 kilowat CANDU — BLW reactor has been delayed by the change in government but should be forth coming soon

2. Reduction in the time of construction. This is why detailed study of the causes of delay at Douglas Point and similar projects is desirable. The additional year and a half occupied in construction at Douglas Point has pushed costs only about $3 million above the original $81.3 million estimate. This original estimate, however, had already allowed generously for all contingencies. If the reactor had been finished on schedule the cost would have been $5 million to $7 million less than the

In general terms the major causes of delay are known Too much time was spent in the early stages of design and planning. If the peak had been steered forward later stages could have been speeded quite considerably This is something quite common to development in this age of very sophisticated equipment. It was particularly true in Canadian development of the destroyer escort and pushed costs to an astronomical level

The designer and researcher are continually coming up with new ideas and improvements No absolute cut-off date is fixed at which acceptance of improvements, however good, will cease. With both AECL and Hydro heavily staffed with technical experts the partnership may have been particularly vulnerable to delay from this quarter

Another serious problem to overcome is the lack of experience on the part of contractors for components as well as inability to provide clear specifications. This too is something that dogged the steps of the navy in earlier days but has largely disappeared. In some cases preliminary work by manufacturers has had to be scrapped and started again from scratch.

It is probable that study of the problem will produce improvements on both sides In any event time not a mere inexperience In th later stages there has been some unjustifiable lime lag on the part of manufacturers As the deadline for the entire project was pushed back there has been a tendency to slacken on individual jobs.

When visiting a patient in hospital, find out what the visiting hours are Don't overstay the time If there are a number of other visitors. don't take up the full time. Leave before members of the patent's family

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,

Re the recent editorial in the Community Press, I wish as part of the Chemical Industry to put forth as a point of interest a few thoughts to the contrary of sentences mentioned in the article "The Hidden Assasins" of August 11th, 1966. To quote the writer "the products of our farms are awash in pesticides."

Modern farming with the aid of agricultural pesticides has pushed far ahead of the so called "Good Old Days".

Now we have over 300 efficient and safe pesticides whereas every man had only weary eleven wielding fans and flails. In the past insects, diseases and rodents have carried famine and plagues around the world.

Pesticides like all chemicals have some toxic properties but this does not mean necessarily that their use will create a hazard to health, as precautions necessary for the safe use of toxic products are assured by law and included in all labels registered by Ottawa, directing users in the correct method of using.

Registration of a pesticide is not given until complete data covering toxicity, residue, effectiveness, several applications under different conditions etc has been supplied, then an official tolerance is set (parts per million). It is here where through wet reading and studying the precautionary labelling directions that misapplication takes place. Too heavy an application naturally can cause a residual carryover in the harvested crops besides the possibility of a burning and deforming action.

Too many users use chemicals without taking precautions to know the problem, correct timing and application rates. It has been proven time and time again that pesticides are safe when used according to information laid out on the label. Research are say that 80 of our most common food crops could not be produced without the use of pesticidal chemicals. As a interesting note health directors hope to win Malaria off the face of the earth in 10 years due to the advent of D.D.T. early in the last war. In the early 1940's the number of cases of Malaria in Greece and Italy alone, exceeded one-half million and deaths were in the thousands each year.

Nature controls on such categories as pests, beneficial forms, wildlife, domination of species or the inalienable rights of man. In nature every living organism is engaged in relentless competition with every other organism so man has to use the means at his disposal to wage his own fight for survival. This is why millions of dollars have been spent through the years in the development and research of chemicals to assist man in providing a more satisfactory, economical and financial existance.

BACK TO SCHOOL— Local schools opened on September 1st and school buses were on the move in all parts of the Division. It was back to school for the students and teachers but it was also back to work for bus drivers and many other people associated with education.

Hot Weather Aids Harvest Operations

Farmers are back in the fields this week swathing, combining and cutting feed. After the recent rains which dumped as high as five inches of rain in the area during the past ten days.

Harvesting operations were well under way when rain put a stop to activities, and it is estimated that at present less than twenty percent of the harvesting is completed. Many fields are yet too wet to allow the use of heavy equipment, but by the end of the week action should be in full swing.

Present indications are for a better than average crop, with less straw and more grain than in 1965. While the nature of the season has been such that grades will not be top, it is thought that the average will grade No 3

While rains put the damper on harvest operations, and earlier held up the maturing of grain, the feed situation was greatly improved and adequate supplies will now be ramped

With a break from the weather, harvesting should be concluded this month.

WHAT'S THIS?— How grade one students everywhere were looking around in wonderment at the many new and strange things involved in attending school. This small group is shown as it explores some things found in their room on the first day of school.

CROP REPORT

LOCAL— Cool damp weather has prevailed, delaying the ripening of the crops. The improved moisture conditions together with delayed ripening is allowing head to fill. Crop prospects in this area have improved and some fair crops are now expected.

Fire Damages Strome Garage

STROME— On Sunday evening around 10:00 o'clock fire broke out in Rak's garage in Strome. Mr. Rak was working on the Strome Co-op Oil truck when it back-fired and caught on fire. The flames quickly spread through the North end of the building and on to the roof Mr Rak's cry for help was heard by near-by neighbors and the alarm was issued in by Mr. Eddie Hehn. It was only a matter of minutes until a volunteer fire brigade had gathered, and with the help of the Killam fire Dept. who were called in the scene, the blaze was soon brought under control.

There was extensive damage to both the building and contents, although some of the tools and equipment were moved from the building. The Co-op truck was almost a total loss

The building is now under repair and Mr. Rak who now is carrying on, on a temporary basis plans, to be able to re-open in a short while

Pony Chariots In Two Races

DAYSLAND— On August 17th the Daysland Chariot Club took part in the 2nd Annual Ladue Black Gold Rush, with 10 chariots and 2 chuckwagons taking part in the parade. Total time of two races going to Killam Fair Equipment outfit driven by Linda Borgel. 2nd Elgin Brown Auctioneer of Daysland outfit driven by Glen Helmig. 3rd Grant Blaesser of Heisler. In the chuckwagon top time went to Kenny Jacobsen of Killam, 2nd. John Borgel of Sedgewick. Bike last race John Borgel upset his wagons on the top barrel, he was shaken up, but not seriously hurt, he'll be going with his wagon next race.

Also on August 17th at Cornation twenty chariots from Daysland Chariot Club took part in the sports day with Reny Watt of Viking taking home the trophy for the best time of the day. 2nd Vic Hewery of Viking. 3rd Judy McCarroll of Daysland. Alex Lionel Troyer of Daysland taking a short cut through a fence was very interesting for the crowd. The Daysland Chariot Club and families were also invited to a open air barbecue which was enjoyed by all.

The Daysland Chariots took part in the Eckville Rodeo on August 16th and 17th. Glen Helmig, Grant Blaesser, Lionel Troyer, Vic McCarroll Jack Blaesser and Stan Maschke all took part in the Eckville Rodeo and chariot races.

The next races are in Daysland on Sunday, September 11th with Eckville, Viking and Daysland, all racing with chariots and chuckwagons.

The Daysland Pony Chariot Club raced at the Viking Sports Day on Wednesday August 24 chariots taking part in the day running twice at 2 and 4 p.m.

The top time of the day went to Grant Blaesser of Heisler. 2nd Fountain Tire of Viking driven by Reny Watt. 3rd Phil Hogg of Sedgewick. 4th John B. Allen Auctioneer of Viking driven by Vic Hewery. 5th Judy McCarroll of Daysland.

RAIN REPORT

Total rain fall since April 1st has amounted to 14.16 inches almost exactly the same as last year's Figure of 14.19 There has been 2.52 inches since August 28th. These are the figures as kept by Searle Grain Co. in Sedgewick.

OILERS PLAY IN VIKING TOURNEY

Sedgewick Oilers played at Viking on Monday in a four team tournament. Teams were from Sedgewick. Viking. Castor, and Edmonton.

Oilers played the first game of the day against the Sun Life team from Edmonton and lost 5 to 1 after holding a 1 to 0 lead for seven innings

Sun Life defeated Viking in the finals 2 to 0 after Viking had beaten Caster in the second game.

Killam Scouts - Cubs Organize For Fall

KILLAM—A meeting of the group committee for the cubs and scouts was held August 30 at Elks Hall.

Twelve interested persons and two visitors attended. The district deputy from Camrose Mr. Alex Hirsch and Mr. Al Falkinghams of Strome were present.

A vote of thanks was given Alan Fauvel and Vern Thomas for work done on the float for the Killam Sports.

A bottle and old battery drive will be held Saturday October 1. Boys will be calling at town and rural homes on this day.

A registration night will be held in the form of a pot-luck supper for the boys their fathers and mothers on October 21st.

The cubs and scouts are assembling for the first meeting on Thursday Sept. 8 at the Elks Hall.

The next meeting of the group committee will be held September 27 at Elks Hall. Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend.

Daysland To Vote On Natural Gas

DAYSLAND — On Wednesday, September 21st the ratepayers will go to the polls to cast ballots on Town By-law G184. The by-law provides for the Town to contract with the providing of a Natural Gas Utility for the Town.

At present there is a suitable natural gas well situated approximately five miles south of Daysland, and if the By-law is approved by the electors, arrangement are underway to have a stand-by well drilled in the same area to assure a steady and uninterrupted supply of gas The company involved in the wells have intimated that it will bear a share of the cost of drilling a second well.

In the event that a new well turns out to be a dry hole, the Town has an alternative, which is to negotiate tying in to the Sedgewick-Killam system. If this takes place it is likely that the Village of Strome will come in to the hook-up

Mayor Allen Fryer has informed the Press that Daysland is anxious to provide this utility for the people and is hopeful that ratepayers will give assent to the by-law.

Be Careful Of Damaged Feed

J Martin. Nutritionist with the Alberta Plant Industry Division. strongly advises farmers whose crops have been damaged by hail to have a sample of the material analyzed by the Agricultural Soil and Feed Testing Laboratory before feeding it to their livestock.

He points out that grain crops which have been badly damaged by hail can contain a high level of nitrates which could prove fatal to animals either grazing the crop or eating it in the form of hay.

The cost of having a sample of this feed analyzed is only $1.00. It should be sent to the Agricultural Soil and Feed Testing Laboratory, Agriculture Building, University of Alberta, Edmonton. Further information can be obtained from district agriculturists.

4-H Achievement Day Held At Daysland

DAYSLAND— The Dayland 4-H Garden Club held their seventh annual Achievement night at the United Church on Thursday with a fair attendance Ronald Throndson acted as chairman for the evening. Members of the club had their garden produce on display. Mr. Robert Candlish was presented with a cheque from the Garden Club for use of the church basement for their meetings

Corsages were presented to their leader Mrs. Gordon Spiller and assistant leader Mrs. Norman Nicholson also to Mrs. Westby who acted as their pianest and to the two judges Miss Eby and Erickson and to Mr. Tebbutt they gave a gift.

The program consisted of songs by the Club members, a skit, a demonstration an flower arrangements by Beverly Spiller and Debbie Nickerson, a sing song and summary of the years work and activities. In her report she said they received 30 gallons of white paint from Alberta Wheat Pool which was used to help paint the Daysland Arena

Miss Eby in making her comments explained how the judges made their choice and stated that the top scoring member would be presented with a trophy from Camrose Chamber of Commerce. Daysland was in competition with three other Garden clubs

Miss Erickson spoke of the floor displays, the examples and how they could be improved and stressed that the members follow their 4-H books.

Mr. Tebbutt, Public Relations Representative for the Alberta Wheat Pool judged the vegetables and told the members what to look for when bringing in their vegetable display Mr. Tebbutt presented Miss Karen Brenda with a gift on behalf of the Alberta Wheat Pool for having the best garden for a 1st year member and Donald Throndson with the gift for the best potato plot. He commented on the good display because of the adverse weather some of the members had on their gardens this summer as some of them were hailed.

Members of the club are Donald Throndson, David Spiller, Ronald Hamilton, Melvin Michie, Karen Brenda, Debbie Nickerson, Lillian Wynnyk, Beverly Spiller, Lorraine Bridger and Nell Brennan.

The memebers served lunch at the close of the meeting.

Wingers Married For Fifty Years

TODAY — AND 50 YEARS AGO

Mr and Mrs. Carl Winger of Red Deer celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sun. at a celebration attended by about 75 friends and friends Guests at the celebration included attendants from the wedding held in Camrose on August 16, 1916. Shown in the picture are, standing, from left to right. Gust Shervin. Edmonton, Mrs. Molly Shervin. White Rock, B.C. Olaf Copo. Minneapolis, Minn. and Mrs. Lloyd Kirk, Camrose. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Winger are seated. The couple were married in Camrose but lived in Consort and Lougheed where Mr. Winger was employed by the CPR before retiring to Red Deer in 1937 They have four children and 14 grandchildren. Rev. O. Peterson read congratulatory messages from Prime Minister Pearson, Robert N Thompson. M P., and Mayor R. E. Barrett.

Note—The Community Press was unable to get the address of the two ceremonies. The Winger family lived at Lougheed for many years.

An Old Old Fable!

It seems a bit useless to draw attention to the moral contained in an old adage about killing the goose that lays the golden egg. Useless because today people imagine that a dead goose will continue to produce.

Railworkers have as much right as anyone else to seek a raise in pay and nobody can seriously condemn them for doing so. But the fact remains that nobody including the workers themselves, was very happy about the strike.

No sensible person thought the strike would be settled on the basis of the government's original proposition, and surely the Prime Minister himself did not anticipate that the offer would be accepted. This fact became more evident as the opposition lambasted the offer as niggardly, and John Diefenbaker practically asked the unions not to accept it. The offer hardly met the rise in living costs of the past three years. Now that the strike is settled at 18 percent it is time for government to see to it that the country is never again tied up by a major strike.

While we dislike rules, regulations and regimentation, it has now become apparent that such restrictions are necessary. The government which has the fortitude to institute such regulations may find that is has cost political pain, maybe even an election or two. But such a government will end the admiration of thinking people across the nation, and the leader of the party involved in such action will have gone a long way to improve the image of statesmanship. Canada today is overloaded with politicians, but is woefully shy on statesmen worthy of the name, and the image of the nation is suffering.

Nomination Day!

Nomination Day in Towns and Villages is Wednesday, September 28th, with elections following on October 19th. It is not too early to give some thought on candidates for local councils. In some municipalities changes will consist of only one seat, while in others entire new councils will have to be elected. Town administration has become pretty big business today, and able, willing people to carry out these duties is more important than ever. Persuading such people to stand for office constitutes a problem, for the successful citizen is too busy to be bothered with a situation where financial returns are meagre and public abuse plentiful. When such people can be found, they are deserving of patient consideration in their attempts to administer your affairs with limited financial resources and time available from their private activities. If they are not treated with respect, the day may come when finding capable people to fill public offices will become impossible.

Guest Editorial!

Editorial appearing in the August issue of the Imperial Oil Review:

"Coincident with all the celebrations of our hundredth anniversary next year, the Canadian oil industry will also mark a milestone. Canada's balance is going to become self-sufficient in petroleum in 1967. For the first time the value of petroleum industry exports will equal the value of imports.

"This is a big change. Less than 20 years ago, we imported 90 percent of our oil, and Canada's one major oil field — Turner Valley in Alberta — was declining steadily. Then Imperial discovered the Leduc field and the country was on its way to the goal it will reach next year.

"Since Leduc came in, Canada has invested $7 1/2 billion in oil exploration and production in western Canada. A lot of this was capital generated by the industry itself and ploughed back into more exploration and development, but a lot also came from abroad. This foreign capital was essential to the development of the western oil fields. In fact, it wasn't until 1962 that annual gross revenues from oil and gas operations began to exceed annual expenditures. But the industry's cumulative deficit still totals more than $2 billion.

"Why didn't the oil industry get all its capital inside the country? Canada simply lacked the capital resources to finance the oil development as well as the other major developments of the postwar period. Many people did invest in oil in those days, of course, but to a large extent Canadian risk capital was "hardrock" oriented. Investors were familiar with mining, but wary of big-scale oil exploration and development which was new and strange.

"We were lucky that foreign capital was available 19 years ago when we needed it. Without it we could still be an oil-poor nation. Canada is a great country and of great resources. But resources must be developed and development required capital — sometimes in huge amounts. Keeping all this in mind, perhaps it would be well to remember a remark W. O. Twaits made at Imperial's annual meeting last April. 'Capital flows most readily,' the president said, 'to the point where it is most welcomed'."

How To Survive!

There is no discrediting Canada's ambitions for all citizens to live better and earn more. But the reality of financing our ambitions is that industry and business are the primary sources of tax funds. They provide not only corporate taxes but the payrolls from which a large pool of personal income taxes are drawn. They can continue to do this only if all Canadians foresee the certainty of rising costs clashing with strong foreign competition, and accept as fact that social welfare ambitions, wage ambitions, taxes & industrial health are all tied together in one national economic package. Economic survival is a joint effort — for public, government, labor and management.

In the Sedgewick Open Golf Tournament last week which drew ninety golfers from around the province there were two Coopers in the Championship Flight. Ralph Cooper of Sedgewick and his son Bill from Edmonton. Bill eliminated his dad in the second round of the tournament. Ralph has taken a lot of ribbing over that, says that he can't remember making very many mistakes but if he had it to do over again he'd say that boy a tennis racket instead of golf clubs.

The night the Calgary Stampeders played the Eskimos in Edmonton I was up to see the game. It was the first football game I'd gone to in several years and was probably the poorest night for weather that they'll have this season. It not only rained, it poured. When I was a youngster I can remember pouring pails of water down a gopher hole until the gopher would be forced to come out looking like a wet mop. Well there were 19,000 people at that game who had the same look. After a night like that it would have really been bad if the Eskimoes hadn't won

Sept., 1 Sept. 1966

To the Editor:

Two items appeared in the last issues of some local newspapers with respect to the forthcoming Debentures Poll on the proposed building program at Daysland by the Killam School Division. Both items were made to appear as official pronouncements of the School Board. The article which presented facts and figures, as far as they are now known to the Board, and which merely urged electors to exercise their franchise as they saw fit, was official. It was drafted at a Board meeting and published by Board members with the full knowledge and consent of all members. The second item however — that is the Editor appearing over the names of ALL board members — carried no such approval or sanction. The letter was never mentioned, let alone approved at any board meeting and I, at least, certainly never signed it. Time will perhaps reveal how it was published without signature.

This same letter was printed in circular form and widely distributed in the mails. Again it appeared over the names of all board members and again without sanction. One can assume that the same persons (presently unidentified) was responsible for both the newspaper letter and the mail circulars. Let it be known, Mr Editor, that I, at least, had no part in the preparation, printing and circulation of the [illegible] and distorted facts that are contained in these publications.

The letter states, "Your Board of Trustees followed one of the Government Survey recommendations and decided that in the best interests of all, high schools in the Division should be centralized at Sedgewick and Daysland." The letter did not, however, bother to remind you that this was the first and last of three recommendations made by the Government surveyors who stated, "The establishment of one large high school is the only recommendation that satisfies the needs, interests and abilities of [illegible] in this division."

"HOW DO YOU WISH THIS FINANCED ?"

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Forced Savings!

OTTAWA—Everyone knew the problem that Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp was supposed to solve with his budget — how to avoid inflation without beating a [illegible].

Few guessed or could have guessed the chief method he employed. Deferred capital cost allowances have been used before for the purpose but until now no one has thought up the idea of forcing corporations to lend their profits to government.

No one, including perhaps Mr. Sharp himself, would be ready to lay any substantial bets on how workable or effective the new device will prove. Forced savings by individual Canadians was tried during the war and those who had anything to do with administering it are ready to swear that it will never be used again. It was a headache of misgraine proportions for the Department of National Revenue. Perhaps one out of ten Canadians learned before it was over just how to calculate the amount of his income that he was compelled to turn over to the government. Then at the end of the war lump sum payments came back to millions of taxpayers, adding to inflationary pressures which were held down only by arbitrary price controls imposed under an Emergency Powers Act and eventually broke loose.

This does not necessarily mean that the same results will follow the five per cent refundable tax on cash profits of corporations. The tax will produce headaches for Canadian businesses which will have to set up accounting systems to look after this new type of asset which will accumulate interest at five per cent.

But in draining off, temporarily, the profits that otherwise go to finance new plant and machinery — Mr. Sharp expects to get about $250 million in a year which is roughly one third of planned increase in business investment.

This hits directly at the crux of the inflation threat — pressures on the construction industry — and should be effective. Monthly payments of the refundable tax will start in May and the first indication of its success will be seen when the survey of business investment plans as revised at the mid-year is published. Today corporations across Canada will be taking a second look at their expansion plans in the light of Mr. Sharp's budget. The ingenious plan, of course, raises some questions that only time will answer.

Will companies cut back dividends in order to meet the new five per cent tax? This seems unlikely. Larger companies at least — and only companies with profits above $30,000 are affected — usually have a stabilized dividend policy. There will be quite enough liquidity in capital cost allowances which last year were about 50 per cent of total business investment to take care of the refundable tax.

Will companies in designated areas [illegible] into production and otherwise enjoying a three-year tax holiday be seriously hit by the program? If they have profits over the $30,000 mark they will be liable and there are quite a number in that category. The Department of Industry will be launching studies to see how seriously the new tax will affect the designated areas [illegible].

Mr. Sharp has used in reverse a device used by the Hon. Walter Gordon last year in calculating his revenues. Mr. Gordon calculated that his tax changes would increase the Gross National Product for the year by 0.3 per cent and included this additional increase in estimating revenues. Mr. Sharp believes his restraining measures will cut back the price factor in the GNP by 0.3 per cent and should be additive. Monthly payments of the refundable tax will start in May and the first indication of its success will be seen when the survey of business investment plans as revised at the mid-year is published. Today corporations across Canada will be taking a second look at their expansion plans in the light of Mr. Sharp's budget. The Town of Hardisty is building new sidewalks and with the remodeling of the hotel and White and Lally's Lecher. it adds greatly to the appearance of the Town.

Lougheed WI held an enjoyable picnic at the Mervin Ekoberg farm for their August meeting.

The Simpsons-Sears trophy was won by Mr. Emily McKenzies who they were petitioned for a Poll on this issue. Public meetings on the south line of the Division where the high schools were to be closed and delegations of their ratepayers to board meetings made it only too clear that many felt that inasmuch as their schools were to be closed anyway the right thing to do for the long term good of ALL students was to give considerations to the first recommendation of the survey team (one high school for the Division) rather than to the last.

The unauthorized letter also states, "there will be an additional levy on your taxes outside of some school [illegible] that does not come under the Foundation Program" This is the worst distortion of all. The board simply cannot give any such guarantee. And unless the present plans for the Daysland additions are altered and cut and unless we are more fortunate than other school boards presently [illegible] tenders, we may well find that considerable money may have to be raised locally.

The manner in which this was published and circulated through the mails by persons as yet unknown is an act that may well prove criminal. It will likely be brought before the next board meeting. In the meantime, Mr. Editor, I wish to make it perfectly clear that I disassociate myself completely from this subtle attempt to mislead the Electors. May you all exercise your franchise next Saturday as you deem is the best interests of high [illegible] in this division.

The Bible Today

The Bible Society is not meeting the world need for Scriptures This fact was faced at a recent meeting in the U.S.A. of the United Bible Societies, representing some 35 member national societies.

While significant gains are being made each year in circulation figures, they are actually falling behind objectives set in the face of world needs. In 1965 over 76,900,000 Scriptures were circulated by the Bible Societies throughout the world.

"We do not want to give excessive weight to statistics," said Dr. Oliver Negaun, General Secretary of the U.B.S., but as a useful indeed and undispensible thermometer, they show us that the temperature is far below normal. Forty million portions, Bibles and New Testaments is far too little for a healthy life in the churches and dynamic evangelistic outreach of the Christian faith "

An additional 36 million selections less than a complete book of the Bible were also distributed to make the total of 76,900,000

Some church church leaders and pastors are challenging their Christian people to share in a program of Scripture distribution, both in that country and overseas. On the basis that there are many today who do not possess even a portion of the Bible, as well as that larger number who do not use it. Christians are being encouraged to call on their neighbours affering a portion of God's Word

Highway Deaths Increasing

To the end of July of this year a total of 188 persons have been killed in motor vehicle accidents in Alberta. This is an increase of four deaths over a year ago, reports the Alberta Safety Council in its monthly traffic accident summary.

Forty-one deaths were reported during July compared to 32 in the corresponding month last year. The R.C.M.P. reported 32 fatalities, down 11 from 1965's July report. Edmonton City Police reported 5 deaths, up 3, and Calgary remained even with 3 fatals. Sylvan Lake was the only other centre reporting a motor vehicle death during the month.

Accidents continue to race ahead of last year's figures. The seven-month total stands at 21,227 accidents. July alone accounted for 3,430 mishaps. Edmonton reported 1,197 accidents, with R.C.M.P. close behind tallying 1,084 collisions and Calgary 677. Other centres: Lethbridge 72; Red Deer 50; Medicine Hat 30 and Grande Prairie 15.

An 18 per cent increase has been reported in the number of injuries. To the end of July 4,947 injuries were reported. Last year 4,187 injuries were booked after.

The 31-day July period saw 1,337 injuries recorded. R.C.M.P. indicated 822 cases while Edmonton totalled 226 and Calgary 195. Lethbridge Police investigated accidents involving 20 injuries. Red Deer reported 10 injuries. Medicine Hat 9 and Grande Prairie 5.

A breakdown of the 188 fatalities is as follows: 88 drivers; 62 passengers; 33 pedestrians and 5 motorcyclists.

R.C.M.P. reported 148 of the 188 deaths, Edmonton 18, Calgary 13, Lethbridge and Grande Prairie 1 each and Medicine Hat, Red Deer, Taber and Sylvan Lake one fatality each.

Estimated property damage stands at $6,176,694.00.

This plan will do everything to get your youngster a college degree except pass his exams for him

You can't guarantee that a youngster now in high school will get his college degree. But you can guarantee that he will get the chance to try.

That's the purpose of the Montreal City and District Savings Bank Programme — a comprehensive savings-loan plan that enables you to spread the cost of a university education over periods up to nine years.

You start payments when your boy or girl is still in high school and make the final payment a year after graduation. From the first deposit, the special life insurance feature guarantees that his or her education costs will be covered.

Your low monthly payments include interest charges totalling a small fraction of what you would pay on any straight loan programme.

This is a flexible programme ... adaptable to individual education costs and payable over a varying number of years.

If you have a youngster in the first two or three years of high school now is the time to start. Drop into your neighbourhood branch of the Bank of Montreal and let us fit the plan to your needs.

Then convince your youngster the rest is up to him!

PS: If you need help financing a student already in university — or planning to register this year — talk to your B of M Manager. Chances are he can arrange a tuition loan with extended payments adapted to your circumstances. Or, if your youngster qualifies for a loan under the Canada Student Loans Plan, send him to see the B of M.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Roy William Hobson, who passed away September 6th, 1960.

So many things have happened
Since you were called away;
So many things to share with you
If you were here today.
We sorely miss you every day,
Your hand we cannot touch,
But God has given us a wonderful memory
Of the one we loved so much.
Many a day your name is spoken,
Many a day you are in our thoughts;
A link in our family chain is broken,
He is gone from our home but never from our hearts.
Always remembered and sadly missed by his Loving Mother and Brother Lorne. 17-1-p

FREEZING FRUITS

Most fruits freeze satisfactorily, but quality will vary with age of maturity and type of pack. Bananas and pears are not generally recommended for freezing.

Prepare only small quantities of fruit at a time (2 — 3 quarts), especially those that darken rapidly.

HEADSPACE — 1/2 inch per pint container must be left to allow for expansion of fruit and liquid. Narrow top opening, e.g., glass jars, require 2 4 inch for pints and 1 1/2 inches for quarts if syrup pack.

Three Ways to Pack—Flavour and texture are better if syrup or sugar are used. Unsweetened fruits are used for pies, jams, etc., or for special diets.

Sugar Pack: Berries and juicy fruits may be sliced, sprinkled with sugar, mixed gently until juice is drawn out and sugar dissolved in general. 1 cup sugar to 6 — 8 cups fruit is used.

Syrup Pack: Slice or cut fruit directly into syrup. Heavy syrup is most commended, also if clean not freeze readily and masks fruit flavour It takes 2 3 to 1 cup of sugar per pint package of fruit.

Syrups used are: (Dissolve and chill before use)

Thin 1 cup sugar to 2 cups water yields about 2 1/2 cups; Moderately Thin — 1 cup sugar to 1 1/2 cups water — yields about 2 cups; Medium — 1 cup sugar to 1 cup water — yields about 1 1/2 cups; Heavy or honey and sugar combined, may be used.

Cover fruit with syrup to avoid colour, flavour changes. To keep fruit under syrup, place small piece crumpled water-resist a nt parchment or wrapping paper on top and press fruit down before closing.

Unsweetened Pack: (1) Pack without adding liquid or sweetening, or (2) cover with water containing ascorbic acid, or (3) pack crushed or sliced in own juice, or (4) wrap in moisture-vapour-proof wrap. e.g., rhubarb slabs.

TO PREVENT DARKENING OF FRUIT: Such as peaches, apricots, apples, plums — ascorbic acid (Vitamin C) is effective when added to syrup or dissolved in a little cold water and sprinkled to coat fruit just adding sugar.

NOTE: Vitamin C in tablet form is more difficult to dissolve than is powder form. Crush tablets to dissolve in water or juice. 1,000 mgms. Vitamin C in 1/2 tsp. in powdered form Buy 1/4 oz. Vitamin C for about 40 pts. Fruit.

In Dry Sugar Pack: Use 1/4 tsp Vatamin C dissolved in 1/4 cup water for 4 cups fruit. i.e., 1 tbsp. mixture per cup fruit.

If Syrup Pack: Drop fruit first for 3 minutes in chilled 2% brine (1 tbsp salt to 5 cups water) Drain For each cup of syrup use 1 T sp. powdered Vitamin C Use 1 2 cup syrup per pint carton. Drop fruit into syrup. Work quickly, dissolving and adding Vitamin C just before using and stir gently only enough to mix as Vitamin is not destroyed by long exposure to air

If Unsweetened Pack: Cover with cold water or own fruit juice containing tsp. Vitamin C per quart. Or use 1/4 tsp Vitamin C in 1/4 cup water sprinkled over 4 cups fruit for dry pack.

You may obtain a free comprehensive guide to freezing called "Preserve by Freezing" from my office.

THOSE TERRIBLE TEENS

Those Terrible Teens are at it again. Riot in Montreal. Riot in Toronto's Yorkville. Teen-age boy charged with gun-snuffing. Girls nailed with bundle of marijuana. Students picketing everything but the public lavatories.

Searching articles by sociologists point out the reasons why teen-agers are rebellious, resentful of adults, eager to experiment; anxiety-ridden, reckless, sensitive, moody. Any parent knows all that. "Probing" and "sensitive" TV programs point out some more of the obvious: that teen-agers like power (boats, cars, motorbikes; but not lawnmowers); that they like comic with a big beat; that they like members of the opposite sex. Anybody who is not blind and deaf knows all that.

What's all the fuss about, then? Is it a lot of overblown sensationalism in the mass media?

I'm no sociologist, but I have been a teen-ager. I have two of them under my roof, and I touch swarms of them every day, so I have some small knowledge, however amateurish, to speak a piece.

Let's try to look at the whole thing coolly. They did inherit a pretty crummy world. Their brashness and idealism is soured at every turn by the massive march of materialism. Man is living at the stars with his feet firmly mired in the mud. And never all hanga the threat of annihilation.

What do they want? They want to sweep away all the old shibboleths and start fresh. They want to be their brother's keeper. They want to communicate. But every way they turn, they are confronted by a great, passive resistance from a society constructed by adults for the comfort and convenience of adults. Who wouldn't be frustrated?

Students would like to take over the universities. And remembering some of the deplorable professors and ridiculous courses I was subjected to, I don't blame them.

They'd like to have the vote at 18. And this might be a good thing. It would mean nobody over 25 would dare to run for public office in this way we might get rid of vast numbers of the incompetent politicians we now have at every level of government

They'd like to be able to drink legally at 18 (instead of illegally at 16). This, too, in the longrun might turn out well. The resultant slaughter on the highways might ruin a few insurance companies, but at least it would help control the population explosion we hear so much about.

They'd like to be able to concentrate (though they do cling rather frantically to the ultraconformity of the teen cult). Well, there's nothing wrong with being a non-conformist. I'd love to grow a beard, if it didn't emerge as a grizzled stubble that makes me look like a flowery bum on a binge. I'd like to have two moustaches and a pet tiger, but I can't afford it. I'd like to go in bare feet. But I have this terrible send-wart on the ball of my right foot, that hurts like the dickens.

They'd like some direction in their lives, so they say, and blame the lack of it on their parents or adults generally. Did you ever try to direct a teen-ager to bed or move the lawn? RIGHT NOW!

They'd like to be beautiful or handsome. They'd like to be loved and trusted. They'd like to be given responsibility. All these longings prove is that they are human beings

You know, things haven't changed that much. When I was 16, I thought my parents well-meaning, but terribly narrow-minded. When I was 21, we used to call chaps of 29 in the Air Force, "Pop." When I was 31, people in their late 30's were completely incomprehensible. All they could talk about was furniture and fuel bills, children and chimneys, taxes and teachers. People over 40 were absolutely senile.

Don't try to understand teen-agers. Just try to put up with them. They want to fly with the wind, to get on the treadmill with the rest of us squirrels. Remember, you too once wanted to fly. Yes, you, Mom, who necked in the back seat of a 1925 Ford. And you, Dad, who got drunk when you were 18.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev W. Siple, of Wetaskiwin, was in charge of the Sunday services. It was good to see many visitors at the services, and many of our young people home for the long week-end.

A special offering was taken on Sunday to help to cover the expense of moving Rev. and Mrs. Nethercott and family of South Dakota, to Killam.

The young people were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Heerlberg following the Sunday evening service for a time of Singspiration and refreshments.

The Salvation Army will be in charge of the next Sunday services.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Live for self and live in vain.
Live for Christ and live again."

Weekly Devotion

By My Spirit, Zechariah 4:6

The angel declared to Zechariah. "Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord."

Mr C H Spurgeon of London Tabernacle told his congregation that meditation was "like a cow chewing her cud". As we think and re-think on the Scriptures we marvel at the wisdom of God as imparted to man, yet the Scriptures do not become a living, vital word to us apart from the unction and revelation of the Holy Spirit The minister who quotes Scripture and explains it in the light of his education, or of the depths of his own personal experiences, rarely finds the fruit of the Spirit among his parishioners.

The bible shall who insult the Bible for educational purposes or historical interest only is missing the main purpose for which the Bible was written. The apostle John said "These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ and in believing ye might have life through His Name." Jesus Himself said to the Jews, "Search the scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of Me."

One of the tragedies of so-sided Christian experience is an extensive knowledge of scripture with little or no knowledge of the risen and living Christ, and personal communion with Him. In writing to the Philippian believers, the apostle Paul declared that he was willing to lay aside his education, and all the benefits of Jewish parentage and ancestry, that he win Christ and be found in Him Stephen could look up into the face of Christ as the stones were killing him and personally commune with Him, saying, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." Stephen also made request. "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge."

Surely such ability to forgive one's own murderers is not of human origin, but by the Holy Spirit. Paul declares in the Corinthians that no man speaking by the Spirit of God, calleth Jesus accursed, and no man can say that Jesus is Lord but by the Holy Spirit.

Our most beloved hymns are written as a result of inspiration by the Spirit. The words of "Fairest Lord Jesus" came as the expression of a great personal experience of a Crusader in his fellowship with the Lord Jesus Christ.

Fairest Lord Jesus, Ruler of all nature.
O Thou of God and man the Son,
Thee will I cherish. Thee will I honour.
Thou my soul's glory, joy and crown.
Only by the fellowship and communion of the Holy Spirit can we come to know Jesus in such a glorious manner —Submitted by Rev. Willard Siple. Interim Pastor, Killam Baptist Church.

HARVEST ROLLS—Swathing has become very general the past days as farmers hurry to take off this year's crop. While some farmers swathed their wheat a couple of weeks ago others are just getting started as crop conditions vary greatly this fall, but this week should see the majority of crops being cut. The unsettled weather this summer has caused a big variance in the maturity of crops with a few miles apart which means that some farmers will be practically finished while others are just beginning.

Voters OK Building Daysland School

The Killam School Divisional Board program for High School Centralization at Daysland and Sedgewick was given approval by the proprietary electors last Friday. The vote results were overwhelmingly in favor of the building program at Daysland.

2,378 Students In School

According to information obtained from the School Division Office there is a total of 2,378 students attending schools in the Division. There are 117 teachers employed to provide these students with instruction.

A break-down of the number attending each school is as follows:

Daysland, 471; Stromo 143; Killam 270; Sedgewick 534; Lougheed 161; Hardisty 225; Marna 67; Alliance 170; Galahad 108; Heisler 341, South Bend 23.

Unofficial results were as follows in favor of the program. 605; against, 379

Some time ago a survey of the high school situation in the Division was held, resulting in several recommendations being made to the local Board for proceeding in an attempt to offer better high school facilities in the area. The board chose one of three alternatives which would require high school centralization at two locations. with a possible third one later on. This decision was acted upon and plans were pretty well finished for the building at Daysland of additional class rooms and other facilities in the mean time a petition was presented to the Board requesting a plebiscite on the matter, and in accordance with the school act, the vote was held last Friday with the above result.

Something over one thousand voters turned out to cast ballots, and the result is pretty indicative of the wishes of the area covered by the school division. Voting was held at Marna, Daysland, Lougheed, Hardisty, Alliance Galahad, Sedgewick, Killam, Stromo and Heisler, which reflected the wishes of the electorate from all areas of the division.

The board now has a mandate from the people to proceed and indications are that the program at Daysland will commence as soon as final plans are completed and a tender accepted.

RESULTS BY POLLS (Unofficial)

	For	Against
Marna	14	8
Daysland	302	15
Lougheed	86	2
Hardisty	13	4

Press Represented At Newspaper Convention

Editors and publishers from more than 80 Alberta weekly newspapers will meet in Calgary September 15-16-17.

Delegates and their wives will register for the convention on Thursday (Sept. 15) in preparation for two days of business sessions, resolutions and talks.

Feature speaker at the convention, to be held at the Holiday Inn, will be the Hon. A. J. Hooke, Alberta's Minister of Municipal Affairs

Awards for the best newspapers and best photography will be made during the convention to outstanding members of the 88-paper Association.

The Editor and Publisher of the Community Press will both be attending the convention. Publisher A. C. Eastly is a member of the Alberta Executive of the association.

Thieves Enter Two Businesses

DAYSLAND— One of the main implements of the thieving fraternity, the "Jimmie" got a good workout at Daysland on Thursday night of last week when robbers forced the doors on two business places to gain entry.

The J. Drost Men's Wear store and Swistaks Building Supplies were the victims of nocturnal prowlers, who on both instances forced the back doors open. Nothing of value was taken from either premises. The sum of $1.75 was lifted from the cash drawer at the business owned by Jos Drost, while so far as has been learned nothing else was taken from either place. It would appear that the thieves were only interested in money.

The RCMP from Camrose were notified and are investigating the robberies.

This is the time of year when thieves are active, and business owners are warned not to leave cash on the premises at night.

HILDA FISHER WINS HOSTESS PRIZE

HARISTY— The annual meeting of the Sunshine Club was held at the home of Grace Kells with Lottie Kells as co-hostess. There were 13 members and 4 visitors present.

The roll call was answered by a guess on the amount of money in the birthday box. Hilda Fisher was the hostess prize for nearest guess.

A new slate of officers was elected as follows: President Grace Kells; Vice-Pres. Emma Alderdice; Sec.-Treas. Kathy Vandewark; Fruit Committee Margaret Patterson and Eleanor Lawson; Card Sales Eleanor Lawson; Reporter Daisy Cherrysbee and Hilda Fisher.

The 2 raffles were won by Mrs. M. Vandewark and Hilda Fisher.

Twelve members joined for the coming year.

The next meeting will be at the home of Daisy Metz with Eleanor and Eddie Lawson as lunch committee. After the close of meeting lunch was served.

REV. STEELE DISCRIBES HOLIDAY

KILLAM— St. George's W.A. held their September meeting at the home of Mrs Doris Bonnett, with a good attendance in spite of the busy time. The devotion was taken by Mrs. Bonnett, assisted by Mrs. Stewart. A donation was voted to the Cemetry Association.

Plans were made to serve a luncheon after the service on September 28th. This is a service of dedication in memory of Mr. Halsal

After the business of the meeting, Rev. Steele, gave a very interesting talk on his holiday in England, and his visits to some very old churches.

F.U.A. Critical Of Rail Legislation

The President of the Farmers' Union of Alberta said today Canada's food production industry faces a paradox, a situation which may be seriously aggravated by certain section of the Government's railway bill which ended the nationwide strike of the country's railroad workers.

"Legislation that takes the lid off freight rates would be detrimental to Agriculture, and the economy as a whole." said Paul Babey

"It is essential that a transportation authority have jurisdiction over rates in order to protect the public interest

"Substantial increases in freight rates could price Canada out of the international market and retard industrial development.

Mr. Babey predicted that the competitive advantage Canada presently enjoys in some cereal grain markets at the international level would be greatly diminished by increased freight costs.

He also pointed out that snowballing increases in inputs will wipe out the practically non-existe n t margins in Agriculture

"Policy permitting substantial increases in commodity prices must have top priority, so that economic pressure may be relieved or farmers will have no alternative to taking strike action themselves," said Mr. Babey.

St. Paul Ladies Resume Work

HARDISTY— The first meeting of the fall of the U.C.W. of St. Paul's, Hardisty, was held in the church basement, with Mrs. Barbara Hays, President, in the chair. Although the attendance was small, several items of business were attended to. It was reported that a contribution of $50.00 had been made to the Indian Famine fund, and that the quilt for the Jolinek Home in Edmonton had been completed and would be forwarded immediately. Also the group is to purchase sufficient music books for the use of the Junior Choir.

Plans were made for catering to the O.E.S. Banquet on September 24th, and also it was decided to hold the Annual Turkey Supper on October 20th, more about this later.

In the absence of the Program Convenor, some time was spent in planning the various editions of the Clip Sheet and numerous items were reviewed.

The Mizpah Benediction, followed by a delicious lunch served by the hostess, Mrs. Zwicker, brought the evening to a close.

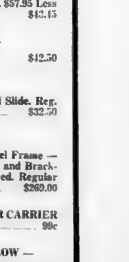
Killam Legion Band Resumes Practices

KILLAM— The Killam Legion Band, organized last November, resumed regular practice sessions on Monday, September 12th. Practices will be held each Monday commencing at 7:30 p.m.

Conducted by Mr. Lloyd Jones, beginners in most cases rent their instruments and later purchase their own, and have programed favorably toward the goal of performing in public.

Thanks to the workmanship of Mr. Vic Falkenburg, the drum used by the renowned Killam Band of pre-war days, has been repaired and activated. Anyone possessing used instruments such as side drums, horns, etc. for sale, please communicate with the band committee.

In addition to activating this band, it is the intension of the committee to organize another beginners class. Interested persons in the Municipality are cordially invited to take part in either band. Please contact Legion Band Committee, Gen. Pettifer, Ed Friesen, Lorne Kerr or Ken McMahon.



HEADS KINSMEN— Harold S. Taggart of London, Ontario, was elected president of the Association of Kinsmen Clubs in August. Sedgewick Kinsmen held their first meeting of the fall on Tuesday evening and got started on another year of Community Service Work.

UCW Meets After Summer Recess

SEDGEWICK— The first monthly meeting of the fall season of the Sedgewick UCW was held September 6th in the Church Hall with fourteen members and three visitors present. In the absence of the president Mrs. A McCracken, Mrs. T Bruce acted as chairman.

After welcoming the ladies present, Mrs Bruce opened the meeting by reading a poem "Day By Day". Some twenty hospital calls and sunbeam visits were reported during the roll call For the October meeting the roll call will be answered by members bringing articles for the Christmas Shoppers Fair which is sponsored by the Canadian Mental Health Assn.

Mrs. Lewis was in charge of the devotional, which was most inspiring and interesting

Correspondence included three letters from Boh Js (Korean Foster Child) who is now in Middle School or what is known here as Junior High.

It was decided that each member and associate member continue the one dollar a month donation until the end of the financial year

Mrs. Lewis will convene the luncheon for the ladies attending the Presbyterial Workshop on September 30th.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction, after which lunch was served by Mrs. Baptie and Mrs. D. McIvean.

The Long Hair Mania!

Every once in a while we hear of a school board passing a regulation or a principal laying down a rule that male students must appear at school with what has been accepted as a conventional haircut. While we do not have a particular liking for the long hair mania, nor too high a regard for those who stroll about with unkept growth hanging over their ears, we do accept the fact that they have a right to do so, and often wonder what authorities would say if parents sent their "boys" back to school with a picture of Albert Einstein. We fail to see what the length of a student's hair has to do with his scholastic achievement. Somewhere along the line there is a failure in reasoning when matters trend that way for grades. Cutting hair and grades have no relationship really.

It is the reason for wearing hair long and unkept that is involved in the controversy. There are people who definitely disapprove of the barber's shears for personal reasons and that is their own affair, but the young male element of today has no definite reason for it except to be a part of a "way out" society that goes for anything which sets them apart. They want to be different. Could be they suffer from an inferiority complex wherein anything different draws the attention they cannot normally command.

To make one of these young people cut his hair will do nothing to strengthen his mental ability, no more than cutting a beard will strengthen a chin line. It may emphasize false values. Authorities may be implying that it is all right to fail as long as your hair is short, but you must conform to regulations no matter how you may feel inside. This is not helpful to the educational system, and it may be better to look at the youngster who is covering up his personality problems by growing long hair, and help the cause.

Sampson lost his strength when his hair was cut, but cutting hair today has nothing to do with strength or ability. It may make the wearer more acceptable by the public, but these young people couldn't care less about that, nor apparently do parents. A teacher once sent a boy home from school "because he had an offensive odor". The boy returned to school with a note from his mother: "Admits ain't no rose. Teach him. Don't smell him."

Born To Raise Hell

That's how a tattoo read on the body of Richard Speck. Born to raise hell. And he did just that by the mass murder of nurses in Chicago. Could be that the tattoo had nothing to do with murder, for the simple fact is that a person who would do such a thing has more wrong inside than a simple tattoo on the outside. He is mentally disturbed.

What interests us mostly, and stirs fear in our mind is the fact that the episode prompted a rush of young people to the needle parlor to have the same thing punctured on their bodies. Why these young people should want to share in Speck's notoriety is simply beyond comprehension. It has no sound reasoning in fact, except the instantaneous desire for publicity.

While the rush for this was small in the overall picture and the percentage was nothing to worry about, there is the fear that those who did participate may end up in the ranks of the Company of Young Canadians recently formed in an attempt to negotiate an alliance between the old guard and the new. There is no place in such a Company for young people who want their bodies mutilated with such an item to raise hell. We have enough of that now.

Broken Homes On The Increase

The latest Canadian divorce figures, 8941 in 1965 — 45.7 per 100,000 population — are up another hefty notch. They have been rising steadily since the 6368 (36.0) figure of 1961. When wider grounds than adultery are admitted (as they certainly should and will be soon) it takes no omniscient to predict that they will skyrocket.

The causes of marital breakdown have been examined and re-examined by sociologists. We've had everything from sexual incompatibility to extreme youthfulness and working wives. No doubt all these have played their part but another cause that no one seemes to have trotted out, is plain old-faahioned selfishness.

As long as men and women look exclusively at their rights and desires and not at all at their responsibilities, partnerships will continue to dissolve. Indeed often there never was genuine partnership.

The latter, in any field, marital or commercial implies that the contracting parties invest in an enterprise which together, they create. Inevitably in the yoking there will be tensions, the need by each to adjust the pace, so that both carry a fair part of the load as well as sharing in the hoped-for bounty.

There will be times, when for the sake of undertaking one partner must, temporarily at least, give ground. The ability to subjugate present satisfactions for future good is a mark of maturity — a quality noticeably lacking in many who (irrespective of actual age) are making, and breaking vows today.

Unless we face the unpalatable truth that no good marriage can be built by shoddy individuals, and do something to instil integrity and sturdy character in the young, homes will continue to fall apart leaving a tragic harvest of disturbed, insecure children and frustrated, bitter adults who feel, as one writer put it, "like unwashed dinner plates" because they have failed in the deepest of all possible human relationships.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.E.

Gold is not only a valuable industrial metal but is also the basis for the money systems of most nations and for international trade. Most authorities admit that there is a shortage of gold in the world today and that the price may have to be raised to remedy the situation. A big part of the shortage is due to people in many countries buying gold and keeping it rather than the local currency which changes in value due to inflation and devaluation. As an example the currency of France, the franc, has been devalued seventeen times and now has only two percent of its original buying power, which in Canadian money means you would have lost 98c out of every dollar you had saved. Fortunately the buying power of the Canadian dollar has not slipped nearly as far but if our politicians continue to buy votes without regard to the economy of the country it will may.

For many years it has been considered a service to encourage the killing of coyotes to keep their numbers under control in the belief that more meat farmers kept chickens and other farm animals which fell prey to coyotes but this situation has changed. Now with motorized toboggans the number of coyotes during the winter has become a great sport which gives the animal little chance of escaping, consequently their appears to have been a rapid decrease in the number of coyotes in the area. Reports are being heard from various points that this decrease has been accompanied by a increase in the numbers of gophers and other rodents which are doing more damage to crops than in former years. There was a time when the government paid bounties on coyotes but the trend may reverse and legislation and regulations may be needed to control the hunters. On the other hand the old coyote has shown himself too intelligent and adaptable to the ways of man and may find a way out of this corner too.

The Letter Box

In reference to the, "Open Letter to the Councillors of the M.D. of Flagstaff" in your Sept. 1st, 1966 issue.

I would like to state that it contained certain errors which should be corrected. The meeting of Ratepayers of M.D. of Flagstaff May 5 1966 was advertised as an educational meeting to enlighten the Ratepayers as about the County System of Rural Government. At this meeting it was moved that the M. D. Councillors go for the County System. Much debate followed. It was mutually agreed by those present, that this motion would not be binding, but only give the Councillor a feeling of the few ratepayers present.

It has been noted by this reader from minutes of the M.D. Council meetings carried in the Community Press, that several times, motions to "go" County have been voted down, so it would seem, that our elected representatives are doing their job as they see fit.

Eric Christenson

The Editor,
Community Press,
Dear Sir:

This quotation from an editorial in the Edmonton Journal, Tuesday, September 6/66: "Democracy : a parody.

A frightening parody of democracy is taking place in the City Hall chambers.

August 18, aldermen voted unanimously to introduce a by-law for a plebiscite on fluoridation October 19.

However, when the by-law was drawn up for first reading last week, six of the aldermen voted to table the by-law in an attempt to kill it this year.

The favorite excuse for the change of heart was 'public reaction' since the previous meeting. It hardly needs to be pointed out that a plebiscite is a better indication of public opinion than the pressure put on aldermen by any special interest group". End of quote.

It is casue inclned for becoming perturbed. Is ignoring the voice of the people assuming a posture?

★ MACDUFF REPORT

New Transport Commission

OTTAWA— The sweeping new transportation legislation introduced into the House of Commons at the same time as the government's end-to-end railway strike measure, has been six years in the making.

It has passed through the hands of three Federal Ministers of Transport, starting with Conservative Leon Balcer and finally introduced by Liberal J. W. Pickersgill. It will involve amendments or repeal of more than a dozen existing acts. Some of them date back to the nineteenth century.

The proposed new legislation provides the frame work for a national transportation policy. The bill also contains revised proposals for major amendments to the Railway Act based upon the report of the MacPherson Royal Commission on Transportation revised in the light of representations received as a result of the consideration of the transportation bill introduced into the House in 1964. That bill went before a parliamentary committee and there where the 1965 election was held.

The new measure defines the broad objectives of transportation policy. It provides for the creation of a new body — the Canadian Transport Commission with responsibility to two government areas.

It will be responsible for the licensing and economic regulation, where appropriate, of all modes of transport under Federal jurisdiction. It will also conduct investigations and provide recommendations to the Federal Government on the development and administration of policy in all transportation fields.

The large new commission consisting of 17 members, will replace three existing agencies: the Board of Transport Commissioners, the Air Transport Board and the Canadian Maritime Commission. The present members and staff of these commissions will be transferred to the new large commission with protection of their present terms of appointment. Present membership of the three agencies totals 13.

Provision is also made for Federal licensing and economic regulation of extra-provincial commodity pipelines and extra-provincial motor vehicle transport.

Licensing and economic supervision of these services will be carried out by the new large commission as they may become necessary in the public interest. The provisions with regard to these two modes of transportation will not come into force automatically, but will be proclaimed only when it is necessary to apply them and after consultation with the provincial authorities in the case of interprovincial highway traffic.

Care is taken in the legislation to avoid any interference with the jurisdiction of provincial legislatures respecting operations wholly within the boundaries of the provinces. The Federal Government has jurisdiction over inter-provincial trucking but it delegated that authority to the pro-

There will be a new super commission to operate through a series of sub-commissions or committees as a means of ensuring expert knowledge of particular types of transport and expeditious and efficient procedures in licensing and regulatory activities. Special committees will deal with road, air, water and pipeline activities. The provisions regarding pipelines apply only to commodity pipelines except those carrying oil and gas which remain under the jurisdiction of the National Energy Board.

The section of the new proposed legislation dealing with the railways is based essentially upon proposals of the MacPherson Commission. That Commission found that since railways no longer have a monopoly in carrying much of the traffic which they had when existing railway legislation was enacted, new legislation and regulations were needed to control the hunters. On the other hand the old coyote has shown himself too intelligent and adaptable to the ways of man and may find a way out of this corner too.

The new bill takes into account many representations received concerning those recommendations. It provides for a transitional subsidy to the railways which will start at approximately the present level of railway subsidy payments, namely $102,000,000 per year. Commencing in 1968 it will decline at the rate of 12 per cent of the present subsidy each year.

Provision is also made for the proper commission to recommend subsidy payments to the railways to cover the losses on any uneconomic branch lines or uneconomic passenger services which the commission may decide should not be abandoned in the public interest, at the present time. Any proposed subsidies will be deductible from the transitional subsidy so long as it is smaller than the transitional subsidy.

Transport Minister Pickersgill disclosed to the Commons a study of railways on the Prairies will be maintained and guaranteed to continue in operation regardless of pressures for abandonment. They will be probably continued for a time.

The Government hopes that at least those section of the new bill dealing with railway transportation can be disposed of by the committee before Christmas so that the railways will have an opportunity to assess the impact of the new bill on their revenue expectations. This will have a bearing on the railways' attitudes in the mediation proceedings this fall in the wage disputes with 118,000 of their employees.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

COCOON COOKER, A woman in Chonaburi, Thailand shows the ancient Oriental art of silk weaving. A pan full of silkworm cocoons is heated on a stove to kill the worms. The cocoons are then unwound by hand, the process sometimes as long as 1,300 yards. It takes 1,000 miles of this thread to make a pound of silk.

Flagstaff Savings and Credit Union

Our Credit Union represents people within the M D of Flagstaff who have joined together to pool our savings and to make low cost loans to each other Our purpose is to encourage thrift and the wise use of credit Elected officers ensure the confidence and safety of your business We are chartered to conduct this enterprise under the Credit Union Act of Alberta.

Our members OWN & OPERATE this credit union YOU, too can become an owner operator — by joining now.

To JOIN, you simply complete a membership application, pay a 25c membership fee, and proceed to build your share savings account.

SHARES represent your accumulation of savings dollars and each share is valued at $2.00 DIVIDENDS are paid on share accounts at the end of each calendar year (December 31st) and are directly related to your share account as it has been built up over the year. In Flagstaff Savings & Credit Union our dividend rate for 1965 was 5%

Savings & Loans are also insured in most cases

Our Credit Union has group life insurance contracts in force with our own Insurance Society — Cuna Mutual, that provide very valuable coverage for our members. The Life Savings contract insures dollar for dollar the life savings of our members to a maximum of $2,000 on amounts deposited prior to age 55 and reduced rates for deposits made between age 55 and 70. The Loan Protection Contract provides that, in most cases, "the debt shall die with the debtor" and loans outstanding are insured for amount by death prior to age 70 and for total & permanent disability prior to age 60

Note Well! There is no direct charge to the member for this valuable protection

The COSTS OF BORROWING by our members is controlled by the Credit Union Act and our present rate of interest is ONE PEN CENT PER MONTH ON THE UNPAID BALANCE. 1c = 12% per year. It is important to note, however, that this rate, applied to a regularly reducing loan balances (retired by regular monthly payments) produces a return with loans as small as $25 or $50 of only $6.50 per year for each $100.00 borrowed (6 1/2% add on interest). This is the true COST OF BORROWING FROM YOUR CREDIT UNION. There are no other service charges.

Here is an example of how doing BUSINESS WITH HIS OWN ORGANIZATION benefited one of our members; — he wanted to purchase a car priced at $2850 over a period of 10 months. Finance company charges on the transaction would have amounted to $171.00 WITHOUT life insurance.

Our member BORROWED FROM HIS CREDIT UNION and having met his obligations of repayment, paid only $24 in interest saved $121 28 and in the meantime, he knew his loan balance was insured against his untimely death or unfortunate disability.

We know we have a FINE ORGANIZATION & invite YOU to join us!

David took 17 years of love from his parents, first class honours from his school and $8,000 from your pockets.

Then he left.

Brilliant high school student dies in car crash said the headline. All that love, all that brilliance, all that money; all gone for nothing.
Automobile accidents kill more young Canadians than anything. More than disease; more than all other accidents put together.
It costs some $8,000 in tax money just to prepare a student for university. A thorough high school driver training program costs $40 per student, and takes 50 hours of instruction. Small costs against the losses.

The automobile insurance industry promotes young driver training. Bursaries, test books and free instruction are given to high school teachers. They in turn teach the students.
The industry also awards cash discounts on auto insurance premiums to students who pass the course.
Driver training isn't a frill. School boards with experience know it's a proven method of reducing accidents. Urge and back high school driver training in your community.
Keep the Devils with us.

KNOW YOUR GRAIN VARIETIES

Leaf and stem rust in wheat and oats, leaf diseases in barley and possno in flax can cause serious crop losses. Varieties differ greatly in resistance to these and other diseases. Descriptions of the most common varieties used in Western Canada including MANITOU Wheat, CONQUEST Barley, NORALTA Flax, etc., are contained in our bulletin: Description of Cereal Varieties.

Every farmer should have this bulletin for handy reference. For a copy, see your local Searle Agent or write to "The Crop Testing Plan, 363 Grain Exchange Building, Winnipeg.

The Bible Today

News from Africa contains several items of information about the Bible. Scriptures have been produced for the first time in Chokwe. Short selections from the Bible, including the Gospel of John, have been published in several Indonesian and English.

Of the 20,000 copies of the New Testament in the Sango language which arrived in the Central African Republic last year, 18,000 had been sold within six months. A new edition has had to be printed. The whole Bible will soon be off the press for the first time. Of the 15,000 originally thought necessary, four orders have already been placed for 14,250!

1,700,000 copies of the Easter story from the Bible, in various African languages, published under the title, "He Lives!", were especially published by the Bible Societies in Africa for distribution last month.

While a jubilant crowd waited on the steps of Bikoro Prison for seven weeks ago for the release of detainees from the prison building opposite, a truck slowly made its way through the crowds, loaded with a new consignment of Bibles of Chaka Prisoners were released, and the Word of God unloaded. . .!

Anglican Church Women Meet

The September meeting was held at the home of Mrs. F. Hooper on Tuesday Sept. 6th with 11 members and one visitor present.

The meeting opened with the members prayer followed by a prayer for the success of the years work.

The roll call followed also the minutes of the July meeting and the Treasurers report.

A letter was read from Mrs. Chapman thanking the members for the party and the silver spoon presented to her.

A group leadership course is to be held in Edmonton. It was decided noted that the name of the organization is now changed to "The Anglican Church Women of Canada".

St. Edmund's Mission Council will meet on Sept. 19th. Lunch will be served by the ladies.

The Confirmation will be held by the Bishop on Sept. 25th and coffee will be served after the service which is at 7:30 p.m.

On Sept. 11th Mr. David Leadbeater of Edmonton will speak in Hardisty Anglican church in the evening and many of our congregation plan to attend. Mr. Leadbeater recently returned from Africa where he was sent by the Anglican Church.

Mrs. Finnegan gave the sick report having sent cards to the sick as visited the hospital.

A memorial will be placed in church in memory of Mrs. Winifred Townsend by her mother Mrs Kerr of Camrose and discussion took place as to the form this should take.

The remainder of the vening was taken up with arrangements for the Graduation dinner of Sept. 30th which the Anglican and Lutheran ladies are catering.

The meeting adjourned after which lunch was served. Rev. Steel concluded the meeting and closed it with a blessing.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Simpson had Sunday dinner with them.

Gifts Wanted For Mental Health

LOUGHEED— The first meeting of the fall season was held by the St. Andrew's U.C.W. in the church parlor on Sept. 1. Mrs. Wm. Paterson read a lesson from "The Word and the Way" in conducting the devotional service.

Due to the absence of Mrs. O. Probst, Mrs. A. Wright acted as secretary. 30 hospital and 4 home visits had been made during the summer by the 7 members present, and 7 baby-roll birthday cards had been sent.

Correspondence was read re the workshop in Sedgewick on Sept. 30, the visitation by presidents and executive members this fall, and the appeal for gifts for the Mental Health sale.

Contributions for the mental health sale are to be brought to the October meeting. Gifts for men and children are needed particularly.

A clothing drive for Bissell Mission is being held this month. Anyone wishing to contribute good, clean clothing may leave it at the church or contact any member of the U.C.W. before Sept. 30.

It was decided that in place of an appeal letter each an had been sent out last fall, a letter of information be drawn up to be sent to those interested in the U.C.W work of the church.

Mrs. I. Black will take charge of devotions and Mrs. O. Probst supply refreshments for the Oct. 6 meeting

The President closed the meeting with a poem and the Mizpah benediction.

Our Alberta Heritage
HISTORY STAYS ALIVE IN HERITAGE PARK

A visit to this unique pioneer community makes you proud to be an Albertan!

The smithy works at his forge, using equipment that dates back to the turn of the century. At the station the train, with its tall-stacked locomotive, is loading passengers. Many will get off at "Bowell Station", to embark for a voyage on the stern-wheeler "S.S. Moyie". Meanwhile, back at the general store, youngsters are buying sticks of horehound candy. These are only a few of the things to see and do at Heritage Park, Calgary - a complete community from Alberta's rugged and independent pioneer era, with streets of shops, homes, school, church and a full-sized fort. We salute the enterprising Albertans who conceived, created and donated pioneer artifacts (excluding whole buildings) to Heritage Park. The result - an authentic re-creation of yesterday's Alberta!

After your visit take home a copy of "Heritage Park Memories", an illustrated souvenir album sponsored for Heritage Park by Calgary Power.

ALBERTA AGRICULTURAL and VOCATIONAL COLLEGES

Registration at the Olds and Vermillion Agricultural and Vocational Colleges for Agricultural courses is set for Wednesday, September 21st for the fall session and January 2nd, 1967 for the Winter Session.

The courses offered at these Colleges has broadened over the last few years to keep up with the times. Some of the courses now offered are: Motor Mechanics, Welding, Appraisal and Assessment, Horticulture, A. I. Technicians and Clothing and Design.

The Calendar for the three Colleges gives details of courses offered and is available from the School or your nearest District Agriculturists Office.

FALL SPRAYING RECOMMENDED FOR THISTLE CONTROL

W. Lobay, Supervisor of Weed Control with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, strongly recommends spring grain fields infested with either Canada or perennial sow thistles as soon as the crop is taken off the fall.

He says regardless of whether the fields are scheduled for cropping or summerfallowing the following year, it is good management to spray thistles in the fall. There are many examples throughout the province where these weeds have been successfully controlled by fall spraying.

The herbicide 2,4-D, used at the rate of 16 ounces of acid per acre or a combination spray made up of 2,4-D and dicamba (e.g. "Banvel 2"), used at the higher recommended rate, are both effective in controlling Canada and sow thistles. A shallow but thorough cultivation just prior to freeze-up may be advantageous if the crop was taken off early and thistle regrowth is showing.

When thistle infestations are heavy, it may be necessary to summerfallow the field next year. In cases where the infestations are lighter and the field is going to be cropped the following year, Mr. Lobay suggests sowing wheat or barley. When the grain reaches the four to five-leaf stage next spring, it should be sprayed with 2,4-D at the rate of 8 to 10 ounces of acid per acre. Although the crop may sustain slight damage in some instances no loss in yield will be for outweighed by the advantages gained from thistle control, says Mr. Lobay.

Fall spraying followed by one or two cultivations, depending upon growing conditions will be equally beneficial for fields which are scheduled for summer-fallowing next year. The thistles, having been prevented from storing up their usual supply of winter food reserves, will be much easier to kill the following season.

Mr. Lobay urges farmers to discuss their thistle problems with their district Agriculturist or agricultural fieldman who will be pleased to provide further information on fall spraying and to work out individual thistle control program.

Canadian beaches during last summer days. for idyllic laziness. A cooling scene which is being blissfully re-enacted on THE LONG HOT SUMMER. The love of water comes early. And in Canada there is a lot of water to love. Two young lads find it a wonderful friend on a hot summer's day. Sand, sun, and water combine with summer idleness

FIRES ARE FAILURES!

Year after year Canada's fire losses exceed $150,000,000. The number of fire fatalities averages around 600 a year and is fourth leading cause of accidental death in Canada. More than 25 per cent of the total fire deaths involve children under the age of 10. Approximately 75 per cent of the fires and deaths occur in residential properties.

These figures are the measure of human failure to heed fire hazards and the measurable result of failure to correct them.

There is no mystery about the cause of most home fires. A carelessly-discarded cigaret is left to smolder in an over-stuffed chair; a portable oil heater is refilled while burning; electrical circuits are overloaded and overfused; unclean rubbish becomes a breeding place for fire.

Fall Spraying For Control Of Thistle

A disappointing feature of this year's record-breaking grain crops is the wide-spread occurrence, particularly in eastern Saskatchewan and Manitoba, of very heavy infestations of Canada Thistle, Perennial Sow Thistle and Wild Oats. Losses from these weeds are entirely needless for effective methods for their control are now available. This article will deal with the control of thistles only. The control of wild oats will be discussed in subsequent articles.

Thistle Control Needed. It is all very well to attribute this year's thistle problem to wet spring that limited effective spraying opportunities, but the fact is that farmers are not giving thistle control the attention it needs. Thistles cause great financial loss to grain growers. Field tests have shown, for instance, that two Canada thistle plants per square yard reduced the yield of wheat from 32 to 28 bushels per acre. A heavy thistle infestation (10 plants per square yard) reduced the yield from 32 to 10 bushels per acre.

After Harvest Control. It has been demonstrated that heavy infestations of thistles can be controlled by using a combination of cultural and chemical methods A thistle control program that combines these two methods is gaining in favor with farmers. Field tests and the experience of farmers have proved that after-harvest spraying is an important initial practice for the control of thistles. Mr. J. Forbes, Manitoba weeds specialist, recommends the application of 2, 4-D amine at 16 ounces per acre on thistle-infested stubble fields this fall, as soon after harvest as possible. About 3 weeks after spraying fields should be given a shallow cultivation to cut off the roots of any new shoots. To complete the thistle control program, Mr. Forbes recommends a 10-ounce-per-acre application of 2,4-D to the fields next spring.

Spray this Fall. Spraying in the fall, immediately after harvest, is a useful thistle control practice. It prevents the build-up of reserve food in the thistle roots. Now is the time then to plan on reducing heavy yield losses from thistles in 1967. Farmers with thistle problems are advised to consult their local agricultural authorities about an effective, well-planned program.

NOT AS BAD AS COLOR SLIDES

Don't ask me what I'm doing in a hotel room in Calgary, writing this on rented typewriter. The bestlaid plans of men with stubborn wives gang aft agley We shoved be at home right now, but got my wife and daughter into a posh hotel and the only way you can get them out is to call the management and tell them you have no money.

Travel is supposed to be broadening. And it is. In the first place, you're sitting around on your tail most of the time — in planes, trains, buses and hotel rooms Secondly, besides the lack of exercise you eat too much and too often Between the two, travel is definitely fattening.

Travel is also exhilarating, expensive and exhausting. The best part is starting out on the trip. There's the excitement of anticipation: new scenes, new faces, new experiences. You're feeling first-rate. All your clothes are clean and fresh and pressed. You have every cent of available cash on your hip.

The worst part is the tail end of it The anticipation has turned to satiation You're feeling awful. whether it's constipation or piles or diro deer or just the fact that you're utterly bushed Every rag you own is soiled and crumpled. And you are not flat broke but you have signed a couple of cheques that are guaranteed pure Incka rubber.

We've seen a fair chunk of the second largest country in the world. in the last few days. Jet liner to Vancouver. Back by train through the Rockies to Edmonton. Day-liner (ugh!) to Calgary Tomorrow off to Banff all day, back to catch the jet and into Toronto airport in the dawn's early light, after a 22 hour day and a couple of thousand miles Yes, even the bourgeois are getting around these days.

Now, I know there's nothing quite so dull as hearing about somebody else's holiday trip. So I won't bore you with a resume of ours. Except in the next two or three columns Just a few general impressions.

I'm not sure Lake Superior is still there, as we were above cloud when we flew over where it was supposed to be. Nice cloud, though.

The prairies are very wide Also long. But don't expect a sea of rye-ing wheat, like in the novels. From 22,000 feet, it's the same old patchwork quilt as elsewhere. Furthermore, those of us who don't live there have been getting a burn steer for years. There isn't supposed to be any water out there, but when you look down, they're crawling with lakes

The Rockies? Very rocky. Also high Lots of high rocks there.

No, what made me gasp was the thought of the early birds. First, the explorers like McKenzie and Thompson, who fought and starved their way through that massive, menacing wall 200 years ago, with a sack of pemmican. a few Indians and a canoe.

How their lips must curl, those early birds, as they look down and see us rolling through in 10 hours, and hear us complaining about the lack of space in our compartment, the lack of variety in our meals. and the slow service in the bar.

West coast? Very coast-like. Good deal of shore-line. And water.

Chief attraction, of course, including magnificent mountains, gorgeous gardens and salubrious coastair, was harassed Hugh, son and heir

Met his best, with great excitement. As luck would have it, in fact as luck always has it, we couldn't have met him on a worse day. Normally, he has 10 hours off. But this week, he was changing from day shift to night, and had to work a double shift. so he had three hours off. His mother's face fell a foot.

Working 16 hours a day, he had a twitch like an old fighter pilot. But it hadn't impaired his appetite, I noticed, when I was paying the bill for dinner. He left with a big grin and one of my best shirts.

Well, here we are, running out of space. and I haven't even begun to tell you about how Kim fell in love with the blegnard in Edmonton, or how my wife fell asleep on all the sight-seeing tours or how I fell into the lap of a man when the train was swaying in the Rockies. Oh, well, at least I haven't made you look at colored slides

FURS

Natural furs are available in coats, jackets, linings and accessories Before buying fur of any type, decide what you want most — style, warmth, serviceability or economy. If your budget is limited, select styles with simple, easy-fitting lines which can double for daytime and evening wear.

Before buying a fur garment, visit several well-established furriers who are known for reliability and fair dealing. Examine and compare different types of fur. Generally fur of good quality is — 1) bright and lustrous, 2) uniform in colour, depth andtexture, 3) soft and pliable on the leather side, yet firm and strong Look for: full thick fur of plenty of guard hair at points of wear, cuffs, pockets, back of neck and edges; fine workmanship throughout the garment; frost edge folded over rather than faced.

Try on different furs to see which are most becoming Persons of average height and proportions can wear almost any fur. Tall, slim figures look best in long-haired, horizontally striped or spotted furs. Short, slender figures look well in medium pile, short-hairds furs with vertical or diagonal stripes. Short or stout figures can wear flat, short-haired furs with vertical striping.

— In Canada, fur garments must be ticketed with the sales price and the correct name of the fur used (im cause of the animal from which the pelties were taken). If a trade name is used, it must be an enlisted and immediately followed with the correct fur name.

FUR-LIKE FABRICS

Fur-like fabrics used in outerwear are made of wool and synthetic or man-made fibres including acrylic, acetate, nylon, rayon with backings of cotton or modacrylic. These high pile fabrics provide fine warmth and texture and may be made with special pattern effects to look like some of the natural furs. High pile fabrics are also valuable with original style effects, colours and patterns Prices usually run about the same as for cloth coats. Check to be sure fibres will not shed and that dyes do not rub off. Read labels for information on care and wearability.

KILLAM U.C.W. SEPT. MEETING

KILLAM— The U.C.W. held its September meeting on the 8th at the home of Mrs. W. Davison. Owing to the harvest season several members were absent.

The Worship period was conducted by Mrs. R. Peterson. The theme was the 23rd Psalm.

Mrs. T. Martin chose a study on the Indians telling a short history from the 18th century to the present Missons were started in order to stop the Indians from warring with each other. The French Jesuits were the first to bring Christianity, followed by the Anglicans, Methodists and Presbyterians. Reserves with Treaty money was established and some residential schools were set up. Mrs. A. Child told something of the work the United Church is doing among the Indians.

The regular business items were disposed of and it was reported that 12 Home and 100 Hospital calls had been made. There was notice of a Fall Workshop to be held in Sedgewick on Sept. 26th.

Used clothing will be gathered for shipment this fall.

TWO OF A KIND. When Peppa Poodle decided that he would like to get a breath of fresh air, Poodle Jr. concluded that he'd like a whiff of the great outdoors too. After scratching on the door a few times, they were put on a double leash, and taken for a family outing.

KILLAM— The September meeting was held at the home of Mrs George McCabe with ten members answering the roll call with a verse of scripture.

The Devotional Period under the joint direction of Mrs. Jos Grant and Mrs. Ross Grant opened with hymn 474 followed by prayer. The Scripture reading was taken from Psalms 86 and was read in alternate verses. The Topic was taken from Miscellaneous Readings and was given by Mrs. Ross Grant. Devotions concluded with Hymn 499 followed by the Lord's Prayer.

The Business Meeting opened with the roll call followed by the reading of the minutes and their adoption.

Reports were given by The Treasurer, The Visiting Committee, Home Helpers, Welcome and Welfare, Church Cleaning and Centenary Committee, showing a busy month for all.

Plans were discussed for delegates from our group to attend a Work Shop at Westmount Presbyterian Church Edmonton on Oct. 1. It was hoped some might be able to attend.

Plans were finalized to hold a public shower in the church on the evening of September 23 for Miss Julie Grant.

Centennial Report

1867 1967

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

How many Canadians, do you think, are at least 100 years old? I asked a colleague at my office the other day and he took a guess at 63. Well, he was far off the mark. According to the latest figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics there are 694 centenarians in Canada.

I must confess that the first time I heard the DBS figure mentioned I was a little surprised too. One of the fellows in the information branch of the Centennial Commission who is a former weekly newspaper editor made a clean guess. He said, "There were two centenarians; I remember, in the town where I published my paper as I though there ought to be one for every town and heard the figure on the number of weekly newspapers in Canada."

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures are checked very month and we at the Commission are interested in these figures because next year centenarians in Canada are going to be honored by a special Centennial of Confederation scroll.

The idea of honoring Canadians as old as Confederation in 1867 is not a new one that was originated by the Centennial Commission. It was proposed by a man living in Welland, Ontario, named Walter F. Gower who. at the age of 84, is not too far from the century mark himself.

Mr. Gower, as a matter of fact, has been sending out scrolls to centenarians for some time He is a member of the Senior Citizen Club of Port Colborne and for some years now he has been conducting his own little project for centenarians. The community of Welland also endorsed his project.

Two years ago Mr. Gower started writing to officials at Ottawa about his idea of giving special honor to Canadians at least 100 years old during the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Confederation. The Centennial Commission has adopted Mr. Gower's suggestion and artists have been busy making rough designs for a special scroll to be presented next year.

There will be several hundred Canadians born in 1867, or before, who will be extra special people when we conduct our great celebrations next year.

Rapid strides being made in the United States in development of nuclear power is pushing the clock forward in setting the time when demand for uranium will overtake supply. In the last two months American programs have been started for development of 5,800 megawatts. Westinghouse and General Electric have contracts representing a total investment close to $3 billion. By 1973 the United States will probably be a net importer with a total demand for 18,000 tons for nuclear power projects. Of Canada's four producing mines, Rio Algom, Eldorado, Denison and Bancock only Rio Algom and Eldorado are doing any exploration work in preparation for this day. Americans, however, are looking with interest at the field. Kerr McGee Ltd. has recently purchased claims in the Blind River area.

WHO'LL BE FIRST?

There's been a lot of talk about Albertans integrating Hutterites and Indians into the rest of the province's society. But the question is, who will integrate whom before the sheriffs is over?

Recently about 100 Calgarians visited Rocyford's Rabbits Hutterian Colony and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The Hutterites, always friendly toward visitors, took in the Calgarians and caused many of the city-trained visitors to long for the peaceful and simple life of the colony. Unless those outside the colonies become more friendly toward those who wish to leave and go on their own, they will find the Hutterites hard to integrate. In fact it is quite possible that some non-Hutterian might be persuaded to start communal life of their own in order to avoid the hectic pace of competition outside.

The greatest need in the matter of integration is understanding of one another. If more people would visit the colonies they would understand the colonist, who are wonderful human beings like all the rest of us. When the colonists are made to feel at home outside the colony, in the homes of the surrounding areas, by friendly gestures, they may feel less antagonistic toward the "outside world". But we can never complete the integration until there's understanding of one another and there can never be understanding until there's communication. We need to visit one another more.

And while we're on the subject of integration, we might speak briefly of the Indians, who, on their reservations, are in many ways in the same position as the colonists. Few whites have taken the time to visit the reservations and understand the reasons for Indians feeling as they do toward the outside world. Likewise, Indians have not always been made to feel at home outside by those who claim they should integrate with the rest of society.

Finally, may we suggest, that if Canada is to be one nation, under one flag, making a worthy contribution to the peace of the world, we're all going to have a better understanding of many minority groups from Europe and Asia in order to assist them in their integration into the Canadian society. Unless the broad, general group of Canadians given some guidance in working at the job of understanding the minority groups in our midst, we may find that the minorities will become the majority and they'll be welcoming us to join them. It's just a question of who'll be first to take the initiative and do something in a practical and concrete about building up an integral society in our midst. — Nanton News

JUST THE FACTS NEEDED

The Canada Pension Plan must win general support needed for total incomprehensibility, says "the Printed Word." Mr. Stanley Knowles has now said in the Commons that the plan's basic principle is to provide wage earners additional pension income beyond what they get in private plans. How Mr. Knowles has come to believe this is a mystery to anyone who listened to or read statements by government at the time the measure was introduced.

It is a welfare scheme designed to give a basic minimum protection to all eligible citizens, and integration with other plans is only common sense. The federal government would be wise if it failed to make this mandatory. The plan was not intended to be whipped cream on the nodes. —Wainwright Star Chronicle.

BUDGET CAPSULES

Finance Minister Sharp has revealed the details of his package concern removing in two stages the sales tax on production machinery which Mr. Gordon imposed in three stages. Dies, jigs, fixtures and moulds and tools for use in manufacture machinery will be exempt immediately from the entire 11 per cent tax. This is important to the auto parts industry Production machinery will be subject to a six per cent tax from April 1, 1967 to April 1, 1968 and after that will be exempt.

Churches, like all other charitable institutions, will have to register with the Department of National Revenue and give a simple accounting of money collected and spent if contributors are to be allowed deductions from taxable income for this purpose.

Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan has won his battle to have colonies raising for patents in the Province brought under the provision for a three-year tax exemption for new mines. It will apply in full to all mines coming into commercial production after the budget and to the unexpired portion of the three years of any mine already in production.

1966 — FIFTY-EIGHTH YEAR — 1966 SEDGEWICK, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22ND, 1966 Volume 57 — Number 19

FULL SPEED AHEAD— Always with an eye on the weather, farmers try to make good use of every minute at harvest time. This combine at work on the farm of J. R. Hallam continues to pick up swath as grain is augered from the hopper into the truck along side. This unloading on the move procedure is common on local farms and during a working day accounts for considerable extra grain being harvested.

Grain Yields Exceeding Predictions

Reports coming in from various parts of the district show that the yield on this year's crop is in many cases running much higher than was expected a few weeks ago.

Wheat crops are running as high as forty-five bushels per acre This has surprised many observers because crops appeared to be very thin, but this is compensated for by large and well filled heads which are giving a good yield of wheat averaging No. 2, with a fair amount of No. 1.

Rape crops have been reported as high as 1800 pounds per acre with tons from Edmonton

The Spartons have just won the Alberta Junior Ladies Fastb a l l Championship, defeating Calgary West Hill Hearst for the title

Marilyn played first base and pitched and Sandra was the center fielder on the team. The Press is told that both girls played an important part in boosting the Spartons to the provincial title

Last year's champion Lougheed Rechetes were defeated by the Spartons in the playoff for the Northern Alberta Championship about one month ago.

LOCAL GIRLS ON CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

Miss Marilyn Tanton and Miss Sandra Peterson who last year played for the Alberta Champion Lougheed Rocketes, played this summer for the Jasper Place Spartons from Edmonton

Barley and Rye going up to 30 bushels per acre Oat crops as usual are being reported yielding up to 75 and 80 bushels.

Harvesting has been aided by over two weeks of very good weather with temperatures ranging up into the high 80's during the day. Some spots of frost have been reported but no serious damage has occurred.

Each day sees a few more farmers completing their harvest but two or three weeks more will be required before the harvest will be approaching an end.

SEDGEWICK— A record-breaking forty-nine grade twelve students went through the final phase of their high school careers on Friday night of last week, when each was presented with an engraved certificate by Principal H. Stuve assisted by Vice-Principal Mr. Johnson.

For the graduates it was the "wind-up" of high school life and the beginning of new careers. For the high school staff it was an evening of deep satisfaction in the knowledge that the class had broken all previous records for the High School Division. It was noted that 69.3 percent of the papers written received 65% or better, to top the provincial average which is 60%. Of the students, 21 received matriculation passes with at least 60% averages.

As has become the accepted custom, the evening was started off with a banquet for the students, parents and invited guests, held in the spacious gym of the school. An appetizing repast was catered to by local ladies groups, and was followed by toasts and short addresses.

Later in the evening the main feature, the Exercises were conducted in the Recreational Centre, which was beautifully decorated in a Canadian theme to emphasize the Centennial of the nation.

Following the Processional of the graduates resplendent in multi-colored gowns and sash, O Canada, and the Invocation, school principal Mr. Harvey Stuve in his remarks, paid a fine tribute to the high performance of the graduating class.

The high school chorus which has gained an enviable reputation, went along with the Canada theme in rendering such numbers as, This Land is Your Land, The Maple Leaf Forever, Land Of Silver Birch and Climb Every Mountain. In the same vein, two students, Ron Bentledge and Les Enstly sang, The Land Of Glad Tomorrow.

Guest Speaker, Mr. Marvin Bruce, laid strong emphasis on education, not only as an investment in the future of the country, but as a necessary and important investment in the future of the individual. It is becoming more and more important in our day that young people, the future administrators of this country become well educated in order to take their important places in society, as well as to assure their economic future.

The house student award this year was won by William Roggenack, and the presentation was made by the Principal Mr. Stuve. Mr. Wm. Routledge presented the CHS Scholarship award which was won by John Chaser. Killam School Division awards were presented by Mr. T. Clouston, long-time member of the Board, and were awarded to Wm. Roggenack and John Chapman, who had averages of 80%. The Legion Award also went to Wm. Roggenack for the second time. This presentation was made by Mrs. E. Johnson. Kinsmen Awards went to Eileen Armitage and Sandra Stuart, grades 11 and 10 respectively, and were presented by Kinsman Ernie Bouchard

The Valedictory was very capably delivered by Miss Debbie James and was a further indication of the training the young people are receiving at Central High School.

Spcial words of commendation were expressed during the evening, to the staff of Central High reflected in the fine results for the past school term; the School Chorus and decorating committees for their national theme of the evening; the School Board which has provided up-to-date facilities for the important task of dispensing education.

Flowers for the graduation were donated by, Frank King, Mrs. Janet James, Mrs M. Backen and Mrs. J Stevens A dance followed later.

Strome UCW Hears Of Workshop Plan

STROME— The evening meeting of the U.C.W. was held Wednesday evening Sept. 7 at the home of Mrs. Blance Cranston with 9 members and one visitor present. Miss Curtis offered to act as Unite Leader Until December as Mrs. Haan, the Unite Leader has moved from the district.

Both Groups have been asked to cater for Linda Rankins wedding reception. Finalized plans for this was tabled until the general meeting. Next Unite meeting will be held at the home of Miss Curtis. The general meeting of the U.C.W. was held in the Church hall on Wednesday evening Sept. 14 with 9 members and 3 visitors present. Ann Johnson took the chair in the absence of the President, Mrs. Curtis.

Devotional was read by Blanche Cranston followed by a short prayer and closing hymn 627. Business meeting opened with roll call, followed by reading of the minutes and their adoption.

UCW workshop will be held in Stettler Oct. 25 with Dr. Helen Hunton as guest speaker. It is hoped the Strome groups can attend.

Explorer Leader, Miss Curtis has as her assistant Harvey Hauch for this year. New reading material has been ordered. Cotton rags are being collected. members are asked to leave some in the church hall. Plans for Miss Rankins Sherwin wedding reception were finalized. Meeting closed with Benediction.

3 Awards For Press

At the 43rd Annual Convention of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association which was held in Calgary last Friday and Saturday the Community Press received three awards in the Newspaper Competitions.

The Editor and the Publisher of the Community Press were very pleased with rating given the newspaper by the judges and with the three awards received, one each for Best All Round Newspaper, Best Front Page, and Best Editorial Page.

One hundred and sixty delegates representing the fifty-six member newspapers were in attendance at the convention along with visitors and guests from various parts of Canada.

Community Press publisher A. C. Enstly who has served as a director of the Association for three years was re-elected to the Board of Directors for another term. New President of the Weekly Newspapers is Mr. Tom Ford of the Lacombe Globe who takes over from Mr George Myer of the Taber Times. Other members of the executive include Jack Parry, Rimbey, Lou Drossis, St. Paul; Miss Edith Rogers, Athabasca; Dave Rashleu, Pincher Creek; Bob Munro, Vulcan; and Ashley Cooper, Vermilion.

Local Golfers Win At Drayton Valley

SEDGEWICK— Four Sedgewick golfers took in the Open Tournament at Drayton Valley during the past week, and proved once again that in order to have a good club you need golfers of varying skill and handicaps The local golfers illustrated this fact by coming away with prizes in various handicaps

Clyde Clark was right in at the top to capture second in the Championship Flight by a narrow margin. Clyde was beaten by a local Drayton Valley golfer in the final round after having carried off the honors in the Fifth Flight with steady golf all through the tourney. Jack Thompson was champion of the Ninth Flight, and said later that if his putter had been anything like friendly he could have taken the Eighth Flight.

Adam Baptie was the other golfer, and the only one to come out without a final win. Adam says he likes to follow the crowd and most of these were the in-between The other fellows told us though that Adam was having a tough time with stomach flu, and that makes a difference. However, three out of four is a pretty good batting average.

Swing Along With Mitch!

It may not be popular in some isolated sections of the country, but bolstering the Federal Medicare scheme for a year was one of the economic moves that will be approved by the majority of deep thinking Canadians. There are a lot of angles to the scheme which need clarification and readjustment. The twelve month hoist should provide ample opportunity to iron out the details and make Medicare more acceptable. There is little doubt that Mitchell Sharp knows Medicare is inevitable in this day and age, but he no doubt realizes that the present time is inopportune and that the present economic conditions almost demand postponement.

Mr. Sharp will not be popular in some areas of the nation and political pressure will bear heavily on his shoulders. But if he bows to opposition he will be to all intents and purposed finished in his present office.

In the new tax proposals the Finance Minister is displaying a form of courage which has become almost extinct in Canada, and he will need all his reserve of this talent to make his proposals stick. As he says, it is time the national interest was defined, and in his abandonment of the Pearson formula of cooperative federalism he has brought forward a tough proposal of holding the line on federal tax revenues.

Provinces have long sought to administer welfare and every other popular scheme, while demanding that the federal treasury provide, or share in the cost. Mr. Sharp now, and rightly so, is saying that if the provinces want to continue handing out assistance to the people they should be responsible for raising the money. This of course is the last thing provincial authorities want. If additional taxes are needed the local governments will have to get it, and also accept the wrath of the taxpayers.

We have always advocated that those who spend the money should share in the responsibility of raising it. If nothing else this makes them economically minded for all have an inate fear of the wrath of the taxpayer.

Freedom Is Paramount!

A refugee from Cuba thought so much of his freedom that he struck out across the wide expanse of the ocean bent on reaching the U.S.A. and regaining his freedom as a citizen. That he escaped in a converted metal bath tub affair activated by a lawn mower engine, only serves to emphasize the dangers a man freeborn will cope with to retain his independence as an individual. Any man worth his salt values his freedom above all else.

Life is infinitely less important than freedom. A free man has a value to himself and perhaps to his time; a ward of the State is useless to himself —useful only so as many foot-pounds of energy serving those who manage to set themselves up above him. A people which has lost its freedom might better be dead for it has no importance in the scheme of things except as an evil power behind a dictator. Deep in our hearts we all dislike the man who wishes the State to take care of him, who would not rather live meagerly as he pleases than suffer a fat and regimented existence. Those who are not willing to sacrifice for liberty have never been worth saving.

Throughout remembered time self-respecting man has been willing to defend his liberty with his life. If this country ever goes totalitarian out of a soft-headed humanitarian impulse to make life easy for the many, we shall get what we deserve, for the choice is still before us, but we shall have betrayed the race of men, and among them the very have-nots whom we subsidize.

Our country still has the opportunity to resist the government led rush of barbarism which is taking Europe and many other countries backward. But we can only do it by running our government, and by refusing to let it run us. Think it over.

Please Don't Wait!

When I quit this mortal shore, and mosey around the earth no more, don't weep, don't sigh, don't sob; I may have struck a better job. Don't go and buy a large bouquet for which you'll find it hard to pay; don't mope around and feel all blue; I may be better off than you. Don't tell the folks I was a saint or any old thing that I ain't; if you have jam like that to spread, please hand it out before I'm dead. If you have roses, bless my soul, just pin one in my buttonhole while I'm still alive and well today. Don't wait until I'm gone away.

The Unfinished World

The wisdom of God is shown in that He left the world unfinished that we might have the interest and delight in taking the "raw materials" and putting the world together. He left the oil in the trap rock, the aluminum in the clay, the paper in the pulp, the electricity in the clouds. He left the forests unfelled, the mountains unsurveyed, the canals undug, and the tunnels unbored. He left the fields unplowed and unplanted. He left the music unwritten, the poetry undreamed and the dramas unplayed. He left inventions unapplied and cities unbuilt. He left mind and character unperfected that we might really be the children of God — created in His own image with latent powers to take the "raw materials" and put-the old world together. —(PassWord — Washington.)

by A.C.B.

Last Friday and Saturday was the 53rd Annual Convention of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Assn. at the Holiday Inn in Calgary and I spent the two days there along with my wife, our editor, and some 180 other newspaper people from Alberta, B.C. Saskatchewan, and Montreal. Besides renewing old acquaintences I met a number of new people including Mayor Jack Leslie of Calgary who pointed out that Calgary is growing at the rate of 1,000 people and 300 cars per week, and is now well over 300,000 people. Hal Martin, Publicity Director for the Alberta Government who is very deeply and enthusiastically involved in the Western Canadian Pavilion at Expo 67 which is sponsored by the four western provinces. Calgary Brewing and Malting Co sponsored the Friday morning breakfast and Mr. George Stephenson of that company entertained with jokes, songs, impersonations, and piano playing. George does several shows each week around the Calgary area and if you get the opportunity don't miss him. Friday evening we were dinner guests of the Alberta Government and the Hon A. J. Hooks, Minister of Municipal Affairs, who is in a speech said that. "The more the people ask the Government to do the more the Government must take from the people to do it." Calgary Power and Canadian & Northland Utilities presented their Junior Citizen Awards which is one of the highest forms of recognition available to Alberta Youths.

Coach Bud Grant and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers were staying in the hotel while we were there and you can take it from me, they are big men. Eight of them have a head load of hair on, refused to move so Grant waved four of them out. The elevators have a head load of hair pounds. They held a press conference at 4:00 p.m. Friday and I got tired up and missed it by half an hour. They ate steaks the size of table tops at 2:00 p.m. Saturday, and left for McMahon Stadium where they played the Stampeders and lost.

. . . .

It was a good convention and we enjoyed ourselves, picked up some new ideas, and had a bit of a holiday.

TOWN NOT PLACE FOR A DOG

Leading a dog's life has literally come to mean no more than just that. We, along with dozens of other dog owners have begun to see that the life of a dog, under lawful regulations in any town, is not one that can be very satisfying to the canine. Comparing it to the freedom that cats can have; that even the wild animals do have, a dog's life seems leash is pretty confined, and the only thing that can possibly partly compensate for being chained is an abundance of love from those who are his masters.

Many breeds of dogs are bases are, in one way or another, and they need some freedom to exhale them in. Otherwise this truth. We feel sorry for all dogs who have to conform to the laws and regulations laid down for living in a civilized area, and along with the canine, we believe they would sooner be country roamers than pedestal sitters in the best society. —Seahaw Star.

HOT FOR SALE

The Alberta Government Telephone system is not for sale, Premier Manning made that clear in a recent announcement. Previously they had been rumors that the system would be sold to the highest bidder, as it probably be the Bell Telephone Company of Canada or some big United States corporation.

The Alberta Government Telephone system is a progressive, well-run concern and is a credit to its management and employees. It provides the people of this province with the best of service at the lowest cost of any large telephone system in the continents.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Blind Man's Bluff

OTTAWA — It will be several months yet before any agreement is reached between the federal and provincial governments on new tax arrangements.

But strong positions have already been taken on both sides, and as usual in federal-provincial affairs, the protagonists seem to be miles apart.

The current series of meetings is of unusual importance. They involve not simply an argument over tax money. They involve an argument over which level of government — federal or provincial — has first chance at the tax dollar.

In other words, this is an argument over the nature of Canadian confederation.

It is too much to expect, of course, that this argument will be settled by the federal-provincial tax arrangements committee, or by the full federal-provincial conference.

One hundred years from now, if Canada is still functioning, there will still be debate about the nature of confederation.

What our federal and provincial governments will have to solve, before the present agreement expires next March, is how they're going to share the tax dollar. And that, of course, will have a strong bearing on how Confederation develops over the next five years.

Will provinces take over more and more tax fields, leading for all practical purposes, to an autonomous state of Quebec?

Will the federal government claim the door on further tax room for the provinces, retaining prime control over fiscal and economic matters in Canada?

These alternatives seem mutually exclusive. Yet they represent the positions taken respectively by the government of Quebec and the government of Ontario at the tax-structure conference in mid-September.

The two main protagonists, or antagonists at the conference were federal finance minister Sharp and the new Premier Daniel Johnson.

The positions these men took appeared irreconcilable. Mr. Johnson wants one hundred percent of personal income tax, succession duties, and in effect one hundred percent of corporation tax.

He wants the federal government right out of these fields, and even contends that the present government has a constitutional priority in these tax fields.

Mr. Sharp on the other hand says that the provinces can in effect have no more tax room than they have now. They could levy up to about half the personal income tax, about 28 percent of corporation tax, and 75 percent of succession duties.

Anything they need above that, says Mr. Sharp, they'll have to raise themselves. The federal government can't give up any more tax room in favor of the provinces.

Now if Canada is to survive much longer, one these men, and probably both, has to be bluffing.

Surely Mr. Johnson knows the federal government won't give up one hundred percent of the per tax fields such as personal income and corporation tax. He must be prepared to settle for less.

Surely Mr. Sharp knows that the provincial governments must have access to greater tax resources, and that some of it must come from the Federal government.

. . . .

Nearly every province — not Quebec alone — has made the case for increased revenues, and some of the increase can come from the federal government. It doesn't the burden of taxation could become intolerable.

Mr. Sharp, in his speech to the conference, noted that expert studies showed that provincial expenditures would be rising faster than their revenues in the next five years.

Federal expenditures, on the other hand, would be rising at about the same rate as federal revenues.

In other words the federal government can easily meet its expenditures under present tax arrangements. The provincial governments can not.

Yet the finance minister flatly refused to offer the provinces another dollar's worth tax room.

This is basically an unreasonable position. But Mr. Johnson's position is equally unrealistic.

The federal government can't keep all its tax rights. But it can't give them all up either. Not if we're to continue to have a country.

This brings us to Mr. Sharp's basic premise Taxes must be increased. That is, total taxes. federal and provincial.

The provincial governments must raise the taxes needed to meet their expenditures. The federal government must do the same. There may be some leeway for the federal government to turn over a few more percentage points of tax room. but there isn't much leeway.

The inescapable conclusion is that taxes in Canada are not high enough. It would be difficult for a government to put a proposition from the ordinary taxpayer, but it is a fact. There are high enough and they'll have to go higher.

Candaians can't expect to get government services, new and expanded services — free education, hospital insurance, medical care, old age pensions, welfare assistance, superhighways, airports — without paying for them, every cent. through

"Thirty-four percent for Pete's sake!"

He should get it right and get it this fall. New 34% Granular Ammonium Nitrate by Elephant Brand is available only through your Elephant Brand dealer. Comenco produces Canada's only granular ammonium nitrate; the only one with 34% nitrogen. It gives more plant food per spreader load, which means fewer stops. It is non-caking and flows evenly for uniform application.

And consider this: New 34% granular ammonium nitrate is now being used in making Elephant Brand 23-23-0 and 27-14-0. Result—products made up entirely of firm, uniform granules that stay uniform and flow evenly through any applicator.

Taken all around, Elephant Brand 34% N is the greatest granular nitrate fertilizer to hit the ground for Pete's, or anybody else's sake!

New Electric Frypan Saves Time in Kitchen

An electric frypan that makes cooking easier and saves wash-up time now is being manufactured in Canada.

One of the large manufacturer's of electrical appliances in Canada has introduced a controlled-heat frypan coated with non-stick "Teflon" enamel. With this unit, food which ordinarily adhere and have to be pried loose bit out easily. Those who prefer to cook without fats or oils may do so. Clean-up takes just a few seconds — a light rub with a wet sponge or dishcloth does the trick.

Other features include a cover that can be fixed in five different tilt positions to suit the food being cooked, an easy-to-read guide to frying temperatures printed on the handle, new automatic heat control to maintain greater accuracy of the temperature selected; and water-proof controls that permit the unit to be immersed in water.

The manufacturer gives the following tips to ensure best service from a frypan coated with "Teflon":

1. Use a wooden spoon, rubber spatula or nylon turner or kitchen tongs (Metal turners and spoons may scratch the coating.)

2. Pre-heat the frypan before adding foods. If cooking oil is used, add cooking oil, heat. then add food.

3. Avoid extreme temperature changes such as running cold water into a very hot frypan. Allow frypan to cool before washing or rinsing after cooking.

4. Grease and flour frypan when baking cakes directly in the bottom.

5. Avoid using steel wool, scouring pads or cleaner and metal scouring pads These will scratch the easy-to-care-for surface.

The new frypan bears the Du Pont of Canada certification mark signifying that the coating has been applied according to Du Pont's Standards.

TREES FOR 1967 PLANTING

In a previous release we told you there were no Poplar or Willow available for 1967 tree planting. Since then we have checked with the Tree Nursery at Indian Head, Saskatchewan and they have informed us that they have a good supply of Poplar, Willow and Siberian Elm.

We have a supply of Tree Application forms for Indian Head trees in our office for your convenience. We would be pleased to help you plan your tree plantings and fill out your tree orders if you will stop at the Sedgewick Office.

ORNAMENTAL TREES AVAILABLE TOO

We have just received word that a limited supply of Fruit Bundles (Ornamental Plantings for the Shelterbelt) are available for 1967 plantings. Other trees available are: Saw Buckthorn, Dor Oak, Buckthorn, Hazzen Rose, Silver Buffaloberry, Lilac, Flowering Dogwood, Hawthorn and Mountain Ash.

These trees are for shelterbelt plantings to add beauty and variety to the farmstead and encourage different kinds of bird life to inhabit the areas. These trees are not for foundation plantings around your house.

Tea, sandwiches and squares, served by the 4-H ur's completed the tea.

A short meeting was conducted to clear up the financial and business statements. It was decided to hold the reorganization meeting Sunday, September 5 at the Home of Francis Hauser.

Cream Grades Mean Dollars

Did you know that Alberta churning cream producers lost more than $30,000 in July?

Of the approximately 3,000,000 pounds of butterfat sold during that month, only 57.5 per cent graded Special. The average producer whose cream grades No. 1 instead of Special loses about 4¢ on every can he ships. If the cream grades No. 2, the loss is 22.5¢ on every five gallon can.

It seems an awful waste to lose 4¢ on a can of cream, let alone 22.5¢, when it is only a matter of following a few simple rules to produce cream that will fetch the top price.

Alberta dairy specialist J. R. Findlay recommends the following procedure for producing top quality cream:

1) Clip the udders and flanks of milking cows.

2) Wipe the udders and teats before milking.

3) Follow recommended procedures for washing and sanitizing all milk handling equipment, including the milking machine, separator, and shipping cans.

4) Examine each equipment as separator discs, milking pails, and shipping cans for broken seams and rusty spots.

5) Cool the cream as quickly as possible to below 50 degrees F (Don't freeze it).

6) Ship ice cream frequently; at least very second day.

By following these recommendations, says Mr. Findlay, you can produce special grade cream and get more cash from your packet. In addition, you will make it possible for the creamery to produce a higher quality butter for discriminating consumers.

Further information on this and other aspects of milk and cream production may be obtained from the Dairy Branch of the Animal Industry Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Sedgewick Council Regular Meeting

SEDGEWICK — The regular meeting of the Council of the Town of Sedgewick was held September 6th with Mayor Bailey and all councilors present.

Financial Statement for August, minutes of last council meeting and of the Gas Co., Recreation Centre, and Flagstaff Lodge were dealt with.

A letter from Mr. T. Leslie pointed out that the recent rains had washed the street in front of his property and council gave instructions to the Town Foreman to be now to deal with this.

Mayor Bailey and Secretary Kneeland were appointed to meet with the M.D. of Flagstaff to further consider the Annexation.

The Accounts were read and studied and passed for payment.

Secretary Kneeland was instructed to inquire into the price of a transit and rod for the use of the Town Foreman.

A Tax Sale will be held on November 16th.

Painting of the Fire Hall was discussed and it was decided to call for Tenders on the painting of the front, back, and all trim, with bids to be in 12:00 noon on September 30th.

Mr. B. Cumberland was appointed as returning officer for the fall election and the polling place to be in the Sedgewick Community Hall.

Meeting was adjourned at 1:45 a.m.

Sedgewick Bank Facilities 60 Years Old

The small handful of Scottish settlers in Sedgewick had just harvested their first crop in 1906, when the Merchants Bank of Canada established a branch here.

The 60th anniversary of the start of banking facilities in Sedgewick will be observed on Thursday by the Bank of Montreal, which merged with the Merchants Bank. C. W. Clark, the Manager, has announced.

Mr. Clark said the Merchants Bank opened for business on September 22, 1906, a year after the first Scottish settlers had arrived in Sedgewick. Until the bank came to Sedgewick, residents with banking business had to travel to Daysland, the nearest branch.

First located in what is now a portion of the Pioneer Hotel, the branch moved to other temporary premises down the street before being housed in the present building, which was erected in 1916.

The present two-story, sandstone building has been modernized at intervals to keep pace with the development of Sedgewick, Mr. Clark said, noting that Sedgewick had a population of fewer than 30 when the bank was opened here 60 years ago.

BANK MANAGERS

First manager was J. L. Clark, who was followed by W. Jardine, H. M. Anderson, R. J. Fairbairn, C. W. McBride, E. G. Elliott and J. H. Buchanan.

C. H. Smith became manager in 1938 and served until 1944, when he was succeeded by J. G. Simpson, who left Sedgewick in 1947.

Next manager was W. G. Townsend, who held the position until 1952, when he was followed by E. C. Carrier. Mr. Carrier remained here until 1960 when the present manager, Mr. Clark, took over the post.

Mr. Clark joined the Bank of Montreal at Vulcan, Alberta and served as a teacher in Calgary, Westlock, Camrose, Dalhousie and Edmonton. He was appointed manager at Jasper Place in 1954 and, four years later, came to Sedgewick.

Mr. Clark is also a member of the executive of the Board of Trade and Vice President of the Sedgewick Golf Club.

SEDGEWICK'S MEN turned out en masse when an early-model Ford, one of the horseless carriages they had seen, arrived in the community. That was in 1908, two years after the Bank of Montreal established its Sedgewick branch. On September 22, 1966, The B of M's 60th anniversary is being observed on Thursday.

FOUNDED IN 1817

Although it completes its 60th year on Thursday, the Sedgewick B of M is young compared with the parent institution, which was founded in 1817 by nine Montreal merchants and which has played an important role in the development of Canada ever since.

The Bank of Montreal issued the country's first native currency. It also originated the branch-banking system — considered to be one of the finest in the world — when it opened a second office at Quebec City, two weeks after its opening in Montreal. Branches followed at Kingston and York (now Toronto) and at other outposts and trading centres across Canada.

Today, with more than 800 offices throughout the ten provinces, the B of M also has offices in the United States, Mexico, England, France, Germany and Japan, as well as at Hamilton, Puerto Rico, in Germany and France.

In conjunction with the Bank of London and South America, the B of M in 1958 founded the Bank of London and Montreal Limited, operating in Latin America and the Caribbean. In October, 1964, Barclays Bank D.C.O. acquired a one-third interest in BOLAM, to broaden and strengthen operations in the countries it serves.

Busy Bees Farewell Margaret Quinlan

At the meeting on Wednesday in Sedgewick of the Flagstaff ministerial association, Rev. Zwicker gave an interesting report of his summer's course at the Pastoral Training Institute in Toronto.

The Busy Bees Bridge Club gathered on Thursday evening at the home of Gabrielle Moran, in farewell to a long time member, Margaret Quinlan. With a full afternoon and four tables in play, bridge winners were Norah Zwicker and Charlotte Gelka. Margaret was presented with a gift from the club with best wishes from all.

Harvest is progressing rapidly with the recent fine weather and returns are reported good on the whole.

Mr. Sanley Nockleby, son of Mr. Cliff Nockleby passed away recently in Shaughnessy Military Hospital, Vancouver, at the age of 44. He had been ill for a long time. The funeral was held at Morrit, B.C. The sympathy of all is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Nockleby and to other members of the family.

At the morning service at St. Paul's United Church on Sept. 4, Mrs. Jeanne Garland was preacted with a guest book as a farewell gift. In making the presentation on behalf of the congregation, Mrs. Evelyn Hardisty spoke of the fine leadership given by Mrs. Garland in the C.G.I.T. and her work in the U.C.W. and other church activities.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson were Mr. and Mrs. Elda Pachaniuk of Winnipeg Beach, Manitoba and Mr. and Mrs. John Troyan of Arberg, Manitoba.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson and family were visiting in Innisfail and Calgary over the weekend.

It was a pleasure to see Evan Bell home last week end, and received from his friends.

Election Notice

Election by Electoral Divisions

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that an election will be held for a COUNCILLOR for Electoral Division No. 6 of the Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 62 for the year 1966 and the election will take place on Friday, the 7th day of October, 1966, from nine o'clock in the forenoon to five o'clock in the afternoon.

The Electoral Division has been provided with the following polls:

Poll No. 1 is at Alliance Community Hall
Poll No. 2 is at Galahad Community Hall
Poll No. 3 is at Forestburg Civic Building
Poll No. 4 is at Hastings Coulee Community Hall

I will at Sedgewick, Alberta on Tuesday the 11th day of October, 1966, at twelve o'clock, noon, sum up the votes and declare the result of the election.

Given under my hand at Sedgewick, Alberta this 16th day of September, 1966.

E. N. Bouchard Returning Officer

19-2-c

PUBLIC NOTICE

By the Board of Trustees of The KILLAM School Division No. 22 of the Province of Alberta.

WHEREAS it is deemed expedient by the Board of Trustees of the Killam School Division No. 22, of the Province of Alberta, that the sum of Twenty four thousand, five hundred dollars should be borrowed on the security of the said Division by the issue of Debentures repayable to the bearer in twenty five (25) equal consecutive annual instalments with interest at the rate of not more than six per centum per annum for the following purposes, namely:

At Daysland — purchase two (2) teacherages at a cost of sixteen thousand, five hundred dollars ($16,500.00).

One for $12,500.00 and one for $4,000.00.

At Hardisty — purchase one (1) teacherage at a cost of eight thousand dollars ($8,000.00), including washer and dryer and electric stove.

THEREFORE, notice is hereby given by the Board of the said School Division that unless a poll of the proprietary electors of the said School Division for and against the said debenture loan is demanded as provided by the School Act, the said Board will apply to Local Authorities Board for authority to borrow the said sum by debentures.

Of which all persons interested are hereby notified, and they are required to govern themselves accordingly.

L. D. Niehaus, Chairman

Dated at Killam Alberta this 15th day of September, 1966.

INSTRUCTIONS TO PROPRIETARY ELECTORS IN A SCHOOL DIVISION

A Poll may be be demanded in a School Division by a demand signed by

(a) five proprietary electors, or

(b) fifty per cent of the proprietary electors, which ever is the lesser number, of each of at least twenty per cent of the districts in the division.

Every demand for a poll must be delivered to the secretary of the division or, in his absence, to the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, within fifteen days after the date of posting or of the last publication in a newspaper of this notice.

Proprietary elector means an elector who is liable to assessment and taxation for school purposes in respect of property situated in the School Division

BAPTIST CHURCH

Max Vanderhurst, of Wetaskiwin, was our guest speaker at the Sunday services.

Following the graduation exercises in Edgewick on Friday night, a social time was held in the church auditorium in honour of three of our Grade XII graduates, Miss Mary Smolnki, Miss Betty Gershuk, and Sandy Rott. Guest speaker for the evening was Wayne McConnell, the Youth For Christ director of Northeastern Alberta. A time of fun and fellowship was enjoyed.

A church without a pastor is always found in an unfavorable situation. The pastor of a church of any size has a full-time job to do. When there is no one responsible for this task most churches will suffer to a certain extenteven if volunteers do take up some of the responsibilities. We have been without a pastor for almost eight months. During this time we have seen the members of our church take hold and share what they could do, making it possible to "hold the fort". We have been fortunate in obtaining speakers to supply the pulpit and these have done their task well. A special note should be made of Rev. Willard Siple who has capably done this duty much of the time. With the coming of the Nethercotts we expect to do more than "hold the fort". We believe that as pastor and people whole heartedly work together that in the months to come we will go forward for Christ.

Don't Forget: The Y.C.C. film "In His Steps" next Monday night.

THE TROUBLE WITH TRAVELLING

We did a fair amount of travelling this summer. There's nothing left from it but a pile of travel folders and 12 equal monthly payments at one bank. But I thought the least I could do was to pass along a few travel notes to those planning a trip, or wishing they'd taken one.

First of all, don't wish, just do it. If you wait until you may afford a trip you'll be too old to enjoy it. There's nothing more pitiful than those lumbering old wrecks you'll see on any cruise, who have put off the "Trip" until the children are grown, the mortgage is paid and Dad has retired.

It's easy, almost frighteningly easy, to take a trip without money. Railroads, air-lines and shipping companies are only too happy to take you to Timbuktu on the never-never plan.

Just forget about that new dishwasher or wallpaper and sign on the dotted line. Your friendly travel agent will loan you a year by the way, it's a good idea to plan your trip through a travel agent. There's no charge and he'll give you the air-rail-hotel people. Also, it's reassuring when you arrive in a strange city to have a name to look for in the hotel lobby. Either way, it's worth it.

Now, have a happy, happy trip.

Untended water pipes often burst in the winter because water increases in Volume as it changes to ice. The ratio is 11 cubic inches of water to 12 cubic inches of ice, according to World Book Encyclopedia.

THE TROUBLE WITH TRAVELLING

But about tips. The dime is a quaint coin that became obsolete during the '40's and is now used only in vending machines. The quarter is rapidly going the same way. But have one pocket stuffed with them and the other with dollar bills, and you'll see suddenly bent smiling faces and friendly outstretched hands all along your route.

About service. The country is going to pot. Remember all those lumbering old wrecks you'll see on any cruise, who have put off the "Trip" until the children are grown, the mortgage is paid and Dad has retired.

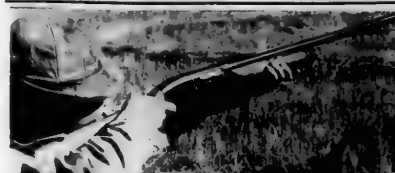
1906 — FIFTY-EIGHTH YEAR — 1966 SEDGEWICK, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 29TH, 1966 Volume 57 — Number 20



OPENING MORNING— Monday morning last week was the opening of the bird hunting season locally and hunters were out in force. Quite a few reported good results with both ducks and geese. The follow in our picture brought home three Canada Geese and went back out in the afternoon.

CENTRAL HIGH GRADS UNDERATED BY PRESS

In the Community Press account of the Central High School grade 12 graduation last week, reference was made to the fact that 68.3 percent of the papers written received 50% or better, to top the provincial average which is 60%.

The figure of 68.3 percent was the average for the Division as a whole. The figure for Central High was 76%, which indicates even more clearly the quality of the students writing departmental exams in June, as well as the high calibre of teaching staff. This is one kind of mistake which the Press is more than pleased to correct.

Daysland Approves Natural Gas System

DAYSLAND— Enthusiasm ran wild at Daysland last Wednesday when the ratepayers turned out to vote on overwhelmingly in favor of a natural gas system for the Town.

With approval being shown, the Council is now proceeding with plans to have a stand-by well drilled. The area already has a proven gas well six miles south of the own and with completion of a second well work will proceed with the laying of lines. Tenders are out for the drilling and also for the laying of lines and it is anticipated that there is a good possibility of the service being put into operation late this fall.

The present well is situated on Sec. 10-44-16 and is known in trade circles as LDS 13. The new well will be in the same proximity and will be designated as LDS 11.

The estimated cost was on high the modern facility, that the reported was informed by secretary Art Ginter, that the morning after the vote, he received an application for gas hook-up.

It was also noted that the Town of Daysland is undertaking a major face-lifting with an ambitious program of sidewalk and curbing, along with a gravelling project of major streets.

Can You Top This?

Mrs. Arthur Gollan of Sedgewick brought a potato into the Press which weighs slightly over three and one half pounds.

It is a Kennebeck Potato and was grown in the garden of Mr. Tom Blackman

Can anyone else produce a locally grown potato that weighs more than this one? If you have bring it in.

This week we received a locally grown netted gem potato which was produced by H. Bjerkas of Killam. This specimen was not brought in because of its size particularly, but for the peculiar and unusual formation of the vegetable The main part of the potato is a perfect one, and has other smaller ones growing out from it at various angles. Really ten potatoes in one, the specimen would amply serve an average family. Can you top that?

Former Local Boy Killed In Edmonton

Residents of Laugbeed and Sedgewick were shocked to hear of the tragic death of Brennan Walmsley of Edmonton. Brennan died of injuries received in a Truck-Scooter collision last Saturday.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Walmsley, Brennan is well remembered here by school chums, where he attended school. His parents lived for many years at Lougheed and later moved to Sedgewick, where Mr. Walmsley taught school. The sympathy of the friends here is extended to the bereaved family.

Golf Tourney Played Sunday

SEDGEWICK— The members of the Sedgewick Golf Club enjoyed a club tournament at the weekend, with the shot-makers playing to handicap.

Results of the affair were as follows: Winner of the trophy was Eddie Borth with a net score of 68.

Ralph Cooper had low gross; Hidden Hole, lowest score, Marvin Lawes; Hidden Hole, highest score, George Wellman. Highest score for the days was recorded by Art Eckstrand.

A large number of the club members turned out for the occasion, on a perfect golfing day

Following the tournament the golfers enjoyed a barbecue at the club house, prepared by club chef, Mike Eastly.

M.D. Protests Shifting Of Health Unit

The regular September meeting of the council of the M.D. of Flagstaff was held with all sitting councillors and the Secretary in attendance. The minutes of the August meeting and the financial statement for the same month were presented, discussed and passed as read.

The accounts and pay sheets were presented and approved for payment. Minutes of the Agricultural Service Board meeting held on September 7th were read, with Mr. B. Lee, Agricultural Fieldman present. These minutes were approved as read.

Arising out of the minutes, some discussion took place regarding accomodation for the Agricultural Fieldman and the police constable. Mr. Lee informed the council that offices presently occupied by him and the constable were cold and damp and that he would appreciate having more suitable accomodation arranged for.

Some discussion also took place with respect to the resale of weed chemical to farmers, and it was the general feeling of council that they would have to stay in the chemical resale field in order to control prices. The spraying of Toad Flax patches in pastures and the filling of gullerys caused by water erosion with M D machinery was reviewed and the Fieldman instructed to prepare figures in this connection for presentation to the Service Board.

Minutes of the Safety Committee meeting were read and it was agreed that any discussion arising therefrom would be held over pending a meeting with the board of the Killam School Division who were in attendance at the request of the council.

A short discussion took place with respect to the erection of the new office building by the Killam School Division in the Town of Killam prior to admitting the School Trustees into the meeting.

The Reeve explained that the reason for meeting earlier than anticipated was due to the fact that Councillor Lien received a call from Mr Thomas Clouston advising that the meeting called for the 18th of September conflicted with the school graduation exercises set for the same day. Mr. Lien stated that Mr. Clouston had informed him that work on the new office building at Killam had commenced, and that in his opinion the Board should not be building the new office at this time

The School Board with all members and the Secretary met with the Council.

Reeve Matthews informed the Board that at a previous meeting of the Council some of the councillors had voiced opposition to the erection of the new office building by the Board, and that they had requested a meeting with the Council and that they had been requested to meet with the council in order

BIGGEST IN CANADA— This giant 300 H.P. tractor is the largest wheel type farm tractor in the world and there are only three of them in Canada. This one which was the first of two in Alberta is owned by Mr. Laird Tanton who is shown in the window. Mr. Tanton's grandaughter, Rhonda is driving the 16 H. P. garden tractor, the smallest on the farm. Rhonda's father Ron is shown standing beside the front wheel. It is expected that the tractor will be able to cultivate better than twenty acres per hour on the Tanton farm located 2 miles north and 4 east of Sedgewick.

New Additions To St. Annes Hospital

HARDISTY — Diamond-Clarke and Associates have announced that tenders have been called for major additions and alterations to the St. Anne Hospital at Hardisty. It is expected that tenders will be accepted some time in the middle of October, and that the way will then be cleared for commencement of construction

The need for additional accomodation and more modern facilities at St. Anne's has long been felt by the Sisters and the Hospital Advisory Board, and with this in mind have been working toward that end for some time

Architects and Engineers have been busy over the past several months with plans for the project for the addition of a service wing, and for alterations to the existing building, which has served the needs of the area for many years. Present facilities have become inadequate for present day needs.

The plans call for a major operating suite, delivery room, emergency operating room, x-Ray and laboratory departments, offices for administration and accomodation for admitting and accounting

Alterations will include laundry facilities, staff dining room cafeteria, day room for patients and extended area for the children's [illegible]

While it is anticipated that some construction will get under way this fall, completion of the project will be late 1967, the Centennial year of Canada.

A lot of planning has gone into the new construction and the assistance of the local Advisory Board has had much to do with the final results. Your reporter gathered that the Sisters of St. Anne are quite enthused over the enterprise and are deeply appreciative of all the assistance they have received.

Light Rains Bring Halt To Local Harvesting

Light to fairly heavy showers last week brought a temporary halt to harvesting operations in the local area This coupled with the slow drying at this time year will halt operations for several days. On Monday of this week the cloud cover shows sign of breaking up and good weather is looked for.

According to reports good weather prevailed recently throughout Alberta and good progress was made with harvesting Provincially about 41 percent of the wheat crop is threshed, compared with only 10 percent a year ago. Yields are better than anticipated and the provincial average has been raised to 28.8

In southern Alberta harvest is completed with only Flax and lower lying fields left to finish. One week will see the south finished.

Central regions made good progress during the past week with coarse grains and rapeseed. Wheat is slow in drying, and has yet to two weeks of drying weather is needed.

Frost was fairly general over much of the northern and western regions but little damage was done as crops were too well advanced. Dockage in wheat is running high due to heavy weed infestations in parts of North-Central Alberta.

Garden and vegetable fields are producing an abundance of produce of very kind

With production of wheat and other grains rated high in Alberta and especially Saskatchewan, the Western Prairie Provinces are expect-

Rev. Steel Heads Ministerial Assn.

SEDGEWICK— At the September meeting of the Flagstaff and District Ministerial Assn. held at St. John's Church, the following were elected as officers for the coming year:

President, The Rev. A. Steel of St John's Anglican Church at Sedgewick; Vice-Pres., Rev. Don Lewis of Sedgewick United Church; Sec-Treas., Rev Mr. Bryden of the Galahad Roman Catholic Church.

The October meeting will be held in Forestburg, at which time Mr. L. Anderson of Hardisty will speak on Juvenile Court procedure This meeting is on October 13th

HOW TO RAISE AN ELEVATOR— This Alberta Wheat Pool repair crew from Edmonton is shown jacking up the elevator in Sedgewick which had been leaning two feet to the north. It required four 10 ton jacks to lift each corner. The men are Pete Zalewsky, foreman; Ed Fillian, and Ray Majchor. The picture is a little fuzzy because of the deep shadows on the north side where the men were working. They stated that this type of elevator can boss as much as 20 feet without falling over.

SUGAR AND SPICE

A STRANGER HE LIVES WITH

This month, my wife and I will observe with the customary stunned incredulity, our 20th wedding anniversary. It's a long time to live with a strange woman. Especially when she becomes stranger every year.

At time of writing, I don't know just what form the celebration will take. A fatted calf wouldn't be appropriate. Besides, we don't own a fatted calf, only a prodigal son. None of our mortgagees are anywhere near the burning stage, for the occasion. And we are definitely not going to celebrate the event by starting a new family. But I'll think of something.

A friend of mine has an old dog. He's a huge boxer, about 11 year of age. My friend sometimes, when he feels like being depressed, begins figuring out how much that mutt has cost him over the years. It's now running about $1400.

I develop a flutter in my left eyelid and a twitch in my cheek every time I flirt with the thought of what woman has cost me in the last two decades. Take my word, it's over $1400.

The first couple of years weren't so bad. I was a veteran, going to university, and our total income was $80 a month. We didn't save much, but we staggered through, with the help of vacation jobs. When the first baby arrived, we were in clover, as the government jumped our allowances to an opulent $80.

After graduation, life became rosier. I rooted into the weekly newspaper business, with a take-home pay of $50 a week. But even at that, the Old Girl managed to squander every cent of it. She blew it on food and furniture and similar fripperies and frills.

About six years later, when I was up to $90 a week, and could see with satisfaction the possibility of building up a nice little estate, she sabotaged me again. Said we needed a car. And we've never been out of debt since.

From there on, it was downhill all the way. She began thinking money grew on me, and as the income mounted slowly, the debts mounted swiftly. It was "Gimme, gimme, gimme" all the way.

We'd been married only about 10 years when she began agitating for a house. The cosy little two rooms, with shared bath, weren't good enough any more. Oh, no. Not for her. Just because a lot of other fool people lived in houses, we had to. And I was fool enough, or weak enough, to go along with it.

Eventually, I reached that plateau of success which had once seemed only a dream — $100 a week. Do you think that satisfied her? Not on your navel. She kept right on hurling money in all directions. Out went the scrubboard and in came one of those big, white washing machines. Out went the ice-box and in came that other big thing that makes the ice cubes. Out went the nice quiet carpet sweeper and in came one of those bellowing, swollen vacuum things.

By this time, it was too late to put a finger in the dyke. Besides, I needed all my fingers for counting up our payments. No, the only solution was nose to the grindstone and turn the wheel faster and faster. I once had a huge, hooked Roman nose, you should see it now. Fakirno size.

Now, I don't want you to get the wrong idea. Don't think for a moment that my partner of 20 years is extravagant. She's never once pressed for a Cadillac. She doesn't own any mink, not even ear-muffs. She hasn't whined for a trip to Europe. (That little trip to Vancouver this summer was merely a sop to her heart. She had to see her first-born.)

No, she's not demanding. She'll wear a dress as often as twice. She's perfectly willing to be seen in a year-old car, month-old shoes or last week's coat. She didn't even want her children to go to private schools. Just have their teeth straightened and take music lessons at $12 a whack.

And I bear no malice. I'm like the guy in the cartoon, a big business success, who told the interviewer, "Everything I have, I owe to the sheer greed of my wife."

It's been a great honor and privilege to spend 20 years wrapped around a lovely lady's little finger. I wouldn't feel comfortable in any other posture. So, happy whaddde-ya-call-it, darling.

Protest Yes, Violence No

A former Chief Justice of the Ontario High Court, Mr. J. C. McRuer, is best known these days in his own province as the man who heads its Royal Commission on Human Rights. A great many men and women, speaking as individuals and in behalf of interested groups, have appeared before him to point out what they consider to be injustices. No doubt they were cheered by some recent remarks of his to the American Bar Association and will all be expecting him to find in their favor when the commission reports.

In his opinion, he said, some laws are a legacy of other days and others have been "forced on us by impatient legislators who are mere conformists."

Words of Prudent Johnson, spoken in this stormy U.S. summer, should be heeded also in Canada, which is not without its disorders: "Our country can abide civil protest . . . It cannot abide civil violence."

Those who make the laws should act quickly to improve and correct them, but freedoms are likely to be lost, or at least circumscribed, when legitimate protest leads to riot.—The Printed Word.

"Independent, But Not Necessarily Neutral, In The Public Service"

Established on July 16th, Nineteen Hundred and Eight

Keep Swinging With Mitch

An honest person finds it difficult to fault a public figure who, through advocating or instigating a policy which may be momentarily harmful to the individual, yet provides a weapon to combat an evil which is harmful to mass. Such is the position many find themselves in today in assessing the policies being advocated by Mitchell Sharp.

While we hinted last week that it might be wise to swing along with Mitch and his get tougher attitude, this week we think it is a good idea to keep swinging with him. It is rare indeed today to find a public figure who looks into the future, sees an evil, and takes steps to combat it before the conflagration consumes what most of us consider as sacred. Mitchell Sharp and Paul Hellyer stand out like sore thumbs in today's political arena, where most men retreat from danger the minute their fingers get slightly burned. We may not agree wholly with policies set forth, but we find it hard to hide our admiration for fortitude in the face of opposition. Such a talent is critically lacking in many who administer our public affairs.

We elect individuals to run our nation, and we expect them to do just that, and in this day of compromise, retreat and withdrawal, it is good to find men who announce a policy and stick to it in the face of selfish attack or ridicule prompted by political expediency.

When the Canadian public can find men and women of the calibre needed, with the courage to go forward for the best good of the nation, and who will ward off the thrusts of selfishness, then put them in office, this country can start working toward the high destiny that could inevitably be hers.

The Continuing Wonder

Last week we had the pleasure of being given a number of photos displaying old scenes of the area. Each of these pictures told a story and many of us who have gotten well past the half century mark in life recall some of the events that prompted the pictures.

The early days, when the West was opened up by courageous men and women, brought forth many hardships and heartbreaks. But out of all this came a rare courage and a faith which ripened into an agricultural establishment which holds the admiration of the world. Western Canada, and in no small part Alberta and our own local localities, have become widely known as the breadbasket of the nation; and as events have proven of the world.

Early settlers had the faith to plant under hardship and reap under hazards that only the West can know, and the fortitude they displayed is a continuing heritage handed down to those who have taken over today. We who are reaping the benefits from the sweat and tears of the bygone age, owe a gratitude to those who went before us.

Just as in the early years of the West, weather plays an important part with the scheme of things on the farm, and yet over the years seed time and harvest have continued with a courage, hope and faith, which is the continuing wonder of our day. It is this courage which has kept Canadian stomachs full and supplied nourishment to countless thousands in other lands. It is this kind of hope in the future that keeps men and women going until their strength is spent. Therein lies the strength which makes the Western world great and democracy function.

Midsummer Night's Dream

The midsummer dream of labor forces for fantastic wage increases have reflected a mood which has responsible union leaders across the nation in a state of dismay. There is no wonder that this is so for the signs of the future are not encouraging. It is clear that further demands are impending.

Anyone with intelligence knows that wage increases to the tune of 20 to 40 percent plus accompanying fringe benefits, can only be met with increased costs to the consumer. In other words the cost of living must go up, and this just doesn't make much sense any more.

There is little doubt that wages in some instances need re-adjustment, but it is not in these areas where the greatest benefit accrues. A straight raise across the board of 30 percent merely means the high brackets get more affluence while the low earner only gets a more decent income. Where on earth is this?

The argument that labor is simply trying to catch up with rising prices simply doesn't ring true. In fact the contary is evident. DBS figures show that from January 1961 to January 1966 weekly wages in the manufacturing industry, for instance, rose by nearly 25 percent, while the consumer price index for the same period was less than 10 percent. It is the same picture with prices and production. Wages jumped 18 percent during 1965 and 1966 while the GNP rose by only 11 percent. Corporation profits increased by 7 percent, or half as fast as labor's share. How long can this go on?

We are one of the major trading nations of the world and exports are important to our prosperity. To price ourselves out of these markets is nothing short of sheer madness and if persisted in can only result in loss of markets, dropping of reserves, failing production and an end to full employment. In short, the end of our so-called good times. Is his what we want?

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.E.

The Hunting Season for ducks and geese opened on the 16th and indications are that this should be a good fall for hunters. It is estimated that the duck population is the highest in several years and that they are now starting to move south through our area. Numbers of geese is also said to have increased and large flocks of geese have been seen locally for some time now.

Down in Ottawa the Government is handing out thirty percent wage increases on one hand and screaming about inflation in the next breath. Well inflation has caught up to the hunter in a big way this year. While the price of shells, etc. has been steadily rising for years the government has in one swell swoop raised the price of hunting licenses by about 100 percent. Thats inflation. Last year it cost $3.50 for the privilege of hunting game birds, this year it has jumped to $6.50.

Something that has always bugged me is the idea of a person charged with murder or some other serious crime pleading not guilty by reason of sanity. I recently read that a man was heard of mental experts had been set up to determine if the man who is accused of murdering eight persons in Chicago was sane at the time. It seems to me that the question is whether he is guilty or not. If he is guilty there can be no question about his sanity, no sane person would do such a thing. The other question as whether he is now mentally competent to stand trial is a completely separate question. If a person's mental state does not enable him to understand the charges against him or to participate in his own defense against those charges, this should have some bearing on the trail. The fact still remains that anyone guilty of methodically murdering eight people, for instance, could probably be considered anything but insane.

The Letter Box

For several years the Sedgewick Cub Pak has been functioning very satisfactorily. Financial support by the parents and the public has been excellent. Recently the Adult Committee has noticed that many of the parents of the Cubs have little if any interest in the Cub movement. The few leaders who have been overworked during the past several years feel that they have done their share, and have resigned.

Without good leaders who are prepared to put time and effort into the organization, no Cub Pak can function properly. At this time we wish to appeal to any organization, group of persons, or any individual who would be willing to accept this responsibility. Many successful Paks are being run by ladies. We need help now. —B. M. Lee, President, Adult Committee, Sedgewick Cub Pak.

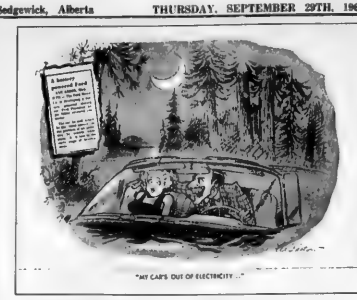
AH, LA FEMME!

That latest development in public relations is a candy! Out in Vancouver a road construction firm, plagued by complaints from travellers who were being forced to travel over rough ground during a construction job, changed their flagmen to flagwomen.

Young single women, in the 21 to 30 years age group, were trained, handed a flag, and told to be pleasant to the grumpy they would bear.

So successful has been the experiment, that young women are now being specially trained, attired in neat uniforms, given hard hats and being sent out on construction jobs to charm the travelling public.

The trend is spreading, and has led to the incorporation of a special business at the coast to provide proper training in how to self-sell the inconveniences of detour travelling. —Lacombe Globe



★ MACDUFF REPORT

No Lifetime Contract

OTTAWA— Dalton Camp, the smooth, dynamic and forthright president of the National Conservative Association has at last brought into the open the subject that has been a private conversation piece in Ottawa for months. He has called for a reconfirmation or otherwise of present national leadership, adding that national leaders have no lifetime contract.

Mr. Camp's Toronto speech which he is repeating elsewhere has been taken as opposition to his own leader. This it true. The party president has never tried to hide his feeling that Mr. Diefenbaker should step down though petent to stand trial is a completely separate question. If a person's mental state does not enable him to understand the charges against him or to participate in his own defense against those charges, this should have some bearing on the trail. The fact still remains that anyone guilty of methodically murdering eight people, for instance, could probably be considered anything but insane.

His outspoken words following closely on Mr. Diefenbaker's clear indication that he was not stepping down stemmed undoubtedly from a conviction that the time was ripe to cross swords with his leader and the result will be seen when the Association meets in November. So far Mr. Diefebaker has bested all enemies though hardly in the Lincoln tradition of making them friends He could do so again.

But Mr. Camp's remarks were not directed solely to his own party and leader. His words will also be heard by Liberals who meet in Ottawa on October 16. The leadership issue may not come into the open — certainly not for the same reasons that inspire dissident Tories. It would be hard to find a greater contrast in politics than the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition. But for very different motives one characteristic has dogged both their governments —the stamp of indecision

Mr. Pearson, unrivaled as a leader in diplomacy and democracy, finds it difficult to force his will on anyone. Not only has this quality influenced his attitude to his own cabinet; it has influenced his cabinet's attitude to Parliament. The former Liberal government, more through the influence of its dominant figure, like late C.D. Howe, than that of Louis St. Laurent, was destroyed by its contempt of Parliament. The Pearson government, if it continues in the direction in which it has been going, could be destroyed by Parliament. It is not where its majority position in the House of Commons that has brought a super-sensitiveness to the will of Parliament though as Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp has said lack of a strong majority has led the government to emphasize the responsibility of the opposition. It is a deep feeling that Parliament reflects the voice of the people which, of course few Parliaments ever have.

The result is that the Liberal caucus rather than Cabinet is often the dictator of Government policy. The result has been legislative delay and the appearance of indecision, never seem more clearly than in the bill revising the Bank Act. Three times the Bill or its main point of controversy were shuttled between the government and Cabinet before the Government could make up its own mind. To a lesser extent the same applied to Mr. Pickergill's transportation legislation And even when it has obtained the blessing of Liberal members Government legislation is often little more than suggestion from which the Government will retrust in face of opposition.

There are reassuring indications that a change may be in the offing. The latest issue is Medicare When Mr Sharp announced Government plans for centering inflation which included a one-year delay of Medicare he had the audacity to do so without having his speech approved in advance by the Liberal members. An open howl of protest from the back benchers followed. Then came demands addressed to the Prime Minister that a special meeting of caucus be called to decide whether the Government should or should not retreat from its Medicare stand. Those demands as far Mr. Pearson has resisted. The battle has still to be joined. The regular meeting of caucus has been called for October 4 and nothing can stop Medicare being the chief topic of discussion. But this time the Government may well let the back benchers know that they are not running the country.

CAPITOL HILL CAPSULE

The federal government's stand on tax sharing with the provinces expounded to the Tax Structure committee of finance ministers last week is a complete reversal of the principle on which the proposals of 1945 were based. Following the recommendations of the Rowell-Sirois Commission the government of that day took the position that to use fiscal policy effectively in regulating the national economy it must have control of all direct taxation (personal income, corporation and estates taxes). It was ready to share the proceeds with the provinces but levels of taxation must be decided in Ottawa. When tax rental payments were replaced by tax abatements it was still on the assumption that it was one pie Today the provinces get 25 per cent of personal income tax (Quebec 48 per cent) and about one quarter of corporation tax. The government has said there will be no further abatements. that Ottawa will not lower its taxes so that the provinces can raise theirs. But at the same time it is preaching a gospel of fiscal independence with each province setting its own tax levels which is a complete denial of the economic theories of 20 years ago.

$3,000,000 Gas Plant Planned For Hardisty

Of great intrest to the community is the announcement of the proposed building of a $3,000,000 liquid petroleum gas processing and storage plant at Hardisty. The new company, to be known as Hardisty Storage Ltd., is formed by Home Oil Co. with Canadian Superior Oil and Union Petroleum Coap of Texas. Both should mean quite a boast to the economy of Hardisty.

Sheri Dragee and Mrs. Betty Ritchalter and Beverly were weekend visitors at the F. Dragee home.

Mrs. Gena (Dragee) Fyah suffered cuts and sever bruises in an accident in Edmonton. when her car was struck at an intersection by a hit and run driver going against the traffic light. At last report she was improving, though still hospitalized.

Mrs. Madelina Bowes is a patient in St. Annes hospital.

A new bath-house is being built at Hardisty Lake, as part of Hardisty's Centennial project.

Arthur Cameron of Vancouver is visiting his grandfather Mr. Ben Obert Sr.

Our congratulations go to Mrs. Joyce Johnsrud, who this week was the winner of the Blue Ribbon Hospitality Award, as announced on CFCW.

On Sunday, Sept. 25, at the evening service, the congregation of St. Mark's Anglican church had the pleasure of hearing Mr. David Leadbeater of the University of Alberta speak on his experiences in Africa during the summer The son of Canon Leadbeater of Edmonton. David was one of a group of young folks on work project under the auspices o the Anglican World Missions. He showed many interesting and beautiful color slides of the country and there work. This group built dormitories for a youth camp in Kenya, East Africa, making the bricks and working with native and other youth groups. A number of friends from Sedgewick attended the service as well.

Mr. George Foden has been a patient in St. Anne's Hospital for a week.

45 ATTEND BIRTHDAY AT LOUGHEED

Grandpa Beckmar and Eldridge Freeman celebrated their birthdays by giving a turkey dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art Dreger. Forty-five guests came to wish them many happy returns. It took quite a "puff" from grandpa to blow out the 90 candles. In fact he had to have help.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith from Saskatchewan, parents of Mrs. M. Skoberg, have been visiting at the Skoberg home.

Grandpa and Grandma Skoberg are busy these days baby-sitting while the Odegards are on vacation

Mrs. Freyung from B.C. is visiting for a time at the Howard Pope home.

Miss Anna Bakhaus of Edmonton was a recent visitor at the home of her parents here

Mr. Ray Shirvell was a visitor at home during the past weekend

Mr and Mrs. Bert Russell of Coalville, Ontario have been visiting with the Russells at Lougheed

Mrs Margaret Denham arrived home on Wednesday after two weeks spent at the Coast. Her daughter Betty and family of Daysland came home with her and spent a few days here

Mrs. Jim Walsh (nee Zona Parsons) and Bobby have been visiting at the Paterson home here

Also home for the past weekend were Miss Vera Grieve and Judy, and Sharon Ness.

St. Andrews CGIT has re-organized under the leadership of Mrs Mervin Sather Meetings are held every Tuesday evening at 7 00 p.m in the church basement The club will have a fall tea in the Community Hall, and hopes to send a delegate to somer girls conference at Lake Isle during the Thanksgiving weekend. M.D. Council Continued to further discuss the matter.

Board Chairman Len Niehaus informed that the Board had been considering the erection of a new office for some considerable time and that with the hiring of a new repairman, the space available for repairs was not adequate. Reeve Matthews advised the Board that Council was also being requested to furnish more space, and that perhaps the Board and the Council should consider erecting a building that would be adequate for the Municipal District and the School Board

Mr Niehaus asked if the Council would be in a position to give the Board an answer at an early date as to whether they would be prepared to erect a building of this nature.

A number of the Board members and Council members expressed the opinion that inasmuch that no doubt some time in the future the two would be entered into a County, that an office building erected sufficiently large to house both bodies would serve the best interests of the ratepayers. Other Board and Council members expressed opposing views, stating that in their opinion no County should be formed and that separate offices should be erected.

Reeve Matthews suggested that the Board and the Council each consider the matter separately and try to reach a decision. Also that any decision arrived at by either group be communicated at once to the other. The Board indicated that this would be agreeable, and withdrew from the meeting.

The Council discussed the matter of building a joint office, and after some time, it was moved that Council proceed with plans to build a new Municipal office with accomodation for rent by the Board of the Killam School Division, and that the location of the office be decided by a plebiscite Carried.

After some discussion it was moved that the motion be proceed with plans to build a new municipal office be amended to read: that work on the new office be commenced by April 15th, 1967. The amendment to the motion was carried.

The motion and the amendment to the motion was commenicated by telephone to the Sec-Treas. of the School Division.

Mr. Bourree of Gravel and Sand Locators met with council to discuss locating gravel deposits on the M.D in answer to questions by the council Mr. Bourree indicated that he would undertake the survey in one division of the M.D. at the price of one township at $100 per Section. He was willing to take the area of one division and spread it between three divisions. A decision in this matter was held in abeyance.

Quotations on repairing the motor grader beam at Hardisty were reviewed, and it was decided to ask for firm bids, and if acceptable Reeve Matthews be authorized to see to the carrying out of repairs.

Parkland Lumber was awarded the contract for repairs in the Municipal hamlet in Sedgewick and accepted by the Assistant Secretary

Requests for grants in 1967 were received from various charitable organizations, and it was moved said grants be given as in 1966.

Cooke Plumbing and Mr. Whitehead, shop foreman met with council to discuss sewage disposal for the motor operators' residences, and stated that in their opinion a sewage field would not work due to the type of soil encountered. It was recommended that a septic-tank system be installed at each residence. Cooke Plumbing was authorized to install the systems at each residence.

An account of $50.88 from AGT for the moving of phone poles was considered and the account ordered paid.

Some discussion took place regarding the splitting up of the East Central Health Unit, No. 15, and amalgamating various parts of it with other districts. In this matter it was moved and carried that a resolution be drafted protesting the proposed changes, and sent to the Alberta East Central Health Unit for their attention.

Correspondence was read and from Fawcett, Weir and Stewart regarding the survey of a road in the NW 8 and SW 7-43-5. It was moved and passed the plan be approved for registration, and held pending the obtaining of all agreements and transfers in connection with the plan.

Council adjourned at 4:30 p.m. to meet again September 29th.

Tunisian Hospital To Receive Canadian Aid

MERRY GO-MISS Nothing tends to lend extra charm to a September Fall Fair as a pretty Miss on a gaily decorated merry-go-round horse. This girl rides a shiny mustang a flame two-piece suit of lamb's skin with a double-breasted jacket and straight skirt with a kick pleat in the front.

The Secretary of State for External Affairs, the Honorable Paul Martin, announced that Canada has agreed to send a medical team to Tunisia to undertake a seven-year program to assist in the establishment of a children's hospital.

This will be the most extensive medical aid project ever undertaken by Canada's External Aid Office.

The hospital, Bab Saadoun, (Hospital d'Enfants, Tunis) was opened last November as part of a drive by Tunisian medical authorities to combat the high incidence of child mortality in their country. Canadian assistance was requested and Dr. Albert Royer, director of Sainte Justine Children's Hospital and head of the Department of Paediatrics at the University of Montreal, flew out to examine the new hospital's needs as well as size other Tunisian hospital facilities for paediatrics.

Based on his recommendations, the aid office is recruiting physicians, specialists, nurses and technicians to form an operating and training team. Dr. Royer will return to Tunis for the first year of the project. The Canadians will take a major role in hospital administration for the first four years and during the last three years will be phased out as Tunisian counterparts take over. In addition to technical assistance, Canadian equipment is being supplied.

The sources of Canada's 1964 $33,436,000,000 income were: agriculture, forestry, fishing, trapping and mining, $1,188 million; manufacturing, $6,579 million; construction, $1,564 million; utilities, transportation, communication, storage and trade, $5,808 million; finance services (including government), $7,367 million; Commonwealth labor income, $810 million.

Over Two Million Spent On F.E.A

The Alberta Department of Agriculture has paid out over 2 1/2 million dollars to farmers in the Peace River area and west-central Alberta under the provincial Farm Emergency Assistance Policy

According to G. G. Bratvold, Supervisor of the Crop Management Service with the Plant industry Division, a total of 5,473 farmers received assistance. 3,200 of which were in the Peace River area.

The assistance, says Mr. Bratvold, was provided to alleviate distress situations arising from three or more consecutive crop failures. Eligibility of farmers for the special assistance was based upon the average yields for the years 1953 to 1965 inclusive.

Only those farmers who had an average yield of less than 16 bushels of wheat or the equivalent in other crops, including flax and rapeseed, were eligible for payment. Payments were based upon net cultivated acreages, exclusive of forage crops.

The Bible Today

A newly revised translation of the Kikuyu Bible was received in Kenya, Africa, on June 26 with nationwide celebrations. Kikuyu, the language of the country's President, is spoken by some 1 1/2 million people in the highlands of Kenya.

Special services arranged by Kenya's Church leaders were attended by over 15,000 people, including members of twelve tribes as well as the Kikuyus in most cases, congregations were so large such a lovely success. —Cora and that local speakers had to be used to relay the services to those who thronged the surrounding streets and areas.

Within three days of the arrival of the 5,000 copies of the new edition, every one had been sold, and further donations were urgently called for from the publishers. The British and Foreign Bible Society in London.

A special presentation copy was given earlier to President Jomo Kenyatta, himself a Kikuyu, by a delegation of officials of the new edition, including the Rev. John Mporayui, General Secretary of the Bible Society in East Africa. The Kikuyu Bible was first published in 1951.

"In our countries in East Africa," states Mr. Mporayui, "our people are looking for something to read, whenever it is. There is not much to read, and the Bible Society is trying to meet this need with the Scriptures."

APHID CONTROL

Aphids of many kinds have been prevalent this year. They have infested Elm and Maple trees making them unsightly during the summer These trees have also dripped sap throughout the year making them messy too

Most aphids can be sprayed with Malathion which will do a good job However, many persons do not own the type of spray equipment needed to reach the top of trees. Also some aphids cannot be controlled with Malathion

But now, we can get all aphids and do it easily. Just paint a six inch band of "Dutchmaster" around the trunk of the tree about 6 feet off the ground, and bingo the aphids eating buds and leaves are soon killed. The dimethoate penetration the tough corky layers of the bark on the tree. enters the circulatory system of the tree and is carried to the leaves and buds

Having your soil tested regularly is one of the best ways of protecting your fertilizer investment.

D. H. Laverty, Supervisor of the Alberta Soil and Feed Testing Service, says soil provides many of the answers to problems related to poor fertilizer responses and to poor crop growth in certain areas. He points out that many people fail to realize that soils vary a great deal from one field to another, from an farm to another, and from one year to another. Soil nutrient combinations and rates which prove unsatisfactory under one set of conditions may be completely unsuitable under others. These variations in the soil's requirements can be identified by proper sampling and testing. Mr Lavery advises taking soil samples after October 1st for spring-seeded crops. Soils change very little after this date until they warm up in the spring. Forage fields, on the other hand, can be sampled after September 1. Pasture or waterlogged soils should not be sampled because it is almost impossible to get a representative sample under these conditions.

All fields should be sampled very carefully with strict attention being paid to the instruction sheet enclosed in the soil sampling kit. Size up each field, and choose 10 to 20 sites which are representative of the main soil types.

Then dry the samples and mix them together for a composite sample. Areas where growth is poor should be samples separate l y. Poorly drained depressed areas and eroded knolls should either be sampled separately or not at all.

To make accurate recommendations possible, information regarding each sample must be recorded on the sheet provided with the kit, says Mr. Laverty. Any unusual problems should be outlined in detail. A plan of each field showing sample numbers and locations should be kept for future reference.

Soil samples should be sent to the Alberta Soil and Feed Testing Laboratory, University of Alberta. Edmonton During the rush period from November through January, farmers should be prepared for a delay of a month or more in receiving their reports.

Calgary Power is proud to announce 1966 Award Winners

Panel of Weekly Newspaper Editors choose Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year.

The people at Calgary Power are pleased to honour these boys and girls whose enterprise and leadership won them 1966 Junior Citizen of the Year awards. Governments Too Timid In Dealing With Inflation

MONTREAL— "Political expediency" has behind the continuing rise in government expenditures which are contributing to the present inflationary pressures in Canada, G Arnold Hart, chairman and president of the Bank of Montreal, told the Quebec Chamber of Commerce on Saturday (September 17). His remarks are published today in the bank's Review for September

Mr Hart said that the federal and provincial governments "were slow to recognize that dangerous inflationary pressures were building up" and they have been too timid in dealing with them

Money has certainly been tight but "monetary policy cannot carry the full burden of control and it is in the field area that more restraint has been needed

"In particular, one might legitimately have expected governments to hold down, and even cut back on, their own spending when the resources of the country are so obviously stretched to the limit instead, the federal and every one of the provincial governments budgeted for increases in expenditure this year — some in very substantial amounts," he said.

"We seem to has reached a stage in our affairs where the accepted, normal and necessary phenomenon of competition for electoral support has been transformed into an unseemly auction of favors

"Each program, each issue, tends to be looked upon in the light of the particular interest it might appeal to, or alienate, and in the process the public welfare, in the real sense of the word, gets short shrift."

VICIOUS CIRCLE

"We are now being caught in a vicious circle of inflation of the sort that has been all too familiar in many other countries in the past decade," Mr. Hart continued

"In the longer run . . . everyone suffers, even those who by taking advantage of a stronger bargaining position have been able to improve their own situation at the expense of their neighbor.

"For the wage settlements made recently in certain key areas of the economy have been so far out of line with productivity gains that they cannot fail to cause a further rise in prices and costs throughout the economy. thus impairing the competitive position in world markets and undermining the basis of our prosperity Somehow or other the whole vicious process must be stopped "

But governments must set an example in handling wage disputes within their jurisdiction.

On the recent railway strike settlement,Mr Hart said, "even the interim wage increase awarded . . . is bound to have inflationary consequences" but it may result in the implementation of some of the recommendations of a Royal Commission which had called for the removal of unwarranted and economically unjustifiable restrictions and compulsions "

Mr. Hart noted that the chartered banks also are looking for "freedom to compete in order that the public at large will benefit from competition among lenders.

"Surely it is not too much to hope that Parliament . . . will bear in mind that the primary role of government is to foster an environment in which business and private initiative can thrive and the nation prosper. That environment should be one of freedom, not restriction "

Centennial Report

1867 1967

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

I wish the Centennial Commission could buy a ticket and the travel fare for every person in Canada to see Expo 67 next year. But I just don't have the budget to do that.

Millions of Canadians won't see Expo but most of those who can't make it to Montreal will be able to see some Centennial spectacular in the nearest city. Canada's leading events are shared by all parts of the country. It could be a performance of the Canadian Armed Forces Tatoo, one of the largest spectacles of its kind ever to be presented in North America. It could be the touring Centennial air show with thrilling flying by the Forces' formation aerobatic team of pilots specially picked for the 1967 celebrations.

Those living on or near the coasts and waterways will be able to see impressive naval assemblies of the majestic ships of Canada's forces and the navies of a number of other countries.

In major cities there will be dazzling performances on stage by top artists from Canada and abroad. There will be art shows and there will be sporting events such as the Pan American games at Winnipeg and the winter games in Quebec.

Proposed international events in Canada next year include: a balloon race across the prairies; world snowshoe championships, a North American ski championship meet and international ski jumping competitions near Ottawa; an international air show at Abbotsford, B.C.; international motor-cycle races near Toronto; world hydroplane championship races at Valleyfield, P.Q.; and a water skiing world championship meet at Sherbrooke, P.Q., to mention a few.

The point I make is that no one who can't afford that trip to Montreal should be disappointed about Centennial Year. In the realm of spectacular events there will be something to see in every major Canadian city.

The small towns as well, with visits by the touring Centennial Caravans carrying fascinating exhibits of Canadiana and their own community Centennial events, will be gay attractions during 1967.

For those unable to leave their own homes — even short-ins — the year 1967 will be a special one. With our coast to coast radio and television communications of today all will be able to witness or listen to the great sporting events, see or hear Centennial performers, follow the 4,000 mile canoe race — in fact, they will be able to enjoy many of the events I mentioned above by electronic means. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has great plans for Centennial coverage and so have the magazines and newspapers of Canada.

It's going to be a big birthday celebration and no one is going to be left out of the party. There will be something for everyone — young or old — to do, to see and to be happy about. Not the least important event to be happy about is that this young, vigorous country is moving into its second century of Confederation with a bright future ahead.

CANADIAN IMPERIAL BANK OF COMMERCE

The Homemakers

By Miss Irene Eby, Your District Home Economist

The details that are couturier perfection are sewn into the fashion. The softness of the hem, the drape fo the cowl, the precision of topstitching, the handtailoring of an unlined coat — these are the signatures of a fine dressmaker.

Using cavlul technique is worth the extra effort because they make your clothes look and wear better.

The designers or couturiers rarely intend hems of a garment to be pressed knife sharp and flat. To give the soft look that is desired, it's usually necessary to put a bias strip into the hem. Depending on the fabric, select underlining, interfacing, organza or lamb's wool and cut bias strips long enough to reach around the hem.

The width of the bias strips depends on the hem width — the strip should be wide enough to go from the hemline to about 1/2" to 1" below the top edge of the hem. Blind stitch a hairline away from the hem fold on the hem to hold the bias strip in place as the fold. Blind stitch, in a straight line, the top edge to the underlining of the garment, being careful not to catch the outer fabric in the stitching. Then, hem the garment, stitching the hem to the underlining.

If you need either snaps or hooks and eyes on any part of a garment where they may be seen, they are much more attractive if they match the garment. To cover snaps, cut circles of lightweight fabric that are about double the diameter of each piece of the snap. Make a small hole in the centre so that the snap will snap. Run a basting stitch around the edge of the fabric; place half of the snap in the centre and gather snugly around the snap. Secure the fabric and gather on the wrong side of the snap. Repeat with the other half of the snap. Stitch the snap to the garment in the usual way. You'll be able to find the holes in the snap through the fabric covering with your needle.

To cover hooks and eyes, work with fairly large ones, and stitch over each piece of wire with the buttonhole stitch in thread that matches your fabric. Then sew the hooks and eyes to the garment.

Does Killam NEED A FABRIC STORE?

Well, whether it does or not, it's got one, with a beautiful selection of fabrics, and prices lower and more competitive than in the city. (Yes, even the catalogue can't touch prices or service).

So, due to everybody busy with harvest and the long summer months, I am announcing to them that Killam does NOT need a Fabric Store.

Why don't YOU come in — take advantage of the bargains — or just say hello, bringing along this Ad and Thereby Collecting a Free Package of Sewing Machine Needles.

This will be your way of showing me that Killam indeed DOES need a Fabric Store.

School Board Meets

A regular meeting of the Killam Divisional School Board was held with all members of the board in attendance.

A committee of the contract bus drivers met with the board and requested some increase in the mileage pay for the first fifty miles travelled on regular bus routes.

It was moved and passed that contract bus drivers operating under the present schedule of pay, be granted an increase of 1c per mile for the first fifty miles travelled.

The administrator of the late Len Walker estate is to be notified that if the Division's repair bill of $1200 for repairs to the bus that the board agreed to purchase, is refunded then the board would be willing to cancel its agreement to purchase the bus.

Arrangements were made for the purchase of the Barnard Lotzen property in Daysland for $12,500 00, including garage, in Daysland.

The plans made to purchase the Len Walker property situated in Hardisty, including washer, dryer and stove for the sum of $6,000.00 was approved.

The following teacherage rental rates were approved: Weld house in Daysland, $45 per month; Walker house in Hardisty, $70; Lotzen house in Daysland, $85.00.

Departmental approval was requested to operate two temporary classrooms in the new community hall at Daysland for the 1966-67 school term, at $300 per month [illegible] and [illegible] the caretaking.

A by-law was drafted for the purpose of raising capital funds by debenture for the purchase of three teacherages.

Book rental rates were approved as follows: Grades 1 to 6, $4.50 per set, SRA booklets 50c extra, Grades 7 to 9, $6.50 per set, SRA booklets 50c extra; Grades 10 to 12, 25c per credit, workbooks $1.00 extra.

Meeting adjourned to meet later, at which meeting all members and the new Supt. Mr. John Ronjom were present.

In accordance with the new regulations [illegible] the Provincial Exchequer Board [illegible] grams, boarding allowances were set at $7.00 per day for those students with proper screening for admission to schools offering the type of instruction required. Those include Retarded Schools, and the Camrose Composite High School.

The payment contract for panel buses up to one ton capacity is to be $4 00 per day plus 20c per mile for route miles. Two panel buses operated by M. Kneller were purchased by the board.

The board decided to allow admission to high school of students who have spent two years in grade nine if the students is 17 years of age; also special cases if approved by the receiving principal.

Forty steel lockers are to be purchased for the Central High School at Sedgewick, along with 50 stacking chairs.

The sick leave schedule was changed and will supersede the one adopted in October of 1965. Termination of services cancels all accumulated sick leave.

The temporary janiter agreement with Mrs. O. Leirdahl was cancelled and the contract renewed in favor of Mr. O. Leirdahl.

The two express buses operating the high scool run in Daysland are to be paid at the rate of $15 per day.

KILLAM O.O.R.P.

KILLAM— Sixteen members of the Killam O.O.R.P. were present Sept. 13, for the first meeting after the summer holidays. In the absence of H.R.L. Mabel Grant, P.H.R.L. Helen Peters conducted the meeting.

Dist. Gov. Visits Daysland Lions

District Governor Art Rapleton of Merivville, Alta. made an Official Visit to the Daysland Lions Club regular meeting on Wednesday September 28th. Mr. Rapleton is District Governor for District 37B, which comprises Clubs in the northern part of Alberta, Northeast British Columbia and part of the Northwest Territories totalling 35 Clubs.

After a short introduction by Deputy District Governor A. P. Rosenberg, District Gov. Stapelton brought greetings from Lions International, District 37B Cabinet and his home club, Merivville. District Governor Stapleton praised the Daysland Club for the fine work which the Club is doing in the Community, especially the effort the Club has been making in promoting the building of the New Community Centre. He spoke briefly on the Peace Campaign in which all Lions Clubs throughout the World are participating. District Governor Stapleton presented the Club of the many events planned for this year, the Golden Anniversary Year of Lions International.

After the regular meeting, District Governor Stapleton met with the Club's Board of Directors for a short Business meeting.

Other Clubs attending the regular meeting were the Edmonton Host Lions Club and Zone Chairman Arnold Fredlund and Rod Moore of the Forestburg Lions Club.

Mrs. Art Stapleton, wife of the District Governor visited with Mrs. Rosenberg during the evening.

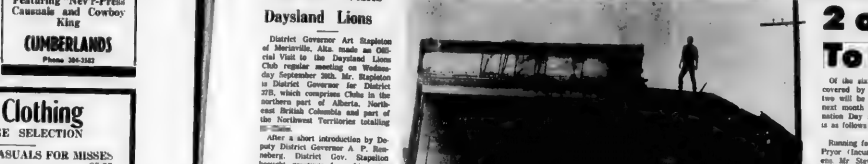
Can You Top This?

The Community Press has had a potato brought in which weighed 2 pounds and nine ounces; also one that really was ten spuds in one which weighed almost as much. Both of these were good sound potatoes which would make a meal for the average family.

This week we have two spuds which top the show to date. They were raised by Mr. and Mrs. Vera Simpson, and the bigger of the two weighed in at 1 pounds and 11 ounces, with the second a close contender. We noticed several ring marks around these potatoes, and Vern told us they were caused by a chain he had to use to get them out of the ground. Well, that's his story. Can you top it?

Somebody must have seen us writing the above story this morning we had a potato brought in which weighed four pounds. It was grown on the farm of Joe Bazzy at Heisler. It's a beauty and has top spot in our show.

Not to be outdone, Henry Zwack of Sedgewick over a couple of carrots. The biggest was 14 1/2 inches long and 3 1/4 inches around. The main vegetable had four smaller ones angling out and was a close resemblance to the thumb and four fingers of a human hand. Can anybody top this?



HISTORY DISAPPEARING— One of the original buildings erected in Sedgewick just after the start of the century is being taken down. The front was first removed and then the north wall came out. Here it falls, followed by the roof and south wall. The building has housed many different types of business including real estate and insurance, lumber, and grocery. It originally sat in the location on main street where Knoeland Agencies is now situated.

$3 Million Gas Plant Building At Hardisty

HARDISTY— Home Oil Co. of Calgary has announced that it has joined with Canadian Superior Oil Ltd. and Union Petroleum Corporation of Tulsa, Oklahoma, to build a 70-acre sulfinol sulfur solid processing gas products processing and storage plant at Hardisty.

The three companies have completed the venture to form a new Canadian company, to build and operate the plant, just East of the Town of Hardisty.

Mr. R. A. Brown Jr., of Home Oil and president of the new company to be known as Hardisty Storage Ltd., said in a press release that the plant will be in operation by next summer.

The company has obtained five lots in the Town of Hardisty and plans to erect homes for the personnel required to operate the storage plant. The housing project will complete an entirely new street on which houses have already been built, and will add considerably to the economy of the Town.

The same group of companies is presently studying the possibility of building a $7,000,000 pipeline from the Hardisty area to production areas north of Calgary.

Central High Rams Play First Home Game In Light Rain

Central High Rams footb a l l team played their first home game of the season at the Sedgewick Recreation Centre on Saturday afternoon with a light rain falling most of the game.

Camrose Composite was the visiting team and although the visitors won the game the two teams appear to be very nearly on a par with neither team having a big advantage in the play.

The biggest single factor in the game was the inexperience of the Central team. This year there are eighteen new players on the team with only five players returning from last season's game winning squad. With all these new players it is expected that the Rams will make mistakes and in Saturday's game they did far more than the normal amount of penalties.

Despite their lack of experience the Rams played a good sound brand of football and with every game they should become much better.

Coach Bob Rosiechuk while disappointed at the loss, says he was happy with the way the team has formed and expects them to improve with every game.

At half time in the game Camrose was leading by a score of 8 to 6 and came back in the second half to pick up 13 more points for a final score of 21 — 8

Quarterback David Tanton scored the touchdown for Central which was not converted.

Rams travel to Camrose to play Lutheran College on Thursday, Oct 6th and will play their next home game at Sedgewick on Sat. Oct 15th against Wetaskiwin at 2:00 p.m.

KILLAM— The Killam C.G.I.T. opened on Tuesday September 27 with a hobo bike. Nineteen girls came clad in old clothes and enjoyed a wiener roast. Concluding the party. Rhoda Gair was given a prize for the best dressed hobo.

On September 13 elections were held. The new officers for the C.G.I.T. are: President— Marion Sands; Vice President— Sharon Tweedall; Secretary— Jackie James. Treasurer— Arlyes Stainthorpe. Social Convener— June Larson; Press Correspondent — Maureen Hart.

The counsellors for this year are Mrs. Pederson, Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. Brennan. Our superintendant is Mrs. Stainthorpe.

2 of 6 Towns To Hold Election

Of the six towns and villages covered by this newspaper, only two will be holding civic elections next month Returns of the Nomination Day in the various centres is as follows

Daysland

Running for Mayor will be Allan Pryor (Incumbent) and Bill Stevens Mr Stevens, a former council member, resigned his seat to contest the mayoralty post. With three seats to fill on the council there are five contestants. Geo. Cramton, Ross Lamoreux, Orieon Mickie, Bernie Shkodzki and Ambrose Wojciechowski. Orieon Mickie is the only lady seeking a seat at Daysland

Sedgewick

In the Village of Strome, Mr Jack Butler is the retiring member of council Jack has thrown his hat back into the ring, and will be opposed by Ernie Lawson. Other members of the council are Pete Curtis (Mayor) and Pete Stanislawski

Killam

At Killam it was acclamation all the way Mayor Gordon Hilker was returned without opposition Ray Manning and Fred Martin were returned by acclamation Other council members are, B. A Chandler, Mrs. Amy Robinson, Arnold Saunders and Craig Lawson

Killam also elected three additional members to the Separate School Board. They are James Slavick, Gilbert Schulte, and Fr. McCarthy The other two members are, James Kasker and Roy Manning

In view of having game to Town status, Sedgewick found it necessary to elect an entire new council of seven. Nomination Day found that number nominated and all were proclaimed elected by acclamation They are Mayor, Hedley Bailey, Councillors, Erlin Lindquist, Art Keatly Jr., Lyle Metz, Ralph Cooper, Melvin Backen and Ted Dyas.

Lougheed

Herb Lussmo (Mayor) and returning members at Lougheed was re-elected by acclamation. Other council members are Andy Grieve and Harry Barton.

Wainwright

Mr Ben Rempel was elected as Mayor of Hardisty by acclamation, his being the only nomination. Former Mayor Reg Harrison declined to run after 22 years of civic service (12 as councillor and 10 as mayor) Three seats were vacant on the council of seven, and with only three nominations, Ernest Fowler (2 years), W Frederick Crone (3 years) and Ian Harrison (2 years) were declared elected by acclamation

Mr Reg Harrison, in an interview with the Press, remarked that after 22 years on the civic body he was a little tired, and had a desire to ease up a bit. Can't say we blame him, he has served well for many years.

Action This Fall On New Co-op Store At Strome

STROME— While activities have been slowed down somewhat due to harvest, the Board of Directors of the Strome Co-op Assn. are busy selling debentures on the new store project A statement by store manager Al Falkingham, indicates that as soon as enough money is in to warrent commencement of the building, work will get underway

A lot just south of the present store has been cleared of lumber supplies, and this along with the lot occupied by the egg station will be the building spot for the new store On completion of the building, the present store building is to be demolished and the site used for a parking area.

The Assn. has also acquired the former K-M garage building and is presently engaged in expanding its lumber outlet. with the building providing storage space under cover

WOULD YOU BELEIVE IT— These two groups of apples, the small-er ones crabs and the large one a type of Macintosh both grew on the same tree. Mr. John Kvill brought them into the office. They resulted from the grafting on an apple tree onto a crab apple tree. The large apples grew above the graft and the small ones below.

James Slavik Retires From Grain Buying

After serving the Pioneer Grain Company, Limited and the Killam community for 30 consecutive years, Mr. James A. Slavik has retired. The Pioneer Grain Company, Limited wishes to publicly pay tribute to Mr. Slavik for his unceasing loyalty and long service. The Company also wishes to thank Mrs. Slavik and the family for the support that they have given Mr. Slavik, his customers and friends during the many years that Mr Slavik served as a country elevator Agent. Over the years Mr. Slavik has been a part of many changes, not only in his community, but in the agricultural developement of the district. Farming, which started out on a small scale, has gradually become mechanized and producers now operate on a much larger scale and in a more businesslike manner. This has been made possible as a result of technological advances and the assistance that various people, such as Mr. Slavik, have given producers in making available up-to-date information on improved agricultural practices and supplying new chemicals which today are a necessity in protecting crops. As the demand for food increased domestically and also in other parts of the world, producers accepted that challenge to increase yields In order to increase production, Mr Slavik urged customers to use fertilizers in the district and the use of plant nutrients is now considered as a definite requirement if yields are to be maintained at the highest possible level.

Historically, the Slaviks may well be proud of their achievements and accomplishments Mr Slavik was born in Yukon, Oklahoma and came to Canada in August, 1911 settling on a farm near Viking, Alberta. He received his schooling in Oklahoma and Viking. He started farming at Viking until 1930 and accepted a position as country elevator agent for the Federal Grain Company Limited at Strome, Alberta He bought grain at Strome until 1936 and then joined the Pioneer Grain Company, Limited at Killam. He distinguished himself by being Type Lice In The Shop!

Probably the first viewing of type lice was done by some unsuspecting character shortly after Johann Gutenberg came up with moveable type and the first printing press in 1440. We have not the desire to explain type lice to the layman at this time, but anyone curios enough to investigate further is welcome to come in and get a sample. Of course this is not the only problem that faces the ink smudged printer in the small country shop. He has many other problems just like anybody else, that creep into the scheme of things from week to week. But the most quaint situation we have heard of yet occurred in the shop of the Banff Crag and Canyon. Here it is. And we think we've got problems:

"W. B. McCusker, publisher of the Banff (Alta.) Crag and Canyon has had his troubles and he shared them with his readers in the following editorial that shows weekly newspapering isn't all a bed of roses.

Our typesetter started to "fix" the typesetting machine here Monday morning and it wasn't until the thing was practically in pieces all over our shop that we realized he had a severe case of being under the affluence of incohol.

Perhaps we should have noticed this earlier but we were pre-occupied with other matters . . . mainly thinking about the horrific series of typographical errors which have characterized recent issues of the Crag and, on reflection, we realized that this was a direct result of the Demon Rum, too. It dawned on us that our typesetter had decided a better job of typesetting could be accomplished if the molten lead in the machine were jazzed up with beer, wine, and other grape and grain derivatives.

Anyway, after he'd taken the machine apart Monday afternoon and found himself unable to put it togeher again, he sat for a very long time in a nearby chair, presumably pondering the matter or, for all we know, the sins of mankind.

In any event, he suddenly got up from his chair and walked out of the shop and that is the last we have seen of him.

So if this issue comes to you late, Brother, dwell upon the fact that we consider ourselves lucky, indeed, to have published at all."

A Warning!

For most Canadians the 1960's have so far been years of notable material progress and economic advance. As we enter the last half of the decade however, we may be hard pressed to hold on to the gains made in the first half, much less improve on them.

"Within industry" says H. B. Style of Canadian Manufacturers' Assn. "merely holding the line will require of management more effort and ingenuity than ever before in the achievement of maximum efficiency, and of labor, intelligent willingness to play its part in attaining it".

This is a timely warning. Labor-management relations during much of the first half of the sixties was reasonably harmonious and labor has benefited from this situation. Between 1960 and 1965 the average wage of manufacturing employees went up nearly $15 a week with sound improvements in so-called fringe benefits. Labor's stake in preserving the climate in which such gains are possible is high indeed and we must hope that unions have the good sense to recognize this.

Unfortunately there are disturbing signs of rising militancy in parts of Canada which bode ill for the future. These signs are not limited to the private sector of the economy, for there are people within the various levels of government who admire it.

Labor and management dare not forget that if the price of a product or the quality of service ceases to satisfy, the customer always has some place else to go. While we like the virtues of a buy, make and sell in Canada program, we emphasize that the potential customer owes the Canadian product no special obligation if it fails him in price, quality or design. That is the way it is and that is the way it has to be in any society where the consumer has real freedom of choice. The Canadian consumer is very much alive to this fact and no one knows it better than the other nations of the world who compete in the Canadian market and elsewhere in the world. If you doubt this take a trip to any department store or take a look at the import figures for recent years.

About People!

A lot of people are like wheelbarrows — no good unless pushed.

Some are like trailers — they have to be pulled.

Some are like kites — if you don't keep a string on them, they fly away.

Some are like balloons — full of wind and ready to blow up.

Some are like footballs — you can't tell which way they will bounce.

And then some are like a good watch — open face, pure gold, quietly busy, and full of good works.

Taxation, according to one editor, is a lot like sheep shearing. As long as you shear a sheep it will continue to produce a new crop. But you can skin the animal only once.

The best way to keep teen agers at home is to make home pleasant — and let the air out of the tires.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.E.

Here's a new twist. Down in Oklahoma a car driver who must go to jail because he can't pay his fine can now send his car instead. If the car is sentenced to two months the owner can pick it up at that time by paying the storage bill. The reasoning is that if a man can't pay his fine, he can't afford another car. By putting the car in jail you are keeping the driver off the road. Maybe.

For the past ten days the old building across the street from the Community Press has been in the process of being torn down and as this is one of the original buildings dating back to the very earliest days of Sedgewick the construction was some what different than the methods used today. The floor in the second story was nailed down with wooden pegs and after over fifty years they couldn't be pulled out. I particularly noticed the nails used to fasten the cedar shingles on. At first glance they appeared to be the same nails but are smaller. They are heavy, square nails with a large head and a blunt end and are longer than the shingle nails used today. A couple of old sided came to light including an old washing machine and a wooden spigot which was used for any vinegar (or wine barrels maybe).

In many arrest of human behavior the pendulum has a tendency to swing from one extreme to another. Cattlemen in Alberta are becoming extremely concerned with the increase in cattle rustling and with the lenient attitude being taken by the courts. Now in the early days, and there are still people living who can remember those times, it was not uncommon for a cattle rustler to be shot or hung right on the spot. This was a little extreme but now the pendulum has swung and recently an Alberta Judge acquitted a cattle thief on the grounds that rustling was not even a criminal matter. That is a little bit extreme too.

SATISFACTION KEY TO MAN'S HAPPINESS

Generally speaking, man is most happy when he is satisfied. Satisfaction comes to him in various ways. Perhaps it is the feeling of having caught some fish on a fishing trip; perhaps a good day in the fields or lakes hunting; perhaps breaking par at golf, or finishing his own house; or painting; or watching his community grow.

It takes much more to make some men satisfied and consequently happy; one goal may be a ten year dream; another but one day in a busy life. In all cases however, satisfaction which breeds happiness is akin to man's soul; and no amount of material gain can supplant a feeling of satisfaction within man. It can never be bought, but only achieved, it must be earned to be enjoyed. The toon, and too often we try to find some other way to make ourselves satisfied and happy and not until we have really found it, do we know how to get it. —Bashaw Star.

THE MOTORCYCLE FAD

They're going crazy with motor cycles these days. It's creating a new breed of people. They come in all sizes, shapes and colors. Honda of Japan is now marketing a new model with a 1.3 horsepower motor in the 49 cc class. It has pedals and can be man powered. It has a top speed of 15 mph and is considered safer than a bicycle because it has better brakes for down hill. They'll retail at about $80. Just a little higher than a good quality bicycle.

The Japanese Honda, Suzuki and Yahama are winning all the top prizes in the world motorcycle championship races these days. This is in all classes from 50 cc to 500cc What's happening to the old familiar makes like the Indian, Harley-Davidson, Ariel, BSA and few other names more familiar that we thought were as famous? It looks like another bonanza for the Japanese manufacturers. Just one more thing "made in Japan" that's taking over. Canada, USA and some of the "high standard of living" countries in Europe have anticipated themselves on the world markets. And still we keep on striking! Wake up, Canada! — Nanton News.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Right To Strike . . .

OTTAWA— The Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act has been on the Statute Book unchanged since 1948. Of the things affecting the labor scene any line of life can that be said and above all anything which purports to affect relations between management, labour and the general public.

The principles of law embodied in the Act is actually older than the statute. The 1948 legislation was, in most respects, almost identical with the wartime regulation controlling industrial relations. Both regulation and Act, in turn, embody the principles contained in the Act of 1907 when the late Mackenzie King was Federal Deputy Minister of Labour. These can be summarized as follows:

1. The public should not suffer from hasty or ill-considered strikes or lockouts.

2. There should be no strike or lockout until the process of compulsory conciliation has been completed.

3. Public opinion is the strongest influence in bringing reason on both sides. But through the 60 years of labour legislation Canadians have protected the right to strike until it has become sacrosanct. Only by special acts of Parliament have strikes been prevented or stopped and by these on very infrequent occasions.

A task force is now being formed by the Government under Dean H. H. Woods of McGill University to look at labour relations and labour laws in Canada and to modernize principles and processes. The big question that Dean Woods and the task force which he has still to gather around him must answer is how long or how widely the right to strike can be retained.

In Mackenzie King's day the answer was much simpler. The late Prime Minister held strongly that private rights must cease when they become public wrongs but in those days like field in which this was likely to happen was very narrow. By 1948 it had grown considerably but strikes in essential industries were still considered to be controllable. The most essential of industries, the railways, had been able to settle dispute with one exception, though a pattern of Prime Ministerial intervention had emerged which was often costly to the taxpayer and C.P.R. shareholder if not to the economy. It had almost been accepted that there would never again be a general rail strike when, through bungling by both sides, it happened in 1950. Parliament was called, the men ordered back to work and compulsory arbitration imposed.

The 1950 legislation set the precedent for that of this year. The [illegible] bill, passed again in record time by an emergency session has convinced thoughtful labour leaders that no lengthy rail strike can or will be allowed. But the 1966 legislation has shown three things, all of them disturbing:

1. Public opinion is not a strong influence in bringing reason. If it exerts any influence on labour leaders it exerts none on the rank and file. Wildcat continued after Parliament had ordered the men back.

2. Parliamentary authority may be far less than we think. It was fear that the men would not obey the order, not fear of Opposition within Parliament which led the Government to write an inflationary settlement into the law before providing machinery for an arbitrated further wage increase.

3. The whole procedure for conciliation written into the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act is entirely outmoded. It is designed to delay and provide an orderly road to the final strike section. Experience has shown that the frustrations inherent in the system lead merely to deadlocks and increase the chances of illegal walk-outs Conciliation boards can take an interminable time, sometimes deliberately, to report.

Eighteen years ago the main issue in collective bargaining was wages. This has been superseded in these days of automation by job security, a very vital factor in the rail dispute and one which is not covered by the legislation. There are a number of other matters bordering on social security that so far, have been left to collective bargaining but which can bring stalemates and strikes.

Within the area of the Federal public service the Government is dealing courageously and imaginatively with the human factor. The right to strike Bill 170 which has passed second reading in the House of Commons and is now before a Parliamentary committee has denied that right to strike to any public servant whose services are necessary in the interest of the safety or security of the public. To other civil servants it gives the option of conciliation procedure and possible strike action or referral of the dispute to arbitration but this option must be exercised when the bargaining unit is formed and the agency certified and cannot be changed later.

The legislation also gives authority to the Public Service Staff Relations Board (counterpart of the Canada Labour Relations Board) to determine appropriate units for collective bargaining and an appropriate bargaining agency The same power is given the CLRB but has never been used. If the union can show a majority membership it is certified.

Dean Wood and his team will undoubtedly take a long look at this legislation in seeking a pattern for a new labour law.

The Hardisty CGIT has started another term with Mrs. Lowery as leader. President is Georgina Dreger; Vice Lorna Swindle; Gayle Edwardly; Treas. Irene Verne.

Dougie Fee from Killam has grown a pumpkin that weighs 34 pounds, considerably bigger than anything else so far reported in the press.

Everyone seems to be talking about their spuds this year. Fred Rogers of Lougheed says he was going to take one that would barely fit in a pail down to be exhibited in a store window when his old friend, Frank Pedler walked into the yard to borrow a wash tub to haul one of his in. Fred can't figure out what he is going to do for small ones for seed next spring.

A large crowd gathered at Knox United Church in Killam on Sunday to honor Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Nichol who are having to make their home in the Okotoks Gap Valley.

Strome High School held their first regular Literary meeting on Friday. Officers on the Executive are: Pres., Miss Eileen Schoehr; Vice, Miss Dorothy Kroetch; Sec., Miss No r m a Storseth; Programe, Miss Jean Schoehr.

Mr. Late Reed met with quite a painful accident when a grain blade dropped on his foot. He is now able to hobble around again.

Mrs. G. A. Weber of the Sedgewick Red Cross branch has received a letter of special thanks for all the many items which the local branch has sent in.

5 YEARS AGO

(From press files of Oct. 2, 1961)

The Dayaland School Board has been forced to open another room in the school to relieve the congested conditions of the other rooms and Miss Ruth Caldwell has been chosen as the teacher. She will begin her work at once.

The Community Cattle Sale held at Sedgewick last Saturday was a big success and cattle sold in some cases for more than Edmonton prices. The high was $0.36.

A great array of pots, pans and what have you was collected at the Lougheed School on Monday and Tuesday when Mr. Keifer gave a cent an ounce for the Aluminum on show tickets.

Mrs F. Meeks of Strome is spending this week end in Edmonton as a delegate to the C.W.L. Convention.

East-Central Alberta Lags In Harvesting

Ideal harvest weather continued over most of the Prairies last week. Harvesting is virtually completed with the exception of the Peace River District and North Central Alberta where intermittent weather has delayed operations.

Yields of cereal grains have greatly exceeded expectations. The wheat crop will yield in excess of 300 million bushels. Not only will this be an all time total production but also a record yield per acre.

The quality is also above average with most of the wheat delivered to date grading 1 degree, 2 degrees, and 3 degrees with the predominating grades being 2 degrees and 3 degrees. There is an indication, from samples received during the past few days, that the light fronts received in northern areas have ceased some damage to the later maturing cereal crops.

While the West generally has produced a record breaking crop there were certain areas which were less fortunate. In the Red River Valley of Manitoba excessive rains in the spring and throughout the growing season resulted in severe flooding to many hundreds of acres of crops.

On the other hand there is an area covering East Central Alberta and extending into Northwestern Saskatchewan where lack of moisture in the spring delayed germination. However, later ideal conditions allowed most crops to recover and produce close to normal yields. The same conditions prevailed in an area in the extreme southern portion of Saskatchewan, south of Weyburn.

In as much as harvesting of the 1966 crop is practically completed, this will be the final crop condition report of the season. However, at a later date, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics final figures on production will be reported.

Prairie Grain Leads Exports To Japan

Although sales of wheat behind the iron and bamboo curtains usually receive the greatest publicity, the tiny islan dof Japan is the best customer farmers have, after the traditional United Kingdom market.

Recent Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures show Japan's total purchases of agricultural products runing over a five-year period from $83,438,000 to $113,033,686. Saskatchewan's share of this sales total was $62,387,835, making the wheat province the leader in exports to Japan

Of the $63 million, $57 million was spent on wheat, $4 million on flaxseed, and the balance on miscellaneous farm products.

Second largest exporter to Japan is British Columbia, with sales of $61 million, made up mainly of mineral ore and lumber products, the other provinces trail far behind. Alberta is third in line, with sales of $28.8 million.

Sales of grain to Japan continue to grow, as the developing industries of the Orient demand increasing quantities of grain, flour, and all seeds: cattle hides, horse hides, calf and kip skins; grass seeds, animal oils and fats, and pelleted screenings. The next product expected to sell well in Japan is food grains.

The most recent figures released by government sources show Canada to have exported $206 million in goods to Japan, while importing goods valued at $126 million. This gives Canada a trade balance of $170 million. Per capita, Canadians make a sale of $15.60 to the Japanese, and spend $6.69. In Saskatchewan, of course, the per capita sales are much higher.

Projections of Japan's rate of economic growth indicate a steadily widening market for Canadian products and services. Our exports to Japan may have tripled the 1960 figure by 1970.

These predictions depend, however, on freer trade between the countries, and a corresponding increase in Canada's purchases from Japan.

Which is something for the Saskatchewan farmer to consider, when selecting a car, or a camera, or a radio — all of which are manufactured in Japan for sales in Saskatchewan. Of particular interest is the Nissan line of automobiles. Nissan, Japan's largest automotive exporter, has established dealerships through-out Canada to sell their world famous line of Datsun sedans, wagons, and sports cars. Of particular interest to prairie farmers is the economical yet versatile Datsun 1 ton pick-up and the rugged Datsun 6-wheel drive patrol.

W. PATERSONS HOLD 25TH ANNIVERSARY

LOUGHEED— Amidst silver trimmings and a profusion of tall flowers, 152 friends and neighbors signed the guest book on Sept. 21 in Lougheed Community Hall. The occasion was the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Paterson

During the evening the guests enjoyed a program capably M.C'd. by Mr. Tam Kemp. A beautiful wedding cake made by their daughter Mrs. Donnie McKinnon, was cut and passed around to the guests. A delicious lunch and a short dance to music by the Kinmen Orchestra concluded the evening.

SHOWER FOR MISS LINDA SPILLER

KILLAM— On Tuesday of last week 47 friends and relatives attended a bridal shower for Miss Linda Spiller in the R. C. Parish Hall

Mrs. Emily Kelsdorfer M.C.'d. the Program and got the shower under way by asking the bride and her 2 attendants to the front and then pinned a corsage to the bride elect. Mrs. Dora Klinger played a couple selection on the Piano accordion followed by a piano solo played by Miss Linda Schaffler. Debbie George played the Saxaphone accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. Joyce George. Debbie also gave a short version of Rock and Roll on the Sax and was very much enjoyed by all. Mrs. Connie Smolnik a couple short selections on the piano. Mrs. Joyce George played a couple sing a long selections which brought the program to a close.

The gifts were then passed around for everyone to see. The bride thanked everyone for the lovely gifts and for coming and invited all to open House in the Legion Hall from 7:00 — 10:00 next Saturday. Lunch was then served by Circle 2.

Ride the Pontiac winning streak!

Introducing the adventurous new Pontiacs for 1967!

Grande Parisienne Sport Coupe with optional color trim

The biggest car news for 1967 comes from Pontiac. Canada's perennial Success Car gets away to yet another flying start with new styling, new models, new interiors, new safety features and new glamor options. Grande Parisienne, Parisienne, Laurentian and Strato-Chief series all have completely new styling. Bowing in is a brand-new series called 2+2. It's the last word in full-size adventure cars. Whatever you want most from your new car in 1967—luxury, high style, performance, ride or practicality—you'll get it from one of Pontiac's 52 new models. Pontiac is for today's kind of people. People like you!

Parisienne 2+2 Sport Coupe

While safety is an intrinsic part of everything engineered into Pontiac, we'd like to list here some of the more notable standard safety features in every '67 Pontiac: Four way hazard warning flasher; dual master cylinder brake system with warning light; seat belts—front and rear with push-button buckles; GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column; passenger-guard door locks—all doors; Inside day/night mirror with shatter-resistant vinyl-edged glass and breakaway support; lane-change feature incorporated in directional signal control; energy-absorbing instrument panel with smooth-contoured knobs and levers.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of a dear Husband and Dad Elmar Lonnee who passed away October 7th 1965.

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and true in his heart and mind
Beautiful memories he left behind.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by — His Loving Wife and Family. 21-1-c

In Memoriam

BERGERSEN— In ever loving memory of our dad who passed away October 5, 1963, and our mother who passed away November 11, 1956.

We watched you both suffer,
We heard your sighs,
But all we could do was just stand by;
For when the time came, we suffered too,
For you both never deserved what you went through.
God took you by your hand, and we had to part,
We send your pains, but broke our hearts.
Ever remembered, and sadly missed by the family. 21-1-c sheltered bays with no surf, and here we are supposed to the full force of Atlantic; and it is some force believe me. The waves come in towering 10 to 12 feet high, and never stop. We have to devise a way to get through that first 100 feet of surf, then it will be fairly calm.

"This is the real Africa. Hippos, Rhinos, Elephant, Buffalo, Leopards and Gorillas, they are all here. No, not tame, but not too shy. I'm going to get a picture of a Gorilla if it takes six months.

"We have a lagoon here on which live any number of Crocodiles. The fishing is good, but you really have to look out for the Crocs. They haven't got any white people yet, but they get a few natives who insist on fishing from their skinny little dugout canoes. If they ever tip over they're finished, thus depleting an already skimpy population.

"To stay out in the morning and see Hippo tracks 11 inches across and such a inches in deep solid soil which denotes over a ton in weight is really a thrill."

Hardisty Considers Park Improvements

The regular September meeting of the council of the Town of Hardisty was held with Mayor Harrison along with Councillors Fowler, Anderson, Young, Cavanagh and Kobiarch present. Minutes and financial report were presented and passed as read.

Council discovered that no applications had been received for Town Foreman as a result of advertising, and the Secretary was ordered to readvertise further.

A special meeting was ordered to be called to deal with applications for town foreman and other urgent matters that may arise.

The resignation of Coun. Cavanagh was presented at this meeting and accepted, in time for the annual nomination and election day.

Mr W. K Dwyer contemplates the banking of a warehouse on the C. P. R. siding and for this purpose his application for a building permit was approved.

In accordance with the Towns and Villages Act wherein a returning officer must be appointed, the Secretary W. S. Fodlar was appointed.

Coun. Young was appointed to attend a Centennial meeting in Edmonton. The Centennial Caravan Workshop which is to be in Hardisty on October 11th has been advised to contact Coun. Cavanagh regarding their visit.

The council received a list of all taxes issued during 1966.

A brief was presented from the Department of Highways for study by the council, regarding uniform traffic legislation through Alberta.

A sidewalk program is planned for the Town and in this regard, a letter was received from the Inland Cement Co stating that the firm would inspect the Hardisty sidewalk problem before starting repairs.

The Town of Wainwright has requested a meeting of reps from the Towns and Villages in the vicinity on October 5th, and Coun. Anderson was appointed to attend.

Council also received the Dominion Census for 1966 showing the Hardisty population standing at 586.

Particulars regarding the 4-day cooling off period on purchases from salesmen was read and discussed by the council members.

Coun. Rombaugh was authorized to amend the 9:00 p.m. curfew on the fire siren whenever convenient.

A committee was placed in full charge of all details for a Welcome To Hardisty sign

As further improvements to the popular Hardisty Park, particulars are to be sought regarding the cost of placing open fire places for the convenience of picnicers and others using the park facilities.

RIMBEY JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS represented by

BERNIE BARTKO and GREG TROITSKY

Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year.

The enterprising Rimbey Junior High School students spend many hours selling magazine subscriptions — but not for their own profit. They are earning money to help children in Korea, Italy and Zambia. For six years they have shown an exceptional sense of responsibility in supporting two foster children, Kim Jung Kun of South Korea and Ottavia Tollis of Italy. Also, for the past two years, they have provided the money for six Zambian children to continue their education. In the past year alone they have contributed nearly five hundred dollars to these needy children.

This unselfish giving of their time and money makes these boys and girls worthy winners of this year's Junior Citizen of the Year Group Award.

We congratulate the Rimbey Junior High School students and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

This is one of a series of Junior Citizen Award announcements. Our special thanks to Jack Parry, Editor of the Rimbey Record and to the group's nominator, Helen Cooke of Rimbey.

CONTROL THOSE CATTLE GRUBS!

Cattlemen should be making plans to treat their cattle for Warble Grubs during October and November.

Systemac insecticides (Organic phosphate Compounds) will do a good job of controlling both Warble Grubs and Lice when applied in the fall. These insecticides are absorbed into the animals system, after application on the skin, and kill the grub while it is traveling through the animal toward the back.

A few precautions should be followed while using these insecticides At all times the directions on the containers should be read and followed. General directions are as follows:

Do not use within 28 days of slaughter or 28 days of calving — These dates vary some with the different insecticides available.

Do not treat calves under 200 lbs.

Do not treat during December, January and February.

Do not treat animals under stress

Publication No. 651 on Control of Livestock Insects outlines the control of most livestock insects in an easy to read form. It is available from your local District Agriculturists office.

WILD GAME COOKERY may be picked up at the Sedgewick D.A. Office.

Does Killam NEED A FABRIC STORE?

Well, whether it does or not, it's got one, with a beautiful selection of fabrics, and prices lower and more competitive than in the city. (Yes, even the catalogue can't touch prices or service).

But, due to everything busy with harvest and the long summer months, I am beginning to think that Killam does NOT need a Fabric Store.

Why don't YOU come in — take advantage of the bargains — or just say hello, bringing along this Ad and Thursday Collecting a Free Package of Sewing Machine Needles.

This will be your way of showing me that Killam indeed DOES need a Fabric Store. Doris Rivinson

The RED X Means TIME TO RENEW

1908 — FIFTY-EIGHTH YEAR — 1966 SEDGEWICK, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13TH, 1966 Volume 57 — Number 22

CONGRATULATIONS— Councilor Jim Cavanagh makes a presentation to retiring Mayor Reg Morrison who has served on the Council of the Town of Hardisty for the past twenty-two years. Mr. Morrison has been Mayor of Hardisty for ten years until his retirement this fall. Hardisty councillors have established a reputation for long service. The late Allen Johnstone had served on the council for 45 years and was Mayor for 30 years before retiring in favor of Mr. Morrison.

Driver Training Course Considered For Schools

The regular September meeting of the Killam Divisional School Board was held with all members of the Board and the Supt. in attendance. The minutes of August meetings were passed after corrections, and minutes of an earlier Sept meeting were added to, in order to include a record of member voting on by-law 177.

The secretary reported the results of the Debenture Plebiscite held in September as 622 for, 322 against and 34 spoiled. He also reported that Mr. Jack Walker had paid the repair bill on the Walker estate bus in the sum of $1300, and that the bus was now returned to its owner.

By-law 14 was given third and final reading and declared passed.

Bursaries of $300 were approved for: Marilyn Geddes, Linda Bennech, Patricia Reth, Reesa Williams, Mabel Nose. Mrs. Carolan was given permission to teach pupils in the Strome school during the noon hour and after school.

The Superintendent was authorized to investigate further the student driver education program, and the Chrysler Co. offer of the supply of a new car for the program.

The contract payment for pencil busses up to one ton, was amended to increase the mileage pay 3c per mile for miles travelled on the route. Rates of pay for these buses will now be $4.00 per day plus 22c per mile

The following teachers were hired: Mrs. Edith Midbo at Daylaud, and Mrs. McNeil part time music teacher at Daylaud.

The board went on record as being in favor and agreeable to partaking in an Audio program with a neighboring Division or County on a cost sharing basis, with salary of the Audio personnel starting at $6,000 per year plus travelling expenses.

During the afternoon the Board members went to Sedgewick to meet with the Town M.D. Flagstaff to discuss the building of a new divisional office The Reeve indicated that the Council was considering a proposal to build a new joint office for both administrations, and wondered what the Board's re-action would be. The two groups agreed to talk the matter over privately and decide later in the day After the return to the Divisional office the Board received a phone call from the M.D. stating that the council had passed a motion to build a new M.D. office and that its location be decided by a plebiscite. Work on the new office to be commenced by April 15th, 1967

Following this disclosure, the School Board passed the motion that the Board of Trustees of the Killam School Division propose the building of the Divisional office until after the plebiscite

A request for accomodation in the Hardisty School for holding Kindergarten classes was rejected, on the grounds that adequate opportunity could not be obtained

Schools with nine or more teachers are to be granted permission to hire secretarial help to a maximum of four hours per school day, and schools with 20 or more teachers, secretarial help of a full day for five days a week with maximum pay at $220.00 per month

50 Years For Lougheed W. I.

LOUGHEED—The 50th Anniversary of the Lougheed womens institute was celebrated in June with a program and a tea held in the Community Hall, which was decorated with early spring flowers and blossoms for the occasion.

About 50 people signed the guest book which included former W. I. members, W. I. officers, members from other W.I. branches, and friends. President Mrs. M. Skoberg welcomed the guests and introduced visiting institute officials. Mrs. H. Hillaby of Camrose, Sup. of A.W.I.G.C., Mrs. A. Olsen of Camrose, Convener of Health and Home Ec. Mrs. L. Bladen of Obaton, Asst. Sup. of W.I.G.C., and Mrs. F. Cameron of Alliance, Convener.

A history of the institute taken from the past 50 years of records was read by Mrs. M. Skoberg. This was interspersed with a fashion show of the styles worn through this period and modeled with the popular tunes of that time.

Mrs. H. Hillaby brought greetings on behalf of Mrs. Belinak, A.W.I. president and presented the branch with a 50 year scroll. An inscribed pavel was presented by Mrs. F. Cameron as a gift from this constituency, and congradulatory letters and cards from other institutes, members and friends were read.

Service pins denoting 50 years of membership were presented by Mrs. O. Probst to Mrs. A. Skoberg and Mrs. G. W. Probst who are charter members and still active in institute work.

The Anniversary cake, fittingly decorated for the occasion graced the head tea table which was laid with a lace cloth and tea and coffee services. It was a great honor to have Mrs. A. Skoberg and Mrs. G. W. Probst pour for this special celebration. A lovely bunch was served following the enjoyable social hour of visiting and reminiscing.

Killam Students Ask Assistance

The Killam Public School last spring began a centennial project.

The plan is to write a history of the Killam area and incorporate it as a part of the school's yearbook in the centennial year.

A committee of three teachers: Mrs. Pottage, Mrs. Robinson, and Mrs. Schweitzer have been appointed to gather information for this project.

To ensure that we get all available information, we solicit the cooperation of anyone who may have information to contribute. Materials in the form of written accounts and pictures are requested. Oldtimers who would be willing to be interviewed are requested to contact the committee. When contributions from all, an authentic account can be compiled.

Copies of this yearbook will be made available for the public to purchase

Strome Clubs Reorganized

STROME—On Wednesday evening Oct. 5 a meeting was held in memorial Hall for the purpose of organizing a 1st Cub Pack at Strome. Seventeen parents were in attendance and keen interest was shown. An election of officers was carried out with Dave Cramton elected as President, Donald Hayes as Vice President Ann Hill, as Secretary, Margaret Mitchell as Treasurer.

Appointment of the adult group Committee will be made at next meeting which will be held on Oct. 20.

Leaders and assistant Leaders appointed are as follows: Al Fallingham, James Yarham, Raymond Ashpeter, Bob and Lou Gingo. A good attendance is invited for next meeting.

Killam Cubs and Scouts To Register On October 21st

KILLAM— A group committee meeting was held Tuesday September 27th with 12 interested persons present.

An official registration night will be held in the form of a bean supper on Oct. 21 at 6:30 p.m. in Elks Hall. Anyone wanting to register their son is welcome. Everyone bring enough beans colesiaw and buttered buns for themselves. It is hoped all parents will turn out. Provincial Commissioner Ernie Kamm of Red Deer will be our guest speaker. The leaders will also be invested this evening.

It was decided to hold a fur fashion show sponsored by the Cubs and Scouts to be held October 28 at Elks Hall at 8:00 p.m. Fur bearing animals in their natural state or fur coats modeled by local models will be shown at this event.

A vote of thanks was extended to all those who helped at the carwash and also to those who supported the cake and aucton and made this a great success

The next group committee meeting will be held October 25 at Elks Hall at 8:00 p.m. It is hoped more interested people will attend

Mr. Bud Young President Of Hardisty Arena Assn.

HARDISTY— The 1966 Annual Meeting of the Hardisty and District Memorial Arena Association, opened with a banquet, and was attended by approximately 75 people. The Annual Meeting was chaired by the President, Mr. Bud Young. A number of appointments to the town were introduced and welcomed to the community. During the evening presentations were made to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Quinlan, who are leaving to make their home in Chilliwack, and to Mrs. Bob Wells, on their leaving to reside in Jasper, where Bob is already established.

Election of Officers of the Arena Association, resulted in the following:

President— Mr. Bud Young; Vice Pres.— Mr. Allen Thompson; Secretary— Mrs. Evelyn Hardisty; Treasurer— Mr. Bernie Kobitzsch.

Directors:

Mr. Lloyd Stuart, Mr. Ed Granger, Mr. Keith Armstrong, Mr. Stan Hisbey, Mr. L. J. Anderson, Mr. L. J. Gelka, Mrs. Charlotte Gelka, Mr. Bob Lohens, Mr. Maurice Manning Mrs. Pearl Hinkey, Mrs. Anna Young, Mr. George Matthews, Mrs. Vera Hendricks.

Committees were appointed to investigate various methods of increasing the revenue for the coming year. Mr. Mel Lawes spoke on the absorption of the Livestock Association into the Arena Association, and the success of the successful Bull Sale earlier in the year.

Votes of thanks to the Executive and other individuals for a splendid job performed were recorded by the meeting.

ANTHONY BUNNEY

Mr. Arthur Bunney, well known farmer of the Forestburg district, is the newly-elected Councilor for the Municipal District of Flagstaff to represent Division 2.

The By-election became necessary due to the death of Mr. Ed Fordice who had represented the Division.

Unofficial returns from the election show that Mr. Bunney received 179 votes as against 94 for the other nominee, Mr. Fred Warner.

First Aid Course

The Workmen's Compensation Board will conduct a first aid course in Sedgewick commencing Monday, October 17, 1966. There will be no charge to persons employed under the Worker's Compensation Act.

The dates are, October 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 24, 25 and 26, 1966, at 7:30 p.m. each evening, in the United Church (Basement) Sedgewick.

The direct benefits of first aid training in industry cannot be overemphasized. Even in companies with complete medical departments, trained first aiders are a potential asset because they can stop dangerous bleeding, administer artificial respiration and transport injured workers safely.

In addition to its possible direct benefits on the job, first aid training has inherent interest for employees. They learn something about the nature of accidents and acquire an accident awareness that makes them more cautious and less likely to have accidents.

FIVE GOT IT— Number 74 of the Central High Rams catches the ball for a completed pass in the fourth quarter of the record game of the Recreation Centre. M.D. Applies For Crop Insurance In 1967

SEDGEWICK — The adjourned meeting of Sept. 14th was reconvened in the Board Room on September 28th with six councillors and the secretary in attendance.

The matter of purchasing the vacant garage on Lots 16 and 17 in Sedgewick and offered for sale by Herman Schultz Finance Co. from Rashaw was discussed further and it was moved and passed that purchasing the property be tabled until early in the new year.

Further word from Gravel and Sand Locators of Edmonton stated they would locate gravel in Div. 4, 5 and 7 of the M.D. and consider them as a township, at $300 a section. The gravel must be suitable to council and contain not less than 30,000 cubic yards. This matter was tabled until the next meeting.

Minutes of the Safety Council were read and considered. It was passed that all Municipal employees be informed by letter that any one of them noticing road signs broken, missing or damaged should report to the Municipal office.

Mr. Geo. Matthews was elected as council representative on the Safety Committee.

A yield sign will be erected at the N. E. corner of Sec. 21-44-11. making traffic from the west yield to traffic on the north-south road.

Reeve Matthews and Coun. Blatz and the Sec. had attended a meeting in Edmonton called by Edmonton Union of M. D's. to hear objections of members to decisions of the Alberta Assessment Board in connection with appeals. The meeting was attended by the Minister, and his Deputy. The local councillors reported a good discussion at the meeting but that no definite decisions were arrived at Secretary informed the meeting that Reeve Matthews and Coun. A. Blatz had during the trip to Edmonton, instructed him to make application in the Dept. of Ag. for inspections for PFAA in several areas of the M. D.

The R. O. reported advised council that two nominations had been nominated for the special election in the parsons of Arthur C. Bunney &

Aftermath Of Indecision!

To recoin a phrase made famous by the Late Winston Churchill, we might well say today that never in the history of Canada have so many owed so little to so few. Strange as this may sound, we have concluded that it is true to a great extent. We have never suffered to such an extent as we do today from the aftermath of indecision. More pronounced perhaps at the higher levels of government, than seeming inability of public officials to make decisions and stick to them, reaches right on down to the local levels of administrative bodies. There is a growing tendency to ask the people to take them "off the hook" or at least make the decisions for them by way of votes and plebiscites. Perhaps a good case in point is the city of Edmonton where indecision, going forward, backing up and retreating has made that metropolis the laughing stock of Nothern Alberta. While we laugh at the capital city, do we realize that the same thing is going on right at home. Where are the men and women who can agree on a policy and proceed to implement that policy, letting political pressure and individual antagonism be damned? Where are the men who will proceed with public projects to the best economic and administrative welfare of the society they serve without pandering to the biased desires of selfish vested interests?

One begins to wonder why we elect people to public office at all, if it isn,t to carry on our affairs to the best of their ability, and with enough intestinal fortitude to proceed to do just that. There has been enough of indecision throughout the land, and the reperecussions of such juvenile thinking has become such a heavy load that the electorate will not much longer carry it. Let's get on at all levels of government with decisiveness and a degree of fortitude that will restore confidence in the people.

Home Safety Heating Systems!

Even before man learned that he could start a fire by rubbing two sticks together he has been vitally concerned with finding new and — presumably — better ways of keeping warm. Long before anyone thought of calling heating and ventilation a science, the ancient Romans were using radiant heating — to warm their baths. The pre-revolutionary French were the first to use hot-water heating — to help hatch baby chickens. And, in the United States, Ben Franklin — long associated in peoples minds with kites and lightning — also had a few hot ideas on keeping warm. Heating — centralized or not — always has been a mixed blessing. Even to the present day, we haven't completely escaped the same heating danger which plagued our cavemen ancestors: carbon monoxide. Whenever any fuel is burned, carbon monoxide is usually one of the products. Because you can't see it taste it or smell it, it has earned the name "The Silent Killer." If it escapes into the rooms of your home, the air you breathe can kill you or lead to permanent brain damage.

With cold weather just around the corner, it's a good time to start thinking about putting your heating systems in proper condition to guard against "The Silent Killer."

Have your heating systems — furnace, space heater, water heater fireplace and incinerator — checked annually to make sure they are operating efficiently and that vents, pipes, flues and chimneys are tight. This also will help prevent fires.

Heating devices, especially central furnaces, require a lot of air for proper operation. Make certain that your heating plant is not starved for air. Check with your heating man or fuel supplier to be sure.

Heating devices designed to be vented should not be used until they have been properly vented to the outside.

If you have a fireplace don't close the damper until you are certain that the fire is out. If smoke enters the room, it may mean that your furnace is causing a reverse flow. Opening a window will help prevent this.

Wheat Farming Favored Position!

It is becoming quite obvious that for at least the next ten years wheat farming in surplus producing countries will be a protected and favored industry. This in spite of the fact that Canada, Argentine and Australia have produced big crops this year. The crying need for this food commodity over the world almost insures that in the years just ahead wheat will be sold on the international market at higher prices than are prevailing today. It is likely too that the Wheat Agreement will be widened to cover coarse grains with higher prices.

With the increasing demand for wheat and other grains, shipping countries will be required to expand their loading facilities and other areas to become more efficient. Holdups in these areas have already occurred here in Canada and today's trend should act as warning to get on with these expansions now before the situation becomes such that nothing but confusion can prevail. Canada's position in world trade is improving and the only way to keep it moving upward is to produce the goods at a marketable prices and have the facilities to get it into the hands of

A recent survey made by the National Automobile Dealers' Association in the United States revealed that 75% of the 1,300 dealers favored newspaper advertising over promotion on local radio and television stations. From experience these dealers had found that automobiles, like all other consumer products, are bought and sold at the local level where the newspaper is the primary medium. These dealers have learned that newspaper advertising is the most effective way to sell both new and used cars.

For the past three weeks people have been bringing potatoes into the Press and these have been getting bigger and bigger and have now reached tour and one half pounds. Norman "Red" Culbert dropped in to tell us that growing this type of potato is old fashioned as he has a new method. Instead of growing a few of potatoes he just grows one big one. This year he says it was so big he had to cut it in half to get through the basement door. He wouldn't enter it in our contest because the rules say he would have to leave it here on display and our editor might end up eating it. Red says he couldn't afford to lose his winter's supply of spuds just to win a contest. Next year he is going to grow two; one for himself and one for the contest.

In filling out his application for a job in a factory, a man handed in the following question, "When should we notify in case of accident?" Finally he wrote "Anybody in sight."

Sedgewick, Alberta
Dear Sir:

We note some new sidewalks around town, some unsightly old fences have been torn down, some new ones built. Houses have been remodeled, some stuccoed and some painted; some public buildings have a newer look. Vacant lots have been cleaned and leveled, weeds cut, dilapidated old buildings are disappearing — some more needs to done along these lines but we better watch it, Folks! We might gain a reputation as the neatest, cheerest little town in Alberta and that would be difficult to live up to unless we really mean business. Good work. Folks!

Sincerely,
S. J. Christopherson.

The planet Earth looms large to the tribes of human beings who inhabit it. But astronomers assert our earthly habitation, in comparison with the known Universe, is about the size of a grain of sand!

Huge celestial bodies whirl-ing in infinite space dwarf our tiny planet and the little solar system of which it is a part.

Most of us hardly dare contemplate the immensities Universe. Its enormous extent makes us human beings so inconspicuous and unimportant.

But we must live our lives and do our best in this world. We must not be discouraged by the magnitude of the incalculable space which surrounds us.

The philosopher Will Durant maintains that we are here not to obtain happiness but to accomplish something.

Maybe he is right. So we had better not try to peer too deeply into the immensity of the Universe. But we still can admire the beauty of the midnight sky. Then we can go our way, astonished by the mystery of infinity. —Brooks Bulletin.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Commons Box Office

OTTAWA— The House of Commons, now starting the last lap of the session, may revive some of the box office appeal that brought long waiting lines outside its doors during earlier debates. The Munsinger affair, top attraction so far, is still with us. Far from bringing any finality to the issue the Spence report has merely produced another political behind.

For John Diefenbaker, Lis leadership openly challenged within the Party, the Report could prove a heaven-sent document. He has condemned the findings of a justice of the Supreme Court of Canada as palitical persecution, a fact, in itself, that would make it impossible for him to leave things as they are. But, more than that, a Conservative under persecution shands a much better chance of serving all the November voters.

If Munsinger, Medicare and other popular issues take the spotlight on centre stage, however, the real work of the session will, more than usual, be carried on in the wings. Three major Parliamentary committees will be working against time, two of them sitting every day for the next two months.

The joint Senate-House of Commons committee on Consumer Credit, transformed, at least until December, into a Prices Committee is hoping to have an interim report before the end of the year. It is starting out with a deep sense of urgency in the light of rising living costs which are likely to continue to rise for at least the next six months. Its examination of prices commodity by commodity will be interrupted when the Economic Council of Canada makes its annual report late this month. The theme of this year's review is price stabilization in years of prosperity and it will be referred to the Committee for study. At that point it is expected that labour, industry and consumer organization will be heard.

A former committee of the Senate in 1958 produced a report which concluded that objectives of high employment, price stability and adequate growth were fully compatible. Until the early part of the year this conclusion appeared to hold water. Then the dam broke. Prices rose sharply followed by a series of wage demands and wage settlements to cover or avoid strikes, which were not conducive to containing inflation. The Senate-Commons committee will have to come forward with something more constructive than its predecessor.

A second committee that will be holding almost daily sittings will be that on Transport and Communications under the chairmanship of the chairmanship of the energetic 39-year-old Hamilton lawyer, Joseph Macaluso. Here the issues raised by Transport Minister Pickersgill's revolutionary five-part bill dealing with railways, interprovincial trucking and commodity pipelines will be thrashed out. Already the stack of briefs is piled high and it will take at least two months to hear witnesses. Organizations to be heard range from the railway to farmers' unions, from provincial governments to truckers, from the Canadian Manufacturer's Association to Shell and other oil companies concerned over the regulation of future commodity pipelines.

So far there are only seven of these pipelines operating. The longest, 36 miles, is in Western Canada and uses natural gas to carry hydrogen sulphide. Another at Copper Cliff, Ontario carries concentrates in a water mixture. But commodity pipelines are a coming form of transportation and Canada's new Transport Commission will have the job of regulating them.

The main section of the Bill dealing with railways may have less opposition that had been expected. Line abandonment in the West the most controversial issue, may have been resolved by the Government's decision to freeze a 17,000 mile network of lines on the Prairies against abandonment until 1975. This means that until then, applications can be made for abandonment of only some 1,800 miles.

Finally the committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs will be tackling the massive revision of the Bank Act, a job that will keep it busy for at least two months.

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULES

Payments to Western farmers for wheat in the first six months of 1966 constituted 64 per cent of all Canadian farm income from crops and nearly 22 per cent of farm income from all sources. At 320.6 million for the three Prairie provinces they were well ahead of the same period last year and only 946 million below 1964 record. Saskatchewan farmers alone collected $210 million during the six months.

The Prairie wheat crop is now officially estimated at 320 million bushels, 35 per cent higher than last year's harvest. Saskatchewan with 95 per cent of the Prairie crop produced 540 bushels. Alberta, 198 million bushels and Manitoba, 82 million bushels. Average yield per acre is 27.5 bushels

Canada's exports of fully manufactured goods for the first six months of 1966 totalled $632.4 million, 46 per cent higher than last year. They now account for one-fifth of Canada's total exports.

Latest available estimates of unemployment (August) indicate that jobs are becoming slightly harder to find. While the exodus of teen-agers from the labour force returning to school kept the figure below the previous months there was an increase of 6,000 among job seekers over 20 and an increase of 12,000 over August last year. The winner it likely to bring higher unemployment than has been seen in the past two years.

Dr. A. G. McCalla, Dean of Agriculture at the University of Alberta, will be guest speaker at the Annual Meeting of the Killam Board of Trade on Oct. 25th.

Miss Georgina Drager and Irvine Voros spent the past week-end in Olds at the Hardisty Delegates to the C.G.I.T. convention.

After a week of almost perfect drying weather, we woke up Friday to find almost a half inch of rain had fallen, which on a crop barely getting in harvesting shape, is not encouraging.

It wasn't Doug Fee of the Eddie Fees who had the big pumpkin but Reg Fee of the Gordie Fees.

A Tea was held in the Rooms of the United Church Auditorium in honor of Mrs. J. MacMillan, an old-time resident and member of the Ladies' Aid, celebrating her 80th birthday.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. O. Pederson of Killam that Mrs. Elvin Pederson and baby daughter of Lasmanach, Scotland, are to arrive this week. Elvin will follow in about two weeks.

Gordon Kirkman left for Edmonton where he will report to HMCS Nonsuch. Before he left Loughead, he was presented with a gift on behalf of the Hockey and Baseball Clubs. Gord will be sadly missed in the field of sports.

Tim Corbett returned last week from Sullivan Lake where he was successful in bagging seven geese.

(From Press Files Oct. 8, 1936)

The second annual interboro high school track meet was held in Strome on Sept. 28th with Sawtl. Daysland, Strome, Killam, and Sedgewick represented.

From the Daysland district comes these reports of yields from the threshers. Barley 70 bushels per acre on Mr. Smith Gould's farm; Oats 60 bushels on J. Mavor's farm; Wheat 40 bushels per acre. The average wheat crop is 20 bushels.

Jimmie Glenn of Sedgewick has just finished cutting a thirty acre field of wheat, on breaking, which averaged 41 bushels to the acre.

Big winners in the Killam baseball pool this year have been Wm. Woodford and Harmon Christenson.

While crashing his Ford truck Saturday evening, Herbert Dennis of Loughead sprained his wrist badly and wired to his nephew David Dennis of Edmonton to come down and help him for several weeks time.

Gordash Family Welcomed to Lougheed

We welcome to Lougheed Mr. and Mrs. Gordash and family. Mr. Gordash is the assistant grain buyer at the Pool elevator.

Visitors at Christ over the week-end included Vera Grieve, Ray Mitchell, and Ricky Forberg.

Mr. and Mr. Jim Herum from Rocky Mountain House spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Herum and John.

Miss Marie Strobbaken is enjoying a few days at home before taking up her new nursing duties at Leduc.

Nice to see Mrs. Tom Scott home from hospital and somewhat improved in health.

Weekly Devotion

"THANKS-GIVING"

"Give as you have received, without any charge whatever." Matt. 10:8. Phillip's translation These words were spoken to twelve men as they were commissioned by Jesus to carry on a ministry to the world, that He had begun. They were to share with their fellowmen the Salvation message which they had received so freely and abundantly from God.

"For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." John 3:16. This calls upon us also to be disciples, disciplined and committed followers of His, to give of ourselves in sharing this message of redemption with others.

His gift to us was not asked for nor did we deserve it, but was given because He loved us and saw our desperate need of it. As we share with others this news of salvation, we also do it in love and not merely from a sense of duty. There is no charge or fee levied for a gift that is given. All that is expected in return is genuine gratitude by the recipient.

If we are truly thankful for our Christian heritage then we will accept the challenge that Jesus gave, namely, "Give as you have received, without any charge whatever." We will then commit our lives to Christ, claiming Him as our Savior and Master. We will assume the privilege of being disciplined followers of Him and share others the news of salvation and the joy of discipleship.

His manner of [illegible] cuts crossgrain to selfish and self-centered living which is so prevalent today. The attitude of many is to get all you can by any means you can with no thought or intention of giving all you can.

The price of our gift of salvation required a Cross. Too often people wish to have this salvation without recognition of His Pleas and without bearing their own cross, like of turning from the sin of selfishness and in a disciplined manner be followers of Christ. How thankful are we? —Rev. A. Dietz, United Missionary Church, Galahad.

U.C.W. Receives Gifts For Shoppers' Fair

SEDGEWICK— The October meeting of the Sedgewick U.C.W. was held in the church hall with 21 ladies present. Mrs. McCracken welcomed the members and five visitors, after which two verses of a hymn were read in unison. Mrs Stuart Galletly ably conducted the devotional, the theme of which was Thanksgiving. Hospital and house calls were reported during roll call.

Many gifts were brought in to be sent to the Shoppers' Fair (Mental Health).

Among matters decided during the business meeting were, the purchase of a Layette to be sent to the McDougall Indian Mission, a Christmas gift of $10 to the UCW Korean Foster Child, and the purchase of Mission Study packages for the CGIT and Explorer groups. Eighteen Bibles were bought for Sunday School scholars advanced from the Junior class from primary. Three members will convene a wedding reception in November.

A most interesting film strip dealing with a brief history of Christianity in Canada, was shown by Mrs. Lewis.

Crop Report Shows Good Average Grades

All areas of Western Canada harvested at least 90 per cent No. 3 Northern wheat or better, according to Grade Inspectors with United Grain Growers.

If samples submitted so far are truly representative of the 1966 wheat crop, the quality is the best since 1961. UGG inspectors said the predominant grade is "a very good No 3 Northern". Last year, only 51 per cent of the crop graded No. 3 Northern or better.

Saskatchewan's crop, estimated at close to 340 million bushels is grading the best: 85 per cent of the samples have been grading No. 3 Northern or better Approximately 85 per cent of Manitoba's wheat and 65 per cent of Alberta's wheat has been grading No. 3 Northern or better

Barley samples have also been grading well, with over 95 per cent grading 1 Feed barley or higher. Alberta normally produces about half the barley in Western Canada and 90 per cent of the crop in southern Alberta and the Peace River area has been grading 1 Feed or better.

Most of the oats grown in Western Canada are fed to livestock on the farms but, of the samples submitted for sale through the elevators, the majority are grading 1 Feed oats on account of green kernels.

Manitoba produces over one-third of the prairie flax crop, and samples from both Manitoba and Saskatchewan have been grading 1 C.W. Most of the flax in Alberta is grading 2 C. W. A considerable number of the samples from southern Manitoba are grading Rejected 1 C. W. flax on account of Lady's Thumb, a weed seed that is very hard to clean from flax.

About 75 per cent of Manitoba and Saskatchewan rapeseed is grading 1 Canada Rapeseed and 25 per cent 2 C. R. Almost 95 per cent of the rapeseed in Alberta, which grows almost half the prairie crop is grading No. 1 Canada.

All samples of fall rye from Manitoba, Saskatchewan an dthe Peace River area of Alberta are grading 3 C. W. or higher. The rye in southern and Northern Alberta is grading 99 per cent 3 C. W. or higher.

FALL WILD OAT CONTROL

Many farmers have expressed interest in the control of wild oats with a fall application of chemical.

Diallate (Avadex) has now been registered for fall application on fields to be seeded to flax and Triallate (Avadex BW) for use on fields to be seeded to barley and wheat. Application to land to be sown to wheat was not recommended last year.

APPLICATION OF CHEMICAL

— Apply not earlier than 2 weeks before freeze-up, about the end of October.

— A good seed bed must be prepared with a minimum of lumps and trash. Use summerfal l o r fields — Apply at the rate of 1 1/4 pounds of Active Ingredient per acre in 5-10 or more gallons of water.

— Incorporate immediately after spraying to a depth of 2 to 2 1 2 inches by either shallow disking or double harrowing.

— Spring cultivation if needed must not be deeper than the 2 to 2 1 2 inches.

— Plant Wheat and Barley below the depth of the chemical — about 3" deep.

— This will cost about $4.25 per acre at the above rate which the Department is recommending.

— Stubble fields tend too much trash for proper incorporation of Avadex resulting in poor wild oat Control.

GREEN ACRES

Baptist Church

Rev. Nethercott was in charge of the Sunday services. It was good to have many visitors in attendance for the Thanksgiving services. Soloists for the day were Mrs. Lillian Eastman and Mrs. Betty Gordash with Lauries Semeniuk at the organ, and Sybil Williams and Doris Sorensen as pianists. Next Sunday will be "pulpit exchange" Sunday throughout the Conference and Ukrainian Churches.

Choir practise was held this week with seventeen in attendance and Rev. Nethercott directing.

The regular young peoples meeting was held on Friday night at the home of Mr and Mrs. Gordash with twenty young people in attendence. The young people are making it a practise to have a quiz from the chapter in the Bible that the sermon for the previous Sunday's message was based on. This Friday's quiz will be taken from Matthew 6.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Where will you spend eternity? This question comes to you and me! Tell me, what shall your answer be?

CROP INSURANCE ASKED

Fred Warner, both of Forestburg.

Coun. E. Steadman advised the council that he was still investigating a site for a motor grader shed in Alliance.

Mayor Bailey and the Town Secretary-treasurer council and requested the granting of a strip 1320 feet deep on each side of the access road from Highway 13 into Town, in addition to the land already approved for annexation. It was moved and passed that this request be granted subject to the approval of the land owners concerned.

The Local Authorities Board approved the separation of the S.W. 14-45-16 and the portion of the N-S government road allowance bordering the west boundary of the quarter, from the Town of Daysland and annexing it to the M D Flagstaff, as of Dec. 31, 1966. This approval was accepted by council

A delegation from Daysland met with council presenting a request from the Daysland Local of the FUA, asking the M.D. to make application to the Alberta Crop Insurance Board for crop insurance in the M D Flagstaff for the year 1967. After some explanations and discussion it was moved and passed by council that the M D apply to have the Municipality of Flagstaff brought under the Crop Insurance scheme for 1967.

Another delegation from Daysland requested council to give permission for the Town to have average cross the road between sections 8 and 9-45-16 and thence by open ditch to the Halstead Drainage District ditch, and from there on into Dried Meat Lake. It was explained to the delegation that in order for anyone to run an open ditch of any kind closer than 100 feet to the road allowance would be required to get permission from the Minister of Highways, under terms of the Public Highway Act.

Mr Graham, road foreman, met with council informing that with favorable weather two weeks will see the completion of the 1966 road work schedule It was agreed that if no further work developed the rock camp would be closed down at the completion of the schedule

Advice was received from the Communal Property Board that permission had been granted to the Hutterian Brethren of South Bend to purchase the SE quarter of 36-39-12 and the SW of 35-39-12, containing 320 acres more or less. The copy of the permit was filed.

The Dept of Highways advised that the re-construction of the substructure on the bridge at 17-45-13 would have to be left until 1967. They requested council to place the construction on their 1967 list of requests. It was passed that the Dept be advised that the new construction should be four foot wider than the previous bridge located at this place.

A copy of a letter from the Forestburg Consolidated School District to the Minister of Education, with respect to the Mobile Equipment Licensing Act, and their efforts to have the interpretation of it changed, was read and filed.

Letter from the office of the Attorney General advised the council that subsidization paid by the Provincial Government for any Municipal District Police force, was in the amount of $5000 per annum, but this was payable only to M. D's with a population of not more than 1500 people, pending the availability of RCMP personel to take over the policing of the M.D. concerned.

Preliminary route maps were received from Canadian Utilities Ltd. showing proposed power lines to serve members of the Alliance East REAL, along with the resolution authorizing construction of the lines, was approved as to those lines appearing in red only Preliminary plans of proposed extensions to serve members of the Hardisty REA received from the Farm Electric Service, were approved as to those lines appearing on the said plan in red only.

It was moved and passed that a letter be forwarded to the Minister of Public Welfare, requesting him to arrange for the assumption of the duties, responsibilities and functions imposed upon the M D., as provided for in sub-section 1, Section 93 of the Child Welfare Act.

A letter from D. E. Mills, Chief Provincial Assessor, contained a report on the general re-assessment in the Flagstaff M D done by Harrison and Associates was read. Assessment had been carried out in substantial conformity with the Assessment Act and the rules and regulations in the manual. It was passed that the assessment be accepted

The Dept. of Lands and Forests will provide aerial photos to the scale of 2640 feet to the inch at no cost to the M D provided it is used for annual or general assessment. The Dept. is to be notified that the photo is required for the annual assessment in 1967.

A letter was received from Killam School Division advising the council that the Board had passed a resolution at a Sept. meeting, to "Postpone the building of the Divisional Office until after the Plebiscite." In view of the M.D. offer to build a joint office.

Some discussion ensued with respect to the holding of the plebiscite, the building of the new office and matters concerning the formation of a county. The council as a whole and the Sec. will be a committee to formulate plans for the building of a new office, and ways and the means of financing.

After discussion on road signs, it was agreed that the main thoroughfare was the cost of keeping a crew to maintain the signs necessary to sign all roads. The matter will receive further study.

By-law No. 389 was passed, for the purpose of authorizing grants.

The amendments to the Municipal Districts Act at the last session of the Alberta Legislature, were discussed briefly.

The meeting adjourned at 1:30 A. M., to meet again on Oct. 13th

double your money with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series
Centennial Series Canada Savings Bonds offer you their highest interest yield ever—5.68% a year when held to maturity.
The new Bonds pay annual interest at the rate of 5% for each of the first four years; 5½% for each of the next three years; 5¾% for the following year and 6% for each of the last five years—a total of $767.43 in interest on every $100 Bond.
And for the first time, there is a special compound interest option. To take full advantage of it, leave all the annual interest uncollected until Nov. 1, 1970, and you will get interest on your interest, amounting to $97.75 extra on every $100 Bond.
It all adds up to total interest of $180 on every $100 Bond. It's a safe, sure way to save. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series.
This Series retains all the traditional features which make Canada Savings Bonds Canada's most favoured investment.
They are still easy to buy for cash or on instalments where you work, bank or invest.
You may buy as little as $50 or as much as $10,000. Every Canadian resident may buy up to this limit. So can estates.
They are still simple to cash, anytime, at any bank in Canada for their full face value plus earned interest. Just fill out the redemption form on the Bond, present it to your bank and you'll get your money right away.
And now they're better than ever to keep with the highest interest yield ever and interest on interest. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series.

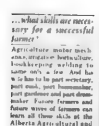
Have you ever wondered...



...what skills are necessary for a successful farmer?

Agriculture motor mechanics, practical horticulture, bookkeeping nothing to some one's a few. And he who has to be part secretary, part cook, part businessman, part gardener and part mechanic. Future farmers and future wives of farmers can learn all these skills at the Alberta Agricultural and Vocational Colleges at Olds, Vermilion and Fairview. In addition to courses which teach the skills and knowledge required for a career in farming or a related occupation, the Colleges also offer high school academic studies and commercial courses. During the 1965-66 school term, 536 students attended the three Colleges and this is expected to increase to 703 during the present school year.

...how being a good technical or vocational student can help you with the finances?

Being at the top of the class means more than honor and glory to students enrolled in the Alberta Institutes of Technology or the technical or vocational section of an approved Junior College It means money. On the basis of need, all students in these institutions are eligible to apply for loans up to $1,000 under the Canada Students' Loan Plan and or the Alberta Students' Assistance Act through the Students' Assistance Board of the Alberta Department of Education. A student who stands in the top quarter of his class may have up to $400 of his loan converted to a grant. Those in the second quarter, up to $200. The successful system of grants is also in effect at the Alberta Agricultural and Vocational Colleges. Students at the Provincial institutions can win prizes up to $50 for high academic achievement as well.

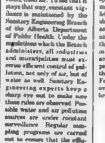
...what keeps Alberta air so clean?

As much a part of Alberta as mountains and prairies is clean, fresh air. To see that it stays that way, constant vigilance is maintained by the Clean Air Engineering Branch of the Alberta Department of Public Health. Under the regulations which the Branch administers, all industries and municipalities must exercise efficient control of pollutants, not only of air, but of water as well. Sanitary Engineering experts keep a sharp eye out to make sure these rules are observed. Portable water and air pollution sources are under constant surveillance Regular sampling programs are carried out to ensure that the effluents released to the air and to the rivers are kept within the approved limits and that the quality of the air and water is maintained at a good standard.

...how Alberta can have its forests and cut them, too?



Although lumber productions in the Province is increasing every year, the "green gold" of Alberta's forests is NOT being depleted, thanks to the sustained yield policy maintained by the Forest Management Branch of the Alberta Forest Service, Department of Lands and Forests. Simply speaking, "sustained yield" means that, for every tree felled, one, and every tree should replace the original and that the yearly cut in any area should not exceed the yearly growth. To assist in maintaining forest growth and to help ensure a perpetual supply of timber for the Province, the Alberta Forest Service has planted over one million tree seedlings in the past few years.

...how there are fewer accidents at highway intersections in Alberta these days?

The answer's easy. Because there are fewer highway intersections, and the Planning Branch of the Alberta Department of Highways is working continuously to decrease the number still remaining. Elimination of private direct access to highways, and the replacement of public access roads by interchanges, not only bring greater safety for the motorist but also prolongs the life of the highway and increases its capacity Access control is just one way in which the Planning Branch fulfills its basic function, to ensure the maximum return to Albertans for each dollar invested in highway development.

...how you could turn back the clock and buy an unwise purchase?

Albertans who used to regret their buying in haste from a door-to-door salesman now have four days in which to ponder the wisdom of their action before being committed to a sales contract. Anytime within 96 hours after signing the contract, the purchaser can cancel it, under the terms of the Alberta Direct Sales Cancellation Act The contract can be cancelled within a year if delivery is not made within 30 days of the date specified, or 120 days of the date of purchase if no date is specified. The same privilege applies if the seller was not properly licensed when he made the sale. If a cancellation notice brings no results, the purchaser may lay his claim in writing before the Alberta Minister of Industry and Development through the Licensing Division. The Direct Sales Cancellation Act does not apply to transactions where the goods are delivered and prices paid on the spot.

Does Killam NEED A FABRIC STORE?

Well, whether it does or not, it's got one, with a beautiful selection of fabrics, and prices lower and more competitive than in the city. (Yes, even the catalogue can't touch prices or service).

But, due to everybody busy with harvest and the busy summer months, I am beginning to think that Killam does NOT need a Fabric Store.

Why don't YOU come in — take advantage of the bargains — or just say hello, bringing along this Ad and Thursday Collecting a Free Package of Sewing Machine Needles.

This will be your way of showing me that Killam indeed DOES need a Fabric Store.

The Bible Today

One thousand Gospels are being supplied free by the Bible Society each week in Saigon for free distribution in a new program called "New Life Handouts." Each week, relief food is supplied to two different hamlets, and a Scripture portion is given with each bag of food.

The Bible Society Secretary, the Rev. Edward Cline, a Canadian, accompanies officials in charge of the programs and writes "I have an opportunity to explain to the crowd of several hundred people that the book is part of the Bible, and briefly introduce the book. Later, as small groups are gathered around gossiping, I take the opportunity to open the Gospels and briefly explain the message."

The demand for Scriptures in Vietnam continues to increase. Distribution in the last quarter of 1965 totaled more than that of the previous months of the year. Circulation for the first six months of 1966 shows consistent increase.

Despite all the difficulties, the colporteurs are continuing faithfully in their work. Because of the tension under which the people are living, there is reported to be a greater openness to the Gospel than ever before.

* The wedding is most commonly bands of jute, but sometimes of cord or rubber. The tighter it's stretched and the smaller the interstices, the better the quality of the chair

* The springs prevent sagging and add resilience. Coil springs of carbon steel are used in most better-grade furniture. Flat zig zag springs appear in "thin line" styles, where bulk must be avoided.

Try to feel the springs through the dust cover-there should be at least eight per seat; twelve is preferable.

* The filling, or stuffing, tops the springs. Look for a label listing the contents. This is required by law.

Goosedown and feathers are found in expensive chairs Rubberized or curled hair, often combined with cotton felt is common in medium-priced units. Rubber foam in varying qualities is also employed, and sometimes kapok. The filling should be covered with a tightly woven cloth attached to the frame.

The RED X Means TIME TO RENEW

1908 — FIFTY-EIGHTH YEAR — 1966 SEDGEWICK, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20TH, 1966 Volume 57 — Number 23

ROUND THE END — Central High Quarterback, David Tavlen (No. 7) carries the ball around the left end for a first down. Coming across the field to try and hold off the Camrose defenders are, Garry Swainson (56) and Gordon Muirhead (16). Rams at Camrose this coming Saturday, and on October 29th will play their last home game against Lutheran College.

KILLAM C.W.L. WILL GIVE XMAS GIFTS—

KILLAM — The October meeting of the Killam CWL was held last Thursday evening in the R.C. Parish Hall, with Mrs Vera Kehnderer as the hostess Eighteen members and 1 visitor attended Reports were given from the various committees. Some 100 pounds of clothing was sent to the Marian Centre last month. A vegetable shower for the Marian Centre was held, with the vegetables to be left at the Red and White Store.

A short discussion was held on Mental Health, and it is hoped to have more information on it at a later date as it can be discussed more fully. The next intention for the month of October was for Thanksgiving

Miniature cribs are to be ordered again this year for the patients in the General and Auxiliary Hospitals, for Christmas. It was also decided to give every Catholic family a calender this year from the C. W. L.

Three ladies were elected to help with picking the colors and the fixtures for the church.

Mrs. R. Manning read a short note on the need for education for our youth. Mrs. E. Hauser won the attendance prize

The meeting was brought to a close by the reciting of the Rosary, followed by a lunch served served by Mrs. Ted Milko and Mrs. R. Manning and Mrs. V. Kehnderer.

1 Home Game Left For Central Rams

SEDGEWICK —There is only one more chance for Sedgewick fans to watch the Central High Rams play at home this season. That will be on Saturday, October 29th, when Camrose Lutheran College takes on the Rams at Recreation Park.

Even though the Central team has lost both its home games this fall, they are playing a good brand of ball which the fans enjoy.

Last Saturday Wetaskiwin defeated the Rams 30 to 0 in the second game played at Sedgewick and the score doesn't fairly represent the type of play in the game, as the Rams a number of times put together a series of good plays but each time the drives fell apart on the ten of fifteen yard line.

Rams were able to complete a number of pass plays, and moved the ball on the ground for several good gains, in fact the team was a block But when many farmers started harvesting they found their crops were much better han estimated. Yields have been so high in many areas which forty-five bushels per acre, with the majority grading No. 2 or 3 at the elevators.

This has been a record year for Canadian farmers, with the largest wheat crop in history, and the local district appears to have been right in tune with the rest of the country.

TO FORM SKI CLUB

KILLAM — An excellent hill for skiing has been found. Now all that is needed is a Ski Tow and a Ski Club. All those interested in skiing and in forming a ski club are asked to attend a short organizational meeting at the Fire Hall in Killam, Thursday evening, October 20th at 7:30 p.m

One highlight at the meeting will be a display and explanation of the modern safety harness Everyone, young and old, from near and far, are invited. This is a family apart. so bring the whole family

Centennial Workshop Held In Hardisty School Gym

HARDISTY — A Centennial Workshop was held in the school gym on Tuesday evening. While the attendance was not as large as hoped for, it was a most interesting and enthusiastic meeting.

Films were shown of the Charlottown Celebration in 1964 and also slides showing a few projects under way. The speaker outlined the path to be taken by the Centennial Caravan, which will be in Hardisty on October 18, 1967.

The meeting broke up for discussion groups, while enjoying coffee and doughnuts. Many ideas were put forward and it was decided to ask the co-operation of surrounding districts in receiving the Caravan. Mr. Len Anderson was appointed as Centennial Chairman.

A number of Centennial souvinirs were shown and Centennial flags presented to those who had arranged the meeting.

LACOMBE NEWSPAPERMAN NEW C.W.N.A. PRESIDENT

Tom Ford of The Lacombe Globe was elected president of the Alberta weekly newspapers association for 1966-67, succeeding George Meyer of the Taber Times.

Mr Ford, 46, has been connected with the newspaper business since his father, the late H. J. Ford took over The Globe in 1938.

Vice-president is Lou Drouin of the St. Paul Journal, and second vice-president Ashley Cooper of the Vermilion Standard.

Directors are Bob Munro of the Vulcan Advocate, Howard Bowes of the Leduc Representative, Dave Heniesz of the Pincher Creek News, and Ave Eastly of the Sedgewick Community Press.

AWNA officials at their annual convention returned Miss Evelyn Rogers of the Athabasca Echo as secretary, and Jack Parry of the Rimbey Record as treasurer.

Local Harvesting Near Completion

Harvesting of wheat in the M.D Flagstaff, which has been plagued with poor weather for most of the fall, is now nearing completion

There are some notable exceptions, mainly the extreme southern and northern areas of the district where the harvest has been continuously delayed, and in many cases just getting well underway

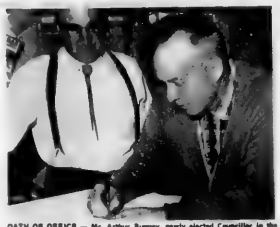
Farmers along both sides of Hiway 13 have had almost all their wheat in the bins for the past week or two and have been busy completing the hauling of feed and fall cultivation before winter sets in

On the Northern edge of the M D. the harvest is also estimated to be about half done at the weekend. with very few days needed to bring it to completion.

It is the areas from East of Alliance through Galahad and Forestburg to Heisler along the Battle River that has suffered the greatest delay in harvesting, and many farmers in this area have only gotten started in the past week The trouble with crops in the last days are so short the grain isn't drying One farmer told the Press that he is combining his wheat when it is testing 17 and 18 simply because he is afraid to wait any longer.

Farmers who were able to complete a number of pass plays, and moved the ball on the ground for several good gains, in fact the team was a block But when many farmers started harvesting they found their crops were much better han estimated. Yields have been so high in many areas which forty-five bushels per acre, with the majority grading No. 2 or 3 at the elevators.

This has been a record year for Canadian farmers, with the largest wheat crop in history, and the local district appears to have been right in tune with the rest of the country.



OATH OF OFFICE — Mr. Arthur Bussey, newly elected Councillor in the M. D. of Flagstaff, signs the Oath of Office which officially makes him a member of the Council. Reeve George Matthews watches the signing.

Can You Top This

Potatoes have had it At least we haven't seen any new challenges to last week's entry

That being the case we will shift the activity to other forms of garden produce

To start it off we have on display in the office a turnip which weighed in at 25 1/2 pounds—right some one. It was brought in by Carol and Karen Simpson, daughters of Mr and Mrs Harvey Simpson. The Editor had to carry it in as the two girls were still tagged out from excavating Mrs Simpson told us the turnip was raised in the Lougheed district and is almost willing to bet it can't be topped by the huge Jerrie arises in the country. How about that?

Held a' Tuesday morning, and in walks our old friend Frederick Kruetsch with a potato grown over in Killam His smile was as big as the spud, which weighed 4 3 4 Lbs with just a smidgen to spare. This one now tops the spud derby. Sorry Lougheed.

Fred no sooner left the office (chuckle and all) when in came Mrs. Bert Parsons of Hardisty. She admitted her potatoes were not the biggest, but laid claim to the best variety and variation in the non-irrigated hinterlands of Alberta. She had with her three potatoes which were the closest resemblance to the Three Bears in vegetable form we've ever seen. She had others too shaped like Peklcans and Indian tools. along with a big cabbage consisting of the main vegetable, and adorned with twelve other wee cabbages around the entire outside. She even recited the old story about the Pelican If you don't know it. drop around and we'll recite it for you

Killam Curlers Install Heating

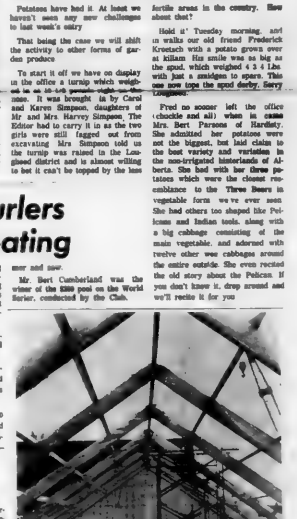
KILLAM — The Killam Curling Club will blast off the 1966-67 season with a newly installed heating system. Before the start of curling, [illegible] a mixed curling feature one night a week, will be features of the Killam Club this season.

Activities are expected to kick-off on November 7th with a Mixed Spiel.

To really get the season underway, a pre-season Smorgasbord and dance will be held in the Elks Hall on November 4th.

A work bee is set for October 30 (that's tonight) and you are invited to come out along with your hammer and saw.

Mr. Bert Cumberland was the winner of the $300 pool on the World Series, conducted by the Club.



UP SHE GOES — The new St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church which is being built in Killam, was rising very rapidly last week. Here the workmen, with the assistance of the crane (just visible at upper right), were erecting the beams and timbers which will support the roof. Two days later a large portion of the roof was already in place. An idea of the size of the building can be gained from comparing it to the workmen at the North end of the church.

U.N. Club Again Operating

SEDGEWICK — After a very successful year's term, CENUNAS, the Central High School United Nations Association of Students is once again in full swing.

Last year CENUNAS was very active. Mr George Rife of the Edmonton Journal was invited to speak twice, the first time showing slides and speaking on his visit to Red China, and the second on his trip to India. Also last term CENUNAS held its annual Security Council. Delegates from Sedgewick, Alliance, Forestburg & Camrose Composite discussed world problems using strict United Nations procedure, under the capable guidance of Mr. Stein of the Forestburg High School. The Anglican Ladies catered to two delicious meals, and the day was completed with a dance in the school gym. To all of these functions the general public was invited.

Then during the Easter holidays, a number of our members spent 3 days in Edmonton attending a General Assembly sponsored by the Edmonton and District United Nations Assn. of Students. The experience was enjoyed very much by all who attended. Also CENUNAS members held a bake sale in the school corridors in an effort to obtain funds We all feel that the entire year was very interesting and rewarding.

This year too, we are full of new plans. We are contemplating joining the Canadian United Nations Assn., from which we will receive informative pamphlets on United Nations affairs Also the Club has organized a corner in the school library where this information and newspaper clippings can be put.

Our first real venture will be a Hunger Supper, held on Oct. 20th, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m in the gym. The public will be served meagre portions of tea, crackers and rice. Proceeds will be given to the Forestburg High School United Nations to be used to build a school in India. Following the supper, Ron Bendiere will show slides & speak on his trip to the United Nations in New York. Coffee and doughnuts will conclude the evening.

As staff adviser and general problem-solver to the club, we are again have Mr. Wold. We all feel very fortunate to have this most capable assistance. As for me, we feel at times that there would be no CENUNAS.

The 1966-67 executive is:

Pres., Eunice Livingston; Vice Don Erickson; Sec., Joan York; Treas., Carol Schmidt; Programme Con., Ron Routledge; Information Con., Jack Hilbert; Publicity Con., Marlene McClements, Social Con., Sandy Smart.

Please come out and support our Club. Help us to make this term ever more successful than the last.

Know Your Canada!

Next year Canada celebrates the 100th anniversary of nationhood, for it was in 1867 that the Union of the Province of Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were united as the Dominion of Canada. In the same year Upper and Lower Canada were made separate provinces and named Ontario and Quebec.

Actually Canada has had a colorful history and it is quite probable that few Canadians are familiar with it to any great extent. For instance did you know that on June 24th, 1497 John Cabot landed on the East coast of Canada and for so doing was rewarded by King Henry with a grant of ten pounds? In 1534 Jacques Cartier landed at Gaspe and claimed the land for France. In 1535 he visited an Indian village on the site of the now Quebec City and gave Canada its name when he mistook the Indian word Kanata. So Canada got its name.

In 1583 Sir Humphrey Gilbert visited Newfoundland and proclaimed English sovereignty of it. This was England's first overseas colony and the start of a British Empire. In 1608 Quebec City was founded by Champlain. In 1610-11 Hudson explored Hudson Bay and James Bay, and the first white child was born in 1613.

The first schools were opened in 1616 on the site of the present city of Three Rivers. The first colonist arrived in 1617 at Quebec, a Frenchman named Louis Hebert, and in 1621 a code of laws was issued, and the register of births, deaths and marriages were required; Canada became the world's only country that has had continuous recording of births for more than 5 centuries.

Newspapers have been around a long time in Canada too, as the first paper, the Halifax Gazette was published in 1752.

The West was opening up too and first wheat grown in the west was in 1754 at Carrot River, Saskatchewan. In 1795 the Pacific Coast of Canada was ceded to Britain by the Spaniards, and the following year, 1800 the Rocky Mountains were crossed by David Thompson.

We had a lot of trouble here in Canada during later years, but we've brought you up to 1800 and will leave the rest for a later date.

The Sleeping Farmer!

If the model of a tactor developed by the Department of Engineering at the University of Alberta ever becomes a common working model on Western Canadian farms, we can see the western farmer becoming known as the sleeping farmer.

Dr. MacHardy and his assistants have developed a tactor model that not only will driveitself over a pre-arranged path, but will bring itself back to the path automatically if forced off the route by hitting a stone or some other object. The tractor will operate on information stored in a special purpose computer. A tape is fed into the tractor drive system and will tell the steps the tactor is supposed to perform, and it will autometically drive back and forth across the field in response to its instructions. It's a pretty complicated affair but it is predicted that such tractors will be common on farms by 1980, and one man could handle half a dozen of these tractors on one farm.

It looks as though the "gentleman" farmer may yet become the real thing. All he has to do is set the machine in motion from a bed-side push button and go back to sleep. He could even spend his time in town around the coffee shop with the rest of the gossipers, for after all his wife could handle the push button and clean up the back forty by the time he gets home for lunch. Yep, a great day for the gentleman farmer may be just around the corner.

Highway Centennial Project!

In the belief that visitors to Canada or to other provinces during the centennial year, most of them travelling by road will form impressions of the nation or the provinces by the way they are treated, the Canadian Highway Council plans to sponsor a nation-wide centennial project called 'HOSPITALITY ON THE HIGHWAY". Basically designed to reduce the number of deaths, injuries and accidents, the project will urge every motorist to think of himself in the role of host and treat visiting motorists as guests, throughout 1967.

CHSC believes a guest judges a host by his hospitality. Since most centennial visitors, either from outside Canada or from within, will travel by automobile, the Council points out they must be made welcome on the highway. With some 30,000,000 visitors expected next year, the Council will try to impress all Canadians with the need for sincere, thoughtful hospitality. "We will ask everyone who drives a vehicle in Canada to exercise constant, sincere courtesy and thoughtfulness, to go out of his way to fill his real role as a host to the visiting guests," commented P. J. Farmer, Council's executive director. "Plans are under way to try to reach every motorist with the urgent need to drive to the best of his ability, and to see that every other motorist does the same. One inhospitable driver could ruin the impression of Canada or the province taken home by the visitor who, normally would lose no time in spreading the word. Conversely, a good impression, gained through courtesy on the road, could result in far-reaching good will to the nation and the province."

Mr. Farmer added, "A wave of hospitable driving can certainly have a beneficial effect on the way Canadians drive and reduce the number of highway accidents. Besides, a year of courteous, careful motoring would instill safe-driving habits that would carry over for many years."

Mr. Nick Melnychuk who, a few years ago was the Jeweller at Sedgewick, and now resides at Beaverlodge, Alberta, usually manages to find a few minutes to drop into the office when he is "down south" on holidays. This time, however, we have received his subscription renewal by mail. Nick sent us a check for $2.80 along with the following note: "Don't know the price of the Press but am sending $2.80. If too much please send the rest back: if not enough, grin and bear it." We'll let you get away with the penny Nick, but next time you're "down south", you are going to get stuck for a round of coffee

Customers have been called any number of things by clerks and salesmen, and once in a while they come up with new descriptions. Here's a few by a salesman:

A person with one wife. 3-3-7 children. 1-1-8 autos, and several hundred dollars in debts.

One who reads consumer guides, listens to salesmen, and buys what his husband-in-law recommends.

The sport who spends $180 to go on a goose-shoot and wonders why his electric light bill is 14c higher than last month.

The Letter Box

Dear Sir:

First of all I wish to thank you for publishing the letter in respect to railway employees.

Regarding hostilities in which the U.S. is involved, it would seem as though their government has assumed a dictatorial rather than a helpful attitude. It hardly seems fair to American boys to go and fight to protect some millionaires ideas and investments. Supposing military service be placed on a voluntary basis for such areas. Sincerely, A Canadian Citizen.

THE WHY AND WHEREFORES

EVERY EDITOR we have known at some time or another gets called down by some individual who is incensed with a report that appears in his paper. In the past 30 years of working on newspapers, we have undergone this experience many times and we still don't like it.

We don't like being buttonholed on the street or in public by people who who have an axe to grind; nor do we like people phoning us to "give the editor hell."

The proper method of doing this is to write a letter to the editor with authority for us to publish the complaint. If we think we are wrong, we certainly publish a retraction.

After all, our version of news is printed in this paper so that there can be no denying what we state. That is the strength and weakness of the printed word. Unlike verbal blast, it is there it be checked and rechecked.

If we can stick out our neck in this manner for the whole world to judge, then surely individuals with complaints can do the same. Then we are not pounding at what they said to the best of the memory, and they, in turn, will win our regard.

The cause of this editorial is due to a person demanding to know our sources of information. This is one thing that we feel is strictly between ourselves and the party or parties furnishing it. We refuse to compromise this policy. Information is often given to us in confidence; we will continue to respect the privacy of those who furnish it.

As we said before, if we are proven wrong, we will hasten to correct errors Until then, we will accept and print stories from the best information at hand. —The Bassano Times.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Nine Robed Judges

OTTAWA — On any ordinary day there is little human drama in the panelled rooms of the Supreme Court of Canada.

The nine robed judges sit in solemn authority, hearing appeals from lower courts. There is little of the air of the ordinary courtroom, where every day human rights and dreams and human folly are compressed within the framework of law.

But early in October, all that was changed.

The Supreme Court opened an historic review of the case of Steven Truscott, and the world rushed in.

There were witnesses in the dock, live demonstrations, high strategy by opposing counsel, tough, incisive examination and cross-examination, bursts of anger and tension.

This unprecedented review by the Supreme Court of Canada has not yet been completed. But by Christmas Steven Truscott should know whether or not his last appeal has paid off, whether he'll be a free man, or whether he'll continue serving a life sentence for the rape and murder of 13-year-old Lynne Harper, near Clinton, Ont. in June 1959.

This is a chance not many convicted murderers get. Steven Truscott was convicted in 1959, sentenced to death for the crime.

He appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada, and the appeal was dismissed. He appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada, and the appeal was refused. His death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment in January 1960, and he has been serving that sentence ever since.

We have it on the authority of the then Prime Minister, John Diefenbaker, that had Steven Truscott been 19 or 20 in 1959, instead of 14, he would not be alive today to plead his innocence before the Supreme Court of Canada. The death sentence would have been carried out.

This fact alone gives point to the revival of the Steven Truscott case seven years after the event.

It was the publication of a book by Mrs. Isabel Lebourdais this year, and mounting public concern that Steven Truscott may not have received a fair trial, that led the Government to act.

The Government asked the Supreme Court, in effect, to review the whole case, receive whatever new evidence was available, and deliver a judgment.

That out off a determined effort to prove that Steven Truscott, who has always protested his innocence of the horrible crime, is really innocent.

At the same time the Ontario Attorney General's Dept., while equally determined not to condemn an innocent man, set out to prove that the trial was fair and that the convicting evidence was valid.

The Government, which made it clear from the beginning that the Truscott family would not be financially responsible for defence costs at the Supreme Court hearing, has spared no expense.

Arthur Martin, probably Canada's top criminal lawyer, is acting as Truscott's chief counsel. Defence witnesses, medical experts have been brought in from London, the United States, and many parts of Canada.

During the hearing of evidence in early October, the defence made every effort to support Steven Truscott's own description of the events on June 9 1959.

Steven himself, testifying for the first time on his own behalf, swore before the nine Supreme Court judges that he was innocent of the crime.

He testified that he had met Lynne Harper shortly after 7:00 p.m. on June 9th, 1959, and at her request, had given her a lift on his bicycle to a highway.

He said he had then returned to a hay bridge from which he had seen Lynne Harper enter a grey, 1950 Chevrolet with yellow licence plates. That was the last time he had seen her.

He himself returned home shortly after 8 p.m. to babysit with the younger children in the family.

This simple reconstruction of events was of supreme significance. Doctors at his trial estimated the time of death of the Harper girl at between 7 and 7:45 p.m. Steven had been seen in her company just before then.

At the Supreme Court hearing defence witnesses with impressive medical qualifications testified that their examination of numerous photos of the body and the autopsy report convinced them she had died much later.

Crown witnesses with equally impressive backgrounds said they were sure she had died within two hours of her last meal, in other words, before 8:00 p.m.

A mass of evidence on the possible time of death, the place of death, and the cause of death, was placed before the Supreme Court. Each side had impressive arguments, impressive witnesses.

Now the judges of the Supreme Court will have to weigh the arguments, assess the evidence, and decide whether one young man was properly or improperly convicted.

At the same time they will be deciding issues central to our legal system. Is there a reasonable doubt about Steven Truscott's guilt? Was he given the benefit of doubt? Or was this slim, unemotional young man demonstrably guilty of a terrible crime? What are the possible margins of error in any legal proceedings, and what are the chances of any person being wrongfully convicted in a Canadian court?

Even our Supreme Court judges may not be able to give all the answers. What is important, however, is that the questions are being asked.

Gerry and Terry Showman and Patty and Billy Gadd, of pre-school age. Six pairs of twins in one town.

There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that I am not alone when I say, "Three cheers and a Tiger, the farm strike is over." That the 30-day strike caused hardships and pain, not only to those who took an active part in it, but also to those who consume farm produce, goes without saying. Now that the entire thing has come to an end, there will be rejoicing in all the camps. It is well.

Alberta Wheat Crop Sets Record

According to the Alberta Wheat Pool's final crop report for the season, harvesting of Alberta's biggest wheat crop in history is now nearing completion. Although progress during the week was limited by general but light rain, and cool cloudy weather, wheat harvesting is now 93 percent completed. This compared with 71 percent completed last week and only 15 percent a year ago. Threshing of coarse grains is also well advanced but flax is only 25 percent completed to date. One week of warm dry weather is required to complete the harvest in the Calgary-Red Deer region and up to two weeks is still needed in the Peace.

The 1966 growing season was one of the best ever experienced in Alberta. Early season moisture conditions were excellent and seeding was finished slightly ahead of the previous year excepting in the Calgary region and regions where excess moisture caused delay. Drought condition began to develop in east-central, north eastern and some Peace River regions, while cool moist weather delayed growth in many other regions.

As the season progressed, southern Alberta was favored with timely rains and the drought was finally broken in central regions but not before permanent damage had been inflicted on the crops. Rains in the drought area brought on heavy weed infestation and second growth but greatly improved crop prospects throughout the region.

A number of districts in the province experienced severe hail damage but the generous rain which generally accompanied the hailstorms allowed most crops to finally recovery.

Warm dry weather during September speeded maturity and permitted rapid progress in harvest operations. Most of the wheat was harvested dry and both yields and grades are above average for Alberta.

Total wheat production in the province is currently estimated at 149,000,000 bushels, surpassing the previous record of 120,700,000 bushels established in 1960. The 1966 crop is as produced on only 4,600, 000 acres as compared to 3,957,000 acres in 1960. Wheat yield this year, is 32.4 bushels per acre, was surpassed only in 1915 when the average was 31.1 bushels per acre The 35 year average is only 20.6 bushels per acre Although yields of oats, barley, flax, rye and rapeseed are all better than they were a year ago, total production of oats and rye are below last year's levels due to a reduction in seeded acreage.

Wheat quality is good. Over 80 percent is grading 2 Northern or better compared to only 39 percent in the top three milling grades last year. A high percentage of the wheat, 44.9 percent, is grading 2 Northern and 4.9 percent, 1 Northern Approximately 65 percent of the oats and 72 percent of the barley, however, is grading feed.

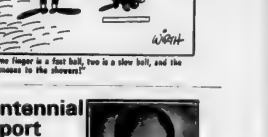
Centennial Report



1867 1967 by JOHN W. FISHER CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

(By John W. Fisher)

For a long time I have been making casual use of the term "birthday party" when talking about our Centennial of Confederation in 1867. Let me warn you one must be careful!

I haven't heard from the Vikings of course but at least one member of every other race scrutinized group which has had pre-Confederation roots in Canada has bent my ear on the subject of the true birth date of Canada. They include English, Scottish, Jewish, Irish, French and American Canadians. They were all here before 1867.

There was a Canada, the argument goes, before Confederation The fact is there was more than one.

When in Newfoundland one also contends that John Cabot discovered Canada. In Quebec the view that Jacques Cartier did, draws considerable support. Nova Scotians and New Brunswickers remind us that Champlain came here before he visited Quebec. Canadians Indiana, of course, can discount the first claims.

Most disputes I have heard are good-natured ones. I am happy to say it is only to a few that I need explain that the "birthday" celebrations next year are to mark the 100th anniversary of the Confederation that made Canada a federal state The period in history when Canada actually was "born" perhaps can only be discussed with any valid logic by geologists and archaeologists — separately of course.)

When that step was taken in 1867 to make Canada a single federal state one of the Fathers of Confederation said, "We are striving to do peacefully what Holland and Belgium, Austria and Hungary, Denmark and German Russia and Poland, could only accomplish by armed force Have we not great cause of thankfulness that we have found a better way? Can the pages of history find a parallel?"

In this world there have been a few other federal states formed. without war, since our Confederation of 1867. Some of the modern examples unfortunately have come apart again.

The birth of our Confederation was an event like no other in history. Confederation has continued successfully for 100 years and the "birthday" to worth celebrating, I'm sure.

SMILEY TAKES HIS STAND

A chap called Richard J. Needham writes a daily newspaper column in Toronto Quality and content range from high-class to hogwash, but it is eminently readable

Needham is not a true humorist, but has a sharp satire sense, a wild imagination, and a clear view of the ridiculousness of many of our mortal, social, political and economic fairy tales

Despite the clear view, he is an incorrigible romantic. a 1966 model Don Quixote who tilts at windmills with a typewriter, forces flowers on strange ladies. and thinks of life and love in capital letters. He's a literary burglar and a believing anticonformist interesting fellow.

But he has a couple of blind spots He hates the educational system and has a blatant contempt for today's young people. Sounds psychological Perhaps he was turfed out of school, or dropped out, or had some rotten teachers. But he despises the whole business.

For him, the educational system is a vast, soul-less monolith, whose sole aim is to crush the spirit of youth, indoctrinate it with all the wrong ideals, and fail to teach it anything about LIFE. He's great on LIFE.

For him, teachers are a bunch of dull clods. whose only desire is to stuff kids with useless information and promptly squelch any signs of initiative or creativity.

For him, modern students are a sorry lot, unadventurous, inarticulate, security-minded and materialistic

Well. I'm here to tell brother Needham it's time he got into the twentieth century. His ideas are pure poppycock.

Sure. the educational system is a vast monolith. What do you do with 6,000,000 kids? Shove them into the streets to learn about LIFE? But it's far from soul-less On the contrary. it's composed of men and women with intelligence, goodwill and understanding, who work tirelessly to improve the system for the benefit of the students.

Sure, teachers are dull clods. Some of them. Just as some doctors, lawyers. ministers and accountants are dull clods. But the great majority work their heads to the bone, shoving, urging, exhorting, encouraging and loading the youngsters to adulthood.

And the students? Are they a soul, bonton crowd, cowed by authority, eager for security, afraid to think for themselves? This is what Mr. Needham, with his Victorian view of schools. would have us believe. Hah!

A few are. But the majority are just the opposite. They are rebellious, daring, adventurous, and just busting to have a whirl at life, as youngsters have been since the time of [illegible]

Right now my son, who is 19. is either hitch-hiking across Canada. on his way home, or headed for Mexico We're not sure. Right now, my daughter who is 15. is belting out folk songs which she wrote herself, to keep her mind off her sore ears She had them pierced yesterday, for earrings

And right now, all over town, 1,200 kids from our high school are ignoring their homework a nd watching TV, or shooting pool, or gassing on the phone or falling in love, or riding motor-cycles They are certainly not cowed by authority, or squelched by the system, or indoctrinated by anything, except human nature.

Don't be naive, Mr. Needham.

Elsie Cameron and John Pellern Wed

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick United Church was the scene of a lovely wedding on August 27th. when Elsie Ruth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cameron of Lougheed became the bride of Mr. John Joseph, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pellern of Sedgewick. Rev. D Lewis officiated at the ceremony.

To the strains of the wedding March, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was beautiful in a full-length gown of organza and taffeta, featuring a shawl collar which bordered a sequin-trimmed lace V-shaped bodice with inserts of satin ribbon. sequin trimmed on front panel of the skirt Her chapel veil was held in place by a coronet of sequin and pearls. She worn an elbow-length pair of gloves and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Bridesmaid was Sandra Miller of Alliance and friend of the bride. who wore a blue chiffon dress with white lace overlay and hem-length chiffon streamers down the back. She carried a nosegay of white feather flowers

Leo Markwart, friend of the groom. was best man. John Cameron, brother of the bride, and Richard Pellern, brother of the groom, were ushers They all wore charcoal suits with white carnations. The wedding music was played by Miss Gwen Armitage. Mrs. Howard Smith sang, "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Cameron chose a matching dress and coat ensemble in blue & white, with white accessories and a corsage of white gladiola. The mother of the groom chose a beige sheath with beige and black accessories, and corsage of white gladiola

A reception for 30 guests was held at the home of the bride's grandparents Mr and Mrs James Cameron. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake made by the bride's mother and beautifully decorated by Mrs. Richard Lowther of Killam It was flanked by a vase of roses grown by Mrs. Melvin Backen of Sedgewick. Edwin Albrecht was M. C. Jen Cameron, brother of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride Leo Markwart proposed a toast to the groom. Mary Lear of Edmonton was in charge of the guest book at the wedding, and for open house which was held at Bellshill school in the evening for friends of the young couple.

For travelling the bride chose a blue boucle dress and jacket, and white accessories with pink corsage. The happy couple will make their home in Sedgewick.

TILLAGE PRACTICES!
Proper cultivation of the land is a major part of good land management. Reasons for cultivation are seed bed preparation. eradication of weeds, moisture conservation, erosion control, land leveling, insect pest control, incorporation of crop residues, improvement of soil structure and increasing soil fertility.
The type of tillage or cultivation most suitable often depends on soil types, crop, time of year and the functions that are to be served. There may even be a conflict between several of these functions. The best tillage practice serves a particular purpose or purposes and is not detrimental in other respects

Alberta's people. Industry needs people . . . trained people . . . to make it go, and skilled labour is vital to industrial progress. To help the supply keep pace with the demand, the Vocational Education Division of the Alberta Department of Education maintains three Vocational Centres for adult training, in Fort McMurray, Edmonton and Calgary Here, people learn their skills industry requires most, and which will allow them to take their proper place in the labour market. To be sure each trainee is in the right trade, each is given personal, skilled counselling before enrolling.

Control Those Wild Oats

A new approach to chemical wild oat control, involving the principle that chemicals applied in the fall are ready to act as soon as weeds start germinating in the spring, now appears to be a possibility.

W. Lobay, Supervisor of Soils with the Alberta Plant Industry Division, reports that diallate (Avadex) has recently been registered for fall application on fields that will be seeded to sugar beets or (flax the following spring. Similarly, triallate (Avadex BW) has been registered for use on fields to be sown to wheat or barley.

Mr. Lobay points out, however, that farmers planning to use this method of wild oat control should do so on a small scale. Although the limited number of fall herbicied applications that have been tried so far in Alberta seem to indicate the method has some possibilities, experience under a particular set of conditions should be the guide.

For example, a fall application of [illegible] recommended on soils which are in good tilth is likely to give better wild oat control than the normal application on a stubble field where there is a fairly heavy trash cover. Applying Avadex in the fall might be needed for fields with low areas where water-runs and potholes make a spring application impossible. A fall application might also be indicated on certain soils which tend to drift in the spring as a result of the amount of work required to break up the large number of clods, formed during the winter. Non-erodable soils where early seeding is desirable is another case where a fall application of Avadex might be considered.

It is questionable whether fall applications should be used on soils which are subject to winter wind erosion. The necessity to prepare a good seed bed with a minimum of lumps and trash before the Avadex is incorporated would make such soils even more prone to erosion. It is also debatable whether a fall application of Avadex would be practical on fields with a heavy trash cover because it is difficult to properly incorporate Avadex uniformly under such conditions. A spring rather than a fall application of Avadex is recommended on fields which have to be worked deeper than following seeds than the 2 to 2 1/2 inch Avadex incorporation depth. Under such conditions the chemical would be diluted to the point where it would be less effective against the wild oats

A fall application of Avadex should not be applied earlier than two to three weeks before freeze-up. In many areas of the province this is towards the end of October. Mr. Lobay suggests using a minimum rate of 1 1 4 pounds of active ingredients per acre for wheat and barley and 1 1/2 pounds for sugar beets and flax. The actual incorporation procedure is the same as that used for a spring application.

IT'S ALL ONE— This many sided potato is actually all one potato. It is a rarity given grown by H. Bjorkon of Killam. How would you like to try peeling that all in one piece?

Determine Value Of Your Seed Grain

The majority of western farmers plant seed that is produced on their own farms, or purchased from a neighbor. Fortunately, most of the grain harvested in the Prairie Provinces this fall will be of good grade and bushel weight. This does not mean, however, that it will make good seed. For instance, grade and bushel weight do not tell how well the grain will germinate. Twenty years experience in the business of testing farmers' stocks of seed-grain has shown that many samples of normal seeds may consist of large, plump kernels of good weight and color, and germinate poorly. In other words, the ability of a grain sample to germinate satisfactorily cannot be determined by proven seed testing methods.

Good Seed Facts. Ability to germinate (grow) and to produce strong, healthy seedlings is the first requirement of good seed. The second major requirement is freedom from smut and other soilborne diseases. Thirdly, good seed must be free, or relatively free, of weed seeds, other crop seeds, and foreign material. In addition, good seed must be true to variety.

Seed Laboratories. The Canada Department of Agriculture (Plant Products Division) maintains Seed Laboratories in Winnipeg, Man. Saskatoon, Sask., and Edmonton, Alta., which test pedigreed seed, and farmers' seed stocks. To serve western farmers, many grain companies operate seed testing laboratories. Our own Seed Laboratory, which has been in operation since 1940, offers a complete seed testing service Again this year it will, without charge, test any farmer's home-grown seed-grain sample for germination, surface-borne smut, and weed seed content. Seed samples may be sent in through any Line Elevator Agent, or directly by the farmer himself. Any grain sample submitted for a seed test should be dry, sound, and truly representative of the seed lot from which it was taken.

Now is the time to determine the seed value of the grain you intend to use for seed purposes in 1967. If it is found that your sample is not satisfactory for seed purposes, you then have time to use your "over the quota" delivery privilege to exchange your home-grown seed for some pedigreed (Registered or Certified) seed. Don't take a chance this year! Have your home-grown seed tested for germination.

Former Hardistyite Mrs. W. Burghardt Passes In U. S. A.

The Community Press received a letter last week from Mrs. A. G. (Lou) Fletcher of Edmonton, relating the death of Mrs. W. A. Burghardt of Richland, Washington. Word came to Edmonton from Zane Carey.

Mrs. Burghardt passed away at the age of 86 years, on September 26th, at Yakima, Washington. She had been living with her daughter Mrs. Earl Carey since her husband passed away several years ago. Her son Exper died two years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss, one daughter, 8 grandchildren, 21 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. Burghardt were old timers of the Hardisty district and formerly lived on the farm now occupied by Lester Metz.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Carey are also old timers of the Hardisty area, as was Mrs. Fletcher (Brettall).

FALL CULTIVATION!

Fall cultivation of stubble is used to control perennial weeds, germinate annuals, control insects & reduce the chances of severe trash cover. In the brown and dark brown soil zones it is recommended that stubble remain standing after cultivation to trap winter snow for the black soil zone this is probably not as important. The stubble, particularly heavy stubbles should be partially incorporated in the top soil by tilling, discing, or cultivating.

Summerfallow fields should receive a late fall cultivation, preferably with wide sweep cultivators to ridge the soil. If this is done across the slope of the land, some protection from winter wind erosion and spring run-off erosion is obtained.

In the brown and dark brown soil thick black zones of the province, straw and fibre is probably better left on the soil surface to protect it from possible winter wind erosion.

Presbyterian Ladies Association Plans To Make Special Centennial Year Study

KILLAM — The Presbyterian Ladies Aass. met at the home of Mrs. Amy Robinson for the Oct. meeting, with eleven members and two visitors answering roll call.

A very interesting Thanksgiving devotional was taken by Mrs. Russ Grant and Mrs. Harold Grant, and opened with hymn 681 and prayer The topic was taken from "Glad Tidings" and dealt with the challenge of today for young people to dedicate their lives in the service of the church. Devotion closed with the Lord's Prayer.

The business meeting opened with roll call followed by reading of minutes. The various reports were given. Visiting committee had a busy month with 48 hospital calls and 3 home calls, also gifts and cards sent. Home Helpers had 12 calls and Welcome and Welfare contacted young people of the church who are now living away from home.

It was decided to order a new study book for the coming Centennial year, dealing with the contribution of the church in the development of Canada. Subscriptions are now being taken for both "Glad Tidings" and the Presbyterian Calendars for 1967.

It was decided to assist the Fraternal Lodge Tea and Bazaar with a donation of food or banaar article from each of our members, to be left at the home of Mrs. Latilla York not later than Thursday the 26th of October.

Meeting adjourned with the Mission Benediction followed by a lovely lunch by Mrs. Robinson & Mrs. McDougall.

Merna Murmers

Mrs. Nels Eldey has returned home after spending two pleasant but busy weeks with her daughter Lyla.

Mr and Mrs. Carl Eckstrand and family motored to Huxley on Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Heer.

We extend our sympathy to Mrs. Dick Bratland in the death of her grandfather, Mr. Saem, of Brownfield. Mrs. Bratland's cousin from Viking plans to be with the children on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Bratland attend the funeral.

Wearing casts on various limbs seems to be the thing to do. Merna boys recently. We see Barry Munro sporting one on his left wrist.

Mrs. Ann Rick, Mrs Dave Taylor, Mrs Bill Anderson, Mrs. Barnard Freeman, Mrs. Mary Anderson, and Mrs. Andy Anderson attended a Dorcas convention at Lacombe on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Sevan & Wade of Camrose were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Addeson.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Simpson visited Mr. and Mrs. Gordan Gartford at Tofield on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Stewart went by air to the West Coast to attend a couple of weeks.

The Baptist Young People's regular meeting was held at the Harry Munro home on Friday night.

Mrs. W. Adamson, Mrs. Emily McKenzie and Mrs. Harvey Simpson accompanied Mr. & Mrs. John Adamson to Camrose Thursday. While there Mrs. Adamson and Mrs. Emily visited Mrs T.W. Swain son who is in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Miller & Doug. of Edmonton visited relatives in the district, including Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ball, Mr. & Mrs Fred Ball and family. Mr. Jim Ball during Thanksgiving weekend.

Roger Reilly has accepted employment at the Collegs Press at Lacombe. Mr. and Mrs. Ron Brown assisted them in moving their household effects at the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Munro took Olive Galletly to the Camrose Hospital on Sunday.

Blaine Sorensen had the misfortune of receiving lacerations to his face and arm by a dog. We hope you soon get patched up and well again Blaine.

Traffic Deaths Increase 12 Percent

Two hundred and forty persons died in the province, to the end of June died in motor vehicle acci- August, reports the Alberta Safety Council. The 240 deaths represent a 12 per cent increase over 1965. During August 53 people lost their lives, an increase of 21 over last August.

The 8-month death list breaks down as follows: R.C.M.P. reported 109 fatalities, an increase of 9. Edmonton City Police 22, up 10; Calgary 17, the same as a year ago; Lethbridge 2, up 1; Medicine Hat 1, down 7; Red Deer 1, up by the same number; Grande Prairie 2, up 2; Fort Saskatchewan reported 3 fatals. Sylvan Lake and Taber 1 each Taber had a death last year. Of the 83 persons killed during August R.C.M.P. reported 16, Edmonton 5, Calgary 4 and Fort Saskatchewan 2.

Accidents have also increased in the same manner as reported. Police have reported a total of 24,695 accidents investigated compared to last year's 21,795. The month of August saw enforcement officers called out to investigate 2,138 accidents, 170 times more than a year ago. President of F.U.A. Blames the Women

The President of the Farmers' Union of Alberta today placed part of the blame for the high cost of food on Canadian housewives l'nul Babey, commenting on the boycott of grocery stores by some eastern housewives, said they are protesting a situation that they had helped bring about.

"Housewives all across Canada are paying dearly for the 'ba maid' service they at best demand and at worst, meekly accept in food preparation, packaging and distribution," he said.

"The convenience of the special pouring spout, the package that has to be re-sealed, the multi colored window packages, the endless variety of brand names, packaged with almost identical contents, the 'free' entertainment for children etc. etc. and the box top premiums, have all become a very costly part of distribution of food

We cannot overlook the part of the high pressure advertising that is being used to market food, or the profit factors in processing and retailing — all of which add to the price to the consumer.

The present high cost of food has certainly not been brough about by the producer, he stated. "In Canada cheap food has been substituted solely by the farmer."

Mr Babey pointed out that because farm prices have not kept pace with rising costs, production of certain food items has been discouraged and some are in short supply.

Mr Babey stated that the spread between the producer price and the consumer price continues to be unrealistic.

He noted that Grade A eggs for which the producer receives 44 cents (and an average of .32c per dozen for all eggs sold) retail for .87c. He pointed out that since eggs are naturally pre-packaged, very little additional packaging is required.

The F.U.A. President suggested four steps toward resolving the food problem, and relieve the pressure on low income families particularly.

1. A Royal Commission inquiry into the Food Industry which would bring to light the reason for the high cost of food as compared to farm prices.

2. De'elopment of a planned policy for Agriculture encouraging fair prices would assure Canadian consumers an abundance and variety of food.

3. Establishment of a department of consumer affairs to regulate advertising, packaging, gimmicks, etc.

4. Consumer education to prevent impulse buying and to enable the consumer to properly evaluate professional advertising.

Wedding Bells League

One of the most thrilling sports in the world is the game of marriage Like baseball, hockey and football marriage is an exciting affair It offers everything — the race, an uncertain hard-fought battle, the big day, the make or break situation, and the period during which the victory is celebrated.

However, to our deep shame, we do not record this sport proper recognition Like the game of lacrosse, marriage is followed only by relatives and close friends. It's time for a change All sports-minded people must rise and insist that marriage be given its niche.

It's not too difficult to imagine how things could be. Some day, one could turn on his TV and witness a sports-cast like this.

"Good evening folks, this is Lloyd Saunders with the latest happenings from the world of sports.

"Well, today was a big day for wedding in Saskatoon, with a total of 15 matches on the agenda. Arising on a tip, I attended the Snodgrass-Schwartz ceremony, and it proved to be an interesting affair.

"The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Schwartz of the City. Mrs. Schwartz is of course better known to sports fans as 'The Beast' her being a former women's provincial wrestling champion. The groom's parents are relatively unknown, making their home, I understand, in Regina.

"A near capacity crowd was on hand in the church and, unlike some attending recent weddings, was quiet and well behaved, there being only a minimum of coughing and sniffling.

"One thing which surprised me was the lack of a shotgun. It's a real treat nowadays to see a wedding go off without the threat of blood being shed. I'm sure some of our older viewers can recall when a wedding of this type was the rule, rather than the exception. I know I can, and in a way, I'm sorry things have changed.

"Nothing but praise goes to the commentators who was responsible for making up the bride Normally a pimple faced, sullen, uncommunicative individual, Miss Schwarts actually looked radiant today. I must lip my hat to the plastic surgeon who did the nose job on the groom. I'm sure the restoration would amaze the bartender at the KG who broke it.

"Following the ceremony, we adjourned to the Maryjoel Cafe where the banquet and wedding dance were held. It wasn't long after the toasts were given, that everyone was feeling high. Speculation that a new record for fights would be set proved unfounded Although things got off to a glorious start, the peace faltered and city police handed away only 35 drunks I think its safe to say that the record of 62 drunk-arrests set last year at a Ukrainian wedding, will stand for quite some time

"Added entertainment was provided by the bride's mother who announced she would accompany her daughter on the honeymoon. The groom must have had a premonition this would happen, as he had a ball dozen of his friends on hand to detain Mrs Schwartz while the happy couple made small escape Hospital officials inform me all six are expected to recover.

"In all, it was very enjoyable entertainment, and I think the future of marriage in Saskatoon is assured.

However, I have one beef. The officiating at the event was, to put it bluntly, lousy. The minister impressed no one with his back-hatro performance, and received a few catcalls after the ceremony. As one disgruntled guest confided in me, 'Even chess offers the fan more.' I think the church board should look into the matter, and tell the minister to produce or else Anyone who has seen or heard evangelist Jack or Flamboyant Fred, to name two good ones, performa marriage ceremony, cannot help but be disappointed when stuck with a cold turkey. The world is full of once great sports centres, dead because people became bored and abandoned them. The fans have the money, elders and the church need it "And now for a rundown of today's major league baseball scores."

5th Annual A.I.C. Awards
Calgary Power is proud to announce 1966 Award Winners

KEITH WRIGHT, Edmonton
Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year.
You'd think one heroic deed a year was enough for any 11-year old boy — but not for our award winner, Keith. Last summer Keith and his friend Kenny Beisel were walking along Mill Creek. Attracted by the cries of some children, they discovered 2-year old Debbie Shulz lying face down in about three feet of water. Keith waded into the water, pulled the child out and handed her to Kenny. After making sure she was breathing, they took her home. The other heroic deed? Last April when Keith was on a Boy Scout hike in the Rainbow Valley area, he courageously used his windbreaker to extinguish a menacing grass fire. The windbreaker was burned, but the fire was put out!
We congratulate Keith and his enterprising friend Kenny, and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.
This is one of a series of Junior Citizen Award announcements. Our special thanks to Mrs. Dalton, Editor of the Beverly Page and to Keith's nominator, Germaine Dalton of Edmonton.

Larry Hiller Married In Edmonton

The Gold Bar Baptist Church in Edmonton was the scene July 21 of a double-ring wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Edith Louise Bioletti and Larry Roland Hiller.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs R John Bioletti of R.R. 1 Red Deer, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland E. Hiller of 5708-106 Ave., Edmonton.

Fan-like bouquets of white gladioli decorated the church for the 2:30 p.m. ceremony performed by Rev W Adams of the Gold Bar Baptist Church.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Allan Sorensen of Calgary. The soloist, Gordon Dickau of Edmonton, sang "Each For The Other" while the couple knelt. Mr. Hugh Phillips of Edmonton, trombonist, played "Saviour Like A Shepherd Lead Us" while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of traditional satin designed with a round neckline and lily point sleeves. The sheath style shirt featured re-embroidered petit-point lace on neck which adorned the waist line and encircled the hem. A billowing train cascaded from the waist and was held in place by a soft bow on each side.

Her pill-box hat, decorated with heavy lace, pearls, and a satin bow on the top, held a four-tiered wide-scalloped veil. Her jewellery was a string of pearls, a gift from the groom. The bride carried a small cascade bouquet of red roses with stephanotis and ivy set on apple leaves.

Miss Gail Hiller, sister of the groom, attended the bride as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Loreen Doell of New Norway and Mrs Ben Bachmann of Delburne.

The attendants were identical floor length sleeveless sheath gowns of pale green peau de soie with pale green nylon crystal long-sleeved overblouses. They wore matching peau de soie pill-box hats with two-tiered nets falling from the back. They carried cascade bouquets of white sheath daisies and their jewellery was caged pearl drops.

The flower girl, Miss Brenda Heth of St. Albert wore a short full-skirted, sleeveless dress of pale green peau de soie with a pale green nylon crystal net, and carried a basket of white sheath daisies. Her jewellery was a caged pearl drop.

Robert Bioletti of Red Deer, brother of the bride, attended the groom as best man. The groomsmen were Allan Sorensen of Calgary, and Doug Munro of Sedgewick. The ring bearer was Master John Paul Giorgini of Edmonton, and the ushers were Daniel Soderburg of Clive, cousin of the bride, and Bryan Lounsbury of Edmonton. All wore black suits and black ties.

The mother of the bride wore a pink embroidered jacket. Her hat was of pink flowers and her accessories were navy. The mother of the groom wore a turquoise dress of combed silk with turquoise lace jacket. Her hat was of turquoise linen and ribbon, and her accessories were beige. Both were corsages of pink sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 115 guests was held at the Beverly Crest Motor Hotel. The toast to the bride was proposed by Larry Heth of St. Albert. Alvon Smythe of Edmonton was master of ceremonies.

Taking part in the musical program were Miss Treva Nelson, Miss Gaye Lounsbury, Miss Carol Charney, Mr. Gordon Dickau, and Mr. Hugh Phillips, all of Edmonton.

The guest book was presented by Miss Shirley Heth of Edmonton. Guests from out of town were from New Westminster, B.C., Calgary, Devercourt, Delburne, Clive, Eckville, Bentley, Sylvan Lake, Red Deer, Lacombe, Sedgewick, Killam and Wetaskiwin.

For travelling the bride chose a pink-choral brushed peau de soie dress and coat ensemble enhanced with a white orchid, pink lined weave hat, and white accessories. Following a honeymoon in Vancouver and California, the couple has returned to Edmonton where the groom is employed in the accounting department of Metal Fabricators and Roofing Ltd., and the bride is employed by the Edmonton Public School Board.

Killam District News

Mrs. Sommers of Dayaland and her sister Mrs. Bullys of Kalvesa, B.C. have been visiting with Mrs. G. B. Palmer the past week. While here they called on Mrs. Golden of Strome. These four ladies were neighbors in the Wavy Lake district from 1914 to 1921. A remarkable thing is the fact that each of these ladies is over 80 years of age and in good health. All are doing their own house work.

The John Kelln of Hardisty and the Ray Busse's of Forestburg were at the Ed Busse farm to oversee the building of a new garage.

Mr. Duncan McKenzie, patient in PBA Hospital, has been transferred to the Royal Alex, Edmonton. We wish him a speedy recovery and return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Fraser were in Red Deer for Thanksgiving week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Darnel from Lloydminster were in town over the week weekend.

Mrs. C. Manning underwent surgery in the Camrose Hospital last week and is reported to be coming along very nicely.

Mrs. R. Sorensen was in the Rayat Alex Hospital for a few days last week.

Mrs. Lloyd Ball and Ricky from Sherwood Park were visiting at the N. Kinzer home over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brown of Vancouver spent a few days visiting with Mrs. Florence McCabe last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bricker have purchased the Hunt house in town, and moved in recently.

Mrs. Jessie Ansell of Edmonton was in town for a few days, and spent took in the Julie Grant wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Caruth and family have moved into their new home north of Sedgewick.

A shower will be held in the Baptist Church lower auditorium on Thursday night in honor of Miss Sandra Wylie.

CONSTRUCTION AHEAD

Do you wish to learn the correct procedures, techniques and the newest methods of sewing? Do you have trouble getting a dress that fits? Why not gather about eight to twelve of your friends together and have a Clothing Construction Course?

There are three parts to this Course — Parts A, B and C.

PART A— is the "Preparation for Sewing" meeting. This is held two to three weeks prior to the dates set for Part B. Time required for this meeting is about two hours. It includes Information needed for Parts B and C — pattern selection, items on fabric, design and quality, etc.

PART B— During this three day session a simple cotton dress is constructed, featuring a round neckline, kimono sleeves, raglan sleeves or sleeveless. A-line, gored or straight skirt and a back zipper closing. Individual assistance is given with pattern alterations. The hours are usually 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

PART C—You will construct a wool dress featuring your choice of neckline, set-in sleeves, fitted bodice and skirt, waistline seam with zipper closing and a lined skirt.

Part A and B must precede Part C.

Some ladies in the Round Hill area are having this course — the first meeting is at 1:00 p.m. in the Elks Hall at Round Hill on Wednesday, October 12th. If you are interested in attending please contact either Mrs. Hillmer Haugen or myself at 672-5511 for particulars.

The ladies in the Alliance area are also having this course. Please contact Mrs. H. Sisser for particulars. Their first meeting will be at 2:00 p.m. in the Alliance Library on Thursday, October 13th.

Another meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Friday, October 14th in the Provincial Building, Camrose, for those interested in Part B of the Course.

If you have a group of friends who would like this course please write or phone me. "Reservations" for time will have to be made quickly as my calendar is rapidly filling up!

Baptist Church

Rev. M. Kline of the Park Alan Baptist Church in Edmonton, was our guest speaker on Sunday at a joint exchange service. A special offering was received for the Church work in the Alberta District Conference. Several of our young people participated in the Sunday evening service.

The Young People met at the Munro home on Friday night, with Jew Cordash presiding. A layman from the church spoke on the topic "I Dare You To Use Your Talents".

Two corrections are necessary on recent items in this column:

(1) The Y. P. Quizzes will be based on the Scripture taken from the previous Friday night devotion, rather than the Sunday messages, as reported.

(3) A bridal shower will be held in the church auditorium this Thursday in honor of Sandra Wylie.

1966 WILD OAT YEAR

Wild Oats had a field day in 1965. Never in the history of Western Canada have Wild Oats been as numerous and as widespread. It is the most unpredictable and probably the most costly weed on the Prairies at the present time. Some years they grow and flourish. Other years they remain dormant and are not too serious a problem. With the tremendous production of seed in 1965 we may be relatively certain that they are going to be a serious and costly problem for years to come unless drastic action is taken to control them. The losses from Wild Oat infestations this year were probably not too high but only because ample moisture was received over the greater part of the west, and the full impact of the Wild Oat competition was greatly reduced. We cannot rely on similar conditions in the future. We could have lots of Wild Oats and limited moisture. The results could be disastrous.

A new approach to Wild Oat control has now been tested for 3 or 4 years and has proven most successful in a large number of tests in Western Canada. Avadex and Avadex B. W. which have been used widely for spring application for Wild Oat control can be applied in the fall with equally good results. In fact, in many tests the control has been better with fall application.

There are several good reasons why fall application is desirable. First, there is not usually the rush of work in the fall. A cabin day can be chosen and a careful job of application can be made. Time also can be taken to do a careful job of incorporation. In other words, the whole job can be done more carefully and efficiently, and this is very important. Then there are those soils, like our heavy clays, which form clods and lumps with spring cultivation. Avadex is of little value under these conditions. Usually, however, these soils can be worked down more effectively in the fall.

The condition of the soil is just as important for fall application as for spring use. The surface soil must be mellow and free of large lumps in order that the chemical can be thoroughly incorporated. Trash and stubble, particularly after the heavy crop this year, can also be a problem. There is no use spraying Avadex on the straw. It must be thoroughly incorporated into the soil to be effective.

Don't reduce the rate of application below that recommended on the label. Research has determined the proper rate and reducing this to save a few cents may mean a poor job of Wild Oat control with resulting reduction in crop yields.

WEATHER REPORT

After some days of dull and cold weather, things have taken a turn for the better and it would almost appear that Indian Summer has arrived at last. On Monday the temperature rose to 70 above.

Harvesting is virtually finished, and farmers are busy cleaning up odds andends before the winter sets in.

W.A. Busy First Meeting

LOUGHEED — The All Saint's W. A. October meeting was held at the home of Mrs. T. Cookson, with nine members present along with 7 visitors and Rev. Steele.

The meeting opened with members' prayer and the reading of the minutes. Due to the lengthy time since the last meeting, there was a good deal of business to attend to.

Plans were made for serving for the Masonic dinner. The annual bake sale will be held October 29 in the M. H Store.

The November meeting will be held one week earlier, on the 17th at the home of Mrs. E. Butcher.

Rev. Steele closed the meeting with the benediction, after which lunch was served.

M.D. Population Down 375

The regular October meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Flagstaff was held at the Board Room in Sedgewick with all seven councillors and the Secretary in attendance

Notice was received from the R. O. advising council of the election of Arthur Bunney of Forestburg as councillor for Division 2, to complete the unexpired term of the former councillor there.

The oath of office was administered to Mr Bunney, followed by the minutes and financial statement, both of which were passed.

Mr W. D Thornton and Mr. MacKay of the engineering firm, Reid, Crowther Ltd. met with council to request consideration of their firm if any engineering services should be required.

Mr. Patterson of Roberts Steel, met with council and presented to them a photo of the council taken in 1906. He also discussed culvert needs for 1967 with the council.

T. C. Graham, road foreman met with council and discussed the final windup of the 1966 road program and the brushing required in the [illegible]

The gravel crushing program was discussed, along with the winter works program

Committees were selected to see to gravel stockpiling in the Galahad and Strome areas

It was moved and passed that A. Bunney be appointed to the Board of the Alliance Seed Cleaning Plant to complete the term of the late Mr Ed Fardoe.

Mr. Lee was authorized to carry on with the brush cutting under the winter works program.

A request from the Dept. of Highways for a list of bridges required on the M. D. for 1967 was tabled.

The minutes of the Safety Committee meeting were read and discussion resulted with respect to hard hats and winter liners for them. It was agreed that the M.D should be responsible for purchase and supply of winter liners but that the hard tops should be either supplied for or purchased by the individual employee. The minutes as read were then approved.

Letter from Palmer Engineering enclosing plans of a proposed 3" natural gas pipeline to serve the Town of Dayslaud, requested the council to approve the plans as submitted. The assurance was given that the line would be located not less than 100 feet from the north-south road allowance which it paralleled and would cross road allowances where [illegible] at the depth of not less than four feet below the ditch after some discussion the council agreed it would approve the plans as submitted provided the gas line was buried to a depth of not less than eight feet below the level of the land & wherever it was to cross a road allowance.

The allocation from the Supply Secretary Mrs. Moulder, was announced. Upon the meeting the devotional conducted by Mrs. Draper, centered around our responsibility in respect to those less fortunate than ourselves, particularly the people of India.

SEDGEWICK — The Central High School United Nations Assn of Students, in co-operation with the Forestburg High School, is attempting to raise funds to help finance a school in India

This is a planned four-room elementary school in the Village of Chakwali in the Punjab region of India, one of the most destitute of India's many poverty-stricken localities. The people of the Village must supply the land, footing and labour. whereas Forestburg High School will supply the actual building materials and furnishings

The Indian Government has already agreed to supply the teacher for the school. The overseeing of the building is to be looked after by a Canadian Agriculturalist from the U. of A., serving in CUSO (Canadian University Student Overseas) and Dean Bentley of the Faculty of Agriculture in Edmonton is also giving assistance to see that the entire operation is properly conducted.

Forestburg has raised $2000 of the $3000 she needs to complete the project. Central High aided Forestburg in various ways last year, and plans to do the same this year.

To start the year, CENUNAS is holding a "Hunger Supper" on Oct 28th from 7.00 to 8.30 p.m. in the Sedgewick High School Gym. For a charge of 50c each or $1.25 for a family, the public will be served maggie portions of tea, crackers and rice. "Independent, But Not Necessarily Neutral, In The Public Service"

Established on July 16th, Nineteen Hundred and Eight

A Man Of The West!

After sixty years of riding the range, 87 year old Will Porter of the Czar district in Alberta is giving up his saddle for an easy chair, and his riding boots for a reading machine. Legs that once were strong and sturdy enough to skip a corral fence are now too weak to hoist him into a saddle, and eyes that once easily surveyed the vast ranchland are now too dim to read the printed page.

Will Porter, who came to Alberta from Kansas in 1901, has been riding horses until 1964. In later years however, this rugged pioneer has limited his riding jaunts around the pasture land on his favorite cow pony, "Mischief". He was disappointed when due to infirmity he was unable to ride his 30-year-old Mischief on his 87th birthday. But he is resigned to be less active and is happy that he and his wife can live on the old ranch they started 56 years ago and now run by their son Dean. Besides brief walks in the farmyard Mr. Porter enjoys listening to his radio and reading with his talking book machine provided by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. The talking book machine used by Mr. Porter is a new type which reads stories and periodicals from recorded tape. The books he reads are sent from the CNIB library in Toronto & include novels, biographies and Westerns, etc. Some of them no doubt remind this early pioneer of the trials and hardships that he and his family faced in their early years; cold winters and dry summers, wet harvests and early frosts, sick animals and low produce prices. He recalls how he had to pick tons of rock from his land before it could be put in crop, and how his best crop of number 1 hard wheat sold for only 22 cents a bushel.

Like the true pioneer he is, Mr. Porter meets the problems of the present with the same resolve that he faced the hardships of the past. "I have had a good life and I am content" he recently told a CNIB field secretary who calls to see him periodically. Although the action that goes with ranching is gone the rugged spirit still remains in this prairie stockman, and with a firm belief in the hereafter and an acute awareness of the world about him, Will Porter typifies a breed of men who helped to make Alberta great.

Know Your Canada!

Last week this column gave some statistics on Canada, referring to some of the main main events over the years. It brought you up to the year 1800 so this week we go on to more modern times.

In 1803 the first paper mill was established in Quebec, producing the first writing, wrapping and printing papers in Canada. Today Canada is one of the largest producers of newsprint in the world. In 1812, on June 18 there was the declaration of war by the United States, and the defeat of the Americans at Queenston Heights, which took the life of General Brock. The following year Toronto was taken and burned by the Americans. The British took a fairly dim view of this action by the "damn Yankees", and a year later paid a visit down south and captured Washington, and burned the public buildings.

In 1817 the Rush-Bagot Convention with the U. S. established the unfortified border between the two countries- a situation which exists to this day. The first medical school in Canada was opened in Montreal in 1824, and later became a part of McGill University. It was in 1833 that the first steamship was built, in Quebec and sold later to Spain. It later became the first steamship from which a gun was fired. Lord Dunham advocated self government for Canadians in 1838, but died with the idea still aborning. In 1841 the two provinces of Upper and Lower Canada came about as the Province of Canada.

In 1848 Charles Fenerty discovered how to make paper from ground wood pulp, to get the pulp and paper industry in Canada started, which today generates one dollar in every eight of the incomes of Canadians. It was only two years later that Dr. Abraham Gesner discovered the modern petroleum refining industry.

The year 1851 saw the transfer of the postal system from the British to the Colonial Government of Canada, with a uniform rate of postage introduced and postage stamps issued.

Played by troops at Kingston, Ontario, the first game of hockey was played in Canada in 1855, and Canada has been the home of hockey ever since. The Queen (Victoria), in 1857 chose Ottawa as the capital city of Canada, and to give the economy a boost- a man by the name of James Miller spaded down 14 feet and brought in the first oil well in North America, at Oil Springs, Ontario.

Canadian decimal currency was introduced in 1858. This year too the British Government formed a new Colony and named it British Columbia, and the earlier colony on the West Coast (Vancouver Island) was united with it in 1866. In 1860 the Prince of Wales laid a corner stone for the Ottawa Parliament buildings. Not too far from this corner stone, the first professional game of baseball was played in Canada in 1861.

More happened than we realize in this great country, so we will have to continue from here next week.

ENTIRELY BELIEVABLE

Business firms in Canada are now estimated to devote at least two million man hours a month to the job of collecting taxes-completing forms and reports for the federal government.

Comment from small businessman: I wouldn't doubt it for one minute. And, believe me, sometimes it feels as though mine is doing it all.

World production of wheat in 1966 is estimated at 339 million metric tons or about nine and a half billion bushels. This is a new record, exceeding 1964 by four million tons.

Wheat production in Canada has been estimated at about 23 million tons which is a new record, and some seven million tons more than the average production during 1960-64. The big increase in Canada is attributed to a sharp rise in the acreage seeded to wheat and also to a higher yield. Officials expect that even with the increased production in many countries, Canada may yet see a new export record in the coming year.

Dave Bonar dropped into the office the other day to chat for a few minutes, and took a look at the 10 1/2 pound turnip which the Simpson girls left with us. Dave says he would like to get a sack full of seed for growing turnips like this. Says he would plant one every four paces around the farm. Come fall he would have ready-made fence post holes.

Dear Sir:

In last week's copy of your newspaper there appeared an advertisement for the Province of Alberta, which contained many interesting articles about Alberta. The part about having four days to cancel a contract with a salesman was new to me and I was happy to learn this. Our government is doing a good job in telling us these things. — A Reader.

NO NEED FOR A ROYAL COMMISSION

A Royal Commission is now concerning itself with the high cost of living in Canada. It is, in our opinion, a waste of time and money.

The high cost of living is the result of monetary inflation. Since 1949 the Canadian dollar has declined by close to 40 per cent. So the people now have a 55 cent dollar The value has gone out of money.

Great Britain is caught in a similar squeeze but the government there did not call upon any commission. It is a Labor government but it passed a law providing economic controls. Some of the provisions:

Wages and prices are frozen at the levels of last July 30th, for six months. After that there will be a careful consideration of any demand for higher wages or higher prices.

Dividends are frozen for one year. Rents for 400,000 houses and flats mostly occupied by low-income families, are frozen. Credit buying is stringently regulated. The down payment on any article must be at least 25 per cent with terms of not more than two years.

Travel abroad is restricted in spending to $140 spaces each year.

Construction of new office buildings is crowded cities is controlled.

Private banks must increase their cash deposits with the Bank of England, thus controlling credit.

There is a formula already made. Why waste time and money with a Royal Commission? — Brooks Bulletin.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

"We're From The West"

OTTAWA — A well organized Western delegation of Liberals moved in on the National Liberal Policy Conference held here October 10 to 12, and made sure their voices were heard loud and clear.

The Prairie Provinces and B. C. had prepared for this important meeting They convened a Western policy conference last summer in the persons of the Liberal leaders of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and B. C. put their views on the record and the Westerners reached agreement on what they should strive for at the National Policy Conference.

Significantly when the delegates travelled to Ottawa two months later they carried large badges in their lapels They proclaimed "We're from the West". In other words the West was united and they had already hammered out the policy planks they wanted to carry with them into the workshops of the National Conference.

In these workshops they were articulate and positive in their approach. They made their points and found to their pleasant surprise that they had allies in the Maritime provinces. Even more surprising to some of the Westerners, was that there were delegates from Ontario and Quebec who were ready to go along with their ideas.

Thus it was on the first formal discussion day of the Conference, a Monday, Thanksgiving Day, the North American free trade resolution was passed. Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp had indicated earlier in private conversation with some of the delegates that he could not go along entirely with the wording of the resolution. But he was not at the workshop discussing trade, he was at the workshop seeking to decide what course the Gov. should take for Medicare. Mr. Sharp was determined to defend the postponement of Medicare by one year to July 1, 1968, and missed the trade discussion

The free trade resolution, a bold policy in true Liberal traditions was adopted. Later in the plenary session where it went from the workshop it was approved by an overwhelming majority of the delegates at the Conference.

Proponent of the free trade resolution was Gildas Molgat, the Manitoba Liberal Leader. It is credited for a plan in the last few months with the United States in North American free trade area. It urged the Government to start negotiations now for a free trade arrangement with the Caribbean would be included.

It said the Government should provide for the transition period when trade agreements are negotiated. It should provide for the adjustment of business in economic sectors that suffer from tariff reductions. The Government should subsidize the readjustment of labour in sectors which suffer by tariff reduction.

Cautious, careful Mr. Sharp, was astounded at the stampeding Liberal ideas the Westerners had brought with them. He quickly realized who had carralled the Conference and he managed by some adroit political manoeuvering to emerge not in front. He was aligned with the Western delegates on the Medicare question and on the economic policy resolutions which in effect rejected the retrictionist ideas of former Finance Minister Walter Gordon.

The Gordon group was aware it was in for a fight. Senator Keith Davey, former national organizer of the Liberal party, now elevated to the chamber of sober second thought, was heading the organization of his close friend Mr. Gordon. They were concentrating so hard on the coming economic policy battle and the Medicare arguments that the free trade resolution was adopted without as great a struggle as had been anticipated by the Western delegation.

It is true that two members of the Cabinet, Health Minister Allan MacEachen and Manpower and Immigration Minister Jean Marchand were unhappy. Rumours swept the Convention that they were on the brink of handing in their resignations. But they finally changed their minds and stayed. Both had been worked up over the decision to set back on the actual implementation of Medicare by 12 months.

Manitoba's Molgat ably assisted by B. C's. Liberal Leader Ray Perrault were leading lights at the conference. Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan, who was largely responsible for the original Western policy conference, was unable to attend due to illness. Some Western delegates and many Eastern delegates were just as happy he was not there They are well aware that the Sask. Premier is very outspoken and blunt in expressing himself. He calls a spade a spade and consequently sometimes antagonizes the very people he hopes to enlist as strong supporters.

Mr. Molgat on the other hand was soft spoken, although he could shout and pound the table when need be. He was persuasive & with the help of Mr. Perrault and the Liberal leaders of Alberta and Sask , he managed to pilot many of the Western ideas through the Conference. Finally when the Gordon group recognized that they had been out-organized and out-voted they called for compromises and the W e s t, accompanied by Mr. Sharp, agreed to sit down in a smoke-filled room and work out some compromise resolutions on which both sides could agree to keep unity and harmony in Liberal ranks. This done, the Conference ended with general rejoicing, although the Gordon supporters had to concede that their main bid lost ground and Sharp had gained.

Throughout the Conference the would-be successors to Prime Minister L. B. Pearson had been quietly moving in and out among the delegates, shaking hands and smiling. To most it had spread ahead of the meetings that Mr. Pearson would likely step down in 1967 and a leadership convention was looming in the Party's immediate future.

But on the windup evening the Prime minister addressed a dinner gathering and made it obvious he was not a retiring mood. The answer appeared to be that Mr. Pearson has decided in his own mind that not one of the would-be Liberal national leaders is yet in a sufficiently strong position to be ready to take over, keep the country united and lead the Party into a general election.

By their standing ovations for the national leader, the delegates seemed to indicate that they were satisfied with his leadership and in no mood as yet to clamour for a leadership convention. But earlier in the conference they did vote by a large majority to put the question of leadership to the test of a secret ballot at the first annual Party rally after the next election.

Mr. Fred Kosher from Knight Landing, California has arrived in Killam to visit his brother Ed Kosher.

Threshing and combine operations have been resumed. The grain has dried up some, but is still being graded as tough.

Nils Djos and E. Severnes have each purchased a new Ford Ferguson tractor from the local dealer. Nils and Elmer went to Castor to take delivery of the tractors and drove them back on Friday.

The Stroma Athletic Club sponsored a Carnival in the hall on Tues and Wed. and from all reports everyone had a very good time. Stage attractions were given during the two evenings & a dance held each night.

W.I. To Write Lougheed History

LOUGHEED — The Lougheed W. I. met at the home of Mrs. G. B. Probst on Monday evening with 15 members and 4 visitors present.

Mrs. M. Sinclair, president, was in the chair.

Convenors of standing committees were appointed. It was decided that we try to get more information on the early history of the district & try to complete this as a Centennial Project. The Cemetery report showed that the work done through the summer was very satisfactory. Also the response to the appeal for funds to carry on the work had been quite good.

The roll call was answered by giving donations of food products to be given to a needy family in the district Articles to be sent to the Mental Health Assn. were handed in also

Mrs. O Probst, convenor of Education, was in charge of the program She introduced Mrs Roy Kashua who spoke on education in Guyana The schools in the country are run by the churches. Although the teachers are paid by the government There is no shortage of teachers, but there is a shortage of classroom space, which makes it necessary to have classes on the shift system One school has to accomodate children from a large area. There is a great value put on education, partly because it is very expensive They have no Universities, & those wishing higher education must go to another country

Mrs Probst also made a presentation of $5.00 to Diane Valkart, the student from Lougheed School who obtained the highest average in the grade 9 exams held last June.

There was some discussion as to having a sewing course some time later on The W I will help with the cost if a course is held.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. G. Coates. served a delicious lunch.

The next meeting will be held at the school on the evening of Nov 10th at 8 00 p.m Members are asked to bring a pack lunch.

SHE CAN HARDLY WAIT. To most Canadians the first snowfall means delays and hours of extra work, but to lovely Lark Fraser it's a time to really enjoy life. She contends there is nothing better than to get outside and shovel snow under sunny skies.

Ray Broemlings Feted By Friends On Anniversary

DAYSLAND — Mr. and Mrs Ray Broemling celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on October 14 in the Community Hall, with many friends and relatives enjoy..ng an evening of social and dancing

Hardisty Town Council Preparing For Visit Of Canada's Centennial Caravan

HARDISTY — The regular meeting of the Council of the Town of Hardisty was held in the office of the secretary. Minutes and financial report were presented and approved as read.

The committee in charge reported that the bath house was near completion The present Centennial Committee was authorized to proceed with the completion of the fire places in the Park.

Further to Centennial projects, a letter from the Alberta Centennial Committee was received and read, regarding permanent marker requirements. It was suggested to the newly elected Mayor that two Centennial committees be appointed, the first for the Hardisty Centennial program and the second for the details of the visit of the Centennial Caravan.

No. 437 was given to a by-law of the Town of Hardisty, wherein the Council agrees to sell lots 5A, 3A, 5A and 7A to Homo Oil of Calgary. This by-law was given three readings and duly passed

The sidewalk situation came up for discussion, and a letter was read from Inland Cement Industries recommending that regarding sidewalk repairs in the Town that the sections involved by torn out and replaced completely

The Killam Transit Mix will be employed to repair the 8 foot cement sidewalk in front of Lots 29, 30 and 31 in Block 3, Plan 9481.

It is felt by council that the Town needs a larger fire hall, and after some discussion on this matter it was decided to proceed with enlargment the present facilities just as soon as the M D Flagstaff decides as to whether a Municipal Fire Truck will be placed in Town.

The council went on record as favoring the proposed change in boundaries by the Dept of Health, of Alberta East Central Health Unit No 10

Councillors Anderson and Young had attended a meeting of regional Towns and Villages at Wainwright and expressed the opinion that the meeting had been quite successful A full report on this is to be given at the next meeting of Council

A letter from the Town of Sedgewick was read, wherein the Town congratulated Mayor Harrison on his long term of office as Mayor and Councillor. This was handed to Mayor Harrison as a keep-sake

A letter and brief by the Council of the Town of Castor was presented, wherein support was requested for their entrance to have the Provincial Government make sidewalk and paving grants to Towns & Villages similar to the Municipal District Road Grants

LARRY BOTA, Fort Macleod

Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year.

It was December 28, 1965 — Boxing Day! Larry and his father had gone to their cabin at Lee Lake near Burmis. 14-year old Larry was following his father into the cabin. Suddenly, the cabin was rocked by an explosion. Larry swiftly pulled his father back, down the stairs and outside, where he extinguished his burning clothes by rolling him in the snow. Mr. Bota was severly burned, and but for Larry's initiative and courage the day might have had a tragic ending.

We congratulate Larry and wish to thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

This is one of a series of Junior Citizen Award announcements. Our special thanks to C. L. Mones, Editor of the Fort Macleod Gazette and to Larry's nominators, Mrs. N. E. Johnson of Blairmore, Mrs. George Buzunis and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hoeksema of Fort Macleod.

Weekly Devotion

THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT

And coming down with them, he took his stand on a level stretch, with a crowd of his disciples, and a great multitude of people . . . who came to listen to him . . . And he lifted up his eyes to his disciples . . . And opening his mouth he taught them . . . (Luke 6:17,18,20; Matt5:2)

Having chosen His sperial followers. Jesus now proceeds to teach them the basic principles of the New Law On them He will later confer special graces to understand and interpret His doctrine as He Himself intends it. However, before receiving the graces of Pentecost, they will have to undergo several years of training They will hear these doctrines explained again and again On this foundation, the Holy Spirit will build the extraordinary spiritual life of the apostles.

To follow Christ intelligently, it is not enough to know His words. I also need to know His meaning. His attitude and His intentions. before I can correctly apply His words to my daily life This kind of knowledge is not gained by mere reading. It is to be absorbed slowly through prayer, meditation, self-examination and daily practice. Spiritual growth is achieved by faith in the supernatural dignity which Christ bestowed upon us in baptism; by humility to accept our limits, both temporary and permanent; by continued practice, in spite of our frequent partial failures and occasional total ones Over and over again we may make the same mistakes Again and again we may be corrected by others or by our conscience. Our greatness lies in refusing to be discouraged by failures, limitations, or slow visible progress. Like the apostles, we too shall one day be ready for graces far beyond our present expectations.

This is a lesson that comes slowly to many people. They have too little patience with their nature's pace They are too easily discouraged by their partial successes or repeated failures. They grow tired of reading the same matter, thinking the same thoughts, striving for the same virtues, and tasting the same defects They do not realize that as long as they are in this life, temptations will continue to face them Labors will still require their attention and energy. Sufferings of body, mind or soul will always be present in some degree. Only when they have arrived before the judgment seat of God may they hope to hear the words: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." Only then will their task of striving for Christian perfection be over. — Rev. A.B Bryden, Catholic Church, Calahad.

double your money with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series

Centennial Series Canada Savings Bonds offer you their highest interest yield ever—5.46% a year when held to maturity.

The new Bonds pay annual interest at the rate of 5% for each of the first four years; 5½% for each of the next three years; 6% for the following year and 6% for each of the last five years—a total of 97¢.46 in interest on every $100 Bond.

And for the first time, there is a special compound interest option. To take full advantage of it, leave all the annual interest uncollected until Nov. 1, 1970, and you will get interest on your interest, amounting to $67.79 extra on every $100 Bond.

It all adds up to total interest of $160 on every $100 Bond. It's a safe, sure way to save. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series.

This Series retains all the traditional features which make Canada Savings Bonds Canada's most favoured investment.

They are still easy to buy for cash or on instalments where you work, bank or invest.

You may buy as little as $50 or as much as $10,000. Every Canadian resident may buy up to this limit. So can estates.

They are still simple to cash, anytime, at any bank in Canada for their full face value plus earned interest. Just fill out the redemption form on the Bond, present it to your bank and you'll get your money right away.

And now they're better than ever to keep with the highest interest yield ever and interest on interest. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series.

SUGAR AND SPICE

by Bill Smiley

As a Canadian, what is your favorite holiday in the year? Think carefully, now. (No objection to Yanks playing the game.)

Originally, our holidays had religious overtones. Hence, the term holy days: Christmas, Good Friday, Thanksgiving.

Then we developed patriotic — or if you prefer — political holidays. These include such stirring times as Dominion Day, now better known as The First of July; British Empire and Commonwealth and The Queen's Birthday; Armistice or Remembrance Day.

Finally, we have a pure pagan holidays tossed in: Labor Day. Civic Holiday and New Year's Day.

Well, let's start at the bottom, & eliminate Civic Holiday has no significance whatever. It's the day on which everyone gets out of town for the weekend, except the local merchants, who are supposed to get a civic holiday, but spend it swirling like mad at the service club carnival, raising money for some worthy cause it isn't even a national holiday. Big-city items ignore it.

Labor Day, as we all know, far from being a tribute to organized labor, is a day on which nobody does a tap of work, except for getting their kids ready for school, or closing up the cottage.

The next in insignificance is difficult to choose. We have Dominion Day, of course. Once it was a day of horse races, picnics, boat excursions, and speeches in the park. Now it is merely a day which, accordingly, doesn't always fall on a Monday or a Friday.

And we have that whatever-it-is Day in May. It used to be Queen Victoria's Birthday. In the morning trees were planted. For the rest of the day, and night, you burned your fingers on firecrackers and your eyebrows on Roman Candles. I guess what we're supposed to do now is sit around and think of our Commonwealth brother in Zambia and Senegal, or the Queen, whose birthday is in another month, or something? What we actually do is open the cottage, or go fishing.

And then of course, there is New Year's Day. Hangovers and broken resolutions. Actually, New Year's depends on how fervently you first-hooted it on the preceding eve. It can be as bleak as a beverage room, or as rambunctious as a rooster. But ahead of it there lie three cold, dark dreary and deadly months of winter.

The two saddest holidays of the year are Remembrance Day and Good Friday. And, appropriately, they come at the most dismal times of the year.

On Nov 11th, the sky weeps, the widows and mothers weep, the flags droop at half-mast and the bells toll. The only joint in town that jumps is the Legion Hall. After the solemn rites have ended, old cronies gather in exchange lies, enjoy good food and drink, and listen to the inevitable speaker trying to convince them it was all worthwhile.

Good Friday is gloom, darkness and bitter wind, remnants of snow drifts. A day of death, sacrifice sorrow. Cold, cold and the earth is dead and frozen.

Christmas is another thing. A season of peace and joy on earth and goodwill toward men, according to the ads and interminable carols But let's be honest. By the time the Day has arrived, you are baffled, bushed and broke.

That leaves nothing else but Thanksgiving. That's my choice, every year. It's the best Canadian holiday, and we had a wonderful one this year.

First, there are the physical delights. Weather is usually fine and brisk and bright. Scenery is magnificent: blue, bronze and crimson. Blood bubbles in the veins. Fire feels good. Food tastes like never before. Lungs top clean air. Sleep is sweet, smooth and as dreamless as whipped heavy.

And then there's the Thanksgiving itself. Thanks for good health. Thanks I'm alive. Thanks for children. Thanks for a good harvest, or fat beef, or a steady job. Thanks for a chance to go on living for another year of these other holidays until I can say thanks again.

A committee was formed to look after the winter works gravelling program, to meet on October 28th to open gravel hauling tenders.

The next council meeting was set for Friday, Nov. 4th, in view of the fact that a number of the councillors would be attending a school trustees convention on the day of the next regular meeting.

Federal Census Shows Flagstaff Is At 5,980

ment's Conference was being held November 1 to 3. The Dept. request was that the M. D. authories then participate in the conference and pay the expenses. It was moved that B.M. Lee be authorized to attend this conference and that his expenses be paid by the District.

As many councillors as possible are to attend the quarterly meeting of the Union of M D's. in Edmonton on Oct. 31st. In this respect the secretary is to prepare two resolutions for presentation, one respecting motor grader operators' residences and one concerning spud piles being left by coal companies in coal stripping operations.

Letter from I. P. P. L. advised that the company had decided to construct a pumping station on a part of S. W. 3-46-15 and would require construction of about 1/4 mile of road between S.W. 3 and S. E. 34-45-15 as the earliest possible date. It was moved and passed that the council authorize construction of the road for the fall of 1966.

Copies of the "as built" plans covering the location of buried wire and cable in the Alliance, Galahad and Lougheed areas was received from Alberta Gov. Telephones. After examination they were filed.

Reports of Coun. Vanderwater re grader and snow are read and accepted.

Plans to construct a power line extension to the M.D. shop, grader shed and residences on S.E. 26-45-14 were submitted by Canadian Utilities and approved as to those lines shown in red only.

A report of the 1966 Census of Canada was received, indicating that the population of the M. D. of Flagstaff has increased from 5,356 in 1961 to 5,980 in 1966. The letter asked if council had reason to disagree with the Census figures. It was moved and passed that the report be accepted.

A notice was received from Alberta Equipment Centre that they had for sale three Allis Chalmers Motor Graders.

Mr. Whitehead was authorized to attend a Workmen's Compensation Board Safety Training Course held in Edmonton Nov. 21 to 25, provided M. D. can be properly persuaded.

Advice was received from Alberta Farm Purchase Limet that the application of Chas. E. Cameron and Robert E. Mahler had been approved.

By-law No. 370, being a by-law to amend section 35 of By-law 346, by adding the limousin at the North-East corner of Sec. 23-44-11 at which vehicles must yield, and authorizing the erection of a yield sign at the intersection, was presented, given three readings, and duly passed.

By-law 371, authorizing a grant of the 1966 tax levy in the amount of $126.32 to the United Church of Canada, Hardisty, Alberta, on the United Church Campsite near Hardisty Lake, was presented, given 3 readings and duly passed.

It was moved and passed, authorizing the Pelix. Enumerators. D. P. O's., and Poll Clerks for year 1966, for required elections.

The question of installing heat in the motor grader sheds was considered. It was agreed that until stoves and furnaces should be used & installed as necessary. Authorization was given for the purchase of four used stokers and furnaces for the new sheds.

Yield signs are to be placed at N.E. and N.W. corners of 36-41-16; and at S.W. and S.E. corners of 32-41-16.

A committee was formed to look after the winter works gravelling program, to meet on October 28th to open gravel hauling tenders.

The next council meeting was set for Friday, Nov. 4th, in view of the fact that a number of the councillors would be attending a school trustees convention on the day of the next regular meeting.

Daysland Council Regular Meeting

DAYSLAND — A regular council meeting was held on October 17th with four councillors present, and Mayor Pryor presiding.

The Centennial Park was discussed at some length. It was decided to have Mr. Galloway paint the new bleachers. It was also reported that some black dirt was hauled on the ball diamond.

Coun. Cranston is to enquire of Mr. Yeack, Health Inspector, as to regulations of washrooms at parks, and then to obtain an estimate of cost of the washrooms. (from Reminder Enterprise Willowdale

Letter received from the Attorney General Dept. advised that the Town of Daysland could apply for a grant for policing, to the maximum amount of $2000 per year.

Drilling reports for the proposed natural gas well were read. Depth at October 17th was 3525 feet.

Secretary is to enquire if Winter Works Grant may be used on Centennial Park work this fall, & how it would affect the grant. Secretary reported a cheque for $180.39 was turned in by Mr. C. F. Campbell as a donation from the Daysland Clinic Committee to the Cemetery Fund.

The possibility of forming a Centennial Committee in the Town of Daysland was discussed and tabled to the next meeting.

Twenty-Five Ladies At Heisler O.O.R.P. Meet

The turnout of members for the Thursday meeting of the Heisler O.O.R.P. was very satisfactory, 25 ladies being present. All ladies were interested in the visit to Camrose of Supreme Honored Royal Lady Helen Johnston. Many ladies would prefer to go at this time, but due to the late harvest the attendance will not be as large as was anticipated. A cheque was sent to the C. M. I. R.

All are busy making costumes for the annual Masquerade Ball in the Elks hall on October 31st. An invitation is extended to all.

There was a farewell party held on Monday night for Mr. and Mrs. Aquin Zacchowski and Mr. & Mrs. Norbert Badry who have sold their farms and have already moved to Camrose. The OORP ladies will miss Mary and Julia at lodge since they took an active part in lodge functions. Elquin and Norbert were 25k members. Best wishes follow these folks to their new homes.

All members are requested to attend all OORP meetings, as many functions are booked for the fall season. Member assistance is always appreciated.

The shower which was held Sunday night for Miss Linda Roth was a huge success. She received many gifts. She is teaching at Heisler.

Wedding bells are ringing merrily. The Elks hall is booked for wedding dances for the next 6 Saturday nights.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Sunderman were Heisler visitors last week end with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mathieson and family of N. W. T. were visitors over the weekend at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Mathieson.

Mrs. A. Redman Describes Her Tour Around Europe

Mrs. Alex Redman returned recently from an extended trip to London, England, Paris, Rome, and many other places of interest.

Leaving Calgary on Non - Stop Polar route to Amsterdam, Holland, (after crossing the prairie provinces), they flew over the North Atlantic. North of the Arctic Circle, over Glasgow, Scotland, and on to Amsterdam Changing to another plane the group was soon in London where they enjoyed seeing the "Changing of the Guards".

They saw London in beautiful weather, enjoying many outstanding sights too numerous to mention. However, they were quite elated to see our new Canadian Maple Leaf Flag proudly flying over Canadian House.

From London they went to Dover (remember "The White Cliffs Of Dover" — a song made popular during the last war?) They crossed the English Channel by steamer to Belgium and then on into France where they saw the great Cathedral of Notre Dame

They then crossed the Jura Mountains into Switzerland where they stood on the shores of beautiful Lake Geneva Then on into the Swiss Alps. (Incidentally Mrs. Redman declares the Alps cannot "Hold A Candle" to our own Canadian Rockies as far as beauty and grandeur are concerned).

The group then went to Venice which they were informed is built on wooden piling and is sinking one inch every forty years. While in Venice the group enjoyed r'ding by night in a Gondola which was "Lit Up Like A Christmas Tree". Five people rode in each Gondola.

From there to Florence, Italy, to view many famous paintings and listen to opera singing and so on.

In Rome we were informed that the Vatican City comprises ninety-nine acres Visited the famous Leaning Tower Of Pisa. From Rome the group travelled to Paris where among other interesting sights we waived the city by night going up in an elevator

While in Calais, the group visited the Canadian War Cemetery where so many Canadian War Veterans are buried and paid their respects

Back to London and did a bit of shopping and then left for home, taking a Trans Canada train from Montreal to Calgary

One very interesting spot of the trip was a visit to the League of Nations at Geneva where flags of so many Nations were seen flying in the breeze

Mrs. Redman remarked that she had not even touched the borders of the many interesting sights which she enjoyed during her tour But space would not permit telling us detail the many beautiful, interesting, and educational sights which were so thoroughly enjoyed by the group

We do, however, appreciate Mrs. Redman sharing these interesting experiences with us, and sincerely thank her for her thoughtfulness in doing so — F. M. Cantion

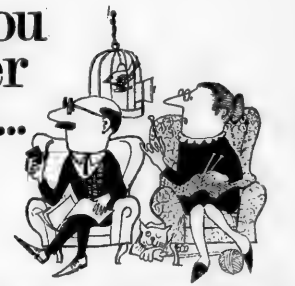
Have you ever wondered...

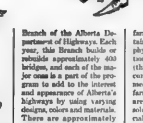


...what happens to government materials and machinery when they reach pensionable age?

Three possible fates await furniture and equipment that have outlived their usefulness to a government department: It is sweet, tender and the asparagus block. Which it will be — is decided by the Alberta Government Purchasing Branch, Department of Industry and Development. Last year, in a series of bargain sales, this agency recovered over $400,000 for a selection of items varying from horses to windows, tractors to furniture, which were still usable but no longer of use to the government. In addition, many items were sent back to work with another department where they still had a useful future.

...how far you are from a provincial park?

In most populated areas of Alberta, not more than 30 miles. As public need dictated the location of the parks, the majority are located in or near heavily populated areas and, as the population increases, so do the number of parks. Altogether, there are 41 of these playgrounds in the Province, each established and maintained by the Parks Division of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests. It takes a staff of 309 employees to provide the parks with all the facilities and services required, such as approximately 1600 cords of cut wood supplied free each year. In addition, the Parks Division maintains 23 historic sites across the Province, ranging in size from one-quarter acre to 107 acres.



...how bridges add to Alberta's beauty?

Next time you drive Alberta's highways, watch the bridges and overpasses and see how many different designs you can count. This variety of shape and color is a contribution to the beauty of our Province by the Bridge Branch of the Alberta Department of Highways. Each year, the Branch builds or rebuilds approximately 400 bridges, and each of the major ones is a part of the program to add to the interest and appearance of Alberta's highways by using varying designs, colors and materials. There are approximately 10,000 bridges under the jurisdiction of the Branch, of which about 700 are steel, 2,300 concrete, 4,200 of timber, and 2,800 large culverts installed in lieu of bridges.

...how high a speed digital computer is doing down on the farm?

Actually, it isn't ON the farm. It's a part of the Data Processing Centre of the Provincial Government.

However, it does contribute greatly to a comprehensive farm analysis program being undertaken by the Farm Management Branch of the Agricultural Economics Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Under this program, the Branch assists any farmer who so desires to maintain an accurate record of his physical and financial operation. Armed with these figures (this is where the computer comes in), economists can measure the efficiency of the farm, determine the problem areas and suggest possible solutions. Over 400 commercial farmers in Alberta are being assisted under the program, and the only costs to each participant are a $10 00 processing fee and $1.00 for the account book in which the records are kept

...how education can be made more interesting?

Aesop taught many a valuable lesson with his "Fables", because he knew that education was far more palatable when it was presented in a dramatic form. Today's version of this combersome is in the radio and television broadcasts to schools by the Audio-Visual Services Branch of the Alberta Department of Education. Twice a day, during most of the school year, radio school broadcasts teach dramatic, entertaining and effective lessons in classrooms across the Province, and a number of television programs are provided each year as well. These have a two-fold purpose: to explore the value of television in education and to supplement classroom work on new subjects. In addition to the broadcast media, the Audio-Visual Services Branch provides sound films, tape recordings and filmstrips and advises teachers and administrators in their use.

...what became of the old-fashioned, travelling dentist?

He's still here, still travelling, but no longer old-fashioned. Today, the dentist who provides service to the outlying areas of the Province has the most modern equipment, provided by the Dental Services Division of the Alberta Department of Public Health. The Division has three complete units of dental equipment which are transportable and available to those practitioners who volunteer to serve rural communities where dental services have not been established Approved local organizations such as the Home and School Association or the Chamber of Commerce can apply for this service through the local health unit, the Alberta Department of Public Health, or the Alberta Dental Association

Karen Drever and Robert James Married At Hardisty United

St. Paul's United Church, Hardisty, was the scene of a lovely fall wedding on September 3, 1966, when Karen Drever, only daughter of Mr and Mrs Richard Drever of Hardisty, was married to Robert Richard James, youngest son of Mr. & Mrs. Clarke James of Sedgewick, Alberta The sanctuary of the church was decorated with large bouquets of flowers in fall shades. The guest pews were marked with corsages of colorful wheat attached to large white bows.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend W. G. Switzer in which Miss Mrs. Drever worthily presided at the organ. The soloist, Mrs. Norah Zwicker, sang "The Wedding Prayer" prior to the wedding vows and 'O Perfect Love' during the signing of the register.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, was radiant in a floor-length gown of white organza and lace. Long sheer sleeves with a bell sheath style, with a chapel length train attached to the waist. Her crown featured appliqued lace motifs on the sleeves to give the bell-shaped effect. The four-tiered appliqued illusion tulle veil that fitted around the back of her high hairdo held in place the pearl tiara which circled the front of the headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of the "Centennial" coral roses. Her jewellary was pearl earrings and single strand necklace, gift of the groom.

Matron of Honour was Mrs. Linda Hooper, and bridesmaid was Miss Dawn Kindel, of Edmonton. They are close friends of the bride. The attendants were identical full length dresses of apricot shade, featuring sheath skirts of chiffon over taffeta and Alencon lace bodice. They carried bouquets of white carnations with apricot and yellow tones. Their jewellary pieces were crystal tiaras, matching their crystal jewellery, gift of the bride.

The groom was attended by Mr David Hooper of Edmonton, and Mr. Clarke James of Red Deer, brother of the groom. Mr. Bill Drever, brother of the bride, and Mr. John Muirhead, cousin of the groom, served as ushers

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Drever chose a two-piece double-knit suit of Spanish Coral, complemented by a dark brown feathered hat tinted with gold, and dark brown accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations and stephanotis. The groom's mother chose an aqua printed brocade shantung dress with a white feathered hat and accessories. Her corsage of white and apricot matched her jewellery.

A reception for approximately 100 guests, held at the I.O.O.F. Hall was presided over by Mr. Ken Drever, Master of Ceremonies. The hall was attractively decorated with apple-green and white streamers and bells. The head table was laid with a lime tablecloth with apricot candles in holders, decorated in apricot and green, on either side of the bride's wedding cake. The cake, made by the gride's mother, was beautifully decorated by Mrs. Don Wilder Mr Cyril Drever, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride, which was responded in by the groom. On behalf of the bride and groom, Mr. Dahl Verne proposed a toast to the Ladies of the Royal Purple, expressing thanks for their excellent job of catering to the wedding. Brief comments were made by Mr. J. L. Muirhead, the groom's grandfather, and Reverend W. G. Zwicker

Telegrams of congratulations were read from numerous friends and relatives. Among them were congratulations from Belfast, Ireland, Australia and Hawaii. Following the reading of the telegrams, the Ladies of the Royal Purple served a delicious meal. The guest book was attended by Miss Yvon Drever

Open House was held at the Hall from 7:30 to 10:30 where many friends called to express their congratulations and good wishes to complete this happy event.

For her travelling outfit, the bride wore a rust and gold figured A-line dress with sleeve wave with a matching jacket, and black accessories.

After a honeymoon to Waterton Lakes and various summer resorts in Alberta, the happy couple will reside in Edmonton.

Out of town guests included those from Nelson, B.C., Edmonton, Calgary, Red Deer, Buck Lake, Camrose, Lloydminster and Ponoka.

To JOIN, you simply complete a membership application, pay a 25c membership fee, and proceed to build your share savings account

SHARES Represent your accumulation of savings dollars and each share is valued at $5.00. DIVIDENDS are paid on share accounts at the end of each calendar year (December 31st) and they are directly related to your shares account so it has been built up over the year. In Flagstaff Savings & Credit Union our dividend rate for 1965 was 5%

Savings & Loans are also insured in most cases.

Our Credit Union has group life insurance contracts in force with our own Insurance Society — Cuna Mutual, that provide very valuable coverage for our members. The Life Savings contract insures dollar for dollar the life savings of our members to a maximum of $2,500 on amounts deposited prior to age 55 and at reduced rates for deposits made between age 55 and 70 The Loan Protection Contract provides that, in most cases, "the debt shall die with the debtor" and loans outstanding are insured for untimely death prior to age 70 and for total & permanent disability prior to age 60

Note Well: There is no direct charge to the member for this valuable protection.

The COSTS OF BORROWING by our members is controlled by the Credit Union Act and our present rate of interest is ONE PER CENT PER MONTH ON THE UNPAID BALANCE, i.e. 12% per year It is important to note, however, that this rate, applied to a regularly reducing loan balance (retired by regular monthly payments) provides the members with insured loans at a cost of only $6.50 per year for each $100.00 borrowed (6 1/2% odd on interest) This is the true COST OF BORROWING FROM YOUR CREDIT UNION There are no other service charges.

Here is an example of how doing BUSINESS WITH HIS OWN ORGANIZATION benefited one of our members: — he wanted to purchase a car priced at $600.00 over a period of 18 months. Finance company charges on the transaction would have amounted to $126.00 WITHOUT life insurance.

Our member BORROWED FROM HIS CREDIT UNION and having met his obligations of repayment, paid only $48.33 in interest. saved $11.25 and in the meantime, he knew his loan balance was insured against his untimely death or unfortunate disability.

We know we have a FINE ORGANIZATION & invite YOU to join us!

THE VALUE OF STRAW TO THE SOIL!

Have you ever stopped to calculate the amount of money you have thrown away every time you burn your stubble?

According to A. W. Goettel, Supervisor of Soils, the value of nitrogen and phosphorous lost, at current fertilizer prices, when stubble from a 40 bushel an acre wheat crop is burned, is about $3.05 per acre. In the case of an 80 bushel to the acre oat crop or a 65 bushel barley crop, the loss would be approximately $4.10 and $3.40 per acre respectively

Mr Goettel points out that nitrogen is not released for use by subsequent crops until the straw has completely decomposed. This is the reason a commercial fertilizer containing nitrogen should be applied to the soil while the decomposition process is in progress.

The organic matter from straw is also one of the most important physical constituents of the soil It improves such properties of the soil as its ability to absorb water, its capacity to hold water, and its capacity for aeration. Crops reasonably grow without the proper proportions of water and air. Since Alberta soils are usually low in organic matter, and moisture is one of our limiting factors in crop production, the value of straw as a source of organic matter at $10 per acre.

A good straw cover is vitally important to protect soil against the wind and water erosion Mr Goettel says straw should be returned to the soil on sloping land where the threat of water erosion is always present, to sandy soil where wind erosion is always a hazard, to heavy clay soil where tilth, the workability and internal drainage are constant problems, to saline (alkali) soils which greatly benefit from any form of organic matter, and to soils which are low in fertility.

A common argument used by the farmer who burns his stubble is that this practice increases crop yields. Although research shows there may be an increase of one or two bushels per acre, this yield increase is by no means certain or always present. Even if it is, the value of the straw for soil protection would far outweigh the value of the increased yield.

Another argument frequently used is that stubble burning kills the weed seeds. This is false. Tests conducted with diesel fuel have shown that the heat generated by burning stubble has little effect on weeds or weed seeds.

Information on methods of incorporating straw, that is heavy, into the soil can be obtained from your District Agriculturist.

THE LONG VIGIL. The rest of the year will seem like an eternity to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Trescott and Isabel LeBourdais (centre) as they wait for a final judgement to be rendered by the Canadian Supreme Court, following Steven Trescott's dramatic hearing on his conviction seven years ago for the non-slaying of 13-year-old Lynne Harper.

Baptists Turn Sod For New Parsonage

Rev. Nethercott was in charge of the Sunday morning service, with a representative of the British and Foreign Bible Society in charge of the evening service. We were very happy to welcome a new member to the membership of our church during the morning service.

Rev. Nethercott led in a short sod-turning ceremony following the morning service on the 1st month of the church. when Mr. Otav Pederson, a charter member of the church, turned the first sod in preparation for the erection of a new parsonage.

The Young People met at the Coyne home on Friday night with 20 young people in attendance. A layman from the church spoke on the topic "I Dare You To Be Different". It was decided to purchase an electric typewriter for the church and this project would be accepted by the young people.

Thought For The Week:

Carl Wolf once said, "The telegraph, with all its speed and efficiency, is dependent upon the messenger for success. He must make prompt delivery of the messages he wires himself, give Christians and their willingness to accept the responsibility of the great commission, depends the success of the gospel message".

YOUR CHILD AND HIS CLOTHES

It's amazing, isn't it, how quickly children can grow out of their clothes. Fortunately there are certain features to look for that will extend the wearing period.

When buying these back-to-school clothes, the following suggestions will help stretch the clothing dollar for you.

Deep Hem — Other variations such as a double hem or let out tucks at hems will also help to give more allowance to growth.

Cuffs — Adjustable or turn-up cuffs on sleeves and pant legs will be a real growth asset.

Avoid Waistlines — An adjustable hem will be of little help if the dress is too short in the waist. Therefore try to steer away from garments with waistline seams at the natural waistline. In to-day's fashion world, this is remarkably easy. Skimmer dresses with no waistline at all,empire or dropped waistlines and dresses with panel will allow room for inches of new growth. You can be practical yet in fashion in the same dress. When sewing, you can allow growing room by sewing a tuck at the waistline.

Separates — On two piece outfits for more lengthwise body growth, than one piece garments.

Wide Seam Allowances — Lets the items in ready-made clothes. It is very easy to increase the seam allowance to one inch if you sew.

Sleeves — Do avoid not-in sleeves if possible as they bind the arm and shoulder so soon as the garment starts to feel a bit snug. The sleeveless garments allow for the greatest amount of growth along the shoulders and are a good choice for the warmer weather. Raglan or kimono sleeves will also allow for growth.

Fabric — Select fabrics that can be let down or let out nicely. Velveteen for example will show hem marks and seam marks.

What About Shoes? — Shoes are the item which should not be bought with growth in mind. Don't allow a size larger for growth as this will not give the support needed to develop strong, straight feet. Shoes that are too small will restrict foot growth and lead to crooked toes.

It may be expensive to keep a child in properly fitted shoes during the time he is growing the most, but it will pay off in the end.

TIME TO RENEW
1966 — FIFTY-EIGHTH YEAR — 1966 SEDGEWICK, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3RD, 1966 Volume 57 — Number 25

HALLOWE'EN NIGHT — Last Monday was Hallowe'en and most homes in the area witnessed a parade of ghosts, witches, etc. past their doors for several hours as the youngsters "trick or treated". It was a cold evening and this may have dampened activities. After the children had their fun and were safely home, the older generation celebrated at a number of Masquerade Dances in the various communities.

REMEMBRANCE DAY FRIDAY, NOV. 11TH

Remembrance Day this year falls on a Friday, and services will be held in towns and villages in honor of those who gave their lives in two world wars. The public is invited to attend.

Groups will be selling Poppies and Wreaths prior to Nov. 11th.

Show your appreciation by wearing a Poppy.

Record No. Teams In Bowling League

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick Mixed Bowling League rolled off in a grand start this season, on Sunday, October 23rd, with a record number of teams entered. The two lanes at the Rec Centre are busy every week night, and because of the number of teams, one draw is to be on Saturday night and two on Sunday nights.

Plans have been finalized for the Bowlers' Ball on November 26th in the Community Hall, with music by the Kinsmen. Tickets are available from Mel McKeage.

Inquiries have been made regarding membership in the Alberta 5-pin Bowling Assn., but have not been finalized as yet.

The Sedgewick League draws its members from a large area including Hardisty, Lougheed, Killam and Galahad, and districts, as well as a great number locally. Anyone interested in sparing in the league are invited to call the Rec Manager and register soon.

KILLAM — An Induction Service was held at the Killam Baptist Church on Thursday evening, the 27th of October. H. Heartberg was chairman, and introduced Rev. and Mrs. Nethercott and family.

Mrs. Munro presented Mrs Nethercott with a corsage of red roses on behalf of the W. M. S. Scripture and dedicatory prayer was given by Rev. Wingblade of Wetaskiwin.

Following a solo by Miss Betty Gordash, Gordon Johnson brought greetings from the Ferintosh Baptist Church. Ted Roth also extended a welcome on behalf of the Forestburg Baptist Church. A clarinet solo, "Jesus Is Always There" was rendered by Walter Bartimus. Rev. Kashai brought greetings from the local churches, followed by a reading by Mrs. Orr.

Words of welcome were extended by Darlene Coyne to the Nethercott young people, and by Lawrence Abbott to the family. This was followed by a duet by Mrs. Semenuk and Mrs Bartimus.

A Charge to the church was given by Rev. Wm. Adams of the Gold Bar Baptist Church, and a Charge to the Pastor by Rev. H. Mattsson of the Ebenezer Baptist Church at Wetaskiwin. Rev. Nethercott gave the response and the benediction

Several slides were shown of the Nethercott family including the 3 eldest who are living in the United States. A luncheon in the lower auditorium finalized the evening, with Rev. Sipla asking the blessing and reading letters of welcome.

Board Of Trade To Hold Ladies-Newcomers Night

SEDGEWICK — The regular monthly supper meeting of Sedgewick District Board of Trade, was held on October 19th with fourteen members in attendance.

The minutes were read, and the treasurer's report given, both of which were accepted.

The ringing a fire siren at 6-00 o'clock was discussed and it was the opinion of the meeting that it should be sounded at this time, as well as at the noon hour.

The Board decided to hold their annual Ladies and Newcomers' Night on November 16th. A survey of newcomers is being undertaken, and board members will endeavor to contact a couple and take them to the Night as guests.

Radio Station CFCN is to be given requested information on Sedgewick, for a radio salute.

Some discussion took place re the suggested TV booster station in the area, and it was decided to compile information for use in a request for such a booster station.

41 Boys Register For Cubs & Scouts

KILLAM — Forty-one boys were registered at the Cubs and Scouts Registration Supper in the Elks hall on October 21st. The event was a huge success, with an almost 100 percent turnout of parents with their boys. Mr. Vern Nielsen, the chairman of the group committee, was M. C. and called upon the Rev. Peterson for grace Following the supper a toast to the Queen was given by Scout Lionel Peterson.

Mr. Nielsen welcomed everyone and thanked them for coming. He also extended a vote of thanks to all who participated in making the car wash and bottle and battery drive such a success.

The head table guests were introduced, after which Mr. Nielsen called upon Mr. Alex Hirsch, District Commissioner of Wildrose District of Camrose, to explain to the boys and their parents where their $5.50 registration fee went. We now know it goes a long way. Mr. Hirsch also encouraged the group to form a ladies auxiliary, and offered to come to Killam and help get organized at any time.

Mr. Stan Coyne introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Ernie Kenzie, Staff Sgt of the Red Deer R C M P, who holds the position of Provincial Commissioner for Alberta of the Cubs and Scouts. He gave an informative talk on Scouting. He suggested that if countries would cooperate as the boys do we would have peace in the world. Following the address the speaker presented three new Scout Leaders, Allen Fossen, Bob Ley and Herb Finch.

Mr. Lorne Parr of Forestburg, asked to be relieved of his duties as District Commissioner. Staff Sgt Mr Al Falkingham of Stroome consented to accept the position. He was elected by vote from the office by Ernie Komm.

Visiting guests from out of town were Mr Lorne Parr and Mr A Fredlund, president of Flagstaff District from Forestburg, and Mr. N. Nickerson of Stroome, secretary of Flagstaff District.

Rams Finish 1966 Season

SEDGEWICK — Central Hi Rams played the last game of the 1966 football schedule on Saturday afternoon at the Rec Centre. Rams held the league leading Lutheran College to 13 points.

The Ram defensive team was particularly good against the tough College team, holding them scoreless in the first quarter and giving up only six points in the first half. Because the defensive team was on the field much more than half the time, the effects of over-work began to show late in the game and Camrose managed a few real gains yet were unable to score.

College managed one touchdown in the second half when they intercepted a Ram pass and ran it back for the major which with the convert made the score 13 to 0. The interception came deep in the Ram backfield just two plays after the Central team had grabbed off a College pass and were starting to move the ball.

On the offence the Rams were never able to gain much ground, and couldn't penetrate very deep into opposition territory. Several individuals in the offensive lineup show good promise, and with another year's experience the Rams could come back to again upset the league.

Welfare Competition!

For the past few years the provinces have been demanding more and more money from Ottawa. Yearly they are seeking a greater share of the tax revenue. While doing this the provinces have also insisted that the federal authorities stay out of those fields which come strictly under provincial jurisdiction. A good case in point is the field of education. Here the provinces have sole jurisdiction except in vocational training. But provincials have over-spent in the unceasing effort to keep pace with the times and the demands of the public and this has led to the demand on Ottawa for the senior government to provide more and more of the wherewithal to meet the need. At the same time the secondary governments resent any intrusion of the senior government into provincial jurisdiction.

The same arguments apply in the fields of health and welfare, where provinces have been competing with each other in giving the best and most in looking after the requirements and the demands of their people.

It has always been the opinion of this column that he who pays the piper should also call the tune, and here is where bones of contention are chewed to absolute nothingness. It is also the opinion of the writer that real, strong and stable central government in an absolute necessity if Canada is to function as a great nation. With the provinces continually baying at the heels of Ottawa for more money and a greater share in the tax revenues, simply and clearly indicates that provincial governments lack the fortitude to call a halt to high spending, and the courage to raise its own tax levels to take care of it. At the same time refusing to recognize that when Ottawa hands out more money, it must also raise the tax burden on the public. Whichever level of government carries on such tactics, the cost is transferred to the tax-payer, for it is he who must pay the shot for everything.

Is It Worth Saving?

At a recent meeting of the Commonwealth premiers over in London. It was nip and tuck for a time whether the Commonwealth could be held together any longer. So bitter was the contention between member nations that unity was dispaired of. Out of this came the fact, according to Blair Frazer of Macleans, that Canada's Prime Minister Pearson is credited with saving the Commonwealth. Mr. Pearson was the author of the final communique which came out of the meeting, considered as a triumphant achievement. But is the Commonwealth worth saving?

Days of continual bickering, mostly over the Rhodesian situation, along with the ever-widening cracks in the wall of Commonwealth solidarity, can hardly be overcome by the patching up of the Commonwealth premiers' meeting. No amount of compromise is likely to produce harmony between the Afro-Asians and Britain, Australia and New Zealand. Australia was once one of the main pillars of the Commonwealth, but sent delegates to the meeting who were indifferent to the Commonwealth, and who pointed out that in its present form it was of little use to Australia.

While condemning the Viet Nam situation and the U. S. policy, some delegates advocated a get-tough policy in Rhodesia. This difference along with the chronic financial troubles in the Sterling areas, and the growing dominence of the U. S. in the Pacific, has caused Australia to adopt a so-what attitude toward the Commonwealth. And without that country's support, the whole concept of the British Commonwealth of Nations becomes vulnerable.

The Ringing Grooves Of Political Changes!

The special committee appointed by the federal government to study and report on election expenses has done so. If its recommendations are made law by the government and accepted by the electorate, there will be a political "millennium" in Canada.

The first recommendation is that the election campaigns be restricted to four weeks. We heartily agree with that idea. Then it stipulates that each political party must reveal its source of revenue. That is going to be a stickler. Then candidates spending is to be restricted to 10c for each voter in each constituency. What a hope!

The hours of campaigning on radio and television are also to be restricted, Spending on newspaper advertising, direct mailing, bill boards, etc., is to be limited. Newspapers must not boost rates for political advertising. Wow! Polling of the electorate, such as the famous Gallup Poll is not to be publicized. It never was much of a success in Canada anyway.

Now here comes a honey! Candidates are to have a portion of their campaign costs paid by government subsidy. That means that all of us voters will have to help to pay politician to get a position paying $18,000 a year of which $6,000 is income tax free.

If candidates, winners or losers, are found guilty of breaching the regulations the code provides that they shall be subject to fines as high as $1,000, and imprisonment for as long as one year. That goes for party leaders too. We have no quarrel with that. — Brooks Bulletin.

THAT TYPOGRAPHICAL

The typographical error is a slippery thing and sly,
You can hunt it till you're dizzy, but it somehow will get by.
Till the forms are off the presses it is strange how still it keeps;
It shrinks into a corner, and it never stirs or peeps.
That typographical error, too small for human eyes,
Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size.
The boss, he stares with horror, then he grabs his hair and groans;
The copyreader drops his head upon his hands and moans —
The remainder of this issue may be clean as clean can be,
But that typographical error is the only thing you see.

The Letter Box

Dear Mr. Editor—

It was in your office the other day, and saw the array of 1966 vegetables you have on display. A short time before I had read in the Community Press of the record crops grown in Western Canada this year. How thankful we should be to the Great Provider. But I wonder just how thankful we really are? Do we take all this for granted, and as our right because we live where we do? — Grateful & Thankful.

Mr. Editor —

What a disgusting & disgraceful sight met the eyes of the public last Monday and Tuesday, in the filthy writings on the store windows in downtown Sedgewick. What kind of depraved & contorted minds can come up with such things? — Disgusted.

SOW THE WIND

Sow the wind. it warns in the Old Testament, and you shall reap the whirlwind.

It is a warning that crowds into the mind with regard to the rash of illegal strikes that has broken out across Canada, and particularly to the mass of strikers who defied police and union leaders and virtually seized the Steel Company of Canada's Hamilton works.

"The strike," says a news report, "was sparked by fewer than 300 workers, many of whom manned the plant instructing other workers to leave their jobs. Some strikers broke into supplier plants, which are not part of the Stelco group, and cut power cables to try to force workers to leave posts. The strike appeared to have been well organized, but neither the union nor the company could identify those behind it. Some attributed it to young hotheads, others to Communists and still others to a group of Canadian nationalists within the union."

It may be an unwelcome truth, but labor's leaders have contributed to this spirit of lawlessness. They have long tolerated disrespect and disdain for "the boss". Recently they have fomented defiance of the law. When the leaders of illegal mass picketing at Peterborough, Ontario, were convicted and sentenced, one labor leader denounced the judge as impertinent; another told the prisoners, "If we can't find ways of conforming to the directions of the court we will have to disobey the court order"; another counselled union members all over Ontario to go out and protest the offence, and added that the province would need new jails to hold all the union lawbreakers.

Tax Increase Coming

OTTAWA— Canadian taxpayers had better brace themselves. They are in for some stiff tax increases.

They have had warnings from Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp and the latest is hint that Federal taxes will have to go up is from Industry Minister L. B. Pearson.

The Finance Minister will be bringing down a baby budget in mid-November. He told the House of Commons last month that because of the inflationary pressures the Government has been forced to postpone ideli-cure one year to become effective July 1, 1968. It has been necessary to postpone other important Federal programs until the economic pressures ease off and inflation begins to fade away he said.

Meantime the federal finance experts are studying the economy and determining just how serious the present inflationary pressures have become. Some economic experts are cautioning the Government that it may have gone too far already. They warn that the brakes have been applied so hard they might cause a slump, into a recession.

Governor Louis Rasminsky of the Bank of Canada reiterated his previous warnings about inflation by telling a joint Senate-Commons committee that "we must search for more effective measures and better combinations of policies to reconcile the goals of responsible price stability and sustained economic growth".

A group of 10 instructors and professors of economics at Ottawa's Carleton University said that the Federal Government may be fighting a straw man with its anti-inflationary restraints. They claim that Canada has not experienced too much over-all demands for goods and services as frequently stated by Finance Minister Sharp in recent speeches. They concluded that price increases that have appeared can be traced to "mismatching of supply and demand in some particular sectors of the Canadian economy".

The Federal economic experts are now seeking to determine if the repressive baby budget forecast for late October or early November is new in order. They have put back the date of the budget, hoping that by mid-November it will be more clear how the economy is reacting to anti-inflationary moves introduced in the main budget last Spring.

However, Prime Minister Pearson let it be known at the opening of the annual Federal - Provincial conference October 24 outlined new proposals for the provincial premiers. He said the summit meetings are "among the most important in Canada in recent years". He noted that Finance Minister Sharp's completely new plan for fiscal equalization and suggested new approach to shared-cost programs would be under detailed examination.

"When these proposals were put forward it was said they would be supplemented by arrangement with respect to the rapidly rising needs of the provinces in meeting the growing costs of higher education. For this reason, the first of our meetings this week concern the financing of higher education", said Mr. Pearson.

The Prime Minister offered the provinces over $95 million more next year for higher education with additional amounts to come in the years ahead. He said the Federal Government is willing to pay half of the operating costs of education plus all the costs of job training for adults, the latter amounting to $100,000,000 next year.

Having offered to raise the ante for education as bliss the provinces would be able to meet the rapidly rising costs in their respective sections of the nation Mr. Pearson had to mention how he was going to get the money. He said:

"I feel bound to point out that the cost of this support for higher education must be carried by the taxpayers of Canada in one way or another — including the replacement of the revenue transferred".

That was the ticking bomb for the taxp.yers. It will go off soon in their pocketbooks when the Federal Government imposes increased taxes to meet the load of the new offers to the provinces.

The Federal Government and provincial administrations have been on a collision course for some years now over their respective needs. At the Federal-Provincial conference the crunch came. The meeting opened with discussions on education. Later the conference turned to the findings of the tax structure committee and the Finance Minister and Premiers went back into formal session to consider what course the 11 Governments will follow in the years ahead.

The existing five-year tax agreement is due to expire March 31st, 1967. The Federal Government would like to get a new five year agreement signed. But most of the premiers during the conference appeared to prefer a one-year extension — with improvements — of the existing agreement. When this was written it was not clear what the outcome would be.

The provinces are all concerned about mounting education costs. It remains for provincial responsibility under the constitution But the provinces argue that they must have the financial resources to meet this first priority. They argued that the impact of the costs of education must be transferred from the local taxpayers to the senior levels of government.

The premiers and the Federal Government set up a tax structure committee two years ago

Wheat Crop Sets New Record

MONTREAL, Oct. 28 — Record and near - record crops from the current harvest, higher productivity on the farm and favorable world demand indicates that the outlook for Canadian farmers is bright, according to the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for October, just issued.

The B of M notes that this year's wheat harvest, estimated at 569 million bushels, is 16 per cent more than the previous record set in 1963. "Average yields were about 21 per cent higher than in 1963 and at 27 1/2 bushels per acre were the greatest ever achieved in Canadian history. Acreage seeded to wheat was also an all-time record."

Allowing for the large shipments earmarked for the U.S.S.R., China and Eastern Europe, the bumper crop this year is expected to leave a carryover of close to 600 million bushels, despite any doubts that stocks would be ample to meet all requirements

Most of the recent increases in Canada's wheat exports is the result of the large sales in these new markets, while sales to the traditional markets are only marginally higher and those to Great Britain and E.E.C countries have declined.

INCOME UP

As might be expected from the good results from wheat, the yield and production of the other principal field crops . . . have on the whole been excellent also," the B of M continues.

Farm cash receipts from all farming operations were up substantially in the first six months of this year, compared with the same period last year.

"It is interesting to note some long run trends which have been evident in the distribution of farm cash receipts by source. In the period 1926-30, wheat receipts accounted for almost 40 per cent of farm cash income but, by 1956, this percentage had fallen to 20 per cent and, in 1965, stood only slightly higher at 24 per cent. Even on the prairies, wheat's contribution has fallen from nearly 70 per cent in the late 1920's to less than 60 per cent in 1965.

It is also noteworthy that, as sources of farm cash receipts, the relative positions of livestock and products on the one hand and crops on the other have been reversed since 1939-39 when the former accounted for 42 per cent and the latter for 53 per cent. By 1965 the contribution made by livestock was almost 56 per cent and that by crops only 43 per cent.

"Such shifts are to be expected in a world where consuming preferences are constantly changing in where eating habits tend to move away from grains towards meat as incomes rise.

"Nevertheless, in global terms, in a world in which population and effective demand are increasing, total markets for food of all kinds are certain to expand rapidly in coming years.

HIGHER PRODUCTIVITY

"Canadian farmers are aware of the possibilities inherent in this situation and are not just relying on favorable weather to produce bigger and better crops.

"In recent years, for example, hundreds, adding substantially to the acreage under cultivation, they have sharply increased the efficiency of farm implements and equipment and bought fertilizers in record amounts."

In addition, federal and provincial departments of agriculture and research organizations of private firms and universities have been actively engaged in research designed to increase agricultural productivity

"Last, indeed productivity in agriculture has been rising rapidly in the post-war period agricultural output per man-hour has on the average risen by 5.5 per cent, compared with 4.1 per cent for all commercial activities. The growth in the station has been particularly good."

"With productivity up and world demand factors favorable, further gains in the agricultural sector of the economy seem assured."

Indeed, surely - establisher production records in farming have not been able to stand for long in recent years and, in present circumstances, it will not be surprising if the records set by this past season's tremendous performance are significantly exceeded within the next few years," the B of M Business Review concludes

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

HERE GOES NOTHING

Ever try to shave, let those wrists write, when your nose is dripping like a tap in a tenement, you are barking top chunks of lung, your body is crawling with hot and cold needles, and you could fry an egg on your forehead?

Yep, I've got the flu. Don't worry, I won't go on about it. Every virus - hot-blooded Canadian knows all about the flu. But don't expect a sparkling column this week. Along with those symtoms, my brain is about as agile as a basketful of wet kleenex.

But, by golly, tonight is the night of the staff party, and I'm going if it kills me. If this space is blank next week, with a black border around it, don't send flowers, just send the equivalent in cash to my wife. Flowers aren't much use to a good-looking widow with two kids to educate.

And don't grieve or sing sad songs. Just muse, "Well, he went the way he always wanted to go, smelling strong of Dr. Walker's cough syrup and dancing what he thought was the Watusi with the smashing young blonde who just joined the English Department."

But that doesn't solve the problem of curing that cobwebs, does it? Well, I'm going to swing in all directions, as if you aren't a swinger, you can stop reading this and turn to the grocery ads, which are about the most exciting and frustrating reading you can find these days.

Speaking of which, did you ever see such prices? I don't know who is pocketing the loot — farmer, middle-man or retailer — but they won't even let you belly up to the meat counter these days unless you have a bar of gold bullion.

Wedding anniversaries. I bought 20 yellow roses of my wife on our twentieth anniversary. She squealed with ecstasy. It was very romantic, especially when I told her I'd paid for them with a cheque on our joint account.

But these little romantic gestures really pay off! Three days later, for no better reason than that a tap in the bathroom has been dripping for six weeks, she yanked the fading flowers out of the vase, beat me around the face and ears with them, threw and all, and hurled the whole over-ripe mess I came up smelling like a yellow rose and she came up to the bedroom, helped me wash the blood, and fixed the tap herself.

Teenage girls. Somebody sent me a London, Ont., paper for some. One columnist, obviously a girl, was sounding off, in disgust with her sisters. This was her pungent observation: "Today's young female goes through over something that walks around in high heels, tight pants and long locks of hair hanging to its shoulders. Girls today are robbed of their sex in more ways than one." Ain't she right?

Drivers. I have always been a nice man, but I am fed up, right to the core, with the arrogance. No carelessness, and the refusal to compromise displayed by many unless this year. How about you?

Leaders. The parental game called "Dump Dad" is popular again. I think he should have retired, full of years, honors, and malarkey, long since. But I can't help admiring the old will as the pack tries to drag him down. He is a fighter, and there aren't many left.

Advertising. I don't agree with the speaker, but I found the following, coming from a big [illegible] man, the most refreshing statement in my read for many a day:

"The simple truth is that people don't give a damn about advertising. They never have and they never will . . . People don't carry about advertising, they care about things.

"They care about things that touch them happy or beautiful or fat or sober or drunk or alive or human; things that entertain them, interest them, enrich them, protect them or profit them. But they don't give a tuppenny damn about ads."

A melancholy picture of the human race. Do you agree?

Soil Management Will Increase Next Years Crop

Early last spring we made some statements that we can now look back on and say were true

First, we said that if there are over 24 inches of mmst soil in a stubble field it is safe to seed it back to crop Second, stubble land should be fertilized Yields more than proved this combination is hard to beat. Some districts in southern Saskatchewan received as little as 1 1 2 inches of moisture from April 1st to August 1st, yet stubble crops yielded from 12 to 15 bushels of wheat per acre Where these crops were fertilized, yields were from 20 to 25 bushels per acre The point that should be emphasized is that if conditions are such as to warrant seeding stubble crops, then it is worth going all the way and applying adequate fertilizer

The only way you can tell what analysis and rates of fertilizer are required is to take a soil test While doing the actual sampling you can also determine to what depth there is moisture in the soil. Soil is considered moist when it will stick in a ball when squeezed in your hand

Fall seed bed preparation of stubble land can mean the difference between success or failure with stubble crops Stubble should never be burned off Research has found that returning straw to the soil, particularly when straw chopper 34 inches of mmst soil in a stubble field it is safe to seed it back to crop Second, stubble land should be fertilized Yields more than proved this combination is hard to beat. Have you ever wondered...

...what precautions are taken to prevent breaks in Alberta's oil and gas pipelines?

Pipeline safety is a team effort in Alberta industry and the Pipe Line Division of the Alberta Department of Mines and Minerals. From the specifications stage to actual operations, continuous safety checks are carried out by the Division's engineers and inspectors. All specifications are checked prior to construction and the finished line must pass a test under greater pressure than that which will be used in operation. A continuous program of inspection is maintained on lines where there is a danger of corrosion and all pipelines are checked for maintenance of safety factors. With 17,338 miles of pipelines in the Province, breaks do sometimes occur and these are investigated immediately. The line must be restored to conditions which meet the original safety standards before it is put back into operation. If the repair fails to satisfy the Division Inspector it must be re-done and, if it is still not satisfactory, he may order a re-testing of the entire line.

...how Alberta's fur farmers are kept informed?

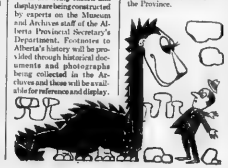
The men and women who raise Alberta's multi-million dollar fur crop each year must be kept up to date on all technical improvements and changes if they are to keep their output up and their overhead down. The Fur Farms Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture keeps them well informed, through the distribution of written information and technical material, as well as by means of field days, educational meetings and live shows staged by the Branch. Regular ranch inspections and visitations by Fur Farms Branch personnel also help maintain the industry which last year was valued at over three million dollars.

... who acts as the "steadying influence" for municipal tax assessments?

Alberta municipalities have three choices come assessment time. They can do the job themselves, hire an outside agency, or call on the Alberta Department of Municipal Affairs for assistance. The latter move is by far the most popular because not only does the Department supply trained specialists to do the job, it also absorbs 25 per cent of the cost. All but three or four of Alberta's small towns and villages (and many of the rural municipalities) take advantage of this service and those municipal assessments which are done by other means, with the exception of those in cities, are subject to supervision and inspection by the Assessment Branch. The Branch also assists the smaller cities with their assessment programs and is providing an increasing service in rural assessment.

... how you could see into Alberta's history?

Albertans will soon be able to take a trip into their Province's past by visiting the new Provincial Museum and Archives of Alberta to be opened in 1967. Displays of birds, mammals, plants, fossils and rocks will tell the story of the Province's natural history while artifacts from days gone by will portray the history of the pioneers and Indians. Specimens are being chosen and displays are being constructed by experts on the Museum and Archives staff of the Alberta Provincial Secretary's Department. Footnotes to Alberta's history will be provided through historical documents and photographs being collected in the Archives and these will be available for reference and display.



...what the "social resources" of Alberta are?

Social resources are activities which are available to all members of a community to allow them to enrich their physical, mental, spiritual and social well-being. It is these resources which must be developed to the full in order to give every Alberta family the chance to live more happily, more creatively, and to prevent family breakdown wherever possible. Working with the municipalities, the Social Planning Branch of the Alberta Department of Public Welfare is establishing a program which is designed to provide supportive help to family life. Under this program, each municipality appoints a director who is responsible for program development such as volunteer services, leadership for family life education and stimulation for leisure time activities. The Department of Public Welfare will accept 80 per cent of the cost of these programs to encourage the opportunity for individual and family well-being throughout the Province.

...why you need a permit to hunt antelope in Alberta!

The main reason is to keep the Province's antelope population at a reasonable level, not to mention the harmful effects of the carrying capacity of the area on which they live; not to forget that hunting them will have to be discontinued. From studies of the herds and their habitat, the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests are faced with reasonably accurate how many antelope can be killed without seriously affecting the survival of the herd. The number controls the number of permits which are issued. To go even to hunter an equal chance at his antelope, successful applicants are selected by a draw and each receives a permit which tells him where he can hunt, when he can hunt, and what the limit is. In this way, all Alberta hunters can be sure that there will still be antelope around for their sport next year.

Centennial Arriving At The Right Time

Don't underestimate the good effect the Centennial celebrations are going to have on Canada

The Centennial is coming just at the right time a time when many Canadians are beginning to feel they have too long been subjected to the crying of the beefers the whiners and the knockers. You know the kind I mean — the ones who do nothing but wring their hands and predict that the country is about to come apart at the provincial seams, that, alas, there is naught to do but woefully sit and watch the disintegration.

The idea of Canada disintegrating, I imagine, was merely a novelty of the mind thought up by the doom-criers as a publicity and best to use the language of the television age, it has been "over-exposed" It has been exhausted in the public prints along the public sound waves to the point where most Canadians are yawning

I think we are all eager and ready for a refreshing change. We want to consider the bright future for Canada which we know, down deep, to be probable as well as possible

During 1967 we will hear and see plenty about the kind of Canada we picture for the future Just as an example, consider "Second Century Week", a gathering of 1,100 students, form all across Canada, on the two campuses of the University of Alberta and the University of Calgary next March Grants from the Alberta and federal governments are assisting the universities in this Centennial year project It is the students in our society who often spark the action necessary to put new ideas in motion and the theme of their "Second Century Week" gathering is that the Centennial is a bridge to the future — a future involving opportunities so great that they are bound to overshadow the temporarily unsolved problems of Canada

Throughout 1967 events and words also will help refresh the original dream of a great Canada which the Fathers of Confederation started on the way to reality when they met at Prince Edward Island 100 years ago. For example more books, poems, essays and plays on the story of Canada are being published than at any other time in the country's history We estimate that several hundreds will find a place on the Canadiana shelves More than 100 are being produced with the help of Centennial Commission grants alone. In addition commercial publishers, churches and other institutions are bringing out many more during Centennial

Through books and plays the glamor, the drama and the excitement in the story of Canada so often missing in history books, and so long neglected by the majority of publishers, will stir new pride in our country More writers and publishers will be challenging the whole of our country to show it can live up to its potential greatness in the 20th century

I believe the Centennial celebrations will be for Canada what a good spring cleaning does for a house that's been too long closed up for the winter months.

The year 1967 will be a time for a new, fresh outlook, a time when we open the doors and windows of our minds, let in the fresh air and clean out the cobwebs. A country with such a potential has no place for cobwebs.

ERGOT IN GRAIN CROPS!

The amount of ergot occuring in grain crops, particularly in rye and durum wheat, was unusually heavy this year in certain districts of the Prairies

Importance — Ergot attacks rye wheat, especially durum wheat barley, sometimes oats, and many different grasses in the heads of diseased plants. hard, dark, horn like fungous growths (ergot bodies) take the place of the true kernels Ergot is an important disease of grain crops for two reasons. First, it causes losses in yield and grade Second, the ergot bodies are quite highly poisonous to man and animals If eaten by animals they may cause abortion, loss of hooves, tails and ears

Life Cycle — The ergot bodies that replace the true kernels in grains and grasses fall from the ripened heads in the ground Some others find their way into the harvested grain and are returned to the soil when the contaminated grain is used as seed In the spring the ergot bodies germinate & produce spores at about the time that grains and grasses are in the heading stage These wind borne spores germinate in the flowers of susceptible plants and initiate the sticky, honey-dew stage with its millions of spores These small spores are spread by insects and rain to other plants. In this way the ovaries of the flowers become infected, and instead of producing sound kernels develop into the familiar ergot bodies

Control Measures — No single farm practice can be named that will control the ergot disease. In the prairies however, ergot can be largely prevented by the use of ergot-free seed; by working ergot infested fields deeply so as to bury the ergot bodies to a depth of at least two inches, by mowing grasses near grain fields before they head, and by avoiding the planting of susceptible grain crops, particularly rye and durum wheat, after ergot infested crops. Flax and rapeseed are not attacked by ergot and therefore may be used to advantage in the rotation

DECISIONS AFFECT SWINE INDUSTRY!

The third National Conference of Hog Producers agreed upon the major decisions affecting the Canadian Swine industry, says Mr. A. Beddon Livestock Supervisor with Alberta's Animal Industry Division

First they recommend replacing the present carcass grades by an evaluation system based upon the predicted yield cuts, using weight of carcass in conjunction with the total loin and shoulder backfat measurement Producers would be paid on the basis of quality market prices per pound of trimmed meat

Secondly, they decided to set up a Canadian Swine Council to represent the hog industry in this country, and to work in conjunction with the government and industry to implement the new grading system It is expected that it will be about a year before the new system is in operation because of the many details that must be worked out. says Mr Beddon

The Canadian Swine Council will be made up of representatives of the provincial hog improvement organization, three breed associations and the Canadian Livestock Breeders Assn., along with the Canadian Swine Breeders Assn The board of directors will consist of not more than 17 people. either hog producers or representatives of hog producers

TERRY BURNAT, Jenner

Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year.

Remember those good old carefree teenage days? But being a teenager means anything but a carefree life for 16-year old Terry Burnat. Just before Christmas her mother was killed, and her father injured in a car accident. Since that time she has taken over the management and operation of her farm home, including the supervision and training of her two brothers, 13-year old Teddy and 11-year old Timothy. She attends school in Medicine Hat, but each weekend comes home to do the washing, ironing, cleaning and cooking. Despite this heavy load of responsibility, Terry has done well in school and was an Efficiency Winner in the Jenner 4-H Beef Calf Club.

We congratulate Terry and wish to thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

This is one of a series of Junior Citizen Award announcements. Our special thanks to J. L. Nesbitt, Editor of the Brooks Bulletin and to Terry's nominator, Norma Jean Gear of Brooks.

Tax Increase Coming

to prepare for a new five-year agreement. The two year study of this committee is among the projected costs of various government programs in the light of their anticipated revenues — showed that costs incurred by Provincial - Municipal Governments will far outpace those of the Federal Government

The study showed also that based on the present allocation of tax revenues, the Federal deficits on existing programs will decline, while those of the Provincial - Municipal Governments will rise

It was clear to the Federal & Provincial delegates that a new rationale for tax sharing must be established The tax structure committee made it clear that the provincial requests for additional revenue are not simply raids on the Federal treasury

If the Federal Government cannot come up with proposals that the provinces are prepared to accept for a five-year agreement in the future then it is inevitable that the provinces will face double taxation. This will be reminiscent of the tax jungle of the thirties.

Behind it all loomed the spectre of Quebec making threatening noises about separating from Confederation if it did not get a better deal from the Federal Government But many premiers are coming to regard these threats as "bargaining position". The patience with Quebec is gradually running out This could be bad for the future of Canada.

F.U.A. District 8 Members Hear Paul Babey Speak

LARGE CROWD PLEASES F. U. A. PRESIDENT — Mr. Paul Babey, Alberta President of the Farmers' Union, casts a pleased smile over the capacity crowd attending the District 8 Supper at Daysland. Mr. Babey has just been introduced as guest speaker by Mr. Ernest Kosbik, District director of District 8 and one of the "spark plugs" behind the supper.

DAYSLAND — A large, if not the largest group of FUA members, friends and invited guests, ever to attend a social event in District 8, sat down to a turkey dinner in the new Dayland Community Hall on Friday evening of last week.

"I don't know what it is you've got here in District 8" said guest speaker Paul Babey, "that you can bring out a crowd like this".

The dinner was staged as a "pep" session prior to the annual membership drive which "kicks off" on November 14th.

M. C'd by District Director, Ernest Koshil, the evening got under way with a turkey dinner served by the Ukranian Catholic Women who were hard-pressed to take care of the estimated 300 people present. Mr. Koshil welcomed the huge assembly and expressed his personal satisfaction as the turnout.

Mayor "Bill" Stevens brought the official greetings and welcome from the Town of Dayland. after which the head table guests were introduced. They were W. H. Fraedrich, and Mrs Fraedrich, FWUA Director, Wm Stevens, Mayor; Mrs. Paul Babey, W. R. Hansell, Provincial Membership Chairman, Mrs. Wm. Stevens, Alex Blatz, Dep. Reeve of Flagstaff M. D and Mrs. Blatz; Albert Fossum, Alt. Director and Sub-District Director; Mrs. Albert Fossum; A. E. Edwards, D.A.; Mr Ted Hewlett, Field Supervisor of County of Camrose; Mrs. Herlick., Brian Lee, Field Supervisor M. D. Flagstaff, S. Grasdale, Co-op Insurance and Mrs. Grasdale; Larry Williams, D. A., Camrose and Mrs. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Palrigs, Camrose Canadian; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Matthews, Alliance Enterprise; A. W. and "Ace" Keatly of Community Press Sedgwick; Mrs. Florence Halkem, Alt. FUA Director; Lars Sandahl, Director District 7 and Mrs. Sandahl; A. Falls, Co-op Insurance and Mrs. Falls. Mrs. T Bruce, Secretary District 6, and T Bruce, Bernard Rostaing, Sub-Director; John Ross, Sub District Director and Mrs. Ross, Albert Olson, Notre County of Camrose and Mrs. Olson, Lorne Nielsen, FUA Co-op of Camrose, and Miss Crispen of Camrose

Entertainment was provided during the evening by Mr. and Mrs Rolf Jacobsen with Mrs. Edith Cobeck at the piano, Gene Dear with his guitar from Coaldey, Mrs. R. Dentz of Galahead with Mrs. Stewart at the piano, and Mrs Don Frazier and Accordian of Hardisty.

The catering group was thanked by Mrs Florence Halkem.

W. R. Hansell Membership Chairman and Past Director, spoke very briefly, and urged a full membership as a Centennial Project for 1967 He compared membership dues of other unions which range from $34 to $72. with that of the FUA which stands at $18.00.

In introducing the guest speaker, Mr Paul Babey, the chairman Mr. Koshil, remarked that the Provincial President has been a busy man travelling night and day over the entire province.

Mr Babey, in his opening remarks, reminded those present that they do not belong to the FUA, but the FUA belongs to them — to serve the agricultural community.

The speaker mentioned some of the things the FUA has done for the agricultural industry, such as guiding assistance for farmers who suffered crop failures, the Verigan Bankruptcy and the resulting legislation to cover past indebtedness. Mr. Babey compared wheat prices and the purchasing power of a bushel of wheat from 1920 to the present time when the purchasing power of a bushel of wheat is little. He criticized the ic rise in grain handling charges, emphasized the work being carried on by the FUA regarding legislation on machinery. The speaker urged the pooling of resources on insurance as a means of savings.

The Alberta President had recently visited England, and dwelled briefly on the fact that in that country farm prices are reviewed each year and kept in line with the existing economy In England the heads of farm organizations are consulted regularly and their views considered.

In closing the President said that the membership target is 20,000 seats, and emphasized that this can only be accomplished with the full co-operation of all farmers.

Mr Lars Lerdahl brought greetings from District 7, and to close off the evening Mr Babey showed a number of slides on his recent tour of India, along with interesting personal comments

Illiu success of the affair indicates that it will be an annual event.

Sportsmen's Dinner At Hardisty Nov. 23

HARDISTY — The Hardisty and District Agricultural Association is sponsoring a Sportmen's Dinner on the 23rd of November, at 6:30 p.m.

Known sports personalities will be featured as guests and speakers at this function. Among them will be Cecil "Tiger" Goldstick as M.C. "Tiger" has served for several years as promoter for the Edmonton Oil Kings and other youth organizations. Mr. Goldstick is currently conducting a youth hockey program on CFRN-TV.

The guest speaker is Rabbi Lewis Ginsberg, a highly-rated sports promoter and public speaking personality.

Also highlighting the event will be the participation of the Honorable Robert "Bob" Clark, Minister of the newly introduced Department of Youth in the Provincial Government. Hon. Mr. Clark is a young dynamic member of the Legislature with well-defined concepts of the needs of young people of our day.

Along with those named, will be several other well known hockey curling and football personalities.

Advanced admission tickets, at $10.00 per plate, may be obtained through Les Anderson, phone 888-3780 or 888-3770 at Hardisty.

Statutory Council Meeting

SEDGEWICK — The first statutory meeting of the council of the Town of Sedgewick was held October 24th with Mayor Bailey and all Councillors present. Returning Officer J.B. Cumberland gave his report of nominations and subscribed the newly elected Mayor and Councillors to the Official Oath of Office.

Appointments of Committees and Portfolios was as follows: Deputy Mayor, Coun. A. C. Easly; Natural Gas Board, Mayor Bailey and Coun. Lindquist and Cooper; Flagstaff Lodge, Coun. Buchan; Recreation Centre, Coun. Metz; E. M. O. Coun Djon; Labor, Streets, Sidewalks, Coun. Lindquist and Djon; Fire, Welfare and Sanitation, Crs. Easly and Buchan; Parks, Playgrounds, Recreation, Crs. Metz and Cooper. Mayor Bailey to be ex-officio on all committees.

By mutual agreement of Council, the second Friday of each month at 7:30 p.m. was retained as the regular meeting date.

Secretary Knoeland and Coun. Lindquist were appointed to attend the Annual Convention of Alberta M. D's. in Red Deer on November 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Council was informed that the Kinette Club was interested in erecting street signs, and in a Christmas decorating project. Council thought the ideas were commendable and instructed the secretary to inform the club that council will be pleased to co-operate with them in these undertakings.

The chairman of the Recreation Centre requested a meeting with Council and the Curling Club, and a tentative date of Friday, October 27th was set for the meeting.

A reply from Council's letter to the Attorney General was read advising that the RCMP would be policing all Towns under 1000 population as soon as personal becomes available, and that a grant is now available to these Towns that maintain their own police force. It was moved that the Town apply for a grant to assist in the cost of policing the Town.

A request will be sent to the Department of Lands and Forests requesting them to give a name to our local lake.

The financial statement for Sept. was approved, and the minutes of the Gas Board, Flagstaff Lodge & Recreation Centre were read.

Building permits for the Bank of Montreal and George Gascoyne were approved, and By-law No. 181 covering the sale of Lot 6 and the southerly 30 feet of Lot 5, Block 21, Plan 6227AC was given three readings.

It is arranged to have the fire siren rung at 6:00 p.m. each day.

General accounts No. 721 to 814, and Gas accounts No. 149 to 153 were passed for payment.

R. C. M. P TAKES OVER POLICING DUTIES IN TOWN OF KILLAM

KILLAM — The Royal Canadian Mounted Police Force has taken over the policing duties of the Town of Killam, effective on the 1st day of November, 1966.

This "take-over" by the RCMP is in line with recent Government announcements that the force will take over such duties in all Towns and Villages with less than 1000 population, as soon police officers are available. Where this is not at present possible, the Government will give grants to those Municipalities which maintain their own private police force.

A recent increase in the force at the Barracks in Killam, has made the policing of that Town possible in this time.

Award Night Held At Killam Separate School

KILLAM — At the October meeting of the Killam Separate School Home and School Assn., prizes were awarded to those who obtained the highest standing in Religion during the past year. Theses were as follows:

Remembrance Day!

With each passing year time is fading and softening our memories of the days of strife. Time has softened the poignancy of the grief of the bereaved ones. Men have become accustomed to the scars they received, other trials and troubles have arisen, life has become more complicated and involved, and the memory of those days are receding more and more to the back of men's minds. But with the recurrence of this season of the year it is good to recall those troublous times. The man in the street has a soul he has a mind which is capable of its own volition to sift out the good from the bad, the wheat from the chaff and he has come definitely to the decision that war is useless, that war is base, that war is sinful. We have raised monuments to our dead. Lots has been said decrying war, glorifying war, vindicating war but the thought still persists, unquieting and disquieting that war should not be. What have we done to make the thought in fact? We plead we pay homage to the memory of the dead, that we have succored the living, that we have attended conference, but there are still wars and rumors of wars.

Remembrance Day has become to us something exclusive to our own memories and we are prone overlook the fact that the first November 11th was as much an Armistice Day to our erstwhile foes as to ourselves. Other soldiers died, other mothers grieved. On this day, years later, wreaths will undoubtedly be placed at the foot of German cenotaphs. Ger m a n mothers will sit in dry-eyed introspection gazing at a picture of an only son reported killed in action. Is our grief any more real than theirs? Was our sacrifice of young life any greater than theirs?

Loyalty and patriotism are noble sentiments but they are not complete sentiments. Love of country is but a stepping stone to a greater love — love of humanity, and if our loyalty and our patriotism have not taught us that, it were better that we had never learned the first principle, that the lesson of human brotherhood can only be learned through the destructive price of war.

Let us continue to honor our dead, succor the living, care for the widowed and disabled, but let us also give a thought to the ridding of our minds to that contradiction that makes us destroy the one to save the other. Let us, before our memories have receded further from that great ideal, determine that wars shall cease. Let us give articulation to those greater sentiments that are within our breasts, and declare that peace we must and shall have, at least striving to bring nearer to fulfillment that perfect condition of "Peace on Earth; Goodwill Toward Men". Wear a Poppy on Remembrance Day.

Know Your Canada!

The last article on Know Your Canada left us standing at the date of 1861, when the first professional game of baseball was played inthis country. A lot happened after this date in the world's second largest country. Let's take a look.

In 1862 construction started on the Cariboo Road in B.C. into the gold rush country. Camels were tried out as beasts of burden on this road but had to be done away with because their smell frightened the stage coach horses. In June of 1866, a gang of 800 Fenians invaded Canada from the U. S., in the first of a series of raids by this Fenian Brotherhood of Irish-Americans who hoped to capture the country and use it as a base for operations against Britain. They were repulsed by our illustrious ancestors in each attempt, and the net result was that the threat helped to put strength into the colonization of our country.

The year 1867 saw the union of the Provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick as the Dominion of Canada and the composing of the patriotic song The Maple Leaf Forever by Alexander Muir. Two years later the Rupert's Land Act authorized the acquisition by the Dominion of the North West Territories. In 1869 an attempt was made to bring Newfoundland into the Dominion, but the boys down there wouldn't have any part of it. This year too saw the outbreak of the Red River Rebellion under Riel. Manitoba was admitted to Confederation in 1870, and because of the prevailing shortage of coinage at the time and the ease of printing paper money, the 25c note was printed, which became popularly known as the shin-plaster. The first Dominion Census was taken in 1871 and showed a total population for the country of 3,689,257 pioneer souls.

In 1873 the famous North West Mounted Police force was established, and Prince Edward Island entered Confederation. The following year Dr. Alexander Bell, at his home in Ontario, invented the principle of the telephone, the boon to women. In 1876, following the defeat and massacre of Custer's command in Montana, the old war chief Sitting Bull and 5600 braves fled to Canada, where, with only 214 men and officers, the RCNWMP kept the old boy and his braves at peace until they returned to the U. S. in the year 1881. The world and Canada adopted standard time in 1878, and for the first time in federal elections the people voted by secret ballot. In 1880 the contract was signed for the completion of the C.P.R. railway, and the same year the patriodic song O Canada was written by Calixa Lavallee.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.E.

Tomorrow is November 11th, or Remembrance Day, or Armistice Day as the people still name it. Remembrance Day seems the most fitting, for it is a day when all Canadians stop to remember the many things for which they should be thankful. We remember those many men and women who gave their lives to protect our way of life. I am of the in-between age where memories of the war years are very vague, but still I can remember. This is the reason that Remembrance Day is not what it once was, because a large percentage of the population is so young that all they know is what they are told in history class, and this is not very personal. A few years ago nobody would have thought of missing the Remembrance Day Services, but now the youngest of the Veterans are in their 40's and the new generation was born during or after World War 2, and they don't know that so many of the good things they take for granted were made possible by those who this special day is set aside in Remembrance of. Everyone should attend the service tomorrow morning in remembrance of those who died, and wear a poppy to aid those who were permenently crippled in our behalf.

Shrews, rodents and bats hibernate over the winter. Some just shrink only sleep for long periods of time. People slow down a bit, but do have the tendency to overeat. Like the, animals, we should adjust our eating habits.

Dear Sir:

The Nov. 3rd issue of your newspaper had an article which currently stated that Canadians are tired of hearing predictions that Canada is going to disintegrate. It is past time for everyone right up to the Prime Minister, to start talking positively about the future of our country, and to start acting in a like manner. — A Canadian.

WISE SPENDING IMPERTANT

A local farmer who has experienced all the ups and downs of farming in this district made some sensible remarks the other day about farming, and they apply to other walks of life.

He said that there is no single thing of more importance than to teach young folks to save — to save strength, emotions, money. Indeed, the saving habit is one of real cornerstones of human success. Thrift is a neglected virtue, but wise is the farmer or townsman who intelligently explains its meaning to his children.

Life, however, he said, should not consist entirely in saving money. There comes a time when it is important to know how to spend money. Nothing is gained by using old fashioned machinery or stick to out of date methods.

The well rounded farmer, he continued, is thrifty but at the same time he is a liberal spender on his family and for mental and spiritual welfare.
